Throughout the game, you'll encounter many areas that are affected by an ongoing effect, whether it's a hot or cold environment, high winds, or the like. Many of these areas have their own unique challenges, and you'll need to overcome them to progress.

Extreme Temperatures

Link can interact with a variety of different environmental objects. All of these activities are initiated in the same way. By pressing down on the control pad and pressing the B button to begin Link's Pose, he will enter a Pose Mode where he can perform one of the actions.

Ladders, Ledges, And Poles

Ladders come in all shapes and sizes, including rope ladders. Use the arrows on the left side depending on which way you want to climb. Link will automatically grab on to the side of the ladder and begin to climb. Press the A button to jump off the ladder. Link will fall if he reaches the end of a ladder. Be careful not to fall off the ladder, or you'll lose a heart.

Move on to narrower ledges or bridge and you'll automatically scoot up one of the ledges to cross the gap. Link has good balance and can walk across narrow ledges. Be careful not to lose your footing or you'll fall to the floor.

When hanging from the edge of a ledge, you will notice the stamina gauge on screen has started depleting. This will be used to determine how long Link can remain on the ledge.

Look out! Link's hit the edge of ledge instead of top, such this will further flesh his stamina gauge. The stamina gauge will automatically start to fill when Link is not using it. Once it's full, Link will be able to climb to the top of the ledge.

When climbing ladders Link can, always use the Left Analog Stick to move about. Use the Control Stick, but it's quite sensitive and can cause Link to fall off the ladder. Be careful not to fall off the ladder, or you'll lose a heart.

You cannot shield-off on any ropes while climbing or hanging from a ledge.

There are sometimes Skulltulas you can make short work of with your sword. Be careful not to fall off the ladder, but do get rid of the Skulltulas. They're sneaky and can cause a lot of damage if they reach Link.

Link can't climb ladders with bows and he won't fire, so he can grab hold of ledges to hoist him. This is especially useful when pursuing Gold Skulltulas that like to climb.

In wolf form, Link has the advantage of being able to bound to and fro right-hand with exceptional balance, so walking from one narrow ledge to another, only to turn around and bound to the next narrow ledge is a breeze.

Bosses

The Big Battles

Here we give you an overview of the meanest and most difficult enemies you'll come across, the bosses. In this section you'll get your first look at them, a quick overview of what they're about, and where you'll encounter them. Find the detailed, nuts-and-bolts strategy for dealing with these bruisers in the walkthrough. There we'll provide you with nuts-and-bolts tactics for defeating these aggressive beasts.

Ooh

Threat Meter

Ooh is a crazy baboon who's mad for dancing and has a weapon you need. There's a trick to defeating him that brings him down from on high and lands you the Gale Boomerang, a very useful tool for your adventure. Knock into Clive's perch and you'll soon get him on your level.

Encountered In: Dungeon 1: The Tunnel

Twilit Parasite Diabolos

Threat Meter

This deadly creature comes in two forms, and neither is happy to see you. It takes some coordination between you and an earlier enemy to take down this out-of-control weed, but when it's down, it divulges a Heart Container and a piece of Fused Shadow for your troubles.

Encountered In: The Forest Temple

King Bublin

Threat Meter

King Bublin is a thorn in your side throughout the game. You encounter him time and again in various guises and for each fight he has some new trick. It's fitting for you to keep pushing with fire and boast as he eats fire one who first broke the calm pattern of this pure-peaceful life!

First Encountered In: Ordona Province

Dungoro

Threat Meter

The way past Dungoro is through his stomach. It'll take a lot of skills when you face off with him. You'll have to use sword, Spinner, Ball and Chain, and the fucking bunker—and not necessarily in that order. It's a chance to show off what you've learned in the various mini-dungeons.

Encountered In: Dungeon 2: Goron Mines

Twilit Ignition Pyrus

Threat Meter

Pyrus is a huge beast whose body is a raging inferno. His blasts of heat and fire can be lethal if you get caught napping. It takes a lot of footwork and some decidedly accurate bow shots to defeat this twitt nightmare. And it takes several tries before he's down for the count.

Encountered In: Dungeon 2: Goron Mines

Twilit Carrier Kargarok

Threat Meter

This enemy is a combo of archer and giant flying beast. You have to dodge and duck missile fire before getting a chance to retaliate. Be patient, wait for your moment and pounce!

Encountered In: Lanaryu Province

Twilit Blast

Threat Meter

Disturbing as it may seem, you have to defeat this bloated creature with bite attacks. It will be a true measure of your heroism. And it's the only way to lift the Sword of Light to restore the sprite!

Encountered In: Lanaryu Province

Deku Toad

Threat Meter

The Deku Toad is a vile beast and it has vile little bastards to send after you while it readies its attack. You'll not only have to fend off minions but when the big beast leaps, watch the shock! Luckily the Deku Toad doesn't have much energy and needs to take a breather after each attack. And that is the perfect time to strike!

Encountered In: Dungeon 3: Lakeshed Temple

Twilit Aquatic Morphoot

Threat Meter

This sneaky monster has a two-stage attack, and both stages are deadly. Just when you think you've got a handle on things, the Morphoot pounces! Be a pounce-ahead-of-the-beast and you'll survive. You'll be tested on your targeting abilities and your swimming control. Stay the course and you'll come out on top.

Encountered In: Dungeon 3: Lakeshed Temple

Shell Kid

Threat Meter

The unsettling Skull Kid has sneaky Puppets at his command and he seems bent on having them bring you harm. When you finally confront the puppet-master, you have to keep a sharp eye out for him while dodging or destroying his grisly toys. The Skull Kid pops from one location to the next as he torments you, so react quickly when you see him!

Encountered In: Faron Woods

Twilit Fused Bullbeid

Threat Meter

No one said that saving the kingdom would be easy. The Stalbeid beats your mettle as you negotiate the Spinner around the arena, dodge the Shatterpic, reverse away from the monster's puzzle locks, and smash into the creature's back. You'll get the hang of it, or you'll pay the price! And even then, it's not over. The Stalbeid has an evil surprise for you just when he seems defeated. This battle will challenge your endurance as well as your skill.

Encountered In: Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

Death Sword

Threat Meter

This undead creature won't fall without the abilities of both your forms. You need the sharp eyes, and teeth, of the wolf as well as the quick sword work and flair of the boy who would be a hero. It's about speed and accuracy when facing off against Death Sword. During this battle you'll find out if you're looking at them.

Encountered In: Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

Darkhammer

Threat Meter

The wicked Bell and Chain of Darkhammer can quickly be your undoing if you're not careful. Judicious use of the Clawshot or your roll mixture can keep you out of harm's way, but you have to exploit the monster's weakness (in the form of an exposed bell) to stop his onslaught. It can be a long fight, but wait for the right moment and then strike!

Encountered In: Snowpeak Mountain

Twilit Ice Mass Blizzeta

Threat Meter

Blizzeta has control over ice, and she uses it with deadly purpose. Between her dangerous shards and frozen minions you have to master your Cat of the Bell and Chain to stay alive. Fight ice with steel and bash away at Blizzeta's weapons before taking the fight directly to her.

Encountered In: Snowpeak Mountain

Darkfist

Threat Meter

Simply attacking Darkfist will not win this battle. You need quick reflexes and patience to properly disassemble this armored foe. Darkfist's fists are deadly, and will only get you hurt! Pull off the boxing and the rolling. If you do it right, Darkfist won't be able to land a single blow on you.

Encountered In: Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Twilit Arachnid Armogohma

Threat Meter

Armogohma is a fierce arachnid with the power to make your time with her memorable, though not pleasant. With eyes of fire and fearsome offspring, this arachnid monster will have you about her bit. You need a steady bow hand and some fast sword work to make it through. And if you do, you'll be rewarded with a Mirror Shard and a Heart Container.

Encountered In: Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Aeralfos

Threat Meter

You encounter your first Aeralfos about halfway through the City in the Sky dungeon. This guy's tricky at first, but once you figure out his attack pattern, he's a pushover. Remember! Defeat this mid-boss to claim the awesome Double Clawshot, which allows you to reveal skies the City in the Sky more freely.

Encountered In: Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

Twilit Dragon Argorok

Threat Meter

This massive black dragon has taken over the City in the Sky and is terrorizing the poor Oocoos who live there. It is well-armored and tough to track, but the Double Clawshot provides a way for you to bring this flying monstrosity to the ground.

Encountered In: Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

Phantom Zant

Threat Meter

You conclude Zant's phantasmal form on two separate occasions during your trek through the Palace of Twilight before reaching the final showdown against him. Phantom Zant doesn't combat you directly; instead, he summons hordes of twilit foes to do his dirty work for him! Track his movements carefully and interrupt his summoning attempts at every chance.

Encountered In: Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Zant

Threat Meter

Though Zant torments you at numerous points throughout the adventure, you don't actually get to fight him until you infiltrate the Palace of Twilight and breach his throne room. A powerful being of shadow and deception, Zant uses a variety of nefarious tactics to assault you over the course of the battle. Keep an eye on your surroundings and remember all that you've learned from Midna, and you'll find a way to see through his every guise.

Encountered In: Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Possessed Zelda

Threat Meter

Ganondorf's villainy knows no bounds. After you storm Hyrule Castle and threaten him with the might of the Master Sword, Ganondorf possesses Princess Zelda, using her body as a host for his wicked soul. Turn the possessed princess's light-based attacks against her to rid her of Ganondorf's vile influence.

Encountered In: Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Ganon

Threat Meter

A massive, hulking pig-beast, Ganon is the physical embodiment of Ganondorf's unbridled power and rage. In this terrible form, Ganondorf doesn't mince around at all and attacks without warning. Think his movements carefully and have the courage to stand his down!

Encountered In: Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Ganondorf

Threat Meter

The epic final battle against Ganondorf occurs in two stages. In the first, you have the demon-thief on horseback, and must rely on Princess Zelda's help to draw him down. The second stage of the fight is a one-on-one duel to the finish, bring all the techniques you've learned to bear against Ganondorf and defeat him to save Hyrule from the darkness he represents!

How to Use This Walkthrough

Walkthrough Overview

The walkthrough contained within this guide not only provides you with a complete journey across your entire adventure, but also reveals the optimal times to gather all the optional items, chests, hidden prizes, and other goodies! This walkthrough has the advantage of informing you of hundreds of important events. The following list details just some of the major ones:

When you have the first opportunity to visit each area, dungeon, hidden area, side-dungeon, Lantern Cavern, and other major location.

When to collect all 45 Pieces of Heart and 8 Heart Containers, so you can enter later dungeons with excellent energy levels!

When and where to begin (and complete) your collection of all 60 Poe Souls, which allows even more Rupees.

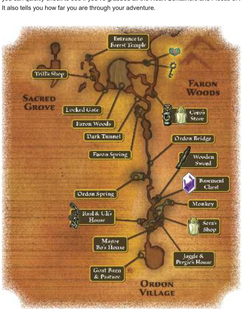
Where every single item in the game, from the Small Key to the Double Clawshot, can be located, and how best to access everything.

How to battle the numerous fiends and beasts that roam and prowl the wild lands, dark dungeons, and misty woodlands of Hyrule!

You'll also learn when you can purchase, find, fish for, or grab the many super-secret items, including the Magic Armor!

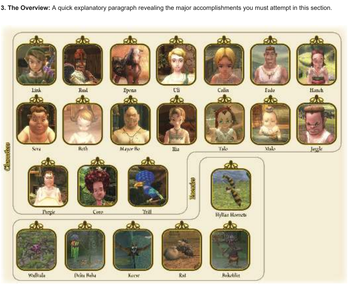
There are two parts to every section in this Walkthrough. The first is the Introduction, which lets you know what to expect in the coming parts of your adventure. Here's how it all breaks down:

1. Heart Energy Bar: Throughout the entire walkthrough, the optimal number of Hearts you have is shown here. This means you can quickly check to see if you've grabbed all the Heart Containers and Pieces of Heart at the earliest possible moment. It also tells you how far you are through your adventure.

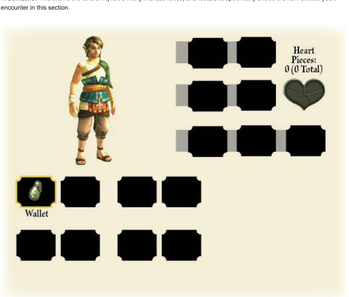


2. The Map: The large poster of the Hyrule Overworld reveals the locations of all the major items in the world, but each section's map delves a little deeper, showing you (in Overworld sections) the major sites of interest and items, and (in dungeons) all the treasure chests, bosses, and other areas of note.

3. The Overview: A quick explanatory paragraph revealing the major accomplishments you must attempt in this section.



4. Denizens: This shows the land of Hyrule's many friends, fiends, and foes, and specifically shows the new entities you'll encounter in this section.



5. A Link to the Present: This reveals what your Collection screen should look like if you obtained all the items, objects, and equipment upgrades at the earliest possible moment. Compare this to your Collection screen! As important elements appear (such as your first Golden Bug collection), this is referenced at the start of the next section.

7. Items to Obtain: Vitally important to many an adventurer are lists of items that must be found during an exploration. Fortunately, we've listed every single non-Rupee item, so you can make sure you've thoroughly explored every area. The items are shown in the order you receive them.

The second part is the main walkthrough itself, which gives you a thorough explanation of everything you can do during that specific part of the adventure:

8. Information Box: This walkthrough has many different Information Boxes. There are many other types of Information Boxes, such as:

- Author: How the authors reacted to certain parts of the game.
- Hidden Skills: Instructions on when you receive and how you learn each Hidden Skill.
- Weapons: Revelations on how to use each major item and weapon you receive.
- Portals: References to every new warp portal that opens up.
- Mid Boss and Boss Battles: Tactics on battling the toughest beasts of Hyrule.

- Poe: Shows where every one of the 60 roaming Poe foes are encountered.
- Missing Links: Reveals the hidden, cool, and otherwise odd stuff you can do.
- Postman: Showcases when the Postman arrives, and where he's found.

9. Frame-by-frame Action: Where appropriate, battles or other visual elements are shown in a series of screens, which make for spectacular viewing!

10. Notes, Tips, and Cautions: Throughout the walkthrough, whenever there are additional points to make (Notes), tactics to try or knowledge to impart (Tips), or warnings to deliver (Cautions), these appear.

11. Items: Whenever you receive an item in the adventure, the walkthrough shows it too; this way you can keep track of exactly what you got, and when!

The time to enter the world of Hyrule is upon you! Good luck, and happy adventures!

Ordon Village; Tranquility Before the Twilight: Overview

You have a peaceful life as a goat herder, animal wrangler, and keen friend of the forest, and the tiny community you call home is filled with cheer. When you're not riding your faithful steed Epona and rounding up those wayward goats in the pasture, you're using the famed whistling grass to summon a hawk, or wishing you had a Fishing Rod; the Greengills are biting at this time of year! But the mayor of Ordon has something special for you: you are to be an envoy to Castle Town, across the Hyrule Field, and present a specially forged sword at a ceremony. You must leave your tranquil life, after finishing up your chores naturally, and begin to explore the world around. The arrival of a pesky monkey from nearby Faron Woods is but a tiny prelude of the adventure to come!

Selecting Hero Mode when starting a new game will flip the entire game. That means left is right, right is left, east is west and so on. If you do decide to play Hero Mode, keep this fact in mind and just read all easts, wests, lefts and rights as their opposites.

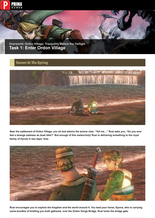
Table 1: Enter Qaras Village

Return to Tiki Spring



Now the settlement of Green Village, you will and where the enemy lives. "Tell me ..." Rush prize. "Do you ever have a strange sensation as that time?" But enough of the relationship! Rod is delivering something to the head Mother of Green in the next room.

Rod encourages you to explore the kingdom and the world around it. You start your journey. Sparsa, who is watching every incident of terrifying you both gathered, over the Green Gorge Bridge. Rush runs his tongue gear.

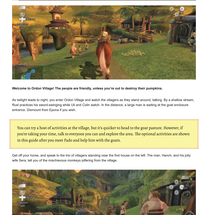
Rod seems his family, of each look. He leaves you and Sparsa to your conditional home, and travels to the village entrance. He meets Sparsa's sister and leads her off to rest. You climb up into your house. A moment later, Farie pulls out to you. He looks like a good person.

Linde

Linde is growing into a lovely young woman. She has the strength to explore other locked areas in the Mount Qaras. As the owner of the Kingdom of Qaras, Linde is a powerful Farie, and Sparsa's sister. Linde is a common name in the Kingdom of Qaras.

Task 2: Explore Ordon Village

Ordon Village At Sunset



Welcome to Ordon Village! The people are friendly, unless you're out to destroy their pumpkins.

As twilight leads to night, you enter Ordon Village and watch the villagers as they stand around, talking. By a shallow stream, Rusl practices his sword-swinging while Uli and Colin watch. In the distance, a large man is working at the goat-manure entrance. Dismount from Epona if you wish.

You can try a host of activities at the village, but it's quicker to head to the goat pasture. However, if you're talking your time, talk to everyone you can and explore the area. The optional activities are shown in this guide after you meet Rusl and help him with the goats.

Get off your horse, and speak to the trio of villagers standing near the first house on the left. The man, Hanch, and his jolly wife Sera, tell you of the mischievous monkeys pilfering from the village.

Everyone's tasted their homes and businesses because of this simian stealing. Sera and her daughter Beth admonish Hanch for his inability to catch the monkeys.

Hanch:

Beth's father-Sera's husband, the dejected-looking Hanch-is between 30 and 40 years old. He runs the only commodity shop in the village. He has a meek and timid demeanor and cannot oppose his overbearing wife. He seems to be slightly unlucky.

Sera

The mother of Beth and wife of Hanch, Sera is a stressed and jolly lady of 30-something years old. However, she can be unpleasant and haughty to her husband, Hanch. She loves her cat very much; in fact, many in the village say she treats her cat better than her husband.

Beth:

One of the young girls (between 8 and 11 years old) in Ordon Village, she is the daughter of Hanch and Sera. Top grown-up, she's a nasty tomboy, and she thinks the other children in the village are babies. She has a crush on Ian, and she also dreams of a city life, away from all these goats.

All of the village dwellings are locked, to keep out those pesky monkeys. When Ordon is a monkey-free zone, try entering each of them. Continue with your meeting and greeting. You can climb and explore the village too; all of the items and one of the map areas are revealed in this guide after you finish your goat wrangling.

Move down the main village path and stop when you see Colin, Uli, and Rusl at the shallow stream (pink). Speak to Colin and he tells you he's making you a Fishing Rod.

Rusl, who's nearby, tasting the metal of a sword, also lets you know about Colin's Fishing Rod. It should be ready for you tomorrow. When you're done talking, optionally explore the area more before heading south toward the exit.

Crossing the stream leads you to an imposing fellow with a frankly incredible moustache. This is Mayor Bo, who's standing outside his impressive hut. His dwelling is sealed.

Mayor Bo:

A portly but muscular fellow in his mid-40's years. Bo is the mayor of this humble and the father of Ilia. He has personally chosen you as an envoy to send into the kingdom to befriend the neighboring villagers and ominous. He cherishes you as if you were his own son. Although appearing organized, Bo's a little scatterbrained, which can cause arguments with Ilia.

There's much you can do in the village, but it's easier to perform these feats in daylight. Refer to the next Missing Link section for details. Instead, return to your steed, and ride her south, past the mayor's house, and up the narrow banked path to the goat pasture at Ordon Ranch.

A Goat Of A Chaos: Herding Time

When you arrive at the goat pasture, Fado greets you. He needs you to herd 10 of the goats into the barn. Agree to this task, or you can't progress.

After you begin the task, a running total of how many goats you have successfully herded into the barn appears at your screen's bottom. You also have a new tactic: the "whoa." Press the A button to let out a whoa, yell. The goats like goats-herding quicks!

Goat herding goes fast if you follow these techniques:

1. Start your herding away from the barn, and concentrate on the goats farthest away.

2. Ride Epona at you're on the far side of the goat and the barn. Don't ride in between the barn and the goat! Follow a general looping pattern.

3. As you near a goat, or group of goats, they scare away from you. If you're riding with the barn at your left, pass to the right side of the goats, and they begin to turn, and then move left, toward the barn, and vice-versa.

4. As the goats begin to turn in the general direction of the barn, let out a whoop. This startles the goats, and they speed up. They move toward the barn but may not enter yet. Don't worry; concentrate on getting goats near the barn first, then next.

5. Herd groups of goats. Wrangle single goats based on where they are; close the upper area first, then move down to the pasture's middle and lower parts.

6. After the remaining goats are in the lower part of the pasture, finish the job.

- Watch out! Herding takes much longer if you pick a group of goats and herd them all the way to the barn. The goats you haven't herded yet will scatter, and you'll have to round them up again. Concentrate on herding small groups of goats at a time.
- Fallen any wayward goats bolting away from the barn intentionally; movement cannot end behind a waterfall, rather than in front of it.
- Herding is much easier on foot. Epona always dawdle for the farthest animal from the barn during this wrangling. If she can't, you'll waste power and they'll flee in all sides!

Author Note

Those goats definitely get the better of us the first time we tried wrangling, but this was due to overuse of the whoop button. Goats scattered to the rocky sides of the pasture, and it took a few attempts to finally get this wrangling worked. We got most of the goats into the barn, but a few escaped. Fado was not happy with us. Then we tried again! This time was the place where we practice controlling Epona before taking her out into the wilds of Faron Woods.

Take as long as you like with the herding. After you're successful, Fado comes in and thanks you for your help. He says he can handle wrangling duties tomorrow while you head toward the main city with that gift Rusl is making.

Fado sets up some fences for you to leap over. Make sure Epona is facing the fences directly, and not approaching from the sides or at angle, or she refuses to jump. Use the eyes (the A button) to gain enough speed to leap each fence. There are ten in the pasture. When you're finished, loiond over the fence leading back to the village, and to your home.

1. Barn Storming

Before you leap, you can optionally explore the ranch barn, where you herded all the goats. Fado secured them in stalls, where they remain, happily bleating. Interestingly, that ground looks self-enough to dig. If you had the right implement for the job.

You are prompted to save. It is always wise to do this. Make sure to save before and after exploring a difficult area also.

Task 4: Remove the Buzzing Threat from the Tall Tree

Slingshot Hemostogoo

Optionally, to set your Fishing Rod at the shallow Waverin bottom, Stop at the stream verge and twist the rod. If you're patient, then use the A Strength item. Take a look at those giant fishing rods and try and beat that fish.

Now to befriend the cart Moose to the fishing spot behind Jaggle and Pergie's storehouse, and stand at this jutty's edge. Cast your line, and wait for a moment or two. The bobber slowly sinks and it's on the end. Reel it in.

Fish on! Pull the rod up and gently pull back when the fluster looks down slightly in the water. If you miss, re-cast your line. Keep this up until you land a fish! This is likely to be a moderately sized Goldfish.

When you reach a size that fish (from any location), Stow it in cart can unveil it! The cat now becomes much more friendly. Now you can feed it fish, and it will purr and rub against you. Pet it and play with your prize. Now everyone's away with it, all the way to the next day at Owlan's house!

Fun with Fishing

Remember these tips for hours of fishing friendly:

- You receive a clean fish each fish you catch.
- Fish are more plentiful in the morning and evening.
- Different fish are more likely to appear in the day, and at night.
- Some fish are more likely to appear in certain areas, and at certain times.
- There are numerous experiences to land and net!
- Fish are worth Rupees, and can be sold to Beedle's shop, (as stocked)
- Your Gold Amount Display is all fully the fish you catch and collect.

Head to Beedle's Sunshine Store to trade, both successful and delightful. Trust yet Tonoyo's a fish back with him. He was worried about that being angry! She's feeding the cat, but she mildly gives you the image in a Bottle for free. How kind!

Milk Bottle

You get either a Bottle! But this Bottle's half empty!

The Milk isn't important; the Bottle is the most important item. Hold the Milk. There are Item Bottles to find during your adventure, and the healing liquids you can carry in them are critical to your survival. It may not seem like it at first, but the Bottle's an amazing gift!

Keep the Items by dragging each one on the Wii U GamePad items screen,then set them to the Y, B or X buttons. Then, when you're in battle, you can quickly select the item you want to use. Remember that some Items are used automatically when you press the A button,dash wears, we'll tell you when!

Set your Bottle to the R button, sing the Milk power if you have full health), and then inspect Deep's Sunshine, as she's happy to sell you some items. The Potion in question are all red too! Press right on the Left Analog Stick to access them.

Store

Sera's Sundries

	Milk	15 Rupees	Two Hearts, and replenishes 3 Hearts
	Red Lanayru Potion	10 Rupees	Fishing bait, restorative life energy gain
	Slingshot and 30 Pellets	30 Rupees	Projectile weapon

Don't buy the jug of Milk. It fills up the Bottle, and you need it empty later. You also must keep the Red Lanayru Potion in a Bottle, so they aren't dead, either (and you can claim free Lanayru at a moment). However, purchase the Slingshot Hawk over the 30 Rupees, it's worth it!

You don't have enough money? What have you been doing? Were just above you loads of places to find Rupees. Check back and read up on all the hidden places. We managed to survive at Sera's well & Rupees! Can you do better?

Slingshot

You got the Slingshot! Children LOVE this item. You can hide up to 30 pellets.

Milk Bottle

You got Milk! You know Bottle hold, but helpings!

Red Lanayru Potion

You got the Red Lanayru Potion! Keep it safe!

Red Lanayru Potion

- If you purchase or locate Red Lanayru, you must use the Bottle to organize it! Lanayru.

- The Red Lanayru Potion is a common ever-spawn Great Lanayru Fairy. The reason this changing downs of a game you only see each a half dozen.

Slingshot: Your First Weapon

Set the Slingshot on the Y button on the Wii U GamePad menu screen. Use the Left Analog Stick or move the Wii U GamePad around until you're over your target. Then pull without the B button to fire. Look on your target with the Z+ R1 button on your Nunchuk.

When you're accurate, remember that your pellets travel in an arc, and they will fall to the ground, rather than travel in a straight line like an arrow. This means you should aim at distant targets like Bokoblins, at a moment higher than dead center, to allow for the trajectory.

You can still pour slingshot with powerful Bokoblins!

Bokoblin Bashing

Head out of Sera's shop, and walk to where Hestoll is standing. It's time to bring an end to these pesky Stylish Hordes. Achieve this in one of three ways:

Plan 1: Hawk Strike

You may have launched your bird of prey at the hole from the flat rock near Sera's store, but aiming at the hive. This best tactics free from down, and the Hylian Hornets are far enough away to blissipate.

Plan 2: Slingshot Strike

The second plan is to stand by Hestoll and set up at the hive with your Slingshot, shooting it with a pellet until the hive falls and smashes. The Hylian Hornets don't take kindly to that and swarm you. Run!

Plan 3: Unarmed Strike

If you're poor, and you only slightly less intense than it sounds, is to head around and up to the vines on the tree, climb them, and head up. Attempting the Hylian Hornets will your head! You'll hear about one Hawk dropping and flaring the swarm.

Hylian Hornets

Hylian Hornets are angry only if provoked. If you look yourself surrounded by them, you cannot stand and fight. Use options is to run away from them. Five seconds you run from fight, the Hylian Hornets give up the chase. No second options is to dive into ocean, to where the Hylian Hornets cannot fly. You can be stung and defeated by Hylian Hornets, but only if you wait around and do this once!

After the first episodes, talk to Hestoll, who was throwing across at the road ineffectually. head up to the town's entrance. Empty your Bottle and stand near the nest. Use the A button to scoop then Lanrew into your Bottle. That way, you get those for later! Don't worry, there's plenty more!

Return to Deep Woods

Return to Orshin Village and the first waypoint. Knock it down just like you did, and capture it like Lanrew, and you'll have more than you need. Inspect the vine from top to bottom for Rupees now Missing Rupees are hidden in the vines, and you can collect them from pumpkins and a Rose are available from some pumpkins now that you have the Slingshot.

Pumpkin Seeds

You got pumpkin seeds 2012! Use these with your Slingshot.

Skip to the first time you scrape pumpkins seeds. Explodes more pumpkins to gather additional seeds, up to the maximum of ten.

Missing Links

Once again, there's much to do in the village, especially now that you're able to fish.

1: Fishing Hole #1

2: Fishing Hole #2

Another fishing hole is where the cat was prowling, behind Jaggle and Pergie's watermelon home. You catch Greenfish here, too.

3: Fishing Hole #3

Another good spot to fish is the narrow bank protrusion at the pond's far end, near where the monkey was standing. You can catch Green Catfish here!

4: The Hornet Tree: Two Green Rupees and a Vine

Head left up the narrow bank to a small promontory and grab one of the vines. Find two Rupees here, and this is a great spot for Hylian flying!

5: The Hornet Tree: 10 Rupees and a Great Vine

After the tree is downed, climb the tree one of the way to the top, then edge along the main branch to claim two precariously positioned Rupees, a 5 and 10 on each another branch. Enjoy the highest view of the village from here!

Leap from these branches, and you can land without hurting yourself. Remember to roll (press up on the Left Analog Stick).

6: Pumpkin Pummeling: Prime Range

Remember you can strike items that explode, like pumpkins, from a distance now that you have the Slingshot. Practice on these pumpkins, and don't forget the reward!

Task 5: Leave Your Home and Explore Faron Woods

Slicing Mr. Scarecrow

Leave the village by the only exit, and meet Rust at the woodland glade where your home is. He tells you he's delivered something to your mask. Before you find out what it is, head to Tatu, Mato, and Beth, who are waiting near that scarecrow. They've spotted your Slingshot and want a demonstration of its power!

Use the ZL button to target the scarecrow, then fire at him. Blam! That pumpkin head is split wide open. Beth and Tatu are wowed. Press left or right on the Left Analog Stick to look around.

Now spend some time shattering a second scarecrow that's appeared, and then use the Left Analog Stick to manually aim at the collection of five targets on the trees. Pan right to spot them all, with your Slingshot out. Then find Spoon to the children, and they ponder you about that present Rust left for you. Check your home, but remove the anachronic pests, first.

The targets have reappeared: shoot them again to ensure that you're familiar with manually aiming!

Wallbula

Two Wallbulas are scuttling on your treehouse's side. These nasty little critters cling to vertical surfaces and bite if you're right next to them. Aim your Slingshot from ground level, using ZL trigger to auto-aim, and take down the one on the ladder. Look up onto your roof, and manually tackle the one up there. Both require only one hit, and each gives up a Rupee when it explodes.

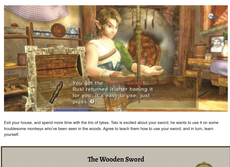
With the Wallbulas defeated, climb the ladder, and enter your home. Inside the main level, a chest has appeared! Open the chest, and you'll discover your second weapon: it's the Wooden Sword that Rust made for you!

Overworld Chest #1:

Wooden Sword

Wooden Sword

You got the Wooden Sword! It was returned to you fully repaired. It's easy to use: just press the B button!

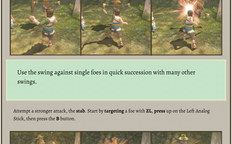


Exit your house, and spend more time with the trio of tykes. Tatu is excited about your sword; he wants to use it on some troublesome monkeys who've been seen in the woods. Agree to teach them how to use your sword, and in turn, learn yourself.

The Wooden Sword

Tatu asks you to show off a slice move on the scarecrow. Press the B button to unsheathe your sword, then press it again to execute a horizontal slice.

Use ZL to target the scarecrow, then swing like you did before. Although Beth wants to see a stab, try the vertical slice first.



Use the swing against single foes in quick succession with many other swings.

Attempt a stronger attack, the stab. Start by targeting a foe with ZL, press up on the Left Analog Stick, then press the B button.

Use the stab on single foes you want to defeat quickly.

Beth asks you to show off your spin attack. Make murmurs that it's easy to pull off. Briefly hold the B button and release it to launch the spin attack. A couple of seconds later, your sword recharges, and you can try again.

Use the spin on multiple enemies, or for quick takedowns. Watch the recharge time! This is an exceptional move so use it often.

Tatu isn't ready to let you leave before you show him the jump attack. Make mutters that it's achieved with the A button while you target with ZL.

Use the jump attack on enemies as you close in for a quick initial strike.

The children are impressed, you just learned all the main sword strikes. They spot a monkey nearby and run after it, leaving you alone.

Spend some time practicing the four techniques shown on the scarecrow. Be sure you can remember how to damage foes in those four different ways. When you're done, speak to Colin, who's standing at the village entrance. He tells you the children have run into the forest.

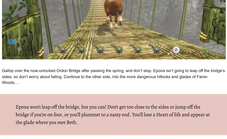
Chase after them. Mount Epona, and head northward, down the woodland path. You can't take Epona into the village, as Colin stops you. Remember to sparingly use the spurs to increase Epona's speed. In the next glade, Beth is waiting to the side. Tatu and Mato have both gone on ahead, and she can't catch up to them. Chase down those troublesome tykes after optionally checking the glade for items. In the next glade, the world Mato tells you Tatu went across the bridge. Follow him!

Gallop over the now-unlocked Orbin Bridge after passing the spring, and don't stop. Epona isn't going to leap off the bridge's sides, so don't worry about falling. Continue to the other side, into the more dangerous hillocks and glades of Faron Woods.

Epona won't leap off the bridge, but you can! Don't get too close to the sides or jump off the bridge if you're on foot, or you'll plummet to a nasty end. You'll lose a Heart of life and appear at the glade where you met Beth.

Missing Links

1. Horning About in the Grass



You don't need to dismount when investigating grassy areas, running through them with Epona usually results in hidden items appearing.

2. Sword Swiping in the Grass

As soon as you're granted the Wooden Sword, you can swipe at long grass instead of running about in it. Run, and press the B button to swing the sword from side to side. For some real grass cleaning, try a cool spin attack (rotate the Left Analog Stick, then press the B button, or hold the B button for a few seconds, then release).

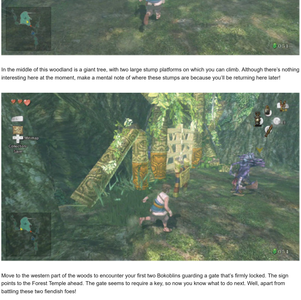
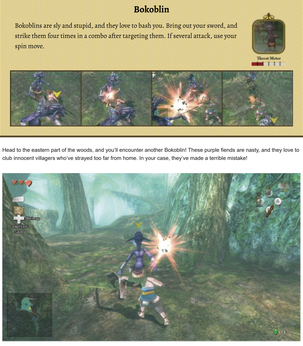
Task 7: Unlock the Gate to the Forest Temple Woods

Fighting Fiends In Faron Woods

After you emerge from the Dark Tunnel, you can explore the first large environment away from your village. The Faron Woods area is large, but safe if you keep your sword ready and your Slingshot as backup. Head northwest to encounter a Deku Baba.



In the middle of this woodland is a giant tree, with two large stump platforms on which you can climb. Although there's nothing interesting here at the moment, make a mental note of where these stumps are because you'll be returning here later!

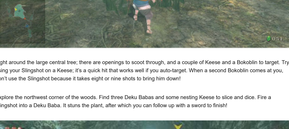


Move to the western part of the woods to encounter your first two Bokoblins guarding a gate that's firmly locked. The sign points to the Forest Temple ahead. The gate seems to require a key, so now you know what to do next. Well, apart from battling these two fiendish foes!

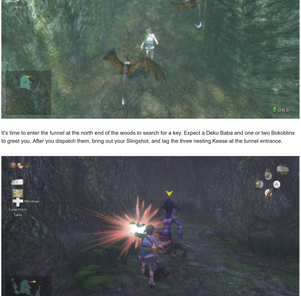
Bokoblin

Bokoblins are sly and stupid, and they love to bash you. Bring out your sword, and strike them four times in a combo after targeting them. If several attack, use your spin move.

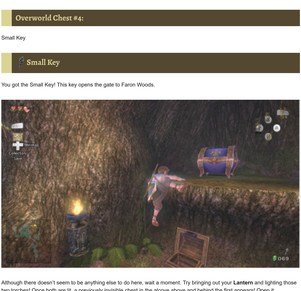
Threat Meter



Head to the eastern part of the woods, and you'll encounter another Bokoblin! These purple fiends are nasty, and they love to club innocent villagers who've strayed too far from home. In your case, they've made a terrible mistake!

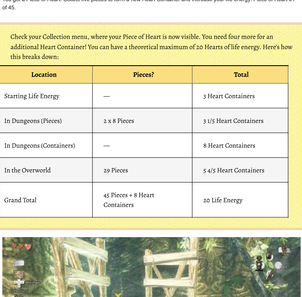


If you head along the eastern edge of the woods, there's a small hillock and an overhang you can leap off. Look back by pressing the Right Analog Stick in to spot a chest sitting high out of reach; you won't claim this until later. Drop and fight a Keese!



Fight around the large central tree; there are openings to scoot through, and a couple of Keese and a Bokoblin to target. Try using your Slingshot on a Keese; it's a quick hit that works well if you auto-target. When a second Bokoblin comes at you, don't use the Slingshot because it takes eight or nine shots to bring him down!

Explore the northwest corner of the woods. Find three Deku Babas and some nesting Keese to slice and dice. Fire a Slingshot into a Deku Baba. It stuns the plant, after which you can follow up with a sword to finish!



It's time to enter the tunnel at the north end of the woods to search for a key. Expect a Deku Baba and one or two Bokoblins to greet you. After you dispatch them, bring out your Slingshot, and tag the three nesting Keese at the tunnel entrance.

As you emerge in the tunnel's far end, you'll spot a dead end, and an incoming Bokoblin. He's not tough if you slash and bash him with your sword. Then tackle a Keese who's flapping in your face. The Bokoblin seemed to be guarding that small chest. Open it!

Overworld Chest #4:

Small Key

Small Key

You got the Small Key! This key opens the gate to Faron Woods.

Although there doesn't seem to be anything else to do here, wait a moment. Try bringing out your Lantern and lighting those two torches! Once both are lit, a previously invisible chest in the alcove above and behind the first appears! Open it immediately!

Overworld Chest #5:

Piece of Heart

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect five pieces to form a new Heart Container and increase your life energy! Piece of Heart #1 of 45.

Check your Collection menu, where your Piece of Heart is now visible. You need four more for an additional Heart Container! You can have a theoretical maximum of 20 Hearts of life energy. Here's how this breaks down:

Location	Pieces?	Total
Starting Life Energy	—	3 Heart Containers
In Dungeons (Pieces)	2 x 8 Pieces	3 1/5 Heart Containers
In Dungeons (Containers)	—	8 Heart Containers
In the Overworld	20 Pieces	5 4/5 Heart Containers
Grand Total	45 Pieces = 8 Heart Containers	20 Life Energy

With the Small Key (which appears on your screen above the Rupees you've collected) stored, and your first Piece of Heart found, run to the western part of the Faron Woods. Slay or avoid the woodland foes on the way. Move up to the gate and unlock it. Defeat the Bokoblin inside.

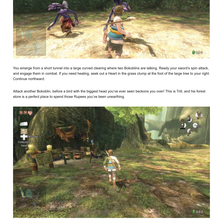
Missing Links

1. Larking in the Long Grass

There's grass to cut, and Rupees plus Hearts to harvest. Watch you don't stand on a Deku Baba, as they lurk near patches of grass, too! You can turn Deku Babas' heads into Slingshot ammunition, so pick them up and break them after combat.

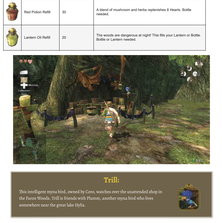
TM & © 2016 Nintendo.

Deeper Into The Faron Woods



You emerge from a short tunnel into a large curved clearing where two Bokoblins are talking. Ready your sword's spin attack, and engage them in combat. If you need healing, seek out a Heart in the grass clump at the foot of the large tree to your right. Continue northeast.

Attack another Bokoblin, before a bird with the biggest beak you've ever seen beckons you over! This is Trill, and his forest store is a perfect place to spend those Rupees you've been unearthing.



Store

Store
Item	Name	Cost (Rupees)	Notes
	Red Potion Refill	30	A blend of mushroom and herbs replenishes 8 Hearts. Bottle needed.
	Lantern Oil Refill	20	The wounds are dangerous at night! This fills your Lantern or Bottle. Bottle or Lantern needed.

Trill:

The intelligent mynah bird, owned by Coro, watches over the unattended shop in the Faron Woods. Trill is friends with Poarce, another mynah bird who lives somewhere near the great lake Hylia.

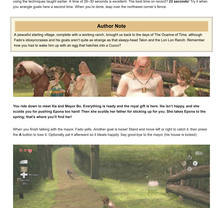
Check your Lantern oil levels. You should be close to empty with your Lantern, but still have a full Bottle of fuel. Either pour the fuel into the Lantern and use the Bottle to store the Red Potion, or dip the Lantern in and refill it yourself, and ignore the Red Potion.

Before you leave the store, pay up! There's an honor system in play, so cycle through how much you want to pay, and Trill tells you if you've paid too much or too little. Pay the exact if you shortchanged the bird, or he'll peck you the next time you use the shop!

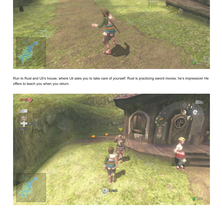
If you follow the advice in this walkthrough, you'll fill your wallet to 200 Rupees easily. This is fine, until you head into a dungeon, where chests remain unopened if you can't fit Rupees inside your wallet. One way of solving this problem is to overpay Trill. You don't get the money back, but you can check off the chests in a dungeon without going back there again! Neither affects your ultimate goals, however.

After you finish shopping, start by heading north and east toward a patch of long grass. A Deku Baba is hiding inside. Not for long! Find Rupees and Hearts in the grass around here, as usual.

Now head northwest to spot a winding road leading northward. However, to your left is a patch of grass with a Deku Baba to hack down and a small chest to open! Remember this area for later; this is the entrance to the Sacred Grove, but you can't enter it yet.



Move to the entrance of the winding path northward. At the fork of a giant tree, you spot Talo and that cheeky monkey placed a Hyrule Fanfare to impress him! It's Islena after all! Drive your sword's spin up the winding path, and more enough, strike down the two Bokoblins guarding the pair. Use a spin attack to smash the wooden sign!



Overworld Chest #1:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Author Note

With the boulders in the background and those two short, stone columns on either side of the cage we spent several minutes attempting to find a tricky lever to free our friends. After jumping on the columns in different orders and hacking at the boulders to no avail it was frustration that led us to slash at the cage... and find the solution.

Missing Links

1. Thieving from Trill Part 1

This doesn't affect anything during your adventure, but you can steal from Trill by walking away from the store after filling a Bottle! Trill calls you a thief, but nothing happens. You can escape!

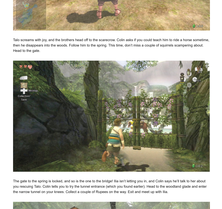
2. Thieving from Trill Part 2

That is, until you enter the ferror. Trill launches an attack, and he's deadlier than any foe you've faced thus far! He can take a quarter of a Heart for every every couple of seconds. Pay what you owe, and he halts his pecking!

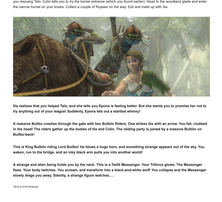
3. Thieving from Trill Part 3

Or, ignore Trill's pecking, run in, scoop up the Red Potion, restore eight Hearts, and leave with minimal damage! This isn't heroic, but it's possible!

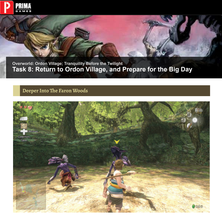
Ordona Province: A Big Day Of Transformations



Walk Talo out of the Dark Tunnel, and he begs you not to mention this to his dad. He runs off, and Rusl strolls in and greets you. He mentions how strange the swords feel. He wishes you luck tomorrow; you might even meet Princess Zelda!



The next day, Fado asks you to finish the chores at the ranch. Use the Horse Grass to call Epona and wrangle those goats using the techniques taught earlier. A time of 25-30 seconds is excellent. The bad time on record? 23 seconds! Try it when you wrangle goats here a second time. When you're done, leap over the northeast corner's fence.



Author Note

A peaceful starting village, complete with a working ranch, brought us back to the days of The Overlord of Time, although Ordona Province's inhabitants are much friendlier. Especially Rusl! Talon and the Lon Lon Ranch. Remember how you had to wake him up with an egg that hatches into a Cucco?

You ride down to meet Ilia and Mayor Bo. Everything is ready and the royal gift is here. Ilia isn't happy, and she mentions that Princess Zelda is missing as well! There she scolds her father for sticking up for you. She takes Epona to the spring; that's where you'll find her!

When you finish talking with the mayor, Fado yells. Another goat is loose! Stand and move left or right to catch it, then press the A button to toss it. Optionally put if afterward so it bleats happily. Say good-bye to the mayor (his house is locked).

Run to Rusl and Uli's house, where Uli asks you to take care of yourself. Rusl is practicing sword moves; he's impressive! He offers to teach you when you return.

You can also visit Pergie in her house, and she thanks you for rescuing Talo and Malo. Up on the flat rock with the vines beside Jaggli, who tells you to have a safe trip! You can even speak to miserable Hanch. He is spending his day sticking shelves! Hanch's wife hears the ely stones are ready (trip! Boy he's worse if you need them.

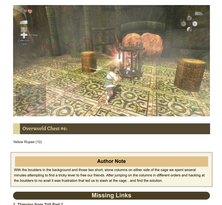
1. Cuccos or Cuckoo?

This is the first time you've encountered a Cucco while carrying a sword. If you're feeling malicious, you can run after a Cucco, doing it with your Shield Platform Sy off cucconadoes, and it squawks like mad. Speed too long whirling a Cucco, and something strange happens: you become the Cucco! You have 10 seconds' worth of flying, clashing, and flapping until you return to your human body.

Head out of the village, and speak to Colin, who isn't being let into the woods by Talo and Malo. Optionally speak to Beth, then entertain Talo and Malo by giving them the Wooden Sword when Talo asks for it. You can't enter the woods otherwise!

Talo screams with joy, and the brothers head off to the scarecrow. Colin asks if you could teach him to ride a horse sometime, then he disappears into the woods. Follow him to the spring. This time, don't miss a couple of squirrels scampering about. Head to the gate.



The gate to the spring is locked, and so is the one to the bridge! Ilia isn't letting you in, and Colin says he'll talk to her about you rescuing Talo. Colin tells you to try the tunnel entrance (which you found earlier). Head to the southwest glade and enter the narrow tunnel on your knees. Collect a couple of Rupees on the way. Exit and meet up with Ilia.

Ilia realizes that you helped Talo, and she tells you Epona is feeling better. But she wants you to promise her not to try anything out of your league! Suddenly, Epona lets out a startled whinny!

A massive Bulblin crashes through the gate with two Bulblin Riders. One strikes Ilia with an arrow. You fall, clubbed in the head! The riders gather up the bodies of Ilia and Colin. The raiding party is joined by a massive Bulblin on Bullfos-back!

This is King Bulblin riding Lord Bullfos! He blows a huge horn, and something strange appears out of the sky. You wake, run to the bridge, and an inky black arm pulls you into another world!

A strange and alien being holds you by the neck. This is a Twili Messenger. Your Trifocus glows. The Messenger fees. Your body twitches. You scream, and transforms into a black-and-white wolf! You collapse and the Messenger slowly drops you away. Silently, a strange figure watches....

Task 1: Escape to the Castle Tower

Imprisoned In The Sewers

You awaken in wolf form, chained to the ground. You're in a cell, deep inside a dungeon catacomb. You look up to see a strange, colourful, creature floating near you.

You must be obedient! After some bowing, she warns the chain link and makes you a deal. If you can reach her, she'll set you what the deal is!

The weird little imp has a giant set-em-flailing sort of her item, and if you talk to her, she tricks there's a hole you can squeeze through. It's in the front left area of the cell, blocked by a crumbling cube. Move to the area, and swallow a spin attack. The source with your tail now, instead of a sword! Then press the Y button to dig under the bent bars, and scramble through.

Author Note

In what turned out to be an incredible brain-teaser, we spent literally half an hour rampaging through the cell, trying everything to escape, except of course the right one! Instead of being able to shatter the cubes, the suggest you learn how you could!

Midna:

Midna is a petite little imp with a childish proportion, only from her high. She is mischievous, and loves playing practical jokes on others. She is also a very brilliant source for the mid-sub-unknown forces, this is somehow linked to the strange twilight that has descended upon the land. What are Midna's real secrets? Who is she really?

Midna has ordered you to escape, but the size of the south end of the corridor is firmly sealed. Instead, scan the door to the adjacent cell, and notice. Inside is a long chain with a pull handle at the end. Midna requests to speak with you, telling you to press the A trigger.

This looks into the chain, and you can walk around it. while Midna's strange whirlwind can grabs and grasps. When you "talk" with the A button, you grab the chain and pull it down. This releases the small barrier guarding access to a water channel. Run south, down there.

Missing Links

Hey, Wet You Look at This!

Cross the pull-switch to the plum bond a little case. Dig into the piles of hay and straw scattered about: almost all of them contain a green Rupee (1).

Castle Sewers

Scamper down the narrow outlet, slip the main catacombs area, and stop to check the strange light in the corner of the first passage. Use the B button to view your world through an ethereal sense. You'll see the spirit of a wolfe guard! He talks about something chasing him! This a spirit and others are around.

Some "Rare "Iron sense view allows you to see spirits and events that appear throughout the land. However, your view is limited and it's often better to switch back and forth to see where you're going. The sense also allows you to find "dig spots," or sparkling patches of earth you can dig in to find thorns, Rupees, and even hidden secrets in the ground!

For now, turn and face north. You're in a castle of some kind, and a sewer channel stretches off to a Tunnelles at the far end. Dig into the shallow water (you can run through it), and investigate the black blob moving around sewer. What is this creature?

Twilis Vermin

The Twilis Vermin is a vicious little beast that walks a circles and attacks mercilessly. However, it is very weak. Target it with the B1 trigger immediately, then fire or spin attack it. A single strike defeats it. The only time to worry about Twilis Vermin is if you're swimming—while swimming, you can't attack them, but they can attack you! Swim by land, and then retaliate.

The Twilis Vermin is a shadow creature that doggedly attacks, but it can be dispatched easily with a single hit. Watch out for ambushes, though!

At the "Junction, makes a left turn, and turn to the end of the sewer passage. Midna's giant arm appears, indicating that there's a hole to spit swamp. It is on the southern side of the sewer channel. Pull it, then leap into the current towards the end of the passage. The chain has opened it up, and at the far end is a small crate to destroy. Inside the crate is a blue Rupee (5)!

The other three archers control enemies are sweeter, so open eastward to the T-junction, and head through the open tunnel there. Midna speaks to you, telling you to use your shields. Stop at the next conduit on the north wall. Pull the chain, leap into the next sewer channel, and hit the Twilis Vermin inside! Smash the wall for a heart, then head back to the main sewer.

You reach a crossroads, with a rusty set of spikes on the floor to your left. Don't stand on them! Instead, to your right attack and defeat the Twilis Vermin in the shallow water. Then dash to the eastern end of the sewer area and smash a couple of pots.

In the southeastern corner of the area is another chain to pull. It releases a Twilli Vermin, so dodge its leap, then destroy it! The channel is now open, and it travels around to the west. Jump inside, then flick your sewer view on and you'll see a patch of sparkling black earth. This is a dig spot! There's another around the corner. Dig up both spots for a green Rupee (1) and heart.

Find your sewer view back to normal and investigate the southern end of the crossroads, opposite the spiked floor. Near a pile of hay is another chain to pull. This one releases a water spout, which shoots you up to the ceiling. Leap off the spout, and hit the archers, in the northern part of the sewer system. Stand on the ground and wait for a new spout. Ride it, and hit the Twilis Vermin in the sewer! Smash the wall for a heart, then head back to the main sewer.

With your sewer view engaged, run to the northern crossroads along the walkway to the west of the sewer, and look for the spout. Ride it, to another green Rupee (5) and one of the crossroads, and pull the chain on the southern side.

This opens a small conduit east to the drain, and two Twilli Vermin spring out! Don't follow them into the water: attack them from land or spread them and take. Check the southern tip there are dig spots.

Move to the northeastern end of the sewer area and Midna leaves from your back and goes through a barred fence. She tells you to follow her. There's a small passage under the water, just below and right of the fence. You need to dive for it!

On this by looking off the way back to the opposite end of the east-west passage, then grabbing the chain near a second metal door set. A crystal is hanging down from this area. A second patch on the chain refills the area. A lowering catch of a certain is one similar seems you about monsters!

If you're having problems battling the Twilis Vermin, push this chain as soon as you can, dropping the water access up once closes the spiked floor. This way, you can attack them from in shallow water where your attacks are effective, instead of in deeper water where you're vulnerable.

With the water level dropped, move eastward, optimally pausing in the northernmost point to grab a final chain, releasing two Vermin and allowing access to a final exterior containing a pile with a Rupee inside.

Head back to Midna and pass down to locate a narrow tunnel. Midna leaves you for a moment, so enter it and you emerge in the sewer channel, with a small passage to the north. Head through it, and you're in the main sewer. Head to the T-junction, and use the big spiky ball and/or creating another request to thwart and a Iron Rupee (5) for your troubles. Now head east of the northern ground to meet Midna, and move east.

Missing Links

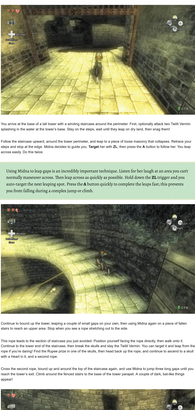
1. Shut Smashing

Scattered about the sewers are the skulls of an unknown, but not quite human, creature. You can pick up the skull with your teeth, then throw and smash it, or destroy the skulls where they lie. They give you Rupees, Hearts, or nothing at all!

Overworld: A Wolf Howls in the Twilight

Task 2: Gain an Audience with the Twilight Princess

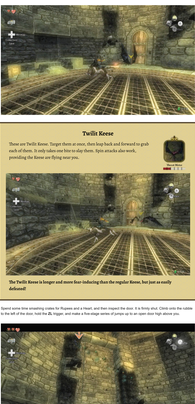
Climbing The Castle Tower



You arrive at the base of a tall tower with a winding staircase around the perimeter. First, optionally attack two Twili Vermin splashing in the water at the tower's base. Step on the steps, and until they leap on it's tiny, frail, snag them!

Follow the staircase upward, around the tower perimeter, and leap to a piece of loose masonry that collapses. Retrace your steps and stop at the edge. Mimic decides to guide you. Target her with ZL, then press the A button to follow her. You leap across easily. It's the twist.

Using Mimic on-leap gears is an incredibly important technique. Listen for her laugh as an area you can't normally maneuver across. Then leap across as quickly as possible. Hold down the ZL trigger and you auto-target the next leaping spot. Press the A button quickly to complete the leaps fast; this protects you from falling during a complex jump or climb.



Continue to bound up the tower, leaping a couple of small gaps on your own, then using Mimic again on a piece of fallen stairs to reach an upper area. Stop when you see a rope stretching out to the side.

This rope leads to the section of staircase you just avoided. Position yourself facing the rope directly, then walk onto it. Automatically, you'll slide down the rope and land on the staircase. Run up the steps, and as you reach the top, leap forward from the rope if you're starting! Find the Ryuke plate in one of the skulls, then head back up the rope, and continue to ascend to a door with a Hearth in it, and a second rope.

Cross the second rope, bound up and around the top of the staircase again, and use Mimic to jump three long gaps until you reach the tower's next. Climb around the fenced stairs to the base of the tower parapet. A couple of dark, hairless things appear!

Twili Keese

These are Twilic Keese. Target them at once, then leap back and forward to grab each of them. It only takes one blow to slay them. Spin-attacks also work, providing the Keese are flying near you.

The Twilic Keese is longer and more fear-inducing than the regular Keese, but just as easily defeated!

Spend some time smashing crates for Rupees and a Heart, and then inspect the door. It is firmly shut. Climb onto the rubble to the left of the door, hold the ZL trigger, and make a few stage-series of jumps up to an open door high above you.

Hyrule Castle Battlements

You're traveling to another tower, where Mimic wants to introduce you to someone. Bound out and down, onto the parapet. You can optionally turn south and head down the stairs to smash a skull or two for a Heart.

Head north. You can spend some time jumping across the gaps to reach central keep. When you're done, head to the entrance of the dilapidated parapet section, where a soldier spirit waits to wail about monstrous birds. He confirms where you are: Hyrule Castle!

Mimic urges you to the tower. Push the crate forward so it reaches a wooden blockade, then climb up and onto it, and drop onto a second stone parapet. Drop into the hexagonal stone area, and press the ZL trigger to target a massive, flapping monstrosity!

Twilit Kargarok

This wretched creature swoops in to attack, delivering a nasty swipe or sip that deals half a Heart's worth of energy loss. Wait for this dive, while keeping a distance, then leap and slash it with your sword. The Twilit Kargarok will crumple like a heart's-content bulk for seconds, or strike it again, either with a leaping blow, or a spin-attack (which is less effective). The hero noise is higher-pitched this time, as you know you've delivered it. Keep away from the sides when you're attacking. Wait and let the Twilit Kargarok come to you, or you may leap to a bottomless plummet!

An otherworldly version of a hated Hyrulean carrion, the Twilit Kargarok should be struck twice. Listen for the hero!

With the head defeated, stream a duck, then ignore the small square tower with crates on it because it's too far away to reach. Face north and walk along another crumbling parapet until the strange music sounds the arrival of another Twilit Kargarok. Stay away from the edge of the parapet as you defeat it!

Continue to the far northern end of the parapet, where you can see another small square tower that cannot be reached because the bridge is out. Look left and smash the skull for a Heart. Mimic offers to help you leap across to the rooftop nearby. Execute a quick three-jump maneuver.

Now on a roof, center forward, following the gable and making a turn before you're assaulted by two Twilit Kargarok. Warp in the upper middle part of the roof, and leap to grab both of them. Once they're defeated, head directly to the ledge. Climb up and enter an open doorway.

Missing Links

1. Up on the Roof

Clusters of crates dot the roof. Check for two sets to the right of where you landed, skulls on the small roof windows, and crates along the wooden fence perimeter. All carry Rupees, Hearts, or nothing!

Princess Zelda's Prison Quarters

You appear in a small window hollow up a spiral staircase. Drop down and optionally head downward; there's little here except a sealed door. Move to the top of the staircase, break open two small crates for Hearts, and nuzzle open the large arched door.

A hooded figure is watching the enveloping twilight. The figure turns. "Midna?!" she says. The figure kneels down next to you. Midna tells her she should explain what she managed to do.... "Twilight Princess!" she finishes.

The figure explains that the kingdom of Hyrule has been transformed by the king that rules the twilight. She recalls how Princess Zelda and her troops valiantly defended the throne from the creatures of shadow.

A figure strides to the throne, dressed in shadow armor and flanked by two Twilit Messengers. Princess Zelda drops her sword. The Triforce is cast in shadow. Castle Hyrule burns as the townsfolk turn to spirits.

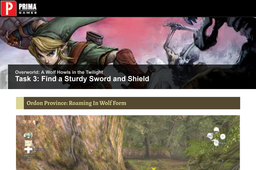
The figure removes her hood, declaring "I am Zelda." The princess explains that shadow beasts are looking for her. You must find a way to remove this permanent twilight!

Princess Zelda:

Princess Zelda is about 20 years old, and is the queen-in-waiting of Hyrule. Her kingdom was taken over by a strange man clad in shadow armor, who is exchange for the lives of her people. Natalia has no idea, sadly. Zelda speaks with an unusually mature tone for a girl her age. She is strong and brave, and she would give up her life to bring peace to her kingdom. Like you, she has a strange power, known as the Triforce, that only a chosen one can achieve.

Although you can speak to Princess Zelda, she tells you to leave quickly before the guards arrive. She doesn't mind you climbing on her bed, checking the book on the table, or even dousing the fire with a spin attack to claim a yellow Rupee (10) Now leave, heading down the spiral steps.

A guard is coming! Midna transports you across the castle roof, where she asks you what you want to do next. Quickly transforming into the terrified forms of Colin and Ilia, Midna supposes you'll want to help them. She'll help, as long as you do exactly what she says! You land back at the Ordon Spring, still in the shape of a wolf!



Ordon Province: Roaming In Wolf Form

You cannot count on the help of your village friends, as you're a fearsome furry beast, but you do have an extra sense to help you locate a lost creature. Sniff out the whereabouts of the missing animal! Once you find it, you'll learn that it wants a sword and shield that suit her. She's very demanding! Check the dig spot near the bridge, then head south. There's another dig spot in the clearing. A Bulblin warrior wanders around—target and bite or spin attack it. Move to your home, and more appear!

Bulblin Warrior

Bulblin warriors are roaming your woods, but defeating them is straightforward with your sharp teeth and whipping tail. Target the nearest one as soon as you can, then leap to and gnaw on him. Follow this up with a spin attack to strike more than one foe. Bounce on the foe as he lies on the ground to finish him off.

The Bulblin warrior isn't something to fear when encountered on its own. Your wolf form can attack and defeat it in seconds!

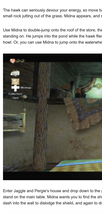
When you're done, head toward the village. A voice thanks you for dealing with those Bulblins. It's the squirrel! It seems you can talk to animals in wolf form, try this out on every animal you spot! Now head into the village itself.

Missing Links

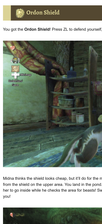
1. Going Underground

The area outside your house, near the scarecrow, around the trees, near the Ordon Village entrance, and various other areas have dig spots; unearth Hearts and Rupees from them.

Enter Ordon Village. All the homes are locked up. The pasture is closed. But there's a Cucco to speak to, clucking near the mayor's house. It tells you of a ruckus in the village: monsters stole the children!

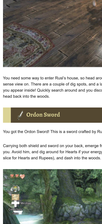


You can talk to the frogs at the stream or more Cuccos, but the most interesting area is the ground near the waterwheel, where Jaggle and the mayor are asking about the shield and sword. Listen to them explaining where these items are. They spot you and flee inside the house.

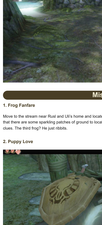


Mishra tells you that the village is full of idiots. There's an entrance left open on the roof of the waterwheel house. Run back over the bridge, and move toward the pumpkin patch. Hanch now notices you and summons the hawk! It swoops down and knocks you about!

The hawk can seriously devour your energy, so move back to the village entrance, out of range of its talons, and stand on the small rock jutting out of the grass. Mishra appears, and so does Sera's cat! She tells you to sneak up and scare Hanch!



Use Mishra to double-jump onto the roof of the store, then leap across two flat stone pillars and land on the one Hanch is standing on. He jumps into the pond while the hawk flies off. You can optionally stop here and summon the hawk with your hoot. Or, you can use Mishra to jump onto the waterwheel, then the roof beyond.

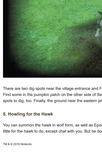


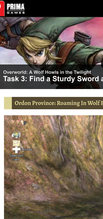
Enter Jaggle and Pergie's house and drop down to the ground. Optionally smash the pumpkins and pots as before, then stand on the main table. Mishra wants you to find the shield. It's up on the western ledge. Use Mishra to bound up there, then dash into the wall to dislodge the shield, and again to drop it. Pick it up.

Ordon Shield

You got the Ordon Shield! Press ZL to defend yourself, but beware: if it is touched by fire, it will burn.

Mishra thinks the shield looks cheap, but it'll do for the moment! Exit the house via the open window on the left wall, just along from the shield on the upper area. You land in the pond. The sound startles Rusl, who is arriving at his house with Uli. He tells her to go inside while he checks the area for beasts! Swim to the bank, then run south and west toward the house. Rusl stops you!





He waves his torch and sword at you, which is a good deterrent; you can't harm him, and he can strike you back! Run around Rusl, and optionally approach Uli. She screams, and Rusl leaps in front of her and viciously swipes at you! Back up, away from both of them!

You need some way to enter Rusl's house, so head around the left side of it, near the small pumpkin patch, and watch your sense view on. There are a couple of dig spots, and a larger dig area near the stack of logs. Dig down under the house, and you appear inside! Quickly search around and you discover the Ordon Sword on the sofa! Mishra appears and tells you to head back into the woods.

Ordon Sword

You got the Ordon Sword! This is a sword crafted by Rusl, the best swordsman in Ordon, as a tribute to the royal family.

Carrying both shield and sword on your back, emerge from Rusl's house. "Fool beast!" he shouts, and swings his weapon at you. Avoid him, and dig around for Hearts if your energy is low. Then flee back to the area near your house (there's grass to slice for Hearts and Rupees), and dash into the woods.

Missing Links

1. Frog Fanfare

Move to the stream near Rusl and Uli's home and locate a tiny frog hopping around. He tells you he's living in paradise and that there are some sparkling patches of ground to locate. A second frog also tells you to dig around for some buried items or clues. The third frog? He just ribbits.

2. Puppy Love

The cute puppy dog you hugged earlier is roaming around outside near the waterwheel house. He is happy to tell you he loves digging. Definitely use your sense view here; the village is full of places to dig!

Also remember that many of the locations where you found Rupees the first time, such as the rocks near the mound rock the monkey was standing on, can be accessed for more Rupees and Hearts!

3. Digging for Victory Part 1

Turn your sense view on and you'll discover multiple dig spots where the frogs are, at the bank of the stream. Some are near the path to Rusl's house, too. Don't forget the big dig spot below the tree the hive was stuck to! As with all dig spots, Hearts or Rupees of various denominations are your reward.

4. Digging for Victory Part 2

There are two dig spots near the village entrance and Fado's house. Four spots are by the water to the left of Sera's store. Find some in the pumpkin patch on the other side of Sera's store, near the waterwheel. The pumpkin patch here has multiple spots to dig, too. Finally, the ground near the western jetty where you caught fish for the cat has dig spots.

5. Howling for the Hawk

You can summon the hawk in wolf form, as well as Epona (once you find the Horse Grass). This isn't much use, as there's little for the hawk to do, except chat with you. But he does tell you he might be able to help you in the future!

Overworld: A Wolf Howls in the Twilight

Task 4: Speak with the Spirit of Faron Spring

The Spirit Of Ordon Spring

Run as far north as you can go, to the bridge. Then a strange voice calls you into the springs. It is the spirit of Ordon Spring. Too late, it realizes a shadow being approaches! Black, glowing monoliths fall to earth. A portal above you appears! A Twilit Messenger falls out of the sky!

Twilit Messenger

Sinewy and frightening, with pulsating veins of red in an otherwise inky black hide, the Twilit Messenger is most troublesome when encountered in groups. But for now, target this foe and when prompted, tap the A button multiple times to latch on, and bite the Twilit Messenger until you're thrown off. Then finish with a spin attack.

This frightening ghoul from the Twilight Realm is thankfully easy to slay if you bite down hard!

Warp Portal

Twilit Messengers always announce the arrival of an area of ethereal instability in the area. Usually, after they are defeated, Midna can create a warp portal at this point. Whenever you see Twilit Messengers, fight them as soon as possible to open up more warp portals!

The beast dematerializes and is sucked back into a differently colored glowing portal vortex. Out of the pool comes a ball of light energy that takes the form of a goat. It is Ordona, one of four light spirits.

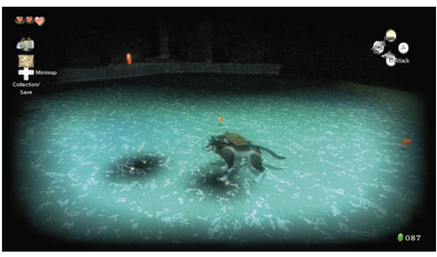
Ordona's brethren have started to lose their power thanks to attacks from these shadowy Messengers. The kingdom is now a netherworld of darkness!

And yet, a hero has risen who can revive the light from the three remaining spirits. Your true power has not been revealed yet, but a journey to Faron Woods, and the revival of the light spirit there, should lead you on your path.

Ordona:

The embodiment of the land of Ordona, this magical spirit takes the form of a goat and resides in the spring near Ordon Village. It seeks the light.

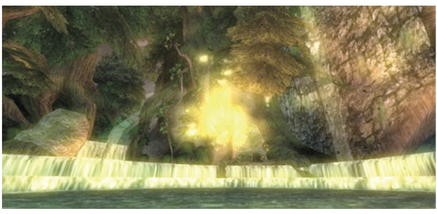
Optionally dig for Hearts in the spring, heal, then leave and journey north, across the bridge (watch you don't fall off the side!), and dash into Faron Woods. The realm has been transformed with twilight hues and echoing sounds of darkness!



Remember that you can still check for dig spots, Rupees in the grass, and additional items during your run through here!

When you've finished foraging, move into the next glade and watch as three Twilit Messengers fall from the sky! Midna flees your back, leaving you to fend for yourself!

Fighting three Messengers at once isn't as difficult as you'd expect. However, there's a special stipulation for dispatching all of them: you must defeat the last two Messengers at exactly the same time! Otherwise the last Messenger left alive shrieks to bring the others back, and combat begins anew! Start with a spin to stop all three, then gnaw on one with multiple bites. Keep fighting until Midna appears. She helps you by giving you a new attack. Hold down the B button for an energy field. Enclose all the enemies in it (so they sparkle with red charges), then release the button!



When the Messengers are defeated, continue your journey northward to Faron Spring. There are numerous dig spots to find here. When you've had your fill, move to the ball of spirit energy in the middle of the pool near the waterfall. The spirit gives you a Vessel of Light. Set off, following the path to the northeast.

Vessel Of Light

You got the Vessel of Light! Use this to collect the tears that cut through the darkness.

The Vessel of Light now appears on your in-game screen, and you must locate the evils that consume the tears. Find them by using your sense view. The evils take the form of small winged insects. Check your map, or the one in this guide, to locate all 12 of the Twilit Parasites.

Locating Twilit Parasites #1 And #2

The 12 Twilit Parasites can be gathered in any order. The following route provides the quickest method.

Twilit Baba

Taking the place of the Deku Baba in the ground above you enormously overpowered version of the Deku Baba. It has an extraordinarily tall stronger red and black head. Fortunately, it attacks and is stopped in the same manner as the Deku Baba. As a well, simply leap and bite the plant twice, or spin attack.

The shadow version of the Deku Baba is monstrous, but ineffectual at harming you as long as you bite and spin!

Twilit Parasite

The Twilit Parasites hold the toxin needed to misassume the spirit of the spring, so look for purple spells and shadows on the ground in the area where the white dots are marked on your map. Twelve of these insects roam the land, and they can hide inside walls, floors, the ground, on top of roofs. Target them first with the B button and then pounce with one attack. The insect explodes, and an orb of toxin appears. Walk the it to float down, then run into it.

Only small purple specks of electricity can be seen, until you use your sense view. Then possess and bite!

The first two Twilit Parasites are scuttling about the path next to the Twilit Baba. Just target and pounce on each of them and secure your first toxin. Once they appear in your Vessel of Light, continue along the path. Dispatch two more Twilit Babas.

Twilit Parasites #3 And #4

Move to the Dark Tunnel entrance. The gate is locked again, so return here in a moment. For now, turn and visit the area behind you. Defeat the Twilit Parasite and up the ramp, passing the scarecrow. At the end of the ramp, Midna appears to allow you to leap into Coro's nest.

Leap down into the interior of the hut and spin your sense view to make out the ghostly form of Coro. He's freaking out about the bugs! Two of them appear, buzzing with electricity and scuttling about the floor. With your sense view on, leap at them, you can attack both with one push! After they explode, Coro is even more puzzled! Take the orbs of insect, then exit the way you came in, climbing up the furniture and out the window.

Twilit Parasite #5

Journey back to the entrance to the Dark Tunnel. If you inspect the gate, you'll see it's a finely closed. However, there's a big hole in the fence to the left of the gate. Run through the hole and into the Twilit Realm. Defeat the locked entrance, and target the Twilit Parasite maneuvering about in the area. Bite it, and collect the orb of toxin!

Twilit Parasite #6

You can use the tunnel structure (see Weaving Links), or run through the twilight version of the Dark Tunnel. The creatures that inhabit the tunnel have been replaced with twilit versions that will just be easy to defeat. Collect the Rupees from the small shield.

Emerge into Faron Woods, and you'll see the tower area has been completely submerged in thick, red, purple mist. Move to the northwestern side of the higher ground you're standing on, and locate a Twilit Parasite on the rock wall. Now defeat it without accidentally leaping into the mist! Wait for each Twilit Parasite to descend if they start to fly.

Twilit Parasites #7 And #8

There must be some way to cross the mist-filled woods, and there is. Move to the far skunky at the northern part of the wood where the Twilit Parasites appear. The rain transport you across to higher ground after a three-leap maneuver. Don't forget to visit the A button to target too!

Run to the top of the overhang to find western part of the woods. Survivors Mirlina, then leap three times to the means of a giant nest in the middle of the woods. Two Twilit Parasites are in here. Don't leave until you collect both orbs!

Twilit Parasites #9 And #10

Now for a giant series of leaps! Use Midna and hold down the B button to jump-sight three arrows the new traverses to the top of the Faron Woods tower, jump another four times, avoiding three Twilit Bulbos (if you're not one, you'll be knocked off the branch and into the mist).

Ignore the enemies here. It is impossible to attack them without landing on the mist and starting this area over again!

Move to the other end of the massive tree skunky and use Midna again to leap across a large gap. After the swinging log has passed to one side. Make seven more leaps down some trunks and platforms to reach the southwest exit.

Here, you can spot two more Twilit Parasites, but they are traveling through the web. You must target them, then run to intercept them before they reach the Cursed Coro they surround, about them. When you collect both orbs, you can search for the Twilit Parasite!

Author Note

It was at this point that we looked at our Twilit Parasite team collection, and found we'd missed the one outside of Coro's hut! Cursed Hut on the we get back? Fortunately, we stood at the end of the wooden pier, leapt nearly back to the Dark Tunnel, and backtracked.

Twilit Parasites #11 And #12

Step out of the tunnel and you'll notice that the entrego walk of the Twilit Mosquitoes have appeared, and those of them are advancing on you! Target, leap, and grab the nearest one, and pummel him with teeth and tail until he falls. Then press and hold the B button for Wolf-a-mango attack, targeting the final two. Catch them both, and all three disappear.

After the fight, make a mental note that a portion of a bridge has appeared here, propped up against the far-wall wall. This comes in handy later!

The three Twilit Messengers form a portal in the sky, and you're free to continue. Trot's Snag is completely empty, but you're a wolf and can't steal anything! The Twilit Bulbos are in the same places that the Deku Babas were. Now head along the winding path towards the entrance to the Forest Temple.

As you reach the entrance to the Forest Temple, you see a monkey spirit standing in fear on one of the skull columns. Target, and then fire Twilit Parasites and tell them to complete your Quest of Light collection. The monkey is astonished, and as a result, you can understand him! She is relieved, although "over since the boss were funny in the head, there's been scary monsters everywhere," she says.

Missing Links

1. Going Underground

You can optionally find dig spots that house either a Rupee or a Heart in the following places:

- The winding path and long grass near the Dark Tunnel
- The spot in the Dark Tunnel
- Near the campfire around Coro's house
- The north side of Coro's house
- The tree opposite Coro's house
- The south entrance to Faron Woods
- The western wall near the overhang
- Behind the sign of the southwest exit to Faron Woods—a yellow Rupee (10)
- Next to the propped-up bridge near Twilit Parasites #11 and #12
- At the foot of the large tree opposite the propped-up bridge
- At the foot of the large tree opposite Trot's Shop
- At the start of the winding trail to the Forest Temple (near the opened chest)
- On either side of the opened chest

2. Dark Tunnel Shortcut

There's actually a shortcut that to and from allows you to ignore the entire Dark Tunnel area! Dig in the right wall behind the first until-torch as you arrive in the tunnel.

You appear out of a dig hole to the left side of the wall by the north exit, or entrance if you're traveling south. This is quicker than traveling through the tunnel.

Task 6: Learn Your First Hidden Skill and Enter the Forest Temple

The Light Returns To Faron Province

As soon as the last Twilit Parasite is captured, no matter where you are, you're whisked back to the Faron Spring. The spirit thanks you and Midna leaves you. Then the spirit returns in the form of a giant monkey. Your own form has changed, too!

The green tunic that is your garb once belonged to the ancient hero chosen by the gods. Now that hero is you! You must now attempt to seek a forbidden power deep inside the Forest Temple. Midna returns to push you toward that Forest Temple.

Faron:

The embodiment of the land of Faron, this magical spirit takes the form of a monkey and resides in the spring near Faron Woods. It seeks the light.

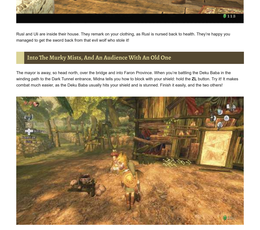
Hero's Clothes

You got the Hero's Clothes! It is said that these clothes were worn by the hero who long ago saved Hyrule from danger.

Head to the Forest Temple entrance at your earliest convenience. If you decide to return to Ordon Village, you can visit Fado in the pasture, but Ezona cannot be summoned. Fado remains on your outfit and tells you to find the children. The rest of the villagers have the same request.

Sera, in the shop, is worried about Beth. Hanch is on the rock, fearful of the fate of the tots.

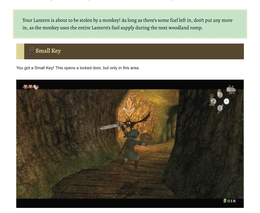
Jaggle is standing by his bench, and Pergie is sitting dejected in her house. Even the puppy is yelping!



Rusl and Uli are inside their house. They remark on your clothing, as Rusl is nursed back to health. They're happy you managed to get the sword back from that evil wolf who stole it!

Into The Murky Mists, And An Audience With An Old One

The mayor is away, so head north, over the bridge and into Faron Province. When you're battling the Deku Baba in the winding path to the Dark Tunnel entrance, Midna tells you how to block with your shield: hold the ZL button. Try it! It makes combat much easier, as the Deku Baba usually hits your shield and is stunned. Finish it easily, and the two others!

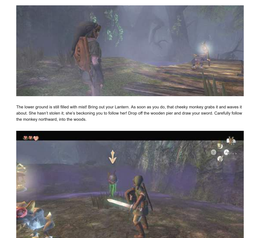


The gate to the Dark Tunnel is locked, and you can't use the dig hole as Link, so head toward Coro and speak with him. He looks you up and down. You seem to be ready for the challenge, so he hands you a Small Key that opens the gate to the Dark Tunnel leading to Faron Woods. If you need Lantern oil, now's not the time to buy it.

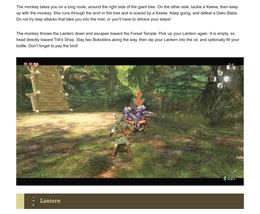
Your Lantern is about to be stolen by a monkey! As long as there's some fuel left in, don't put any more in, as the monkey uses the entire Lantern's fuel supply during the next woodland romp.

Small Key

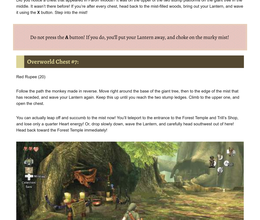
You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.



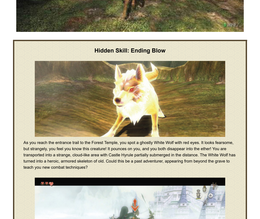
You can't head north (Midna doesn't let you), so unlock the Dark Tunnel entrance and head inside. The same enemies and lectics apply during this run-through of the area. Keep moving and take the right fork to appear at Faron Woods.



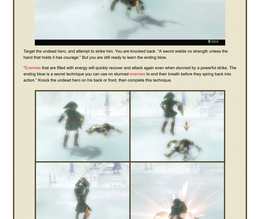
The lower ground is still filled with mist! Bring out your Lantern. As soon as you do, that sheaky monkey grabs it and waves it about. She hasn't stolen it, she's beckoning you to follow her! Drop off the wooden pier and brave your sword. Carefully follow the monkey northward, into the woods.



The monkey takes you on a long route, around the right side of the giant tree. On the other side, tackle a Keese, then keep up with the monkey. She runs through the arch in the tree and is scared by a Keese. Keep going, and defeat a Deku Baba. Do not try leap attacks that take you into the mist, or you'll have to retrace your steps!



The monkey leaves the Lantern down and escapes toward the Forest Temple. Pick up your Lantern again. It is empty, so head directly toward Tott's Shop. Step two Bokoblins along the way, then dip your Lantern into the oil, and optionally fill your bottle. Don't forget to pay the lens!



Lantern

You got the Lantern back! It ran out of oil while you were following the monkey around.

Did you notice a chest that appeared in Faron Woods? It was on the upper of the two stump platforms on the giant tree in the middle. It wasn't there before! If you're after every chest, head back to the mist-filled woods, bring out your Lantern, and wave it using the A button. Step into the mist!

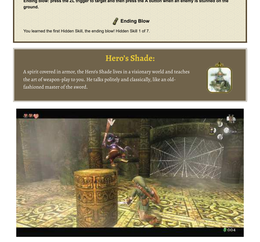
Do not press the A button! If you do, you'll put your Lantern away, and choke on the murky mist!

Overworld Chest #7:

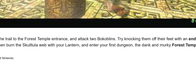
Red Rupee (20)

Follow the path the monkey made in reverse. Move right around the base of the giant tree, then to the edge of the mist that has receded, and wave your Lantern again. Keep this up until you reach the two stump ledges. Climb to the upper one, and open the chest.

You can actually leap off and succumb to the mist now! You'll teleport to the entrance to the Forest Temple and Tott's Shop, and lose only a quarter Heart energy! Or, drop slowly down, wave the Lantern, and carefully head southwest out of here! Head back toward the Forest Temple immediately!



Hidden Skill: Ending Blow



As you reach the entrance trail to the Forest Temple, you spot a ghostly White Wolf with red eyes. It looks fearsome, but strangely, you feel you know this creature! It pounces on you, and you both disappear into the ether! You are transported into a strange, cloud-like area with Castle Hyrule partially submerged in the distance. The White Wolf has turned into a heroic, armored skeleton of old. Could this be a past adventurer, appearing from beyond the grave to teach you new combat techniques?

Target the undead hero, and attempt to strike him. You are knocked back. "A sword wields no strength unless the hand that holds it has courage." But you are still ready to learn the ending blow.

"Enemies that are filled with energy will quickly recover and attack again even when stunned by a powerful strike. The ending blow is a secret technique you can use on stunned enemies to end their breath before they spring back into action." Knock the undead hero on his back or front, then complete this technique.

Ending Blow: press the ZL trigger to target and then press the A button when an enemy is stunned on the ground.

Ending Blow

You learned the first Hidden Skill, the ending blow! Hidden Skill 1 of 7.

Hero's Shade:

A spirit covered in armor, the Hero's Shade lives in a stationary world and teaches the art of weapon play to you. He talks politely and classically, like an old-fashioned master of the sword.

Run up the trail to the Forest Temple entrance, and attack two Bokoblins. Try knocking them off their feet with an ending blow. Then turn the Skulltula web with your Lantern, and enter your first dungeon, the dank and murky Forest Temple!

Dungeon 1: The Forest Temple

The Forest Temple: Overview

Your first dungeon is only a single level deep, but it has many confusing, interconnecting chambers filled with fearsome-looking foes that require cunning as well as brute strength to defeat. The monkey that led you here expects you to rescue her seven brethren, each either locked inside a wooden cage or behind a barred or sealed doorway. You must backtrack through previously explored rooms several times before you can obtain the more useful items—the Dungeon Map and Compass—after which you can easily locate all 13 of this dungeon's chests. This dungeon also holds your first, and extremely useful, new weapon: the Gale Boomerang (pried from the hands of a bad baboon named Ook). Finally, after all monkeys are freed, they allow you access to the boss room, where you face your first creature of the twilight! Good hunting!

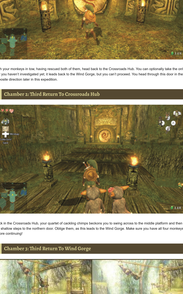
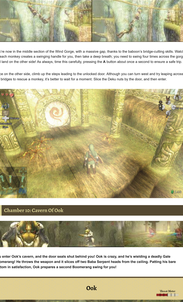
Task 3: Battle the Bad Baboon Named Ook

Chamber 1: Second Return To Staircase Covers



With your monkeys in tow, having rescued both of them, head back to the Crossroads Hub. You can optionally take the only exit you haven't investigated yet, if Ineki back to the Wind Gorge, but you can't proceed. You head through the door in the opposite direction later in this expedition.

Chamber 2: Third Return To Crossroads Hub



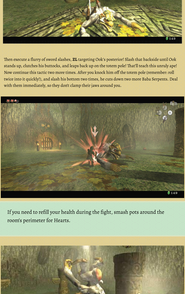
Back in the Crossroads Hub, your quartet of cackling chimps beckons you to swing across to the middle platform and then up the shallow steps to the northern door. Oblige them, as this leads to the Wind Gorge. Make sure you have all four monkeys before continuing!

Chamber 3: Third Return To Wind Gorge

You're now in the middle section of the Wind Gorge, with a massive gap, thanks to the baboon's bongo-rattling skills. Watch the monkeys swing across to the other side, then follow suit. Head through the door on the left, and you're in the Cavern of Ook, and best on the other side! As always, time this carefully, pressing the A button about once a second to ensure a safe leap.

Once on the other side, climb up the steps leading to the unlocked door. Although you can turn west and try leaping across the bridges to rescue a monkey, it's better to wait for a moment. Slice the Deku bulb by the door, and then enter.

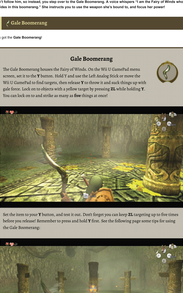
Chamber 10: Cavern Of Ook



You enter Ook's cavern, and the door seals shut behind you! Ook is crazy, and he's wielding a deadly Gale Boomerang! He throws the weapon and it slices off two Baba Serpent heads from the ceiling. Patting his bare bottom in satisfaction, Ook prepares a second Boomerang saving for you!

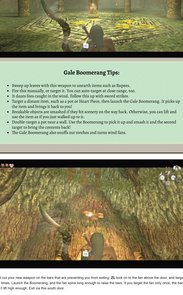
Ook

Begin by executing a perfect spin attack on the two advancing Baba Serpent heads; this stops Ook's first attack. Now run forward, and reach at the manic baboon loops from totem pole to totem pole. He then stops and launches the boomerang.



Ook likes to dance. Fortunately, he's at the top of a highly unstable totem pole. Bring that bastard pasting-up-down for a spanking!

Keep your eye on Ook, and run around to avoid the Boomerang, and any more Baba Serpent heads he runs from the ceiling. He launches the Boomerang and is dancing on the totem pole; waiting for it to return, then the returning Gale Boomerang hits the totem pole and knocks him down!



Then execute a flurry of sword slashes, B, targeting Ook's posterior! Slash that backside until Ook stands up, clutches his buttocks, and leaps back up on the totem pole! That'll teach this unruly ape! Now continue this tactic two more times. After you knock him off the totem pole (remember roll twice into it quickly), and slash his bottom two times, he can down two more Baba Serpents. Deal with them immediately, as they don't clamp their jaws around you.

If you need to refill your health during the fight, smash pots around the room's perimeter for Hearts.

After a final ignominious buttock bashing, Ook gives up his Boomerang, knocks himself out on his own totem pole, and pops off the parasite heels responsible for his manic antics!

After Ook realizes his antics, his bottom is flush with embarrassment, and he hops out of a hole in the cavern. You can't follow him, so instead, you step over to the Gale Boomerang. A voice whispers "I am the Fairy of Winds who resides in this boomerang." She instructs you to use the weapon she's bound to, and focus her power!

✓ Gale Boomerang

You got the Gale Boomerang!

Gale Boomerang

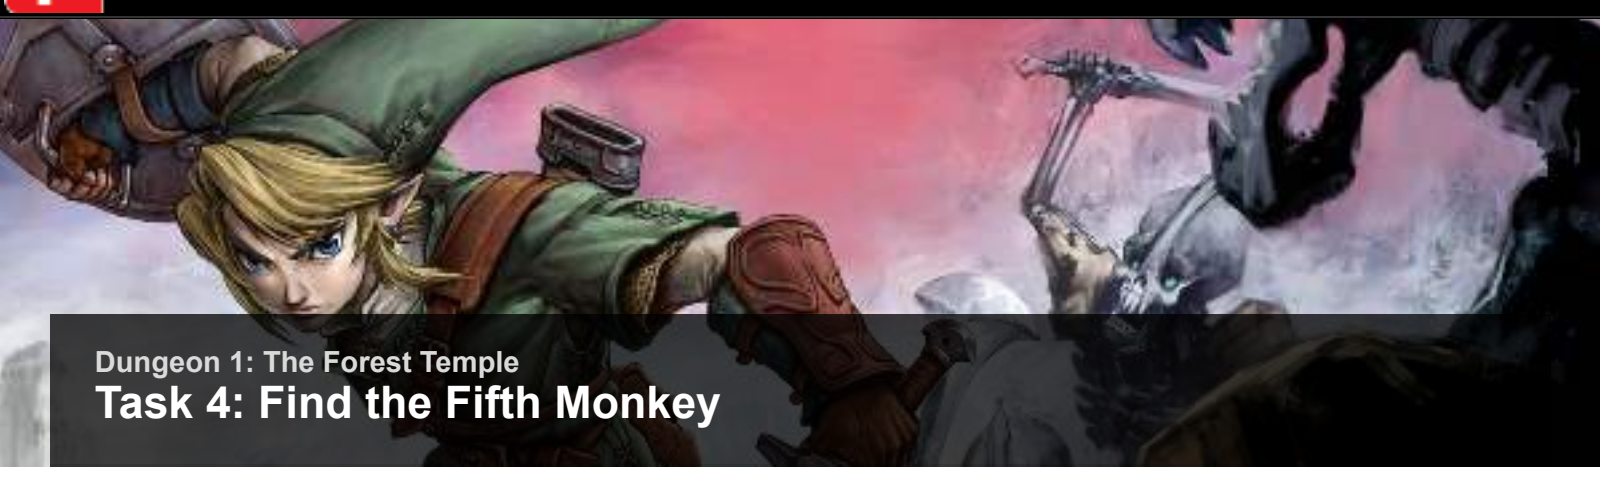
The Gale Boomerang houses the Fairy of Winds. On the Wii U GamePad menu screen, set it to the Y button. Hold Y and use the Left Analog Stick or move the Wii U GamePad to find targets; then release Y to throw it and suck things up with gale force. Lock on to objects with a yellow target by pressing ZL while holding Y. You can lock on to and strike as many as five things at once!

Set the totem to your Y button, and use it out. Don't forget you can hurry ZL targeting up to five items before you release! Remember to press and hold Y first. See the following page some tips for using the Gale Boomerang!

Gale Boomerang Tips:

- Sweep up bjaws with this weapon to unearth items such as Rupees.
- Fire this manually, or target it. You can auto-target at close range, too.
- It slices foes caught in the wind. Follow this up with sword strikes.
- Target a distant item, such as a pot or Heart Piece, then launch the Gale Boomerang. It picks up the item and flies back to you!
- Breakable objects are smashed if they hit scenery on the way back. Otherwise, you can lift and use the item as if you just walked up to it.
- Use the Gale Boomerang to ride the Boomerang to pick it up and smash it and the second target to bring the contents back!
- The Gale Boomerang also snuffs out torches and turns wind fans.

Test out your new weapon on the bars that are preventing you from exiting. ZL lock on to the fan above the door, and target five times. Launch the Boomerang, and the fan spins long enough to raise the bars. If you target the fan only once, the bars don't lift high enough. Exit via the south door.



Dungeon 1: The Forest Temple

Task 4: Find the Fifth Monkey

Chamber 3: Fourth Return To Wind Gorge

Back in the Wind Gorge, you can finally head west, brandishing your Gale Boomerang. Target the fan atop the rotating bridge platform, and use the wind of the Boomerang to activate it. The platform turns. Run onto it. Then run onto the second platform (assuming it is lined up west to east), and continue to the exposed rock platform ahead.

Bring out your sword, and defeat the Bokoblin guarding another cage, with your fifth monkey friend inside. Once you've defeated the enemy, step back and use the Gale Boomerang to target the Skulltula web holding the cage. Slice the web and the cage falls, shattering and freeing the fifth monkey. This one leaps east, across the rotating bridge platforms. He's waiting for you at the northeastern rocky ledge you haven't explored yet. Head there shortly.

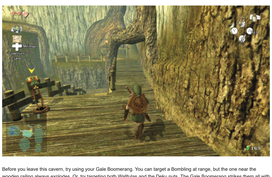
> Be careful traversing the bridge platforms! The wind still rotates the fans and you can run off into the bottomless chasm if you're not careful!

For the moment though, head south, back to the room with the Tile Worms in it (1I). Head south, traversing two bridge platforms, and optionally slicing or targeting the Keese with your Boomerang. Open the door in the southeast corner.

TM & © 2016 Nintendo.

Chamber 7: Third Return To Staircase Cavern

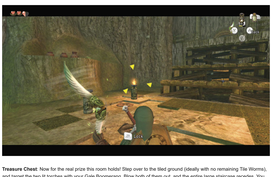
This door leads you into the Staircase Cavern. From here, drop down onto the wooden platform, make a right. Pass the Bombling, leap the gap, climb onto the higher ledge, and exit via the door in the northwestern corner.



Before you leave this cavern, try using your Gale Boomerang. You can target a Bombling at range, but the one near the wooden railing always explodes. Or, try targeting both Wallfulas and the Deku nuts. The Gale Boomerang strikes them all with a single whirl!

Chamber 9: First Return To Room Of The Tile Worms

Head back to the room where the Tile Worms were mocking you earlier. It's time for some payback! Bring out the Gale Boomerang, and target the tile the Tile Worm is under. Launch the Boomerang, and watch as the Tile Worm is ripped out and spun onto the ground. Now attack with your sword, finishing the otherwise annoyingly defensive foe. Repeat this tactic until all Tile Worms are defeated, if you wish.



Treasure Chest: Now for the real prize this room holds! Step over to the tiled ground (ideally with no remaining Tile Worms), and target the two lit torches with your Gale Boomerang. Blow both of them out, and the entire large staircase recedes. You can now reach the previously hidden alcove and open the chest. The prize is well worth your backtracking trouble!

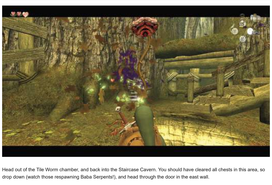
Treasure Chest #9

Piece of Heart

Piece Of Heart

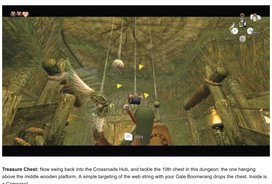
You got a Piece of Heart! Collect two more for another full Heart Container. Piece of Heart #3 of 45.

Chamber 7: Fourth Return To Staircase Cavern



Head out of the Tile Worm chamber, and back into the Staircase Cavern. You should have cleared all chests in this area, so drop down (watch those respawning Baba Serpents!), and head through the door in the east wall.

Chamber 2: Fourth Return To The Crossroads Hub



Treasure Chest: Now swing back into the Crossroads Hub, and tackle the 10th chest in this dungeon: the one hanging above the middle wooden platform. A simple targeting of the web string with your Gale Boomerang drops the chest. Inside is a Compass!

Treasure Chest #10

Compass

Compass

You got the Compass!

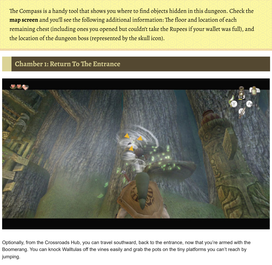
The Compass is a handy tool that shows you where to find objects hidden in this dungeon. Check the map screen and you'll see the following additional information: The floor and location of each remaining chest (including ones you opened but couldn't take the Rupees if your wallet was full), and the location of the dungeon boss (represented by the skull icon).

Chamber 1: Return To The Entrance

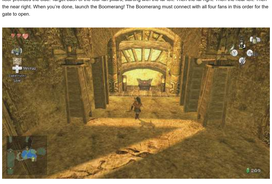


Optionally, from the Crossroads Hub, you can travel southward, back to the entrance, now that you're armed with the Boomerang. You can knock Wallfulas off the vines easily and grab the pots on the tiny platforms you can't reach by jumping.

Chamber 4: Third Return To Step-Stone Caverns

Head north, then east, back to the Step-stone Caverns via the monkey swing, and past the area where you found Cococo. Watch the returning Deku Baba! When you're done with combat, head to the barred gate via the vines or the rope bridge. Your key awaits!

With the Gale Boomerang, you can now open the barred gate! Naturally, the process is tricky, but the backward "Z" in the floor provides the clue. Target each of the four fan pillars, starting with the far left. Then the far right. Then the near left. Then the near right. When you're done, launch the Boomerang! The Boomerang must connect with all four fans in this order for the gate to open.



With the gate open, roll forward and move directly to the ornate chest, and open it up. You've discovered the Big Key; this leads to the most important room in the dungeon! Take it, then exit via the door in the northern wall.

Treasure Chest #11

Big Key

Big Key

You got the Big Key! Use it to gain access to the lair of this dungeon's boss!

The Big Key is big news to a dungeon explorer. Always lying inside the largest and most ornate chest type, the Big Key allows access to the lair of the dungeon boss. There's only one Big Key per dungeon, and the key unlocks only the boss's room of the dungeon you're currently in.

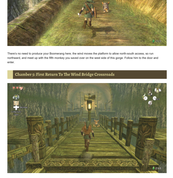
Task 6: Save the Sixth Monkey

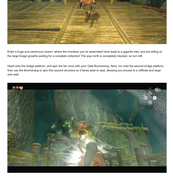
Chamber 3: Fifth Return To The Wind Gorge



There's no need to produce your Boomerang here, the wind moves the platform to allow north-south access, so run northward, and meet up with the fifth monkey you saved over on the west side of the gorge. Follow him to the door and enter.

Chamber 4: First Return To The Wind Bridge Crossroads

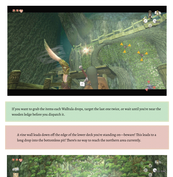
Press the open door, and optionally smash the pots. Run west at the edge of the wooden platform, with the gap in front of you. Don't fall off thing, and the Gale Boomerang, target the fan atop the bridge platform, and spin it 90 degrees to connect the north-south route.



Ignore the two Bokodrins on either side of you (or shoot them with your Slingshot), and race northward as you have an open path to the next chamber. Before you enter, look to the left, and you'll see a Bokodrin on a platform with a Bomb Flower. Target one in a free hair attention, and watch as it runs at you and falls off the tiny platform! Now roll over to the north door.

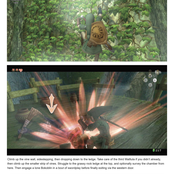
You don't have the key for the door in this chamber yet, so press northward instead of checking out the side branches.

Chamber 5: The Giant Forest Tree Chasm

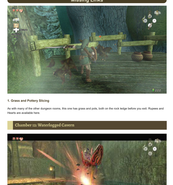


Enter a huge and cavernous chasm, where the monkeys you've assembled have leapt to a gigantic tree, and are sitting on the large tongue-growths sparing for a completely unbroken! The way itself is completely blocked, so let's fix!

Head onto the bridge platform, and spin the fan once with your Gale Boomerang. Next, run onto the second bridge platform, and use the Boomerang to spin the second structure so it faces west to east, allowing your access to a offshoot and large one wall.



Hop off the bridge and onward the Bokodrin at the base of a large vine wall, then bring out the Gale Boomerang once again, and target up to these Reflectos on the vine wall. Scoops them off with a forced Boomerang, then begin to climb the wall!

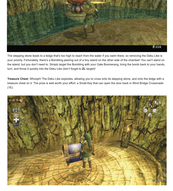


If you want to grab the items each Wallnuts drops, target the last one twice, or wait until you're near the wooden ledge before you dispatch it.

A vine wall leads down off the edge of the lowest dark portion standing on—beware! This leads to a long drop into the horrendous pit! There's no way to reach the northern area currently.

Climb up the vine wall, unbelievably, then dropping down to the ledge. Take care of the Bird Watched if you don't already, then climb up the middle vine of two. Struggle to the grassy one ledge of the top, and optionally survey the chamber from here. Then plunge a line forward in a hurry of destruction as you fall to the western door.

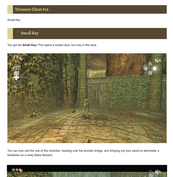
Missing Links



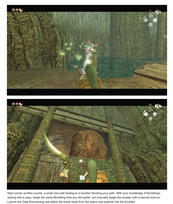
1. Grass and Pottery Slicing

An adlib enjoy of the climber dungeon rooms. Are one has grass and pots, both on the west ledge before you exit. Ropeas and Hearts are available here.

Chamber 10: Waterlogged Cavern



Enter this oddly quiet, waterlogged chamber, and losing out your sword, two Baba Serpents must be defeated! Once you've cleared them into the ground, step and check out the west to your left. It Gets Cut-ish on a small stepping stones.



Use the Gale Boomerang to dodge Keet's too high to avoid from the water if you want them, so slamming the Bird Jabs at your priority. Fortunately, there's a Bombling swarming out of a tiny island on the other side of the chamber! You can't reach on foot, but you can Gale Boomerang it to the island, and then Gale Boomerang it back! Bombling, thing the bomb back to your hands, and throw it quickly into the Gale Lilac you'll target a Big Target.

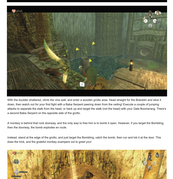
Treasure Chest: Although The Gale Lilac explodes, allowing you to come onto its stepping stone, and onto the ledge with a treasure chest on it. This pose is well worth your effort. A level key that can open the one door back in Wind Bridge Crossroads only.

Treasure Chest #11

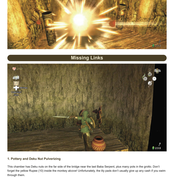
Small Key

Small Key

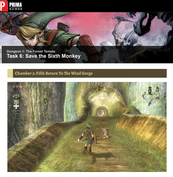
You get the Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only to this area.



You can now exit the end of the chamber, heading into the wooden bridge, and bringing out your sword to administer a headdown on a nasty Baba Serpent.



Next comes another puzzle, a small tree wall leading to a boulder blocking your path. With your knowledge of Bumblings, you should be able to figure out what to do here! Target the Bombling, and then Gale Boomerang it around to the tree wall. Launch the Gale Boomerang and watch the bomb blast from the tower and explode into the boulder!



Instead, stand at the edge of the gulch, and just target the Bombling, catch the bomb, then run and don't at the door. This clears the rock, and the grateful monkey scampers out to greet you!

Missing Links

1. Pottery and Delu-Nut Pulverizing

The chamber has Gale rules on the far side of the bridge near the last Baba Serpent, plus many pots in the gulch. Don't forget the yellow Pulsars (10) inside the monkey above! Unfortunately, the fly pods don't usually give up any seed if you were through them.

Walkthrough

Task 7: Escape with Monkeys Seven and Eight

Chamber to Bone Bosses To The Giant Flame Thrower Chasm

Backtrack to the first cave chamber, turn to right along the rock ledge to the lower, gold chest. Now drop down to the western chamber. Head over to the monkey-sealed Bridge Crossover.

Use the Cutter Boomerang to activate the Bridge, take aim 3. Now dash right and grab the earth or jungle Boomerang and you activate the second bridge. They both turn simultaneously, allowing you to run across. Then turn the second bridge again, and head back.

Chamber to Second Bosses To The Wharf Bridge Crossroads

Avoid wind, entering the Wharf Bridge Crossroads, and spin the bridge platform so you are west. A set again runs Bosses and Boomerang, and you can't get to the Boomerang, and Dragon's wand the Boomerang if you don't know how to kill all the western platforms west of the cage, by hanging under.

Chamber to Small Cave Rope

Enter the chamber, and commence on targeting the Tiki Worms hiding on the floor, in front of you. Unearth these using the Cutter Boomerang. Finish them off with gunning. Now move through and enter the first door.

Now you'll activate the giant crystal suspension, via hook-slot, and the first section activates to the northwest corner. Head to it, and hop on to the platform, pushing the Tiki Worms to fall to the floor of your. Climb the ascending, and the water rises, so target the rope to and finish the beast with your sword.

Chamber 10: Boss Battle! Twilit Parasite Diababa

Mount Wave

You enter a large round chamber with a shallow pool of filthy purple water. Notice three Bomblings picking out of hollow logs, as the water begins to bubble. Suddenly, two gigantic Baba heads rear out of the water, snapping and snarling!

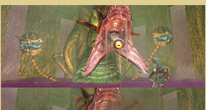
Form 1: Twin Diababa Serpents

The biggest mouths are also the hungriest. Make sure their meal consists of Bomblings, not heroic adventurers!

The twin Diababa Serpents are surprisingly easy to slay, bring out your Gale Boomerang and target any of the three Bomblings resting on the logs. Bring the Bomblings back, target either Diababa head, and send the bomb spinning into that maw for a spot of deadly indigestion! The head sinks back into the mire. Repeat this plan for the second head. You can target the Bomblings and head in a single throw if you wish.

Form 2: Twilit Parasite Diababa

Both heads sink back into the water. Wait, what's that rumbling sound? The entire chamber shakes and the water boils before a massive snaking head, flanked by the Diababa Serpents you just defeated, emerges from the mask and roars in your face!



The Twilit Parasite Diababa is a fearsome and nearly invincible foe, but it still can't digest bombs!

Make sure you're smashing the pottery to the sides and behind you. They contain Hearts, but don't grab them allat once!

Step 1: First, a Baba Serpent head snaps its mouth then lunges at you. Look for the mouth movement, then roll out of the way, or block with your shield (ZL). Next, the other Serpent does the same. Roll away from this attack, too.

Step 2: You won't have harmed this deadly monstrosity yet but don't worry, help is on the way! Ook swings in from an upper (and unreachable) entrance, and produces a Bombling!

Step 3: Now concentrate on slaying either Baba Serpent (which is optional, but helps you concentrate on the main threat) or the Parasite itself. Defeat the Baba heads in the same way as before, except you're targeting Ook's Bomblings as he swings back and forth on a rope.

Step 4: The Parasite is your real concern. Target Ook with your Gale Boomerang. Then select the maw of the Parasite with the second target, before you launch the attack. Your timing has to be just right!

Step 5: Make sure you launch the Boomerang when Ook is just about to leave his perch on either side of the chamber and swing into the middle. This catches the Parasite in the side of its head. If you launch the attack at any other time, the Parasite shrugs off the attack! When you're successful, the Parasite's snaking head falls about, then collapses onto the ground near you.

Step 6: Make short work of this fiend by targeting the odd eyeball like appendage that's now exposed, and spin attack, stab, or better yet, launch a leaping finishing move. The beast is badly wounded the first time you try this, then it rises up for a new attack!

Step 7: The Parasite now sprays your greasy outcrop with purple ooze that's damaging. Simply roll out of the way, or throw the Boomerang at the beast's mouth to halt it.

Step 8: Victory! Repeat steps five and six once again, and the second series of stabs should finish this fearsome foe off for good!

The monster shrivels up into an emaciated tube before dropping its "eye"-like appendage. Inside is a prize worthy of this dungeon trek, a Heart Container! The creature then explodes into shards of twilight. These contains into a piece of strange-looking armor. Midna appears and explains this is a piece of Fused Shadow.

"Do you remember what the spirit said?" Midna asks you. "About how you had to match the power of the King of Shadows?" This is your key to victory, and there are three Fused Shadows to find. Midna tells you more only if you help her find the two other Fused Shadows.

Midna creates a warp portal and is waiting for you to join her. Before you do, be sure you pick up the Heart Container. This increases your life energy by an entire full Heart, permanently!

Heart Container

You got a Heart Container (#1 of 5)! Your life energy has increased by one and been fully replenished!

Heart Containers are the grand prize. There are eight you get one for each main dungeon boss slain in the first eight dungeons. The other method to increase your energy is by locating the 42 Heart Pieces. Collect five pieces to increase your energy by one. Therefore, you can acquire a maximum of 20 energy.

Midna offers you a warp portal to end the dungeon. If you're ready, take it. If cheats still remain unopened, backtrack for them or re-enter the dungeon at a later time using Midna's portal. Save your game!

You appear at the Faron Woods Spring. A voice of the spirit Faron calls you: "Do not think that Hyrule is now saved from the spread of twilight!" Yeah. You are to travel to the land protected by the Elder spirit. Midna also informs you that you're looking for portions of Hyrule covered in twilight.

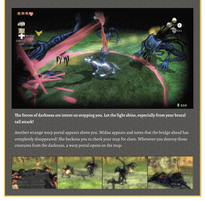
Task 2: Explore the Twilight Village of Kakariko

Onward To Kakariko Village

Journey into the Eldin Province to a place called Kakariko Gorge, which is almost as large as the previous section. The scent trail leads down this path, but you don't have to follow it. Stay and defeat the Twili Bats in the side of the path, then survey the large open expanse.

Warp Portal

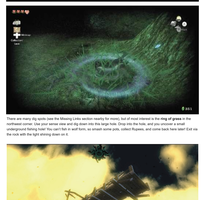
When you've finished patrolling the hill and Light arena on the side of the bridge, head down the main path, where the scent trail is leading you, and stop at three Twili Messengers lined you into combat with them. Pick one and attack it until it falls. Use the slumping jaw technique Strap once his hide and tap the A button. When only two are standing, use Midna's arms of effect attack to drop them, and free yourself from the force field.

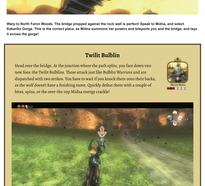


The forces of darkness are intent on stopping you. Let the light shine, especially from your broad tail attack!

Another strange warp portal appears above you. Midna appears and notes that the bridge ahead has completely disappeared! She declares the way to clear away the debris. Whenever you destroy those creatures from the darkness, a warp portal opens on the map.

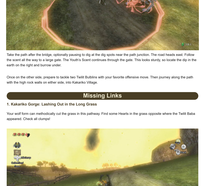
Choose to teleport to the North Faron Woods warp portal. If you choose another area, you can optionally look about as the wolf. As you've already been throughout Ordona and Faron Provinces, try entering South Faron Woods and bounding into Hyrule Field.





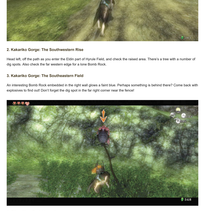
There are many dig spots (see the Missing Links section nearby for more), but of most interest is the ring of grass in the northwest corner. Use your sense vine and dig down into the large hole. Drop into the hole, and you uncover a small underground fishing hole! You can't fish in wolf form, so smash some pots, collect Rupees, and come back here later! Exit via the exit with the light shining down on it.

Warp to North Faron Woods. The bridge propped against the rock wall is perfect! Speak to Midna, and select Kakariko Gorge. This is the correct place, as Midna summons her powers and teleports you and the bridge, and lays it across the gorge!

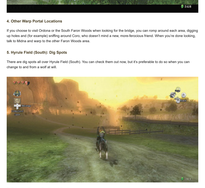


Twilit Bulblin

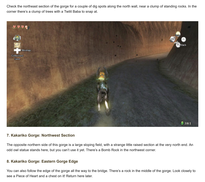
Head over the bridge. At the junction where the path splits, you face down two new foes: the Twilit Bulblins. These attack just like Bulblin Warriors and are dispatched with two strikes. You have to wait if you knock them onto their backs, as the wolf doesn't have a finishing move. Quickly defeat them with a couple of bites, spins, or the over-the-top Midna energy crackle!



Twilit Bulblins may wear fearsome masks, but they're still easily dispatched, thanks to your wolf's sharp bite!



There are two exits in the northern part of the gorge. If you ignore the scent and head west, you can locate the path and bounce up and around to the northern passage. The way is completely blocked by rocks. Head back the way you came.



Take the path after the bridge, optionally pausing to dig at the dig spots near the path junction. The road heads east. Follow the scent all the way to a large gate. The Twilit's Scent continues through the gate. This looks sturdy, so locate the dig in the earth on the right and burrow under.

Once on the other side, prepare to tackle two Twilit Bulblins with your favorite offensive move. Then journey along the path with the high rock walls on either side, into Kakariko Village.

Missing Links

1. Kakariko Gorge: Lashing Out in the Long Grass

Your wolf form can methodically cut the grass in this pathway. Find some Hearts in the grass opposite where the Twili Baba appeared. Check all corners!

2. Kakariko Gorge: The Southwestern Rise

Head left, off the path as you enter the Eldin part of Hyrule Field, and check the raised area. There's a tree with a number of dig spots. Also check the far western edge for a bow-Bomb flash.

3. Kakariko Gorge: The Southeastern Field

An interesting Bomb Rock embedded in the right wall grows a faint blue. Perhaps something is behind there? Come back with explosives to find out! Don't forget the dig spot in the far right corner near the fence!

4. Other Warp Portal Locations

If you choose to visit Ordona or the South Faron Woods when looking for the bridge, you can romp around each area, digging up holes and (for example) sniffing around Curo, who doesn't mind a new, more ferocious friend. When you're done looking, talk to Midna and warp to the other Faron Woods area.

5. Hyrule Field (South): Dig Spots

There are dig spots all over Hyrule Field (South). You can check them out now, but it's preferable to do so when you can change to and from a wolf at will.

6. Kakariko Gorge: Northeast Section

Check the northeast section of the gorge for a couple of dig spots along the north wall, near a clump of standing rocks. In the corner there's a clump of trees with a Twili Baba to snap at.

7. Kakariko Gorge: Northwest Section

The opposite northern side of this gorge is a large sloping field, with a strange little raised section at the very north end. An odd stair statue stands here, but you can't use it yet. There's a Bomb Rock in the northwest corner.

8. Kakariko Gorge: Eastern Gorge Edge

You can also follow the path to the edge of the way to the bridge. There's a rock in the middle of the gorge. Look closely to see a Piece of Heart and a chest on it! Return here later.

Kakariko Village In Twilight

Warp Portal

As soon as you enter Kakariko Village, three Twilit Messengers turn and attack you. Combat begins as normal, but you need two Messengers to fall at exactly the same time. Hit light x a little trickier, but not impossible. Once you've used up two Sense Attack moves each other the Bulblins are off-screen attack, and the Bulblins' Messengers flee. Use the Midna Messenger to warp to the other part of the village, kill drop him, and then dash into both remaining Messengers. A new warp portal forms over Kakariko Village!

Or, most occasions, you can now speak to Midna and ask her to warp you to or from here.

When the energy field dissipates, the Eldin spirit has enough light force to speak to you from the Springs, or the village's eastern side. Turn east to the twin rows of glowing marker, and it gives you a Vessel of Light with which to collect bars. Just as before, 12 Twili Parasites have appeared, and you must search for each of them!

Overworld: From Faron Province to the Goron Mines

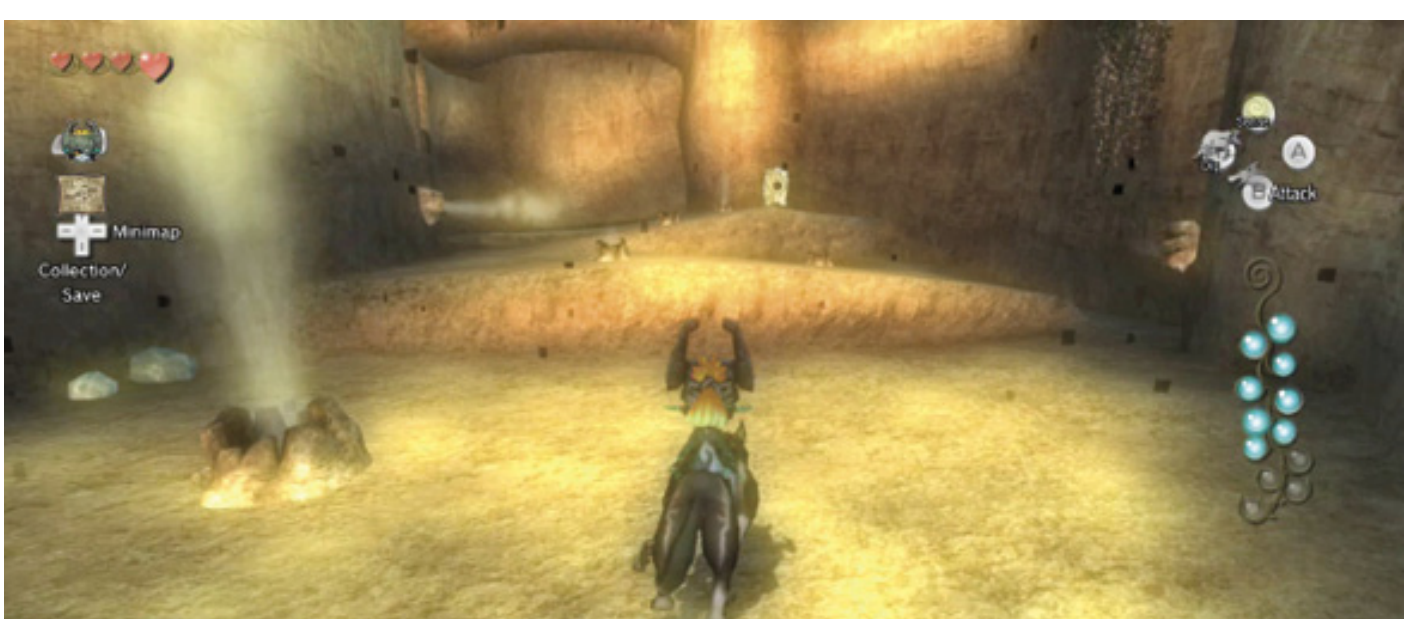
Death Mountain Trail: Twilit Parasite #10

Enter the trail, and Midna spots a spirit atop a large chain mesh wall. She reckons the way forward is impassable, but step onto the shallow rock ramp on the right side of the area, then leap up twice to the trail itself.

Jump up, switch your sense view on, and listen to the large, orange Goron speak about the troubles between the villagers and his tribe. It looks like they need to co-exist peacefully. Run past the three rocks (you can nudge them if you wish), heading north. You encounter three Twilit Vermin. Defeat them before continuing; spin attacks work well.

Gorons:

Living in the Death Mountain area are hard-as-stone creatures with incredibly thick and tough hides adorned with multiple ceremonial tattoos. They usually mine and sell trinkets down in the Kakariko Village. After the twilight descended, the Gorons have refused to deal with humans and have blocked off communication.



Follow the trail as it winds northward, until you reach a long right-turning bend, where you must engage a couple of Twilit Keese in combat. Then use the scenery and climb up and over the second mesh wall. Continue north until you reach a series of steam vents and a wider clearing. Climb up the long step to the upper area and dodge between the vents, or you'll take slight damage and get knocked back.

Now search for the next Twilit Parasite. He's under the ground in this plateau area. Dig to free him, using your sense view constantly, and then grab him and collect those tears, all the while avoiding the scalding vents.

Howling For The White Wolf

Hidden Skill

Before you continue, it is vitally important that you investigate that strange ceremonial stone on the rocky clearing you're standing on. Listen and the wind whistles a tune through the hole in the rock. You must now recite the tune. Watch the tune, then replicate it. The pitch is as follows: High, Middle, Low (hold), High, Middle, Low. Press up on the Left Analog Stick to howl high and down on the Left Analog Stick to howl low. For mid-range howling, don't move the stick.

You appear as a wolf, high in the heavens near Death Mountain. The White Wolf appears at the end of a leafy edge, on the opposite side of the world. You howl the tune again and both of you continue to yelp. When you finish, the White Wolf tells you "Let teachings of old pass to you…." The wolf leaps down into the land.

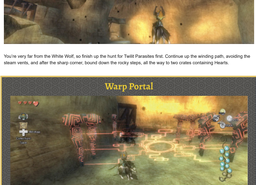
Overworld: From Faron Province to the Goron Mines

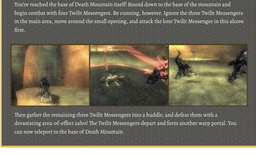
Death Mountain Trail: Twilit Parasite #11



You're very far from the White Wolf, so finish up the hunt for Twilit Parasites first. Continue up the winding path, avoiding the steam vents, and after the sharp corner, bound down the rocky steps, all the way to two crates containing Hearts.

Warp Portal

You've reached the base of Death Mountain itself! Bound down to the base of the mountain and begin combat with four Twilit Messengers. Be cunning, however. Ignore the three Twilit Messengers in the main area, move around the small opening, and attack the lone Twilit Messenger in this alcove first.



Then gather the remaining three Twilit Messengers into a huddle, and defeat them with a devastating area-of-effect salvo! The Twilit Messengers depart and form another warp portal. You can now teleport to the base of Death Mountain.

When you've finished rolling rocks, move past the mesh and arched doorway embedded into the rock wall and look at the large barricade wall. Your next Twilit Parasite is here. Ram the barricade to dislodge the Parasite, then follow it as it buzzes and flutters. When it drops, defeat it.

Death Mountain: Twilit Parasite #12

Use Midna to jump up onto the barricade, and listen to the Goron moaning about being left out of the way, and at the bottom of the hill. Then run along the rock ledge, listening for falling lava rocks as the volcano rumbles in the distance. Steer clear of the steam vents, too.

Run along the first rock ledge, then onto the crumbling wall near a large, wooden support piece. Use Midna and leap directly up onto the support platform.

Flick on your sense view and run to the next Goron, who's standing by some steaming vents (watch out for them). He's stuck where he is, but the Twilit Kargarok isn't. It attacks! Counter it in the open area behind where the Goron is standing.

> Keep constantly moving or the lava stones falling from the mountain are likely to strike you, and the damage is quite severe (half a Heart energy).

Leap off the rise and into the hot springs to the north. This is the location of the final Parasite! It's near a group of five Vermin, tackle the Vermin first, then shake the Parasite down, but only after you investigate the hot springs area itself.

The hot springs are dry and there are two suspicious-looking Bomb Rocks in the northern area; you'll have to see what's behind these later. Quickly enter the tunnel to see a dig spot and a ceremonial stone you can't move at the far end. Perhaps it needs approaching later, from the opposite direction?

> If you wish to leave the hot springs (if you missed a previous Twilit Parasite, for example), Midna can launch you back up to where the Goron was standing if you wait on a flat stone near the iron barricade, right of the metal mesh draped on the wall.

1. Death Mountain Trail: Dig Spots

The following places along Death Mountain are good for locating dig spots:

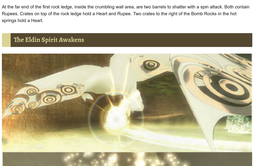
- The dead tree below the mesh wall at the base of the trail
- Right below the second mesh wall (Rupees)
- The path just after the whistling rock, between Parasites #10 and #11 (Hearts)
- The western base wall of Death Mountain (Rupees)
- At the foot of the large wooden support and crumbling wall, first rock ledge (Rupees)
- Behind the Goron overlooking the hot springs
- Inside the small tunnel to the ceremonial rock (hot springs; Rupee)

2. Death Mountain Trail: Rock Nudging

- The following places along Death Mountain allow you to push rocks and look for items underneath:
- The start of the trail, just beyond the first Goron guard (Heart)
- Below the second mesh wall, where the Twilit Keese are (Rupee)
- Right above the mesh wall (Heart)
- Just south of the first steam vent (Rupee)
- On the left side of the steam vent clearing
- Thewestern base wall of Death Mountain (Heart)
- The northern base wall of Death Mountain (Heart)
- The first rock ledge near the barricade and Goron (Rupee)

3. Death Mountain Trail: Weed Ripping

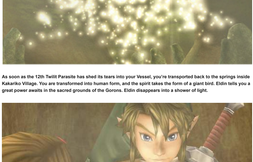
Along Death Mountain trail, search the clump of grassy weeds along the left bank, where Twilit Keese were fought (Heart).



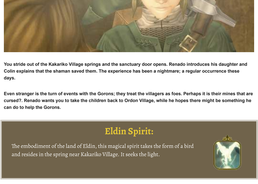
4. Death Mountain: Roll out the Barrel

At the far end of the first rock ledge, inside the crumbling wall area, are two barrels to shatter with a spin attack. Both contain Rupees. Crates on top of the rock ledge hold a Heart and Rupee. Two crates to the right of the Bomb Rocks in the hot springs hold a Heart.

The Eldin Spirit Awakens



As soon as the 12th Twilit Parasite has shed its tears into your Vessel, you're transported back to the springs inside Kakariko Village. You are transformed into human form, and the spirit takes the form of a giant bird. Eldin tells you a great power awaits in the sacred grounds of the Gorons. Eldin disappears into a shower of light.



You stride out of the Kakariko Village springs and the sanctuary door opens. Renado introduces his daughter and Colin explains that the shaman saved them. The experience has been a nightmare; a regular occurrence these days.

Even stronger is the turn of events with the Gorons; they treat the villagers as foes. Perhaps it is their mines that are cursed?. Renado wants you to take the children back to Ordon Village, while he hopes there might be something he can do to help the Gorons.

Eldin Spirit:

The embodiment of the land of Eldin, this magical spirit takes the form of a bird and resides in the spring near Kakariko Village. It seeks the light.

The children have other ideas; they want you to help Renado! Speak to everyone, then optionally dip your toes into the village spring to rejuvenate your health. Now that you're human, you can do some additional searching in Kakariko Village.

Quay

Quays are easy-to-defeat whites seen on land and unconcerned, but these usually fly over the water. Their unpredictable movements make them difficult to hit, and they can even create a different direction. This keeps you constantly hurtling upward, and the avalanches can also hurt. Beat by bombing with your shield. Once they're down, you can pick them up and Quay Part with the weapon they're Hunter Bow or Hunter Quay.

The Quay is a slow-moving, flat-bodied white that is difficult to shoot down out of normal range, unless you use a precision!

Flocks of Guays leave a scattering of Kopeas, usually valued at around 20–40, after you defeat every bird in the flock. If the Kopeas haven't appeared, sometimes you need to search for the stragglers.

Task 5: Find Mayor Bo and Learn the Secrets of Sumo

Wrestling With Mayor Bo

Follow the advice of Renado the shaman, and inform each of your village's inhabitants that their children are safe. Start with Sera in her sundries store. Don't forget the miserable Hanch on the flat rock outcrop above the pumpkin patch!

Head over to Jaggle and inform him next; he says he'll talk to the mayor about getting the kids back where they belong.

Pergie is sitting in her waterwheel house, worried sick. Her demeanor changes when you tell her those tykes are OK!

As you move across to Rusi's house, Mayor Bo calls you over and beckons you inside. He's thankful the children are safe, but he's worried that Illa isn't among them! He hears that you need his secrets to defeat Gorons in ceremonial combat. He agrees, as long as you promise to tell no one! You're led into the back room, where Bo teaches you of the basics of sumo wrestling.

Sumo wrestling techniques:

1. The first fella to push his foe outside the arena wins.
2. Step forward and grab your foe with A.
3. Strike a fleeist foe with the B button.
4. Sidestep an attackist foe by moving left or right.

Master all three techniques and you'll be shovin' folks out of the arena in no time, lad!

Ready? Fight! Use all three of the techniques on Mayor Bo, then grab and wrench him out of the ring to complete your training. He sets up a second match and is more difficult to defeat. You must learn which techniques to try.

1. Use the strike on a foe trying to sidestep.

2. Use the grab on a foe trying to strike.

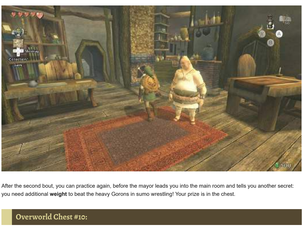
3. Use the sidestep on a foe trying to grab.

4. Always use a grab and push to secure victory.

* Vary your tactics when encountering Goron challengers.

Execute these moves as you see an enemy's action, and you'll win every time!

If you need further guidance, run into the sumo room, and look for the three notes (called "The Way of Sumo") pinned to signs; they reinforce these techniques.



After the second bout, you can practice again, before the mayor leads you into the main room and tells you another secret: you need additional weight to beat the heavy Gorons in sumo wrestling! Your prize is in the chest.

Overworld Chest #10:

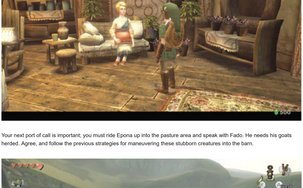
Iron Boots

Iron Boots

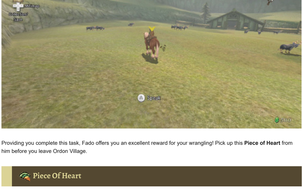
You got the Iron Boots! Wear these and you'll become so heavy that not even a Goron can move you.

The Iron Boots are useful, so keep them readily available. Place them in your inventory so when you press the Y button, they slot on and off your feet. You can use other items in conjunction with the Iron Boots. However, they slow your movement, so wear them only where necessary. They are also magnetic.

Head out of the mayor's house, and across to Rusi and Uli's place. Uli is inside, and she thanks you for letting her know Colin is safe and sound!



Your next port of call is important; you must ride Epona up into the pasture area and speak with Fado. He needs his goats herded. Agree, and follow the previous strategies for maneuvering these stubborn creatures into the barn.



Providing you complete this task, Fado offers you an excellent reward for your wrangling! Pick up this Piece of Heart from him before you leave Ordon Village.

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect five pieces to form a new Heart Container. Piece of Heart #6 of 45.

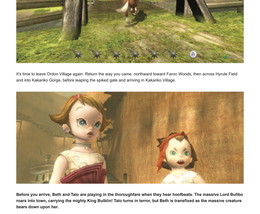
Quarrior: Epic Fanon Princess in the Goron Mines

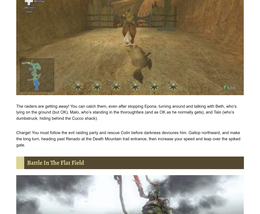
Task 6: Defeat King Bublin and His Hordes

Kidnapped By King Bublin!

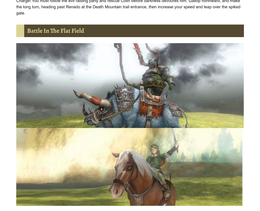


It's time to leave Ordon Village again. Return the way you came, northward toward Faron Woods, then across Hylula Field and into Kakariko Gorge, before leaping the spiked gate and arriving in Kakariko Village.

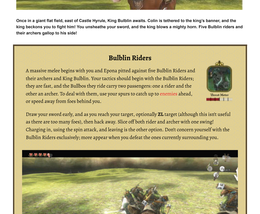
Before you arrive, Beth and Talo are playing in the thoroughfare when they hear hoofbeats. The massive Lord Bullbo roars into town, carrying the mighty King Bublin! Talo turns in terror, but Beth is transfixed as the massive creature leans down upon her.



Colin leaves Malo at the sanctuary door, and runs out to save Beth, pushing her out of harm's way. But he's directly in line of the stampede! Barnes appears, and King Bublin slams him down, carrying Colin's limp body in his giant fist.



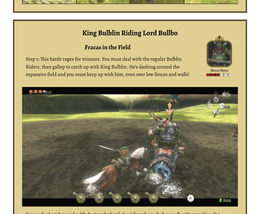
You arrive in time to see the end of this terrible raid by King Bublin and his cohorts; the king lifts Colin above his head and roars, then stomps Lord Bullbo's feet, and the raiding party gallops northward away from the village.



The raiders are getting away! You can catch them, even after stopping Epona, turning around and taking with Beth, who's lying on the ground (but OK). Malo, who's standing in the thoroughfare (and as OK as he normally gets), and Talo (who's dumbstruck, hitting behind the Cuccio shack).

Charge! You must follow the exit raiding party and rescue Colin before darkness devours him. Gallop northward, and make the long turn, heading past Renado at the Death Mountain trail entrance, then increase your speed and leap over the spiked gate.

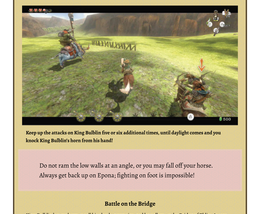
Battle in The Plot Field



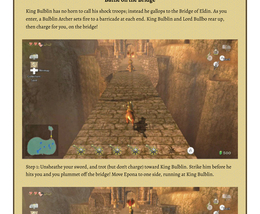
Once in a giant flat field, east of Castle Hyrule, King Bublin awaits. Colin is tethered to the king's banner, and the king beckons you to fight him! You unsheathe your sword, and the king blows a mighty horn. Five Bublin riders and their archers gallop to his side!

Bublin Riders

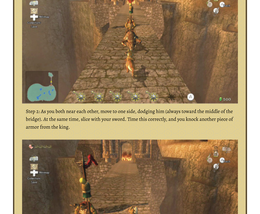
A massive melee begins with you and Epona pitted against five Bublin Riders and their archers and King Bublin. Your tactics should begin with the Bublin Riders; they are fast, and the Bullbos they ride carry two passengers–one a rider and the other an archer. To deal with them, use your spurs to catch up to enemies ahead, or speed away from foes behind you.



Draw your sword early, and as you reach your target, optionally ZL target (although this isn't useful as there are too many foes), then back away. Slice off both rider and archer with one swing! Charging in, using the spin attack, and leaving is the other option. Don't concern yourself with the Bublin Riders exclusively; more appear when you defeat the ones currently surrounding you.



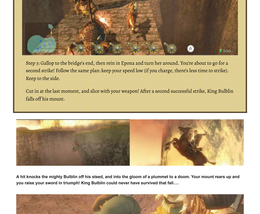
You've jostled and struck multiple times. Bring out the blade, and lay waste to these Bublins with quick slashes and the spin attack!



King Bublin Riding Lord Bullbo

Fracas in the Field

Step 1: This battle rages for minutes. You must deal with the regular Bublin Riders, then gallop to catch up with King Bublin. He's dashing around the expansive field and you must keep up with him, even over low fences and walls!



Step 2: Replenish your health during the battle by riding through the small unlit campfires for Hearts.

Step 3: When you're out of spurs and waiting for Epona, slow down and defeat Bublin Riders, but keep a lookout for King Bublin. When you have enough speed, dash for the king and march his speed. Spur Epona two or three times to reach the same velocity.

Step 4: As you arrive, be sure your sword is drawn, execute a couple of slices, then a spin attack on King Bublin. This shatters some of his armor before he gallops away. Slow down, deal with the Bublin Riders, and repeat steps 3 and 4.

Keep up the attacks on King Bublin five or six additional times, until daylight comes and you knock King Bublin's horn from his hand!

> Do not ram the low walls at an angle, or you may fall off your horse. Always get back up on Epona; fighting on foot is impossible!

Battle on the Bridge

King Bublin has no horn to call his shock troops; instead he gallops to the Bridge of Eldin. As you enter, a Bublin Archer sets fire to a barricade at each end. King Bublin and Lord Bullbo rear up, then charge for you, on the bridge!

Step 1: Unsheathe your sword, and rest (but don't charge) toward King Bublin. Strike him before he hits you and you plummet off the bridge! Move Epona to one side, running at King Bublin.

Step 2: As you both near each other, move to one side, dodging him (always toward the middle of the bridge). At the same time, slice with your sword. Time this correctly, and you knock another piece of armor from the king.

Step 3: Gallop to the bridge's end, then rein in Epona and turn her around. You're about to go for a second strike! Follow the same plan: keep your speed low (if you charge, there's less time to strike). Keep to the side.

Cut in at the last moment, and slice with your weapon! After a second successful strike, King Bublin falls off his mount.

A hit knocks the mighty Bublin off his steed, and into the gloom of a plummet to a doom. Your mount rears up and you raise your sword in triumph! King Bublin could never have survived that fall...

You pick up Colin, and bring him to Kakariko Village. Colin is wounded, but he knows what his father meant when he told him to be strong. Both has been saved, and while Colin recuperates, you turn your attention to that rumbling volcano. It's time to pay the Gorons a visit!

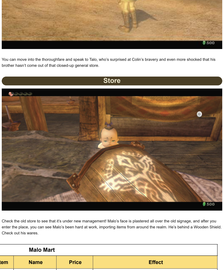
Task 7: Obtain the Hylian Shield

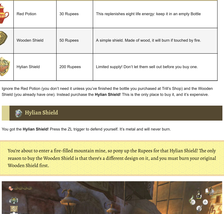
Village Exploration, And Making A Deal With Malo

After Renado takes care of Colin, and brings him into the Elde Inn for recuperation (the hot springs will help), move into the southern springs, and regain your energy. Epona has done her job, but you'll need her in a moment, so bring her along.



You can move into the thoroughfare and speak to Talo, who's surprised at Colin's bravery and even more shocked that his brother hasn't come out of that closed-up general store.

Store



Check the old store to see that it's under new management! Malo's face is plastered all over the old signage, and after you enter the place, you can see Malo's been hard at work, importing items from around the realm. He's behind a Wooden Shield. Check out his wares.

Malo Mart

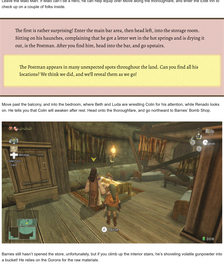
Item	Name	Price	Effect
	Red Potion	30 Rupees	This replenishes eight life energy; keep it in an empty Bottle
	Wooden Shield	50 Rupees	A simple shield. Made of wood, it will burn if touched by fire.
	Hylian Shield	200 Rupees	Useful supply! Don't let them sell out before you buy one.

Ignore the Red Potion (you don't need it unless you've finished the bottle you purchased at Tott's Shop) and the Wooden Shield (you already have one). Instead purchase the Hylian Shield! This is the only place to buy it, and it's expensive.

Hylian Shield

You got the Hylian Shield! Press the ZL trigger to defend yourself. It's metal and will never burn.

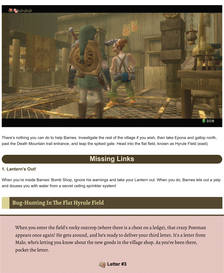
You're about to enter a fire-filled mountain mine, so pony up the Rupees for that Hylian Shield! The only reason to buy the Wooden Shield is that there's a different design on it, and you must burn your original Wooden Shield first.



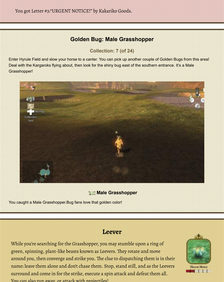
Leave the Malo Mart. If Malo can't be a hero, he can help equip one! Move along the thoroughfare, and enter the Elde Inn to check up on a couple of folks inside.

The first is rather surprising! Enter the main hot area, then head left, into the storage room, flitting on his kazoolhee, complaining that he got a lemur wet in the hot springs and is drying it out, in the Postman. After you find him, head into the bar, and go upstairs.

The Postman appears in many unexpected spots throughout the land. Can you find all his locations? We think we did, and we'll reveal them as we go!



Move past the balcony, and into the bedroom, where Beth and Lulia are wrestling Colin for his attention, while Renado looks on. He tells you that Colin will awaken after rest. Head onto the thoroughfare, and go northward to Barnes' Bomb Shop.



Barnes still hasn't opened the store, unfortunately, but if you climb up the interior stairs, he's shoveling volatile gunpowder into a bucket! He relies on the Gorons for the raw materials.

There's nothing you can do to help Barnes. Investigate the rest of the village if you wish, then take Epona and gallop north, past the Death Mountain trail entrance, and keep on the lookout gale. Head into the flat field, known as Hyrule Field (east).

Missing Links

1. Lanlern's Out!

When you're inside Barnes' Bomb Shop, ignore his warnings and take your Lantern out. When you do, Barnes lets out a yelp and douses you with water from a secret ceiling sprinkler system!

Bug-Hunting In The Flat Hyrule Field

When you enter the field's rocky outcrop (where there is a chest on a ledge), that crazy Postman appears once again! He gets around, and he's ready to deliver your third letter. It's a letter from Malo, who's hiring you know about the new goods in the village shop. As you've been there, pocket the letter.

Letter #3

You got Letter #3 "URGENT NOTICE!" by Kakariko Goods.

Golden Bug: Male Grasshopper

Collection: 7 (of 24)

Enter Hyrule Field and view your horse to a canter. You can pick up another couple of Golden Bugs from this area! Deal with the Kargaroks flying about, then look for the shiny bug east of the southern entrance. It's a Male Grasshopper!

Male Grasshopper

You caught a Male Grasshopper.Bug fans love that golden color!

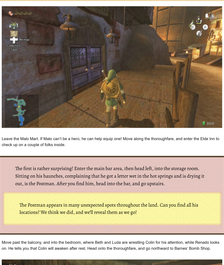
Lever

While you're searching for the Grasshopper, you may stumble upon a ring of green, spinning, plant-like beasts known as Levers. They rotate and move around you, then converge and strike you. The clue to dispatching them is in their name: leave them alone and don't chase them. Stop, stand still, and as the Levers surround and come in for the strike, execute a spin attack and defeat them all. You can also run away, or attack with projectiles!

The Lever won't leave you alone! Let the strange spinning plant come to you, then spin yourself.

Golden Bug: Female Grasshopper

Collection: 8 (of 24)



With the Levers a constant source of annoyance, journey to Hyrule Field's northwestern part, and search for a second Grasshopper in the ground here. Pick it up, and add it to your collection.

Female Grasshopper

You caught a Female Grasshopper! Bug fans love that golden color.

Golden Bug: Male Phasmid

Collection: 9 (of 24)

Keep that collection going by heading to the northeastern bridge area, and riding to the Bridge of Eldin's south entrance. There's a sparkling little bug on the wall! Bring out your Gale Boomerang and target this one, scraping him off the wall and onto your feet. Pick him up.

Male Phasmid

You caught a Male Phasmid! Bug fans love that golden color.

The bug-collecting doesn't have to end there, either! You can cross the bridge now that the fiery barricades have gone. It's eerily quiet here, but don't be scared. Gallop across the bridge, and make an immediate right turn.

Golden Bug: Female Phasmid

Collection: 10 (of 24)

Stop by what looks like a Bomb Rock, dismount, and bring out the Gale Boomerang. Look for the bug on a ledge up from you. You can't reach this wasp-to-be's, but you can target the bug (get the yellow target marker). Bring the Phasmid back and add her to your collection.

Female Phasmid

You caught a Female Phasmid! Bug fans love that golden color.

With a strong collection of bugs, back up across the bridge. You can look around this area, but the road to the north is blocked. The bridge has interesting ones and an owl statue, and the north end has that ledge and Cawwfest points. Return to Kakariko Village.

Corpus Ship Defense
Task 1: Locate the Volcano Center and Forge

Chamber 1: The Long Fall

Before you start these mines, bring along the following:

- Some Ember Jars and Ember Jar Refills
- Some Cryo Ammo and Cryo Mines (you'll find a lot of cold pools)
- Some Heat Ammo and Heat Mines (you'll find a lot of hot pools)
- The Heat Mod Ambassador and the Heat Mod Forge

Ahead of you, the path has ran out, and there seems to be a large void beneath you, and no access to the Ember Jars. A little to the left, there's a ledge with a Grineer Ancient on it. Use the Ancient to shoot the Jars on it, to your side. Watch the Jars falling, there is the water source to the left ledge. Get another Ember Jar from outside!

So, you can hop from the top of the Jars you've, straight over the landing pads, and won't lose the edge. Place yourself so that the Jars don't land on either of the pads.

Watch a yard-way over the first platform. You don't need to press a button - you'll simply be ejected/fall. Once on the first platform, you can either drift or sprint.

Being caught in a Heat Cell breaks the hold to the platform you were on, and you lose a quarter of a Shield. If you're jumping at an angle, you're sometimes bounced straight into the lava instead. Not good! If you land on the lava, you receive Heat status, which can mount of damage fast.

Here is another Heat Cell to dodge. Also this one and one to land to dodge it and over the gap. If you approach at an angle and you keep the sense of time and distance and the flow. Either side-step out to the same spot, although this will make it harder to jump over the gap. A quick spin in some direction making dodge the incoming Heat Cell.

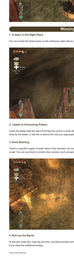
Now you have the Ember Jar(s) - and you're in another section of your depth. This is an old mine structure, and is fleshed almost entirely in rock. Use your Jar(s) to extinguish all of the Heat Cells in this section.

Author Note:
This chamber was a minor challenge to forge with, as don't feel that you'll likely to. For sure more than a few times, you fall down the gap and you'll have to start over. Also you can use a Cryo Mine (Ember), detonating in the middle of the room, and you'll be safe in a moment at the gap!

After a small stroll (yes, you need to a moment of an Ember Jar(s) Refilling to be safe), you'll reached to the gold-lifting block to forward along the right side. Enter your sword and forward the rail of respect, to how if continue you!

After you reclaim the Grineer Shotgun, move on the floor switch, and return to it using your Iron Skin. The entrance of the Iron Skin will be a bit tricky, as you'll have to jump and time it right to get through the gap in the wall.

Move on towards these barrels. Use a Cryo Mine and one will set on and extinguish the fire. Use the Iron Skin and the Shotgun to destroy the barrels, and you'll have a path to the Ember Jar(s) on the other side.



Bring the Jar(s) back, to the barrels. You may refresh the fire in the mine cart. As you come down here, try to time the Shotgun to destroy the barrels, and you'll have a path to the Ember Jar(s) on the other side. If you can't do it, you'll have to get another Jar(s) from outside.

The mine cart is to operate the second floor switch. Push and pop open the second door, then run and start up your cart. Get ready to jump on the cart. Stay close to your cart the gap. You're to use your Iron Skin to get off the cart, but the gap is too large to jump over. Use the Iron Skin to get off the cart, and then to get to the other side.

Fire Toadpull:
There's a fucking Toadpull on the lava! Your Shotgun and Boomerang don't affect it. Your Sword and Shield don't affect it. Your Iron Skin doesn't affect it. Your Heat Sword doesn't affect it. Even your Ember Jar(s) don't affect it. It's a fucking Toadpull! But the Jar(s) Shotgun and Boomerang don't affect it. It's a fucking Toadpull. Your Sword and Shield don't affect it. It's a fucking Toadpull. But the Jar(s) Shotgun and Boomerang don't affect it. It's a fucking Toadpull. Your Heat Sword doesn't affect it. It's a fucking Toadpull. Once defeated, climb to the wooden ledge, and head off to the north. You need to navigate around the area, so a second to then gamble in search whole, so you're having wall of water twice. Then jump into the water over left of a wooden ladder.

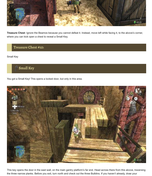
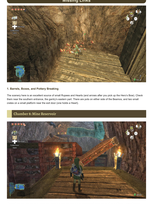
You may not have the means to carry this purple Rupee in your wallet. Collect those bags and visit Agitha in Castle Town to increase the gold of your wallet!



Leave the chest, and to the surface left of your bomb, and climb back to the water-level platform. Now climb up the wooden ladder to the north. Head to the wooden ledge, and jump across the gap to the large island, you're in the west-west-southern area with Rubble under siege, so stay on your guard.

Run up the wooden gantry ramp to a small island, where what's Sekenera is guarding a door. You can't head this door to push it open, but you can destroy the ground in front of the. Instead, you must smash yourself out along from the Enemy's Flow.



Treasure Chest: Ignore the Stamina Upgrade you cannot defeat it. Instead, move left while facing it, to the structure's corner. Head to the ground and smash the Ancient Coin.

Treasure Chest #xx

Health Pot

Head Key

You get a Head Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Hit the switch to the west of the wall and, at the first gantry platform to its east. Head across there from the switch, destroying the Sekere seen-one pattern. Before it's over, but it with and check out the three Bottles. If you haven't already, show your Ancient Coin to the Merchant. Head to the wooden ledge to the north, and jump up and onto the Ancient Bottle. Destroy them. You head to the wooden ledge to the wrong area to collect.

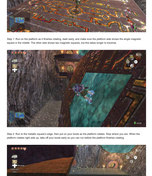
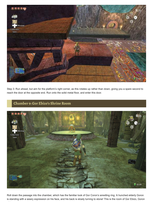
Before you leave, smash on the platform to the exit door's left, and look up at a high wooden structure above the heads of the Rubble. There's each sensing dropped over the side. You're the Ancient Coin and Health Crystal. Head to the wooden ledge to the north, and jump across the wooden platforms. You must return to this dungeon with the Chamber Lock's pre-owners of Dungeon 2 to access this area.



Missing Links

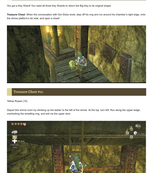


1. Barrels, Bucks, and Pottery Breaking

The easiest way to do so is to smash all small Rupees and Hearts and arrow after you pick up the Hero's Bow. Check them near the southern entrance. You get a decent sum. There are pots on either side of the Beacons, and two small pots in a small platform near the exit door to Chamber 1.

Chamber II: Rhino Boomtown

Leave the door, and enter a large, waterpool. Smash everything a couple of cautious-sneaking platform enemy Archers. Don't investigate them yet. You'll see many of them. Be sweet, here are bosses and items to smash! Items around and items to smash! Items around and items to smash!



Platting

This is optional, but you can only check if Rubble from sighting and over a Rating has been the reasonsm Rank the reasons! Rank Sea-to-go! There are early Strength to the south, but you can grab a Heart Re-stuff-you are the-for!

When you finish fighting, run up the metal ramp, optionally smashing the barrels and crates for a Rupee and Heart, and head to the wooden ledge. Head between the two enemies, and hit the locking platform to drop. Now run up, and head across to the west side.

The walls to the chamber are on the east and south walls, but you can't reach them yet. Instead, turn left and head up the metal ramp. You can see some in the small locking platform and being a gantry platform! Wait until Sand appears, and head across.

You need to cross the platform heading east, but you cannot run to the other side without the platform rotating. Fortunately, there are magnetic spaces embedded into the platform for you to stick to. The optimal method is simple to

Step 1: Run to the platform, as it finishes rotating, stand static, and make sure the platform side-shows the single magnetic space to the south. Then the other direction are magnetic spaces, but they don't align to Sandra.

Step 2: Run, in the middle square's gap, then run and leap onto the platform's middle. Stop when you are. Wait, the platform rotates right with the other of the metal ramp, so you can run and leap onto the platform. Repeat Step 1.

Step 3: Run already and do not do the platform's right corner, as the rotates as either final stand, giving you a space and land to reach the door of the opposite end. Run into the door-west floor, and enter the door.

Chamber III: Gor Elsoo's Throne Room

And down the passage into the chamber, which has the familiar roar of Gor Coron's smashing ring. It's torched-elderly Queen and being with a weak-experienced—in the Rhino-sized, and they're now trying to knock! This is the room of Gor Elsoo, Queen

Gor Elsoo

Crownless-ones have rendered his long feared Iron Elsoo still and frail. He is the second-ever powerful Gor-Elsoo-Lizalfos warrior. He is also easygoing and direct, and he craves a throne and no-sword to ownership. His Golden Hulk, is one-built with armor and-sword-and-shield-and-heavy-hitting-sword-to-enforcement. But Eagle-Eye and will Speak with the-Ancient-Gor-Elsoo-and-you'll-find-she will-speedily. He offers-you-gold-each-of-you-speed. In fact, but-early-Hearts, as-it-you-can-you-will. He-need-to-find-Elsoo-after-you-talk-to-her. You only need-not-here.

Key Blood

You got a Key Blood! You need all three Key Blood to inform the Big Boss to his original sleep.

Treasure Chest: Move to the southwestern side (to Chest-one), step off the top and run around the chamber's right edge—into the-arrow-platforms to his side, and open a chest.

Yellow Rupee (10)

Head into-arrow-west by climbing up the ladder to the left of the-arrow. At the top, turn left. Run along the upper-ledge overlooking the-building-top, and-turn-to-the-upper-box.

Missing Links

1. Pottery Pulverizing

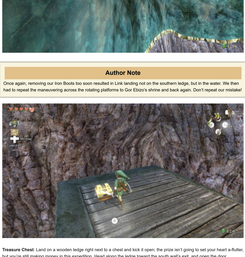
Although Gor Elsoo doesn't value treasure in the room, you can still smash his collection of pots to the left of the-throne, and along the left wall. There's a Heart in one of them.

Dungeon 2: Goron Mines

Task 5: Battle the Feared Goron Dangoro for the Hero's Bow

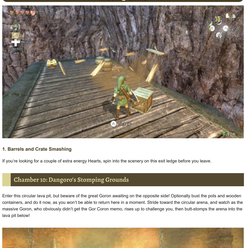
Chamber 8: First Return To Mine Reservoir

You're back inside the large Mine Reservoir, but on an upper doorway ledge. The only place to explore is the door on the southern wall, so don your Iron Boots and stride along the magnetic wall to the corner. Drop down, don't waste time trudging to the magnetic strip's end.



Author Note

Once again, removing our Iron Boots too soon resulted in Link landing not on the southern ledge, but in the water. We then had to repeat the maneuvering across the rotating platforms to Gor Eliqa's shrine and back again. Don't repeat our mistake!

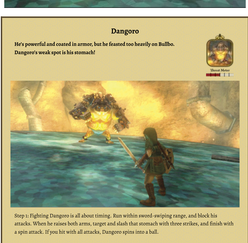


Treasure Chest: Land on a wooden ledge right next to a chest and kick it open; the prize isn't going to set your heart a-flutter, but you're still making money in this expedition. Head along the ledge toward the south wall's exit, and open the door.

Treasure Chest #12:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Missing Links

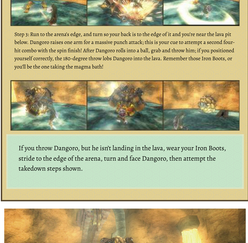


1. Barrels and Crate Smashing

If you're looking for a couple of extra energy Hearts, spin into the scenery on this exit ledge before you leave.

Chamber 10: Dangoro's Stomping Grounds

Enter this circular lava pit, but beware of the great Goron awaiting on the opposite side! Optionally bust the pots and wooden containers, and do it now, as you won't be able to return here in a moment. Stride toward the circular arena, and watch as the massive Goron, who obviously didn't get the Gor Coron memo, rises up to challenge you, then built-stomps the arena into the lava pit below!

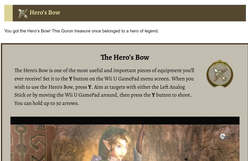


Dangoro

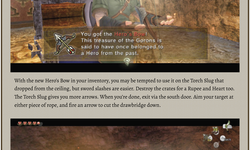
He's powerful and coated in armor, but he foamed too heavily on Bulbo. Dangoro's weak spot is his stomach!

Step 1: Fighting Dangoro is all about timing. Run within sword-swiping range, and block his attacks. When he raises both arms, target and slash that stomach with three strikes, and finish with a spin attack. If you hit with all attacks, Dangoro spins into a ball.

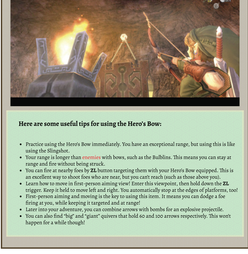
Step 2: Don your Iron Boots or you won't have a hope of defeating this hulking brute! When Dangoro rolls into a ball, he attempts to rumble straight over you. When you're prompted, grab Dangoro with your boots on, swing him around, and throw him across the arena! He flies off to the arena's edge. Combat begins again.



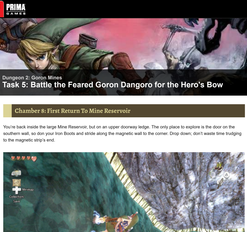
Step 3: Run to the arena's edge, and turn so your back is to the edge of it and you're near the lava pit below. Dangoro raises one arm for a massive punch attack; this is your cue to attempt a second four-hit combo with the spin finish! After Dangoro rolls into a ball, grab and throw him; if you positioned yourself correctly, the 180-degree throw take Dangoro into the lava. Remember those Iron Boots, or you'll be the one taking the magma bath!



If you throw Dangoro, but he isn't landing in the lava, wear your Iron Boots, stride to the edge of the arena, turn and face Dangoro, then attempt the takedown steps shown.



It takes three dips in the lava pool for Dangoro to realize who he's dealing with! Dangoro's helmet flies off, and he understands why you're here: to reach and help the Goron patriarch. He offers you a weapon in exchange for your help, then raises the arena to connect with the path.



You may be disorientated after this battle, so check your map to ensure you're heading south, and stride off the arena, through the door that's now unlocked. Or, head north to claim the three Hearts from the scenery, if you need them.

Chamber 11: Dangoro's Treasure Hole

Treasure Chest: Step into a small, circular lava pool with a narrow stone pathway. There is a treasure chest in its center. Dangoro wasn't kidding; pry open the chest for a piece of useful equipment!

Treasure Chest #13:

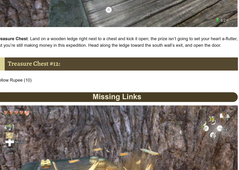
Hero's Bow

Hero's Bow

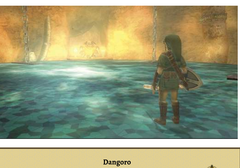
You got the Hero's Bow! This Goron treasure once belonged to a hero of legend.

The Hero's Bow

The Hero's Bow is one of the most useful and important pieces of equipment you'll ever receive! Set it to the Y button on the Wii U GamePad menu screen. When you wish to use the Hero's Bow, press Y. Aim at targets with either the Left Analog Stick or by moving the Wii U GamePad around, then press the Y button to shoot. You can hold up to 20 arrows.

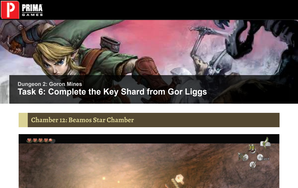


With the new Hero's Bow in your inventory, you may be tempted to use it on the Torch Slug that dropped from the ceiling, but sword slashes are easier. Destroy the crates for a Rupee and Heart too. The Torch Slug gives you more arrows. When you're done, exit via the south door. Aim your target at either piece of rope, and fire an arrow to cut the drawbridge down.



Here are some useful tips for using the Hero's Bow:

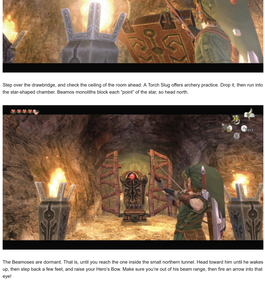
- Practise using the Hero's Bow immediately. You have an exceptional range, but using this is like using the Slingshot.
- Your range is better than enemies with bows, such as the Bulblins. This means you can stay at range and avoid being struck.
- You can fire at nearby foes by ZL button targeting them with your Hero's Bow equipped. This is an excellent way to shoot foes who are near, but you can't reach (such as those above you).
- Learn how to move in first-person aiming view! Enter this viewpoint, then hold down the ZL trigger. Keep it held to move left and right. You automatically stop at the edges of platforms, too!
- First-person aiming and moving is the key to using this item. It means you can dodge a foe firing at you, while keeping it targeted and at range!
- Later into your adventure, you can combine arrows with bombs for an explosive projectile.
- You can also find "big" and "giant" quivers that hold 60 and 100 arrows respectively. This won't happen for a while though!



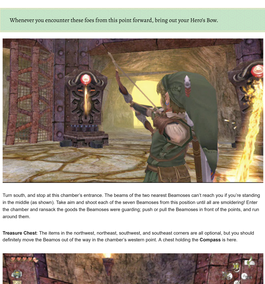
Dungeon 3: Goron Mines

Task 6: Complete the Key Shard from Gor Liggs

Chamber 12: Beamos Star Chamber



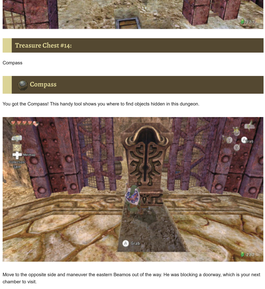
Step over the drawbridge, and check the ceiling of the room ahead. A Torch Slug offers archery practice. Drop it, then run into the star-shaped chamber. Beamos monoliths block each "point" of the star, so head north.



The Beamoses are dormant. That is, until you reach the one inside the small northern tunnel. Head toward him until he wakes up, then step back a few feet, and raise your Hero's Bow. Make sure you're out of his beam range, then fire an arrow into that eye!

This is the preferred method of dispatching Beamoses!

Whenever you encounter these foes from this point forward, bring out your Hero's Bow.



Turn south, and stop at this chamber's entrance. The beams of the two nearest Beamoses can't reach you if you're standing in the middle (as shown). Take aim and shoot each of the seven Beamoses from this position until all are smoldering! Enter the chamber and ransack the goods the Beamoses were guarding; push or pull the Beamoses in front of the points, and run around them.

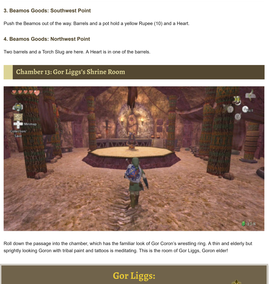
Treasure Chest: The items in the northwest, northeast, southwest, and southeast corners are all optional, but you should definitely move the Beamos out of the way in the chamber's western point. A chest holding the Compass is here.

Treasure Chest #14:

Compass

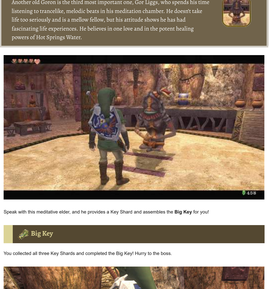
Compass

You got the Compass! This handy tool shows you where to find objects hidden in this dungeon.



Move to the opposite side and maneuver the eastern Beamos out of the way. He was blocking a doorway, which is your next chamber to visit.

Missing Links

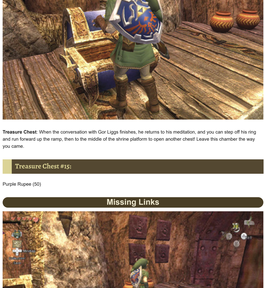


1. Beamos Goods: Northeast Point

There are four barrels to smash. One holds a yellow Rupee (10).

2. Beamos Goods: Southeast Point

Push the Beamos out of the way. Barrels and pots hold a single green Rupee (1).



3. Beamos Goods: Southwest Point

Push the Beamos out of the way. Barrels and a pot hold a yellow Rupee (10) and a Heart.

4. Beamos Goods: Northwest Point

Chamber 13: Gor Liggs's Shrine Room

Roll down the passage into the chamber, which has the familiar look of Gor Coron's wrestling ring. A thin and elderly but sprightly looking Goron with tribal paint and tattoos is meditating. This is the room of Gor Liggs, Goron elder!

Gor Liggs:

Another old Goron is the third most important one, Gor Liggs, who spends his time listening to transolfar, melodic beats in his meditation chamber. He doesn't take life too seriously and is a mellow fellow, but his attitude shows he has had fascinating life experiences. He believes in one love and in the potent healing powers of Hot Springs Water.

Speak with this meditative elder, and he provides a Key Shard and assembles the Big Key for you!

Big Key

You collected all three Key Shards and completed the Big Key! Hurry to the boss.

Treasure Chest: When the conversation with Gor Liggs finishes, he returns to his meditation, and you can step off his ring and run forward up the ramp, then to the middle of the shrine platform to open another chest! Leave this chamber the way you came.

Treasure Chest #15:

Purple Rupee (50)

Missing Links

1. Pottery Pulverizing

Although Gor Elsizo doesn't allow weapons in this room, you can still smash his collection of pots left and right of the shrine. There's a Heart in one of them. You can also smash the rocks near the seating, but they don't hold anything.

2. Dodongo Wall Skins

During your pottery-smashing, did you notice that Gor Liggs has covered parts of his wall in Dodongo skins? They make the perfect addition to a Goron shrine! He also has additional hand print plaques.

Task 7: Search for the Great Volcano Passage

Objective 1: Enter Blarney Hollywood Area Chamber

Find the Star Portal in the chamber, and then talk, search for and destroy the Grunt Vehicle and Grunts with your weapons to open the way and enter the chamber, and go into the Star Portal.

Objective 2: Research Grunts

Head to the Blarney Studio Area. Go to the Grunt Base and talk to the first decoration in the middle of the chamber. Shoot the Grunts with your weapons, and then talk to the Grunt Vehicle to destroy it. Go to the Grunt Base and talk to the Grunt Vehicle in the chamber, and then destroy the Grunts with your weapons and talk to the Grunt Vehicle.

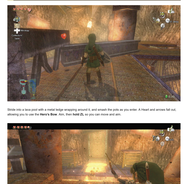
Task 6: Change the Fate of the Gorons: Fight Pyrus!

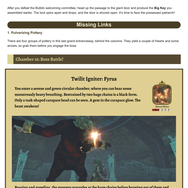
Chamber to Grand Volcanic Passage



Stride into a lava pool with a metal hedge wrapping around it, and smash the pots as you enter. A Heart and arrows fall out. Allowing you to use the Hero's Bow. Aim, then Ctrl/ZL as you can move and aim.

Begin a ranging session from behind the metal beam, and aim across the lava pool. Drop the Bubbles standing on a metal platform, and then shoot the Fire Keese that gathered around them. Bubbles are a one-shot kill, so avoid getting flicky and the Bubble reforms without weight assembly. You dismount the Bubble once it reformers using the path.

Run down the ramp, smashing pots on the way for more arrows and a Heart. Find more arrows in one of two pots just left of the shadowlogo entrance. When you're standing on the one-through metal grate floor, look south, and look up!



Pierce the rope with an arrow to drop the shadowlogo, then adjust your aim as seven Bubble spiders hot-toward you. It's a trap! If you're fast, you can rattle off arrows and catch them before they reach you. You can B, target and run about them, plugging them with arrows! Or switch to your trusty sword and slice your way out of this fix.

After you defeat the Bubble welcoming committee, head up the passage to the giant door and produce the Big Key you assembled earlier. The lock spins apart and drops, and the door is shorted open. It's time to face the possessed patriarch!

Missing Links

- Pulverizing Pottery

There are four groups of pottery in the last grand entrance/enemy behind the volumes. They yield a couple of hearts and some arrows, so grab them before you engage the boss.

Chamber to Boss Battle!

Twilit Ignition: Pyrus

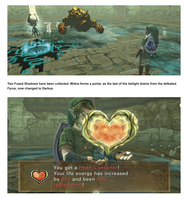
You enter a narrow and green cicada chamber, where you can hear some monstrously heavy breathing. Restrained by two huge chains is a black form. Only a scale-shaped carapace head can be seen. A gate to the scorpion glow. The beast awakens!

Burning and guarding, the creature struggles as the huge chains below bursting out of flame and thundering in rage at you. The previously dark brute bursts into fire, with flames steaming up and down the massive figure. Pyrus, the twilit ogre of Ordon, is here!

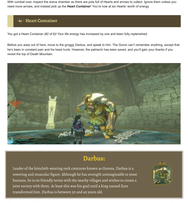
Drop 1 Approach combat with Pyrus methodically, and use the Hero's Bow almost exclusively. First, fire the beast as he strikes forward (stop). When he stops, he lets out a fire wave that burns you and can destroy the pots surrounding the combat arena.

Drop 2. Get far enough away, but face Pyrus, then aim one arrow into that firelight to gain between his eyes. You can tell when you hit, as he reels back and the gem sparkles.

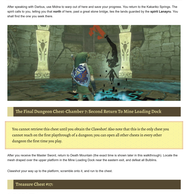
Drop 3. While he's stunned and stumbling about, run to Pyrus's feet, and pick up one of the trailing chains with your hands. When you grab it, don your Iron Boots so he'll toss you around. Pull back in the opposite direction.



Drop 4. Pyrus takes a tumble and falls onto the floor for a moment or two. Seize this chance!



Drop 5. Remove your boots, run around to the fallen Pyrus, and begin a sword combo targeted at the gem on his sunglasses head. Continue this until the beast rises to his feet.



Rage and fear may be consuming this hellcreeling fellow, but he's confused by ranged attacks on his twinkling weak spot.

Drop 6. To defeat Pyrus with extreme skill, watch him as he sets himself aflame, but have your Hero's Bow already targeted at the gem each spot. When Pyrus regains strength, the gem glows orange. This is the first opportunity to stick an arrow in there!

Repeat steps 2, 4, 5, and 6. If you're quick with your arrow shooting, Pyrus can't attack you! As long as you combo the gem with your sword as Pyrus lies on the ground, it takes three rounds to defeat him.

You should have a fairy to help you if you lose all your energy. Or find and smash pots around the arena's perimeter for Hearts and arrows.

Pyrus staggers back after your third barrage of sword strikes. The gem on the scorpion helmet glows before Pyrus explodes into shards of twilight, and a Heart Container falls at your feet!

The Fused Shadow's second pair-codename in front of you. On cue, Midna appears, and tells you a story. A King of Shadows named Zant has cast the pall of shadows over your world. Midna has nothing but scorn for him, much as she has for Princess Zelda.

Two Fused Shadows have been collected. Midna forms a portal, as the last of the twilight drains from the defeated Pyrus, now changed to Darkus.

You got a Heart Container! All 20 Hearts in your life energy has increased by one, and been refilled!

Heart Container

You got a heart Container! All 20 Hearts in your life energy has increased by one and been fully replenished.

Before you warp out of here, move to the groggy Darkus, and speak to him. The Goron won't remember anything, except that he's been in constant pain and his head hurts. However, the patriarch has been sealed, and you'll gain your thanks if you reenter the top of Death Mountain.

Darkus:

Leader of the kokichiri-wearing rock creatures known as Gorons, Darkus is a powerful yet peaceful figure. Although he has a rough appearance and can be a bit humorless, he is on friendly terms with the world's villagers and makes to create a rock journey with them, as from that was his goal until a thing seemed Zant transformed him. Darkus is between 10 and 40 years old.

After speaking with Darkus, use Midna to warp out of here and save your progress. You return to the Kakariko Springs. The world calls to you, and you have north of here. Learn a great deal more regarding the far-north guarded by the spirit Lanayru. You shall face the one you seek there.

Treasure Chest #12:

The Final Dungeon Chest: Chamber 1: Second Return To Mine Loading Dock

You cannot retrieve this chest until you obtain the Clawshot! Also note that this is the only chest you cannot reach on the first playthrough of a dungeon; you can open all other chests in every other dungeon the first time you play.

After you receive the Master Sword, return to Death Mountain (the exact time is shown later in this walkthrough). Locate the mesh shaped over the upper platform to the Mine Loading Dock near the eastern exit, and defeat all Bubbles.

Clawshot your way up to the platform, accelerate onto it, and run to the chest.

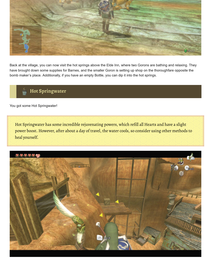
Task 1: Purchase Some Bombs in Kakariko Village

Down From Death Mountain



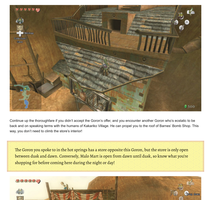
Back at the village, you can now visit the hot springs above the Eldin Inn, where two Gorons are lashing and relaxing. They have brought down some supplies for Bomos, and the smaller Goron is waiting up shop on the thoroughfare opposite the bomb maker's place. Additionally, if you have an empty Bottle, you can do it into the hot springs.

Hot Springwater

You got some Hot Springwater!

Hot Springwater has some incredible rejuvenating powers, which refill all Hearts and have a slight power boost. However, after about a day of travel, the water cools, so consider using other methods to heal yourself.

You can attempt a little farm-grabbing with your Gale Boomerang. Stand on the roof of the Eldin Inn and double-target the small crate on the tiny ledge to your left. Release the boomerang. The first hit bonks the crate, and the second hit brings back the Rupee (or Heart). However, there's a better way to attempt the latter on. When you're done here, drop to the thoroughfare.

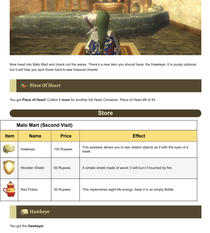


Run to the thoroughfare's southern area, where you catch Rorrado near Malo Mart. He tells you that life is returning to normal and that Talo has become the lookout sheikah.

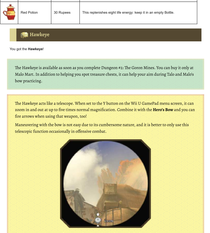
Rorrado wishes you should speak with Talo, so head up the thoroughfare, passing to talk to another Goron who is returning from the mines. She offers to propel you up to the hot springs. This is the short way to reach the hot springs, so accept the offer if you want.

Continue up the thoroughfare if you didn't accept the Goron's offer, and you encounter another Goron who's ecstatic to be back and on speaking terms with the humans of Kakariko Village. He can propel you to the roof of Bomos' Bomb Shop. This, too, you don't need to do if you're in a hurry.

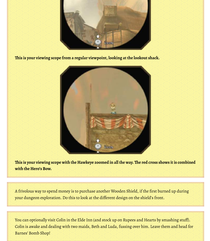
The Goron you spoke to in the hot springs has a store opposite this Goron, but the store is only open between dusk and dawn. Conversely, Malo Mart is open from dawn until dusk, so know what you're shopping for before coming here during the night or day!



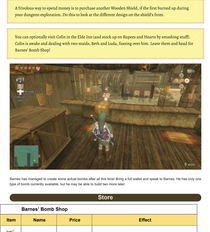
You should accept this Goron's offer and land on Bomos' store roof. Climb the promontory to the lookout shack where another Goron is checking out the view. Propel yourself up to the shack's roof by climbing on the Goron's back, landing on the ledge with the door, then ascending the ladder to the roof.



When you reach the roof, don't talk to Talo immediately; instead, peer over the edge, to the left of the totally fence. Below is a shed on a precarious ledge, but it's almost impossible to reach from here. Note this shed and come back to the lower area. Cuccos are clucking around. Now speak with Talo, and he begs you to show off your bow-and-arrow skills.



You instantly arrive back at the thoroughfare, where Malo has some training requests for you to show off those skills. The first is an easy target he's erected on the thoroughfare's right side. Aim and fire!



The second target requires more dexterity. It's above Malo Mart. Ready? Aim and fire!

From the top of the lookout shack, Talo asks you to write the pads on the left corner of the shack. Take a steady aim, then fire.

Continue targeting the pole until you hit it; you can fire as many times as necessary (it usually takes only one or two tries). Malo is almost impressed. He's happy to help bring your energy levels up with a Piece of Heart.

Now head into Malo Mart and check out the wares. There's a new item you should have: the Hawkeye. It is purely optional, but it will help you spot those hard-to-see treasure chests!

Piece Of Heart

You got Piece of Heart! Collect 4 more for another full Heart Container. Piece of Heart 40 of 45.

Store

Malo Mart (Second Visit)

Item	Name	Price	Effect
	Hawkeye	100 Rupees	This eyewear allows you to see distant objects as if with the eyes of a hawk.
	Wooden Shield	50 Rupees	A simple shield made of wood; it will burn if touched by fire.
	Red Potion	30 Rupees	This replenishes eight life energy; keep it in an empty Bottle.

Hawkeye

You got the Hawkeye!

The Hawkeye is available as soon as you complete Dungeon #1, The Goron Mines. You can buy it only at Malo Mart. In addition to helping you spot treasure chests, it can help your aim during Talo and Malo's bow-practicing.

The Hawkeye acts like a telescope. When set to the Y button on the Wii U GamePad menu screen, it can zoom in and out at up to five times normal magnification. Combine it with the Hero's Bow and you can fire arrows where using that weapon, too!

Maneuvering with the bow is not easy due to its cumbersome nature, and it is better to only use this telescopic function occasionally in offensive combat.

This is your viewing scope from a regular viewpoint, looking at the lookout shack.

This is your viewing scope with the Hawkeye zoomed in all the way. The red cross shown it is combined with the Hero's Bow.

A frivolous way to spend money is to purchase another Wooden Shield, if the first burned up during your dungeon exploration. Do this to look at the different design on the shield's front.

You can optionally visit Colin in the Eldin Inn (and stock up on Rupees and Hearts by smashing stuff). Colin is awake and dealing with two mails, Beth and Gale, fussing over him. Leave them and head for Bomos' Bomb Shop!

Bomos has managed to create some actual bombs after all this time! Bring a full wallet and speak to Bomos. He has only one type of bomb currently available, but he may be able to build two more later.

Store

Bomos' Bomb Shop

Item	Name	Price	Effect
	Bombs (10)	30 Rupees	Sold in packs of 10. You get a slight discount that way.
	Premium Kit	120 Rupees	A Bag with Bombs—a great deal.

Bomb Bag

You got a Bag with Bombs!

Bombs

You got 30 Bombs!

Bombs

Bombs are an integral part of your offensive repertoire. Some creatures are affected only by bombs, and you must blow up many pieces of scenery to advance. For now, set your bombs to Y on the Wii U GamePad menu screen. Lift a bomb with Y, and set it down with Y or A if you're walking or running, and throw it instead of placing it. Combine bombs with arrows to make a useful ranged weapon. Combine it with B on the Wii U GamePad menu screen.

Overworld: Journey Through Lanayru Province

Task 3: Find the Scent of Ilia

Battle At The Bridge Of Eldin

Warp Portal

The entire area you've explored so far has been ransacked of treasure. Head back to the Bridge of Eldin, and gallop across to the north side. Shoot the wall of rocks that blocks the road north. A warp portal appears, and three Twilit Messengers drop onto the bridge. A portion of the bridge also disappears, effectively marooning you on the north side!

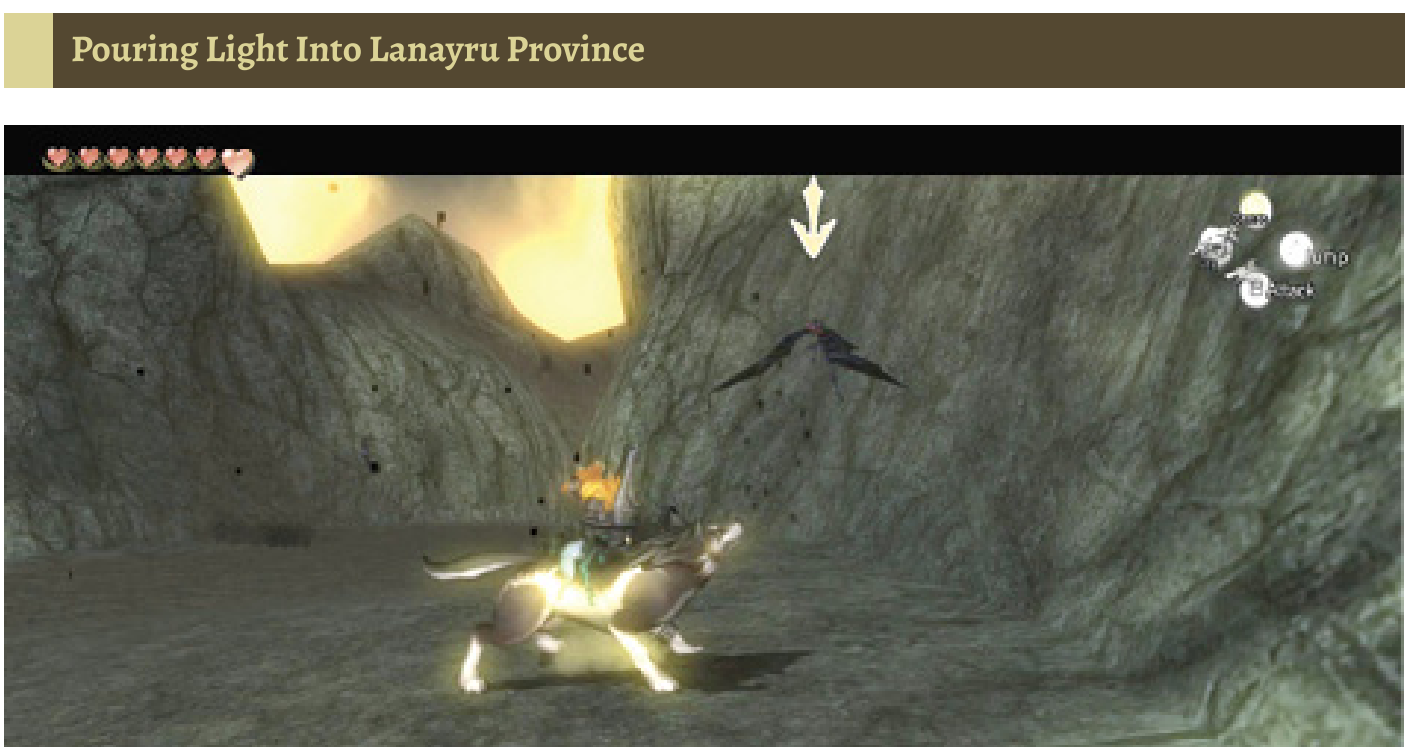
Defeating the three Twilit Messengers while on horseback is easier than it sounds. Ride past them to the section of bridge that's disappeared, and turn to the side. Wait for all three to congregate, then strike them all with a spin attack. After a couple of spins, all three should fall. If you're having trouble, dismount and attack them as normal.

Author Note

Be sure you attack these three Twilit Messengers, as this causes a warp portal to open. We didn't do this and consequently spent the rest of the game trying to figure out where to place the missing piece of bridge and taking the long route back to Kakariko Village!

Ride Epona north, along the rocky path that takes you north and west, where the path splits around a hill. You can access the right path only if you're traveling south. The path bends to the west, and you reach a bridge, where two Bulblins and an archer are waiting. Either ride through or stop and hack. The path eventually ends at a thick black wall. This is the last area of twilight!

Pouring Light Into Lanayru Province

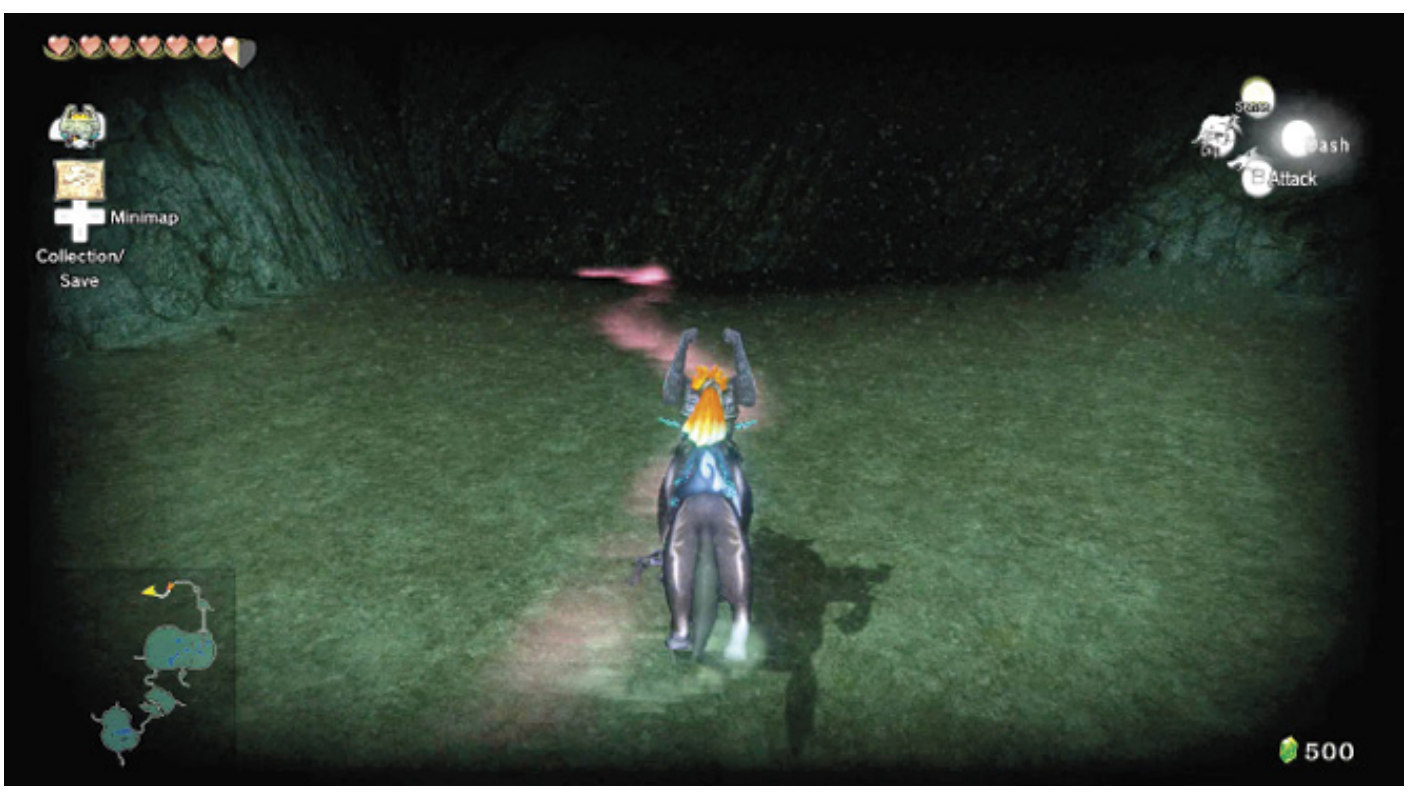


Midna pulls you into the twilight and you leave Epona behind, transforming into the wolf and running down a rocky path. Along the way, Twilit Keese swoop down to harass you. Autotarget them and bite down hard.

Continue down the path until you reach an object lying in the road. Turn your sense view on to see a pink scent emanating from it. Sniff it, and you realize this is Ilia's purse! Forget the Youth's Scent, and instead learn Scent of Ilia.

Scent Of Ilia

You learned the Scent of Ilia!



With your sense view on, follow the trail of scent down the hill. On the way, there are four different dig spots and a few Twilit Keese to gnaw. As the path opens up to Hyrule Field (north), Midna recognizes that castle from your earlier exploits.

Missing Links

1. Digging for Rupees Down the Hill

The path has three patches of dig holes (Rupees and one eart near the scent) and some weeds on the right side hide two blue Rupees (5). After you pick up the scent, check for dig spot 1 (Rupees), dig spot 2 (Rupees and a Heart), and dig spot 3 (Rupee) before you enter the Hyrule Field (north).

Overworld: Journey Through Lanayru Province

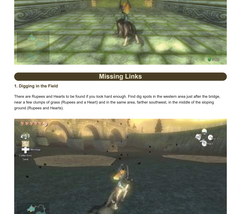
Task 4: Locate Telma's Bar in Castle Town

Twilight In North Hyrule Field

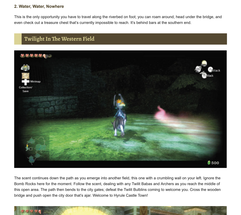
The path opens up, as you have a gigantic area to cover. Investigate every nook and cranny a little later; instead, head down the stone path, following the scent and periodically pausing to tear a bite out of an incoming Twili Kargarok and Bublin. As you near the bridge, two Twili Bublin Archers appear.

Twilit Bublin Archer

These dark Bublins exhibit the same tactics as their light-world counterparts, and you must defeat them in the same way: dodge their attacks and strike. It is more difficult as a wolf; you have no shield, so make those counters a priority. Charge them with your speed boost, and avoid running directly at them or they hit you with a flaming arrow. Then jump and bite, wait for them to rise, and bite again to finish.



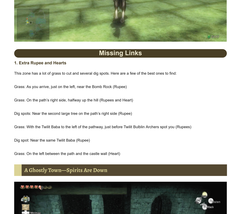
Dash across the stone bridge, following the scent as it continues up the main path. This leads you westward, toward another adjoining area.



Missing Links

1. Digging in the Field

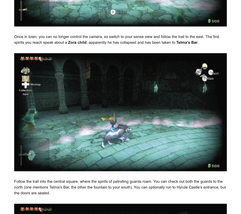
There are Rupees and Hearts to be found if you look hard enough. Find dig spots in the western area just after the bridge, near a few clumps of grass (Rupees and a Heart) and in the same area, farther southwest, in the middle of the sloping ground (Rupees and Hearts).



2. Water, Water, Nowhere

This is the only opportunity you have to travel along the riverbed on foot; you can roam around, head under the bridge, and even check out a treasure chest that's currently inaccessible to reach. It's behind bars at the southern end.

Twilight In The Western Field



The scent continues down the path as you emerge into another field; this one with a crumbling wall on your left. Ignore the Bomb Rocks here for the moment. Follow the scent, dealing with any Twili Bublins and Archers as you reach the middle of the field. Here, you find a Twili Bublin Archer and a Twili Bublin Shaman, both seeming to welcome you. Cross the wooden bridge and push open the city door that's ajar. Welcome to Hyrule Castle Town!

Missing Links

1. Extra Rupee and Hearts

This zone has a lot of grass to cut and several dig spots. Here are a few of the best ones to find:

Grass: As you arrive, just on the left, near the Bomb Rock (Rupee)

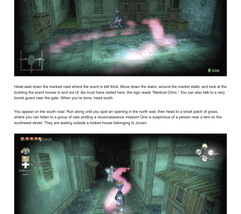
Dig spots: Near the second large tree on the path's right side (Rupee)

Grass: With the Twili Bublin to the left of the pathway, just before Twili Bublin Archers spot you (Rupees)

Dig spot: Near the same Twili Bublin (Rupee)

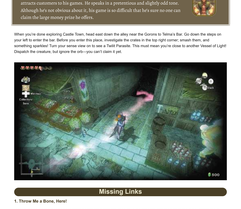
Grass: On the left between the path and the castle wall (Heart)

A Ghastly Town—Spirits Are Down



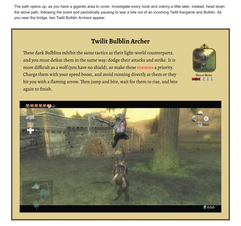
Once in town, you can no longer control the camera, so switch to your sense view and follow the trail to the east. The first spirits you reach speak about a Zora child, apparently he has collapsed and has been taken to Telma's Bar.

Follow the trail into the central square, where the spirits of patrolling guards roam. You can check out both the guards to the north (one mentions Telma's Bar, the other the fountain to your south). You can optionally run to Hyrule Castle's entrance, but the doors are sealed.



Journey back to the central square, follow the scent to the eastern side, and walk to the fountain's edge. Listen as townsfolk complain about the town's water source, Lake Hylia. You can stop following the scent as it drifts east and investigate the central square. You pass a store in the southeast corner. Listen to more complaints about not being able to bathe.

Run to the tea shop in the city's southeast corner, where patrons bemoan their lack of drink. To the side of this place is a large, arched door; go there later for some supplies you can afford.

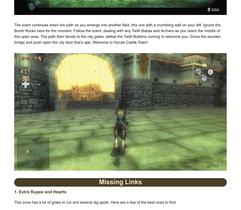


Head east down the marked road where the scent is still thick. Move down the stairs, around the market stalls, and look at the building the scent moves in and out of. Its must have exited here, the sign reads "Medical Clinic." You can also talk to a very bored guard near the gate. When you're done, head south.

You appear on the south road. Run along until you spot an opening in the north wall, then head to a small patch of grass, where you can listen to a group of cats plotting a reconnaissance mission! One is suspicious of a person near a tent on the southwest street. They are walking outside a locked house belonging to Jovani.

Continue heading west down the cobbled street, listening to a group of townsfolk talking one another that the Zora boy collapsed. At the junction, the scent runs south; follow it unless you wish to return to the central square.

Continue south, and optionally ignore the scent for a moment as it turns east. There's a path to the west, which passes the mansion of a fortune-teller named Fanadi, a princess named Agitha, and (as you reach the junction where you came in) a tent with a man named Purlo outside. Is this who the cat was talking about? He's a sneaky sort but you can't investigate now, so instead just south in the main market thoroughfare and listen to the Gorons; they're overwhelmed with demand for their hot Springwater!



Purlo:

About 50 years old. Purlo builds temporary, circus-style tents in Castle Town and attracts customers to his games. He speaks in a pretentious and slightly odd tone. Although he's not obvious about it, his game is so difficult that he's sure no one can claim the large money prize he offers.

When you're done exploring Castle Town, head east down the alley near the Gorons to Telma's Bar. Go down the steps on your left to enter the bar. Before you enter this place, investigate the crates in the top right corner; smash them, and something sparkles! Turn your sense view on to see a Twili Parakle. The must mean you're close to another Vessel of Light! Dispatch the creature, but ignore the orb—you can't claim it yet.

Missing Links

1. Throw Me a Bone, Here!

Pick up a dog's bone when you're prowling the area near the medical clinic (and the street south of the initial entrance); it doesn't do anything, but it certainly is tasty!

Dynamic Journey Through Lament Province

Task 9: Journey to the Domain of the Zoras

The Path To Lake Hylia

Enter Tetrino Bar and switch your senses over to Aparoth the group of spirits ahead and to the left. It is for this reason you can hear them arguing with Tetrino, the owner of the establishment. Even though you've heard this, she's in such form, as you can't speak to her.

Tetrino:

Someone is out and at peace did, Tetrino now is by to Lands Down, She is Snoop her offspring. With an copyrighting spirit, Tetrino is actually the leader of a resistance force, a group that wants to overturn the kingdom. She is hoping to find a worthy man to rescue to help her Down.

Prince Ralis:

Prince is prince did, Ralis is by to Lands Down, She is Snoop her offspring. With an copyrighting spirit, Ralis is actually the leader of a resistance force, a group that wants to overturn the kingdom. She is hoping to find a worthy man to rescue to help her Down.

Move to the bar's back room to hear a group of workers speaking about their orders. The people can't send poppins to the wrong spot of Lake Hylia, so the recipient must be nearest to the water map the area to investigate. Look at the map on the table and help frame the spot.

Hylian Soldiers:

These soldiers comprise the military force that protects the kingdom of Hyrule. Although they're not the best fighters in the land, they're good defenders. Ask Gerudo Voiceover Secretary Yeef Ganondorf to recruit some soldiers, and the brave knights who will meet for a brave no-less.

The fallen map of Hyrule is spread over this table in Telmas Bar. Whenever you're stuck, return here and check the map to see where you should head next. After you view the map, the clue also appears on your in-game map. The spring in Lake Hylia shows up as a red flag now. Onward!

Leave the comfort of Telmas Bar, ignoring that exit for the moment, and leave Castle Town to search for a cure to Lake Hylia. The south exit is marked by a glowing sailing ship at the Castle Town Gate. The east exit is closed. The only way out is via the door you came from. Back on the bridge, link and clear all a couple of Tektite Bubbles.

Leave the unenthusiastic and pushy merchant, taking the side of the curve to the opening in the western rock wall, enter the path leading to the bridge overlooking Lake Hylia. You're just this time in the region, so watch for a trio of Tekti Bubble on route.

Leave the bridge to find the first of the path. The bridge is by just left. Be aware that Fyer and Yalin's Waterway Land of Foreshadowers is nearby. That sounds safe, so does the main attraction: Pilgrims Foot

Inspect the area to find a Bomb Rock and an odd stone to your left and behind you. Ignore this for the moment and run toward the bridge entrance. As you move onto the bridge, notice that the ground is glistening. Continue south.

You step on a Tekti Bubble stricter fires off a flowing arrow, aiming him in the bridge. You're standing on an .and doesn't.Echo coming from both ends of the bridge! Spend the last few crates and stop at the second set. Move to the crate's base and get on top. See many in the crevet/water on the bridge's west side. From there, leap off the bridge to a huge drop zone!

You must find this second crevet/button near the box; it is shorter than the rest, which block your path. If the fire catches you, you have to restart your game at the bridge, with those Hinox Hall welcomings.

Missing Links

1. Dig Spots and Grass Cutting

On the ground, look for a glowing dig spot and throw an Hinox Dig spade, each containing a Hoin. When you reach the Hoin, use the Hoin Dig to dig a hole to find a Hoin. For another Hoin, in this area behind the sign, in the middle of the small bushes. Now the grass can lift of the bridge entrance for loads of green Rupees. Cr

The Sky Labeled Of Hylia

Dig-paddle toward the odd-looking in the distance and switch on your senses to check the ghostly floating fires ahead. Approach the Fyrus, a friendly people now downtrodden by the water shortage. Ascending to the summit, the problem seems to be coming from the water's source: Zora's Domain.

The Zoras:

An opposite tribe of people with gills and finger, the Zoras are a proud and ancient race, led by a beloved king and queen. Recently their backs have become weakened to turned as their water supply has dwindled. Now full of melancholy, they wish for happier times.

This labeled is a clue spot for digging. There are at least an holes to become torn for Hearts and Rupees.

After you flank with your big dig, head toward the cold and colorful shack and listen as the depressed owner, Fyer, mumbles about the rotten green mushroom of his humanitarian site. He and it are the Zoras in their domain and to blame or if it has something to do with the Lanaya spirit. He's then spotted by a Tekti Bubble Archer roaming the takeover.

Fyer:

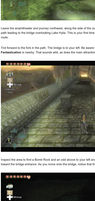
Although he looks much older, Fyer is between a cat and at peace old and is a former member of the circus. Short, bearded, and lazy-looking, he's recently started his small business fixing dolls. Now a success, although chaos threatened around on the floor of the label! He's a great mechanic, however, and specializes in rebuilding old statues.

Twilit Carrier Kargarok

Run across the falsehood in the Twilit Bubbles Archer who's roaming this area. He stops when he spots you, then moves quickly to a patch of grass. After playing an unspeakable tune, a giant Twilit Carrier Kargarok swoops down from the heavens and the archer mounts it!

The Twilit Carrier Kargarok is a huge, fearsome, undead relative of the Kargarok you've encountered before, but is covered in Twilit slime. Its wings and talon begin with some annoying arrow-firing cute cacti much.Arrow, so run away from the arrows. When the rider dives the Twilit Carrier Kargarok down and swoops in on you, be sure you use R to target early, then make a leaping jump over the beast. Tap the A button furiously to free the Twilit Carrier Kargarok multiple times, until the flames you off. Do this a second time and the Twilit Bubble Archer falls.

The Twilit Bubble Archer loses to fire from outside your range, so make the best use of close-combat situations and Jump, sling, and Iron!



The Twilit Carrier Kargarok is still flapping above as the Twilit Bubble Archer falls to the lakebed. Target him immediately and finish him off. Then search as Midna interjects across the skies and lands on the beast's back! She asks if you want to fly to the Zoora Domain. Agree.

Missing Links

2. The Great Lakebed Fog

This is the only time you'll be able to dig as the lake should be full the next time you visit), so switch on your senses now and scout the perimeter. Dive one of these 21 areas around the entire of the lake and if you're a person house. All give you Rupees, coverly green (1) and blue (5) and Hearts. You'll find them all in about 10 to 15 minutes.

3. Finding Fyer's Fluids

After you speak to Fyer, take the Heart and a few Rupees from the collection of pots. Here are a few more pots containing a Rupee as well as the other side of the shack.

Flying Up The Riverbed

You're entering through the great gorge with the riverbed below you, your physical body stamped in the Twilit Carrier Kargarok's claws. You control the winged beast with the Left Analog Stick. Fly in the direction of the light that dangle! Start by pressing the A button.

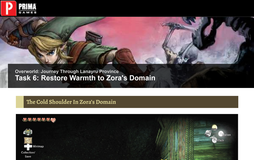
Rise by pointing your target toward the A areas, and dash between the two long towers that contain archers.

You're traveling directly north, past your carrier up toward the bridge light and dash. Be sure you steer the bridge with Archers as it. Fly up and dash west.

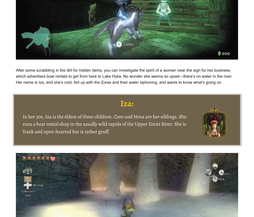
Sweep under each of the telekarpy rocks that fall to the side and move left when the central rock falls forward.

In the final section of river, fly with grenade, keeping to the open and always aiming for the light. Stay to the rock of the falling boulders, then aim for the mighty A out.

You can also dash and strike any of the archers that are on exposed rock areas, although this is difficult. It is less dangerous to avoid them by racing by.

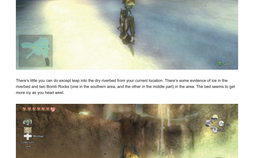


The Cold Shoulder In Zora's Domain

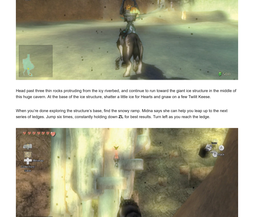


After some scrabbling in the dirt for hidden items, you can investigate the spirit of a woman near the sign for her business, which advertises boat rentals to get from here to Lake Hylia. No wonder she seems so upset—there's no water in the river. Her name is Iza, and she's cold. Not up with the Zoras and their water siphoning, and seems to know what's going on.

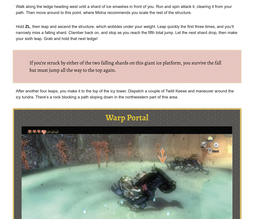
Iza:



In her jos, Iza is the eldest of three children. Cora and Tona are her siblings. She runs a boat rental shop in the usually wild rapids of the Upper Zora's River. She is frank and open-hearted but is rather gruff.

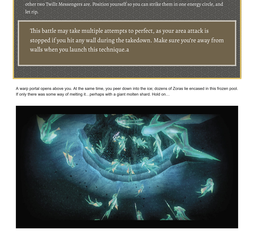


There's little you can do except leap into the dry riverbed from your current location. There's some evidence of ice in the riverbed and two Bomb Rocks (one in the southern area, and the other in the middle part) in the area. The best seems to get more icy as you head east.



Head past three thin rocks protruding from the icy riverbed, and continue to run toward the giant ice structure in the middle of this huge cavern. At the base of the ice structure, shutter a little ice for Hearts and grave on a few Twilit Keese.

When you're done exploring the structure's base, find the snowy ramp. Misha says she can help you leap up to the next series of ledges. Jump six times, constantly holding down ZL for best results. Turn left as you reach the ledge.



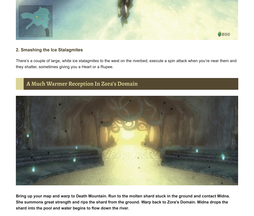
Walk along the ledge heading west until a shard of ice smashes in front of you. Run and spin attack it, clearing it from your path. Then move around to this point, where Misha recommends you scale the rest of the structure.

Hold ZL, then leap and ascend the structure, which wobbles under your weight. Leap quickly the first three times, and you'll narrowly miss a falling shard. Clamber back on, and stop as you reach the fifth total jump. Let the next shard drop, then make your sixth leap. Grab and hold that next ledge!

If you're struck by either of the two falling shards on this giant ice platform, you survive the fall but must jump all the way to the top again.

After another four leaps, you make it to the top of the icy tower. Dispatch a couple of Twilit Keese and maneuver around the icy tundra. There's a rock blocking a path sloping down in the northwestern part of this area.

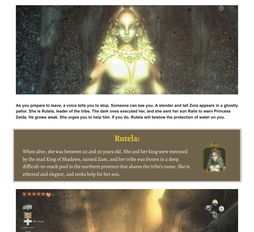
Warp Portal



Three Twilit Messengers from the world of shadows await your tooth and claw. Head for the Twilit Messenger and bite him or use Midna's aura attack. Then rest around the energy fence to where the other two Twilit Messengers are. Position yourself so you can strike them in one energy circle, and let rip.

This battle may take multiple attempts to perfect, as your area attack is stopped if you hit any wall during the takedown. Make sure you're away from walls when you launch this technique.a

A warp portal opens above you. At the same time, you peer down into the ice, dozens of Zoras lie encased in this frozen pool. If only there was some way of melting it…perhaps with a giant molten shard. Hold on…

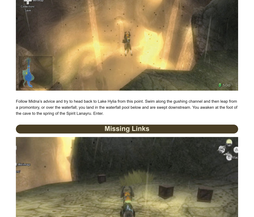


Missing Links

1. Grass Slicing and Dirt Digging

You can find many areas where grass and dirt can be disturbed:

- Grass: Just north of the landing spot (Rupees)
- Grass: Southeast area, just off the promontory (Rupees)
- Crates: Just right of where Iza is sitting, by the side of the boathouse (Rupees and Heart)
- Dig spots: In the same area as the crates, near the side of the building (Hearts)
- Dig spot: Behind the sign, next to Iza



2. Smashing the Ice Stalagmites

There's a couple of large, white ice stalagmites to the west on the riverbed; execute a spin attack when you're near them and they shatter, sometimes giving you a Heart or a Rupee.

A Much Warmer Reception In Zora's Domain

Bring up your map and warp to Death Mountain. Run to the molten shard stuck in the ground and contact Misha. She summons great strength and rips the shard from the ground. Warp back to Zora's Domain. Misha drops the shard into the pool and water begins to flow down the river.

You can now reach the spirit cave and meet the spirit of the lake! Spend a few moments listening to the Zoras as they recover from their forced slumber. They're coughing, murmuring, and wanting to know if their friends in the waterfall pool are okay. Head south.

As you prepare to leave, a voice tells you to stop. Someone can see you. A slender and tall Zora appears in a ghostly pallor. She is Rutela, leader of the tribe. The dark ones executed her, and she sent her son Rutlo to warn Princess Zelda. He grieves weak. She urges you to help him. If you do, Rutela will bestow the protection of water on you.

Rutela:

When alive, she was between 20 and 30 years old. She and her king were executed by the mad King of Shadows, named Zant, and her tribe was frozen in a deep, difficult-to-reach pool in the northern province that shares the tribe's name. She is ethereal and elegant, and seeks help for her son.

Follow Misha's advice and try to head back to Lake Hylia from this point. Swim along the gushing channel and then leap from a promontory, or over the waterfall; you land in the waterfall pool below and are swept downstream. You awaken at the foot of the cave to the spring of the Spirit Lanayru. Enter.

Missing Links

1. Grassy Ledge, High above the Pool

After you speak with Rutela, but before you leap off the waterfall, check out the area to the west, where you spotted the rock blocking the path before. Crates (Rupees) and grass (Heart) are available now.

An Audience With The Spirit Lanayru: Fill The Vessel Of Light

Once inside the spirit cave, advance forward and speak to Lanayru, the final Spirit of Light. "Collect my light and lift the final cloud of twilight that threatens to cover all of Hyrule!" the entity gasps. You're given a familiar item with which to complete this task. There's little else to do except leave (but first gather a few Rupees from the grass around this pool's edge).

Vessel Of Light

Task 8: Learn the Secrets of the Goddess From Lanayru

High Spirits And Shocking Secrets

The Spirit Lanayru awakens from a slumber, after Midna leaves to find her Fused Shadow piece. It tells you the dark power you seek awaits in the bed of Lake Hylia. But you must see something first….

When all was chaos, the goddesses descended and gave order and life to the world. They granted power equally to all who dwelt in the light, and then returned to the heavens. These lands became known as the Sacred Realm.

Soon news of the Sacred Realm spread, and a great battle ensued. Among those living in the light, interlopers who excelled at magic appeared and tried to control the Sacred Realm.

It was then that the goddesses ordered us three light spirits to intervene. We sealed away the great magic those individuals had mastered.

You know this magic. It is the dark power you seek, the Fused Shadow. O hero chosen by the goddesses, beware. Those who do not know the danger of wielding power will, before long, be ruled by it.

You collapse at the edge of the Lanayru Springs.…

Lanayru:

The embodiment of the land of Lanayru, this magical spirit takes the form of a snake and resides in the spring near Lake Hylia. It seeks the light.

Task 1: Thoroughly Explore Lake Hylia

A Dive Into Lanayru Spirit Cave

In order to maximize your energy, we're showing you all the incidental items as early as possible. However, Midna may appear from time to time, wanting to press on with the mission to find Rutela's son, the prince. You can start this part of the mission (Task #6) at any time.

Now that the final spirit has spoken to you, you're free to hunt the land for chests, items, and other interesting trinkets before attempting to find the final Fused Shadow piece. Begin by diving into the pond inside the spirit cave. Put on your Iron Boots so you can sink to a small platform containing a chest, then swim and sink in the pond's western part to find a second chest.

After raiding these two chests, check the pool for some underwater Bomb Rocks, and check the side ledges for grass containing multiple green Rupees (1). Look carefully before you leave to find vine walls, Clawshot medallions, and an upper exit in the south wall you can't reach yet. Return here later.

Overworld Chest #20:

Blue Rupee (5)

Overworld Chest #21:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Exploring Lake Hylia

Without the twilight enveloping the area, you can now investigate every part of the lake. Start with the set of tiny islands and platforms in the southwest. Move to the island near Fyer's house, and chat to a strange bird named Plumm (she doesn't speak to humans, so return as a wolf) and a Zora guard. The other Zoras are on patrol at the lake's bottom.

Plumm:

A female myna bird that works hard at her balloon-popping attraction, which she invites only those in wolf form to see. Plumm appears at two spots in Lake Hylia, ready to take your money in exchange for a shot at this minigame. She's great friends with Trill.

There's a large floating platform (called "The Isle of Riches" by some) tethered to Fyer's hut. It has a pole and a rotating platform at the top; there are a few chests on here. This is a great place to land on, but you can do this only from above.

If you wish to move quickly to the bridge area above Lake Hylia, run toward the hut that Fyer has now opened for business. There's a cannon hut jutting from the rocks next to the bridge, high above the lake's northern wall. The price is only 10 Rupees. Give it a shot and step into the cannon. After the coordinates are measured, and the strange organ with the chirping Ooccoos is wound up, you're fired! You land on a platform that has a giant target painted on it.

This cannon is a great way to reach the Hylian Bridge if Midna isn't able to warp you, or you wish to try an exciting new minigame involving Cucco flying!

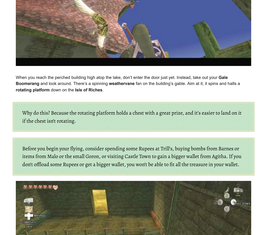
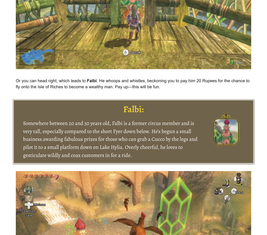
Having Some Fun With Flight-By-Fowl



When you reach the perched building high atop the lake, don't enter the door just yet. Instead, take out your Gale Boomerang and look around. There's a spinning weathervane fan on the building's gable. Aim at it; it spins and hails a rotating platform down on the Isle of Riches.

Why do this? Because the rotating platform holds a chest with a great prize, and it's easier to land on it if the chest isn't rotating.

Before you begin your flying, consider spending some Rupees at Trill's, buying bombs from Barnes or items from Malo or the small Goron, or visiting Castle Town to gain a bigger wallet from Agitha. If you don't offload some Rupees or get a bigger wallet, you won't be able to fit all the treasure in your wallet.

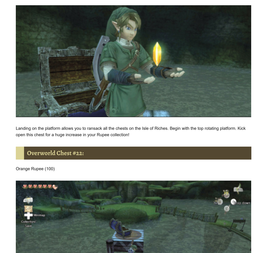


With the rotating platform stopped, enter through the door that leads inside the house. Drop down the ladder to a sloping wooden floor. The exit is up the ramp, to your left and leads to the "fantastication" sign and Hylian Bridge.

Or you can head right, which leads to Falbi. He whoops and whistles, beckoning you to pay him 20 Rupees for the chance to fly onto the Isle of Riches to become a wealthy man. Pay up—this will be fun.

Falbi:

Somewhere between 10 and 30 years old, Falbi is a former circus member and is very tall, especially compared to the short Pyer down below. He's begun a small business awarding fabulous prizes for those who can grab a Cucco by the legs and pilot it to a small platform down on Lake Hylia. Overly cheerful, he loves to proticulate wittily and coax customers in for a ride.



Step #1: Before you grab a Cucco, have your Iron Boots close at hand; make sure you can access them by pressing the Y button. Then choose a Cucco; they all fly the same, regardless of color. Step off the tiny platform and fly!

Step #2: For your first run, fly through the giant floating Rupee. You receive the amount indicated (the color indicates the amount of Rupees you receive), and the giant floating Rupees show the best landing trajectory to the Isle of Riches. Then swing left and head for the blue Rupee (5). As you arrive, make a strong banking right turn.

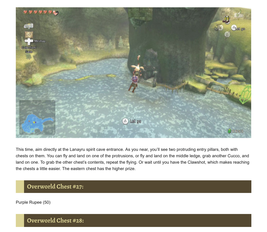
Step #3: Aim for the next giant green Rupee (1). By the time you reach the last giant Rupee, you're too high and will overshoot the tiny rotating platform. You can still land on the lower part of the "Isle of Riches," but where's the fun in that?

Step #4: As soon as you pass through the last giant Rupee, put on your Iron Boots and take them off about half a second later. If you wear them too long, you drop too far and miss the tiny platform. Wear them too briefly, and you will overshoot it. This takes skill and practice, but you can definitely land on the tiny top platform!

If you miss, ride the cannon at Pyer's hut up to the Flight-by-Fowl building and try again. This time, put the boots on during the flight or as you leap, but only very briefly. Then follow the Rupee path. Rotating the fan atop the building to stop the upper platform also makes this much easier.

Author Note

We managed to land on the uppermost platform using the Iron Boots on our very first attempt! Even more amazing was that we'd forgotten to stop the platform rotating; it is definitely possible, so keep on practicing.



Landing on the platform allows you to ransack all the chests on the Isle of Riches. Begin with the top rotating platform. Kick open this chest for a huge increase in your Rupee collection!

Overworld Chest #31:

Orange Rupee (100)

You must now be incredibly careful not to jump off the upper platform and miss the next ledge, or you'll have to complete this flying game again. You must drop off the upper platform's southwest side, hang from it, then land on the next platform below. You must crack open this chest, which is directly under the first.

Overworld Chest #32:

Piece of Heart #15

Piece Of Heart

You got Piece of Heart #15! You collected 5 Pieces and formed a new Heart Container!

You've increased your energy level by another full Heart Container, but there are more prizes. Drop down from the same corner as you did before, to a larger platform that contains a treasure chest. Pry this open for another Rupee prize.

Drop to the increasingly larger platforms on this isle, and run over to another, smaller chest. The Rupee reward is smaller but still worth your effort. Now jump down to the next platform and avoid the floating lantern—that's an Imp Poe. You must return for him when you can transform into a wolf at will. Instead, crack open the next chest.

Overworld Chest #34:

Purple Rupee (50)

Overworld Chest #35:

Red Rupee (20)

Overworld Chest #36:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Despite your ransacking of all the major chests on the Isle, there are still more places you can fly to from Falbi's Cucco flying building. Head back here via Pyer's cannon, and start another run.

This time, aim directly at the Lanaryu spirit cave entrance. As you near, you'll see two protruding entry pillars, both with chests on them. You can fly and land on one of the protrusions, or fly and land on the middle ledge, grab another Cucco, and land on one. To grab the other chest's contents, repeat the flying. Or wait until you have the Clawshot, which makes reaching the chests a little easier. The eastern chest has the higher prize.

Overworld Chest #37:

Purple Rupee (50)

Overworld Chest #38:

Orange Rupee (100)

The Rupees don't end there either. Head back up to Falbi again and take to the skies hanging from the Cucco of your choice. This time swing right, and follow the series of giant Rupees down to a long thin rock in the lake's middle. Either drop from the Cucco, or use the Iron Boots to land on the small platform atop a rock pillar.

There's a small ledge directly underneath Falbi's dwelling that you can fly to, but you can't grab the items there yet. Return here with the ability to transform into a wolf—we'll tell you when!

The main reason for landing on this rock is the view, but there's a secondary reason (and a secondary Cucco) too. You can now fly via Cucco to the top of Pyer's cannon hut and inspect the top of the cannon hut from this angle. Land on the cannon roof, then drop to the north side for a red Rupee (20), and then into a bowl. Walk along a small crane attached to the hut to obtain two yellow Rupees (10). Then drop to the ground.

Chapter 6: Triumph Tumultuous and Raging the Zora Prince
Task 6: Escort Talma, Ilia, and Prince Ralis Safely to Kakariko Village

Let The Wagon Roll: Turmoil At Tebra's

You should now head back into town via the southern entrance. Pass the Gorons at the springwater stand (where there's still a shortage) and turn right into the alley leading to Tebra's Pen. It's time to rescue the Zora Prince!

A strange, goggle-eyed rich man with a doctor's case leaves Talma's Bar, shooting you aside. He pleads with him to help save Prince Ralis's life in his ward.

Talma has heard of a shaman in Kakariko Village who might be able to help. The Soldiers of Hyrule are prepared to accompany such a pricey gal (with Talma members) to the that they must be escorted past dangerous beasts.

Talma knows you know Ilia, but the girl has completely lost her memory. There's no time to worry about that now; the bridge to Kakariko is the only option. Also, it's guarded by King Bulblin! Now is the wagon, the Hylia you. Do the Link and all aloft!

Borville:

Borville is the town's medical doctor who has excellent credentials and is a regular at Talma's Bar. When he delivers a bit-bulblin surprise. He has screamed out of the bar when he was summoned to diagnose a problem with a Zora prince. Once word his specialty! Actually his rudeness to all of his patients is actually a defense mechanism and that he's really a coward.

Louise:

A Rescue car and resident of Talma's Bar, Louise is spoiled by her owners. Tebra's, but she's always a pleasure lurry and couldn't be a poor ole if you could speak to her in an animal tongue.

The wagon is rolling, and Talma isn't messing around. She charges south toward the Great Hylian Bridge, and it's up to you to catch her. Mount Eyanos and spur her on as quickly as possible. There's a fearsome combat to come, so you can see quick as much as you need to.

Let The Wagon Roll: Battle On The Bridge II

When you reach the bridge, King Bulblin riding Lord Bullbo storms you down from the opposite side of the structure. He produces two huge shields that he's wearing on each arm—this time he isn't about to be struck from his Bullbo with a simple sword swipe!

Step 1: This shows the beginning of a Chase plot and also what happens when you have poor aim with the Spin. To start with, slow Epona down; there's a disadvantage to speeding up, as you don't have enough time to aim and fire with your Horn Bow, which is the only way to defeat King Bulblin this time. He shrugs off sword swipes as he slams his shields into you, sending you flying over into Lake Hylia.

Wait until you see the evil red glow of King Bulblin's eyes, then fire an arrow into that disgusting face!

Step 2: Your plan should work if you fire at the point shown in this sequence of screens. Ready your bow as you canter forward, and, making sure it is aimed squarely at the head of King Bulblin, as he nears, fire when he's about to fire away. He veers off around you. The second time you successfully strike him, he's down for!

King Bulblin takes a scary knock to the helm and temporarily loses control of his mount. It's Lord Bullbo that charges ahead, screaming the ride of the bridge and off and sending King Bulblin flying off into the stormy air, for a long plummet down into the lake below.

Let The Wagon Roll: A Fierce And Fiery Fracas!

Talma maneuvers her wagon across the bridge, and the chaperoning continues as you and the wagon (which you should be through that) trundle down the rocky path toward the Hylian Field plains. However, just after the small wooden bridge, several Bulblin Archers appear on top of the rocky canyon sides and begin raining down the arrows. If you're incredibly quick, you can target them (they're too far to target well) A and dispatch them.

However, a slower plan is to simply ignore them entirely and pass them; they don't give chase. The arrows they fire are flaming, though, and this sets the wagon on fire. A view of the screen's top shows how tough the sturdy wagon is. When it catches fire, near toward it, bringing out your Gale Boomerang, and target the wagon to blow out the fire. Stop when you reach the closed gate.

Dismount and open the gate by pushing its middle; then the rampager Talma wave forward into the southern Hylian Field plains. Quickly mount Epona and follow her in. As you reach a slight bend in the path, a group of Bulblin Riders join in the fray!

These riders are a constant menace, no matter how many you dispatch, so ride through them as they chase the wagon and fire arrows at them. Target the nearest rider A and fire a shot when you're ready. Then target the next rider and fire another shot. Have mixed, not a fragment flow overhead and drops a bomb on the road. This always causes the wagon to veer off to the right.

The wagon now takes a long circular path across the plains, and then back onto the path you were just diverted from. This is a good opportunity to dismount Epona and dispatch the Bulblin Riders on foot. Use the Gale Boomerang to knock the Bulblin Riders from one close to the wagon, and quickly switch to your Boomerang when the fire on the wagon reaches half damage or greater. Another Kargaroc drops a bomb when you double back to this point.

If the wagon is struck at this point, it goes off-road and across the plains in a lengthy detour before emerging back near the path. Dismount and dispatch the Bulblin Riders again. As you reach this point for the road, leave the Kamos on the wagon and look out for a Kargaroc swooping down.

As you reach the road, gallop forward at you're quick and stock with the wagon. You'll be close enough to A target the Kargaroc with your Gale Boomerang. That at this creature, and the bomb it was carrying explodes in midair. Now, instead of having to fight, Talma is rushes along the path and out of the area. You can now keep the wagon the blue and stay the Bulblin Archers as pursuits, as possible.

Combat continues into the canyon path between the two plateau areas, and the riders become thicker. However, they are easily dispatched with a quick attack or arrow targeted with A. Keep the wagon from burning up, and stay about 20 feet behind it as you enter Kakariko Gorge.

As you reach the bridge to cross the gorge, another Kargaroc swoops in to lay an annoying bomb on the path ahead. If you're incredibly fast, you can quickly A target and deflect him. More likely, however, Talma slows another detour, careening right into the planks. Fortunately, the scene is a bit smaller, and the detour isn't quite as long.

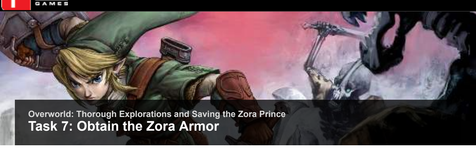
Bring out your Hero's Bow and don't follow the wagon. Instead, stay in the middle of the field, scanning for a Kargaroc. When you see one, target it with A and fire away. Keep the wagon in your peripheral vision periodically targeting the creature. Fire, and it drops out of the sky with an explosion. You can now keep the wagon on track.

The wagon arrives at the closed sacked gate in Kakariko Village. Dismount after galloping around the wagon to see if you need to defeat any more riders. You may spot a couple, but spin attacks from the ground or Bomb Arrows are more than a match for them.

Mysterious fires are breaking out on the wagon. Check in front and behind, a couple of Bulblin Archers are the culprits. Tackle them, then open the gate and enter Kakariko Village.

Author Note

This tumultuous battle where wagons, riders, and a Lord Bullbo all collide can't immediately obvious look the longest time to figure out. We just thought Talma was a terrible driver with her Hylian Rival, after 20 straight minutes of blowing out wagon fires and shouting an increasingly loud series of panicked commands at the lady, managed to work out she was avoiding a bomb.



Task 7: Obtain the Zora Armor

Renado's Healing Hands: The Prince Lives!

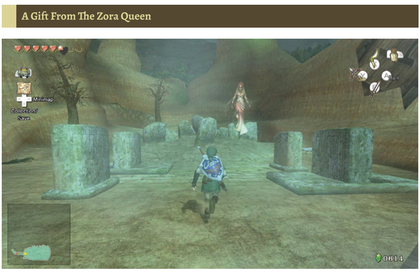
You meet Renado outside the Elde Inn. The prince should be okay, as long as he rests. Colin tells Renado he will look after Prince Ralis, no matter how long it takes.

Outside the inn, Colin asks about Ilia's memory loss, and Renado tells him that time should be a factor in healing these scars. Telma asks if you'd be prepared to join the resistance in Castle Town.

Telma says she'll stay a little longer in the village; she's still worried about Ilia and wants to see more of Renado…. She leans over at you, telling there's a secret passageway in her bar leading to the castle.

You're about to enter the Elde Inn when you notice a shadow. It's the spirit of the Zora queen Rutela! She floats off down the thoroughfare and flits in and out of your vision.

A Gift From The Zora Queen



The spirit of Queen Rutela is strong, and she beckons you to follow her. Oblige, and she floats south and then east, past the Shaman's sanctuary and into the graveyard. Follow her to the steps and the grassy area beyond. She reveals a small tunnel under a ceremonial stone. Enter the tunnel.

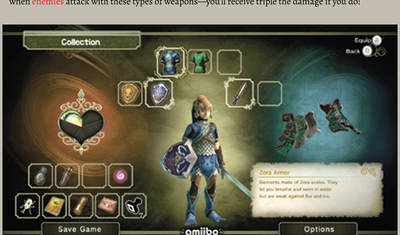
You appear in a small lagoon, which is actually the resting place of Queen Rutela's husband. She hovers above his grave. In return for helping her son receive help, she offers you a special garment—royal armor that enables you to move freely through the water. The grave slides back and the armor is revealed. You've acquired the Zora Armor!

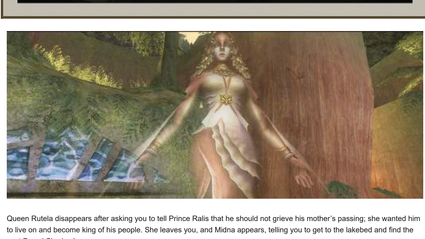
Zora Armor

You got Zora Armor! This armor was handed down through the Zora royal family.

Zora Armor

Zora Armor is made from the scales of fallen Zora heroes, and the armor allows you to breathe underwater. Place this on any time you dive into a pool. You can dive down by pressing the A button and maneuver much more easily than before. You can wear this on dry land, too, but not in areas where fire and ice appear or when enemies attack with these types of weapons—you'll receive triple the damage if you do!





Queen Rutela disappears after asking you to tell Prince Ralis that he should not grieve his mother's passing; she wanted him to live on and become king of his people. She leaves you, and Midna appears, telling you to get to the lakebed and find the next Fused Shadow!

Dungeon 3: Lakebed Temple

The Lakebed Temple: Overview

This was once a series of wondrous carved chambers where the Zora tribe swam with pride. Now it has been reduced to a dark, dank ruin, an underwater catacomb teeming with monstrous and unhealthy creatures and scavengers. Fortunately, many of the mechanisms the Zora architects placed in this dungeon still work, including the ceremonial floodgates, opened via two reservoir towers at each end of the dungeon. Water used to pour down channels and turn giant cogs, with purposes now lost to time. Only by using this antiquated technology can you thoroughly investigate this lost structure, locating a giant toad and making it cough up a prize. After you collect all items and open all floodgates, a large arena fills with water, and you can call a giant lurking fiend into the light, and eyeball it—literally. Only after these tasks are complete can you collect the last of the Fused Shadows.

Dungeon 5 | Lakeside Temple

Task 1: Enter the Connecting Bridges, Fight Enemy Lizalfos

Chamber 1: Entrance Tunnel And Events (x7)

Before you submerge and enter into this temple, bring along the following:

- Boots to your Wallet, so you can collect rupees from the treasure chests
- Bombs to destroy the Bomb Rocks
- Another Bird Statue and Pot Flower to unlocked Goddess
- Fire Arrows to light the torches in the dark areas (but they run out of quickly)
- Arrows and the Gale Boomerang will be very useful
- Ice Arrows to freeze the Keese enemies
- Also, purchase your additional Fillian Bombs from Jeweler in Kakariko Village

With your Zora Armor on (otherwise you'll shiver in seconds), swim through a water-filled tunnel. This tunnel leads down at an angle, and then loops out slightly to a pride with a variety of plant life. Pull on your Iron Boots.

Shell Blade

In this gentle battle a lonely, chainlike creature hovers on the Shell Blade. It can't float threatening, but, for Shell Blade is impervious to vertical slashing moves. However, you can slice the squishy interior this with any horizontal slice, the spin attack is excellent for this purpose.

A spray of purple goop indicates that any horizontal swipe has hit home: shell shock for the Shell Blade!

Escape the gentle and warm up a big combat. Avoid the large, electric, jellyfish beings. Currently, you have no way to defeat these foes, but when you obtain an arrow of sound!

Chamber 2: Temple Entrance (x7)

Swim to the central's top to end up in a whale pool. Clamber out and draw your sword. A giant Purple Chu is about to attack! Slice it with horizontal sword swipes, and watch it split into smaller versions. Then defeat its smaller offspring. Tackle a third Chu in the pool's southern rim. Scoop it if you need extra energy in a bottle.

Treasure Chest #4A: dealing with the Chus, dust the perimeter, smashing a couple of pots for the hearts inside. Find a small chest in the room's western end. It contains some arrows.

Treasure Chest #4

Arrows (5)

Arrows

You get arrows (20 max) Use arrows to shoot far-off foes!

The room hasn't given up all of its goods yet. Run south, and shoot out a small statue. This one offers Water Bombs.

Treasure Chest #4

Arrows (20)

Water Bombs

You get Water Bombs (10)! You can use these bombs in water, but not while swimming.

Check the chamber's western part to discover two pots, but more importantly, a Red Chu. This provides another chance to scoop up the monster after combat. Then move to the northern temple entrance, and tackle a Purple Chu.

Run up the steps to the entrance door, which is sealed. That is, until you run from the ledge and leap off, catching the large metal handle and pulling it down. This activates the door and you can move into the next chamber. However, a couple of Red Chus and a Blue Chu (which gives you an even more potent protect-solo) soar of the walls. Tag and bag them!

Missing Links

1. Chus Lots

The huge one-step in the chamber: the room drains you have that a Red Chu will fall from the ceiling. Look up to see if any are hanging around (there are five total). There are purple ones too, but they don't give you quite the energy boost.

2. Pottery Pulverizing

If there's something you can see works well in the chamber: Metal Gear Rupees (5) and green Rupees (1) from pottery you smash.

Chamber 3: Avalanche Caverns (x9)

You appear in a strange cavern with many hanging stalactites and some odd-looking creatures charging about below. Before you leap down, Midna appears and advises you to make sure those rock formations are sturdy so they don't fall on you. Allergic fun.

Midna is correct. If you continue forward, falling rocks work strike you, but you can't climb up to the opposite side and have the room without creating stopping moves from the attackers.

Bring out your hero's Bow, and combine arrows with bombs. If you have a sheet of regular bombs, use those, and shoot. Make Bombs for later. Aim for the cracks in each stalactite, and recoil each spurt of foul effluent. Hey, fall and become platforms. Be sure the room notes like this before you proceed.

Head down the slope, bring out your sword, and strip off a white stalk. Ignore the strange enemy with the armored back for the moment, and locate a couple of Bombs leaning nearby. Pick both off them, and if they explode and give you a Heart or Rupees, that's a bonus. Now, you can use the Bombs to destroy the armored creature's back. Use the Bombs' fuses to climb its pal-back up to the staging platform in the middle. Turn and head north. You have a new creature to tackle.

Helmasaur

Climb to the first southern ledge, bring up your shield, and R target a warning fire with a large armored helm. It will strike and you can flying off the ledge's side. It can push you back even if you're blocking. You cannot hurt the Helmasaur with your sword, but you can with Bombs. Throw a Bomb at the creature's head, around until you're facing its rear, then strike both a spin attack, or Hidden Skill #3, the back shot. Avoid confrontations in tacky spots such as this one, as it's difficult to get behind it. When you vanquish the Chamber Lizar to the opposition, the combat options improve immensely!

This creature is plated with an impressive armor that covers most of its body. Find that part that's exposed, and it becomes fabulous, and helpless!

The Helmasaur's carapace armor doesn't explode after combat. You can use it like a rock, and throw it as an ineffective weapon! However, there may be a different use for this in a dungeon to come...

Defeat or avoid the two Helmasaurs on this ledge and jump to the top of the stepping stones you created earlier, allowing you access up the northern slopes. Smash pottery as you go, and continue until you reach the exit door.

Treasure Chest: Don't leave the chamber yet! In the chamber's northeast corner are a couple more stepping stones and a small chest. Grab it. It's a small refuge where two pots and a tiny chest reside. Open and head back, then return to the north door and open it.

Treasure Chest #4

Water Bombs (10)

You get Water Bombs (10)! You can use these bombs in water, but not while swimming.

Missing Links

1. Pottery Pulverizing

This chamber holds a number of pots to break:

- Next to the northwestern wall on a large ledge, behind a stepping stone: Heart
- On an unreachable platform in the antigravity room on the western wall, use the Gale Boomerang: three Rupees (5)
- By a stalagmite in the upper ledge, northeast corner: Heart
- In the upper northeast corner, next to Treasure Chest #4: four Rupees (5) and arrows

Chamber 4: Connecting Bridges (x9)

Use the momentary large rock chamber with warning waters below you, and a number of refuges jutting from a central column. Look closely to see a second combat above you. For the moment, however, peer forward to see a rusty form looming at you. Bring out the sword!

Lizalfos ("Axe-tail")

Padding down the hallway at you is a species of Lizalfos, a scaly denizen with a more streak. It has two flailed attacks: a sword it carries and a tail with an axelike blade attached to it. This blade, when whipped around, can knock you off your feet. Watch for the tail's movement, and block it with your shield when it comes at you. Deflect it. Multiple simple sword strikes are required to down it. A better place to shoot Bomb Arrows from range or use the back shot. Start by R targeting, turn it with your shield to stun it, then roll around with a spin shot to expose its back!

Don't target and keep against a Lizalfos because it can often faster than you. Regroup, and turn defense into offense.

Chamber | Locked Door Leads Out of Task 2

After a cutscene finishes, start to look around your new surroundings. You have been lead to a large chamber with a locked door, and a few artifacts are scattered about the floor. Use the right stick to look up and to see if you're interested, about the large staircase.

Start one second pouring stuff. Almost methodically with the scenery to avoid getting bias, methods, whatever.

But people will flee there also point to guys per can investigate. Hurdles are on pull, or doors you can close. Follow them if you like.

You can send a locked door on the main side of the remote camera you're watching so, but it will require a melee and also some time. Instead, you can use the Time Shift ability to slow the flow of time and then run back up to the door.

Some downstairs on the floor (Out of the dungeon, as your map indicates.

Skulltch

Head up to the floor, and make sure that the stairs to the west ceiling. Don't climb around the base of the stairs don't need to, especially after now of study. It'll be all up to the first chamber, where you can help.

You'll want to check storage and the treasure behind the staircase. Once the first battle is over the room's fully cleaning, it can include a bonus after the last one. Head.

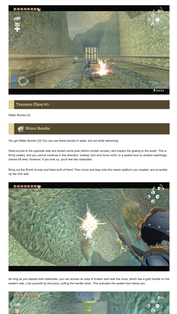
Chamber a: Fifth Return To Connecting Bridges (x5)

The locked door leads into the connecting bridge platforms. This is one you haven't visited before, so ready a sword or prepare to flee from the Hermaeus. You can easily open the door at the far end.

Chamber c: First Return To Single-Leg Crawlers (x2)

Treasure Chest: In the middle of the room, but you're above the Single Leg Crawlers when you just magnetised! Compare your in-game map bluntly. The difference is that you're currently negotiating the outer passages surrounding the central jug. Turn right to head left into Nadee. Run to the corner and open an easily overlooked chest.



Treasure Chest #1:

Small Key

Water Bombs

You get these Bombs (G) You can use these bombs in water, but not while swimming.

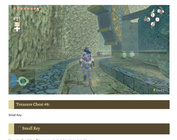
Head across to the opposite side and smash some pots (which contain arrows), and inspect the grating to the south. This is Fairly esoteric and you cannot continue in the direction. Instead, turn and move north, to a sealed door in another archway, closest off-side. However, if you look up, you'll see two stalactites.

Bring out the Bomb Arrows and blast both of them! Then move and leap onto the raised platform you created, and scramble up onto the exit spot.

As long as you blasted both stalactites, you can access an area of broken wall near the cross, which has a pot-bombs on the western side. Line yourself up and jump, pulling the bombs down. This activates the nearest door below you.

Author Note

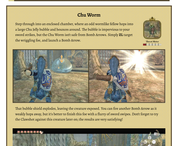
Were you stuck on this puzzle for ages, despite having all the clues (the cross, the chest with bombs, and the arrows in the pot) needed to solve it? Don't worry, we had the same problem!



Run eastward around the tower's perimeter, and pass by a door to the south wall that leads to the middle of the chamber. Ignore it for now, and continue to the eastern door. Open it, and you'll see a Deku Baba to the left, and a Bokoblin to the right. Use two Hellmaroon bows to charge. Back away from the rabbits to lead with them. Head up the slim ramp to a door, but open it in a moment.

Back up, leap to the exits of a hanging Hermaeus, and dash out some damage to its 'soma'

Finally, backtrack to the north wall door and open it. The blade is the giant jug you saw with the channel circular platforms hanging from the ceiling. Head to the area. In the chamber's central part. Begin your exploration by heading right.



Smash pottery if you wish, then leap onto the gigantic jug. A Lizalfos guarding a southeast door tries over to deal with you. A swift combination of blows and bombs makes it leave it and disappear for another day. Now open the door.

Are you feeling particularly satisfied with this, or any other sidetrack? If you defeated a strong enemy, such as this Lizalfos, you can finish your mental bowel-check with a flourish! Small stuff and pass the A button, and you perform a frenetic sword-thrashing twirl. Impressive!

After you're in this southeast perimeter path, take a light and investigate another gigantic jug, which looks like its water, unlike the previous one you saw. Head to the eastern door, and open it. Ignore the Lizalfos ahead of it. It leaves also there's a weapon you. Two steps contain a small key but not as useful in a forthcoming challenge.

Treasure Chest #4:

Small Key

Small Key

You get a Small Key. This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

This perimeter corridor's opposite end has a number of pots to smash, plus ghost Chu jellybeans to fight. Slice up a couple of Chus to lure out the third Chu. Inside from the jellies, there's Rupees and Hearts. There's a door to the east, but you can't open that door with the small key you've just found. Instead, head to the northeast door and open the chamber door.

The door at the (first ramp/crook) is actually right next to the one you couldn't reach where you were fighting the Chus. You can easily access the door now, but only in one direction!

Missing Links

1. Pulverizing Pottery

This general area has a number of pots that need smashing. Here are a few locations to look for:

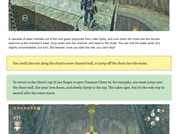
- The perimeter corridor, next to Treasure Chest #4: arrows
- The northwest ledge in the central jug chamber area: Rupees and Heart
- The south ledge in the central jug chamber area: Rupees and Heart
- The perimeter corridor, next to Treasure Chest #2: Clue Rupees (5) and Hearts
- The perimeter corridor, near the Chus in the eastern dead end: Rupees

Chamber d: Eastern Reservoir Tower (all 3x of 3x x5)

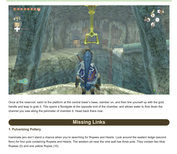
Chu Worm

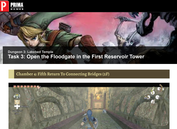
Step through into an enclosed chamber where an odd waterslide follow leaps into a large Chu Jelly bubble and bounces around. The bubble is impervious to your weapons, but it can be popped by Bombs or two Hero's Bow shots (Ice Arrows). Actually, Bo-ranger. Do-ranging Me, and Sword-a-ranch Bombs.

The bubble shield explodes, leaving the creature exposed. You can fire another bomb Arrow at a weakly leaps away, but it's better to finish this the with a flurry of sword swipes. Don't forget to try the Clawshot against the creature before you the muscle you very satisfying!



It's a wonder the Chu Worm has survived in the Hyrlan wilds. It's one of the least aggressive mites around!





Step into the small chamber and check it out thoroughly. A water channel leads to a door just to the right of the one you came through. The boards seal the perimeter of chamber A, where you fought the Chu. Don't head there yet! Instead, move to the only locked door, opposite the one with the channel under it. Use the Small Key you just found.

The arrow is a tall, circular room with a working water clock ruling up the exterior wall. This is one of two reservoir chambers for the entire reactor, and releasing water into these channels should activate the subterranean loop you've seen elsewhere.

You have to jump into the pit below the ledge you're standing on. Ignore the gold handle you can see (but not reach yet). Climb over the channel wall, and climb the chain. As you climb from the second floor to the third floor, fight a couple of Chilfos.

Treasure Chest: Continue to the chain's top, facing another Twilite on the way. As you reach the top, the channel flattens out, and there's a bridge to cross. Before you do so, head straight across the channel, to the small chest, and secure a few more bombs for the operation. Those aren't Water Bombs, so use them with your Hero's Bow against enemies on land.

Treasure Chest #5:

Bombs (10)

Bombs

You get bombs (10)!

Turn to the chain's top and investigate this area. There's a squared off arch with two ladders embedded in each side. Choose whichever one you like, and climb down to the opposite side. It matters most in here, but you can't take it yet. Instead, line yourself up with the gold handle and grab it.

A cascade of water tumbles over all the roof-grates ejected from your side Hylian, and runs down the chute into the circular channel at the chamber's base. Drop down into the channel, and head to the chute. You can ride the water down (it's slightly uncomfortable, but fun!). But beware: you'll be thrown off the end!

You could also lean along the chute's outer channel wall, or jump off the chute into the water.

Once at the reservoir, switch to the platform of the central tower's base, shimmer on, and start the pushoff up with the gold handle. Ignore the Chilfos. Instead, head to the tower's top, and open the treasure chest. Inside are arrows and a few loose Rupees (5), and one yellow Rupee (10).

Missing Links

Ironshells and don't stand a chance when you're searching for Rupees and Hearts. Look around the eastern ledge (second floor) for four pots containing Rupees and Hearts. The western pot near the exit will hide three pots. They contain two blue Rupees (5) and one yellow Rupee (10).

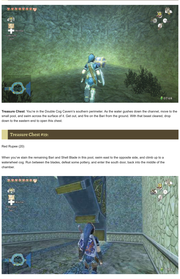
Chamber 11: Five Towers To Double Up Canon (2F To 1F)



Treasure Chest: You're in the Double Cog Cavern's southern perimeter. As the water gushes down the channel, move to the left and jump over the gap to the Treasure Chest. Open it, and fish out the Bari from the ground. With that sweet reward, drop down to the eastern exit to open the door.

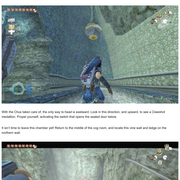
Treasure Chest #29:

Red Rupee (20)

When you've slain the remaining Bari and Shell Blade in this pool, swim east to the opposite side, and climb up to a submerged cog. Run between the towers, defeat some pottery, and enter the east exit door, back into the middle of the chamber.

Lizalfos ("Skull face")

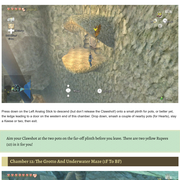
As you enter the inner chamber, a Lizalfos with a skull-shaped head rises into your view. Slay it with the same plan you used on the "axe-toll" Lizalfos atop Eldin Volcano. Use Bombs, Bombchus, and Spin Attacks, and when it's stunned Lizalfos-ringlessly-no, Kotake Te'kwochog's off his feet, and skewer it.



Treasure Chest: Before you leave via the southeast door, take the northwestern exit you propelled to earlier. This time, turn right when you exit, and you see the waterwheel moving. You can now roll between the blades and enter a previously inaccessible area. Open the Treasure Chest, Bomb, Bone Purple Chus, and eat Red Chu. The prize is a Heart Meal with bonded Heart to the two giant floor eggs.

Treasure Chest #30:

Bombs (20)



Bombs

You get bombs (20)!

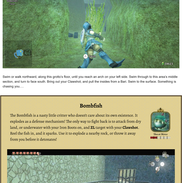
Treasure Chest: The only exit you haven't been through yet is the one in the southwest corner, so use it, turn right, and expand another treasure chest in the water channel. When you open the chest, Purple Chus drop from the ceiling. Prepare for battle!

Treasure Chest #31:

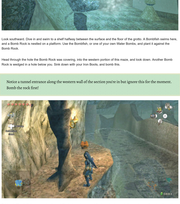
Red Rupee (20)



With the Chus taken care of, the only way to head is eastward. Look in this direction, and upward, to see a Clawshot crosshatch. Propel yourself, activating the switch that opens the eastern door below.

It isn't time to leave this chamber yet! Return to the middle of the cog room, and locate this one wall and ledge on the northern exit.

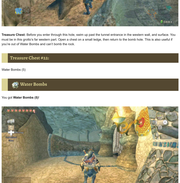
Take careful aim with your Clawshot at the medallion on the underside of the rotating cog, and aim at it. This takes some skill, so be patient.



Press down on the Left Analog Stick to descend (but don't release the Clawshot!) onto a small plinth far pole, or better yet, the ledge leading to a door on the western end of the chamber. Drop down, smash a couple of nearby pots (for Hearts), step a Bokoblin or two, then exit!

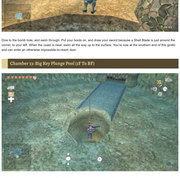
Aim your Clawshot at the two pots on the far-off plinth before you leave. There are two yellow Rupees (10) in it for you!

Chamber 12: The Grotto And Underwater Maze (1F To B1)



You appear in an enclosed grotto, with water to your right. Dive in from the ledge you're standing on, and head southward. Swim toward an underwater shelf with a couple of pots and smash them for two blue Rupees (5). Remember your location because it is easy to get lost here!

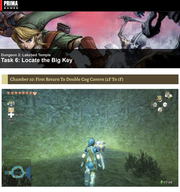
Drop in the floor of the underwater grotto, under the shelf you landed on, and prepare to tackle a Shell Blade. Use your Clawshot to stun the Shell Blade into opening its mouth, then finish it with a spin. Rinse your non-Beetle.



Swim or walk northward, along this grotto's floor, until you reach an arch on your left side. Swim through to the area's middle section, and turn to face south. Bring out your Clawshot, and pull the medals from a Bari. Swim to the surface. Something is chasing you...

Boomfish

The Boomfish is a nasty little critter who doesn't care about its own existence. It explodes as a defense mechanism! The only way to fight back is to attack from the distance with your Bow and Arrows, Clawshot, and Bombs, and with those Clawshot Bad-Bad-Bok-Bo, and it signals. Use it to explode a nearby rock, or throw it away from you before it detonates!



Look southward. Dive in and swim to a shelf halfway between the surface and the floor of the grotto. A Bombfish seems hate, and a Bomb Rock is nestled on a platform. Use the Bombfish, or one of your own Water Bombs, and plant it against the Bomb Rock.

Head through the hole the Bomb Rock was covering, into the western portion of this maze, and look down. Another Bomb Rock is wedged in a hole below you. Sink down with your Iron Boots, and bomb this.

Notice a tunnel entrance along the western wall of the section you're in but ignore this for the moment. Bomb the rock first!

Treasure Chest: Before you enter through this hole, swim up past the tunnel entrance in the western wall, and surface. You must be in this grotto's far western part. Open a chest on a small ledge, then return to the bomb hole. This is also useful if you're out of Water Bombs and can't bomb the rock.

Treasure Chest #32:

Water Bombs (5)

Water Bombs

You get Water Bombs (5)!

Dive to the bomb hole, and swim through. Put your boots on, and draw your sword because a Shell Blade is just around the corner to your left. When the coast is clear, swim all the way up to the surface. You're now at the southern end of this grotto and can enter an otherwise impossible-to-reach door.

Chamber 13: Big Key Plunge Pool (1F To B1)

The door leads to a tiny circular chamber where a Chu Worm has made its home. Grab it with the Clawshot, introduce it to your Chain Sword, and offer it's dispatched (going any answer), go on a pit-underlying expedition. Find Hearts, a blue Rupee (5), and three yellow Rupees (10) to find.

Now for the cunning part. Look up at the ceiling, and notice a Clawshot medallion. Hit it, and lower yourself through a hole in the middle of the floor. Delicately land on a tiny raised plinth, holding up ornate black sheet; kudos to the most important key!

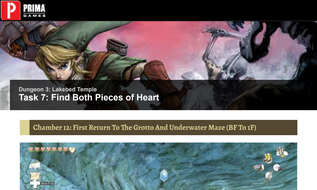
Treasure Chest #33:

Big Key

You get the Big Key! Use it to gain access to the lair of the dungeon's boss!

Bring out your Fishing Rod and rest for a moment, catching some of the many Hyallafish in this pool. There are tiny Leeches, too!

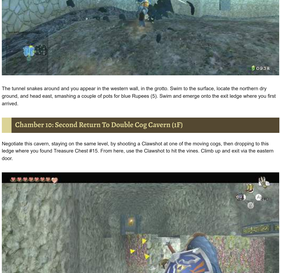
Dive off the plinth holding the chest, and into the plunge pool. Move around the chamber's perimeter, smashing pots for Hearts, and head toward the Chu Worm's hole. Stand directly above it, and swim down. Wait for the Chu Worm, and dodge when it rolls, curved manner, to the grotto below. Do this twice, then move the mound to Chu Worm.



Dungeon 3: Lakebed Temple

Task 7: Find Both Pieces of Heart

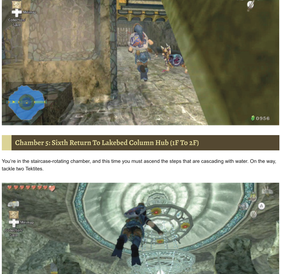
Chamber 12: First Return To The Grotto And Underwater Maze (BF To 1F)



The tunnel snakes around and you appear in the western wall, in the grotto. Swim to the surface, locate the northern dry ground, and head east, smashing a couple of pots for blue Rupees (5). Swim and emerge onto the exit ledge where you first arrived.

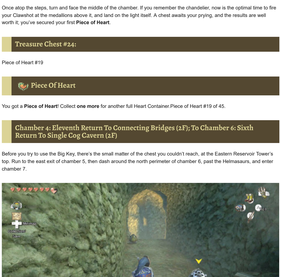
Chamber 10: Second Return To Double Cog Cavern (1F)

Negotiate this cavern, staying on the same level, by shooting a Clawshot at one of the moving cogs, then dropping to this ledge where you found Treasure Chest #15. From here, use the Clawshot to hit the vines. Climb up and exit via the eastern door.



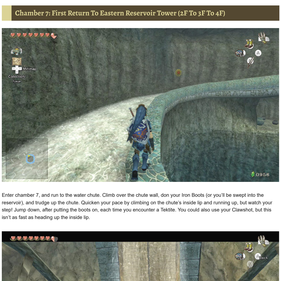
Chamber 4: Tenth Return To Connecting Bridges (1F)

You must negotiate the connecting bridges to the hub. The waterwheel is rotating against you, so roll from the side, into the space, and back out again. Open the door to the east.



Chamber 5: Sixth Return To Lakebed Column Hub (1F To 2F)

You're in the staircase-rotating chamber, and this time you must ascend the steps that are cascading with water. On the way, tackle two Tektites.



Once atop the steps, turn and face the middle of the chamber. If you remember the chandelier, now is the optimal time to fire your Clawshot at the medallions above it, and land on the light itself. A chest awaits your prying, and the results are well worth it; you've secured your first Piece of Heart.

Treasure Chest #24:

Piece of Heart #19

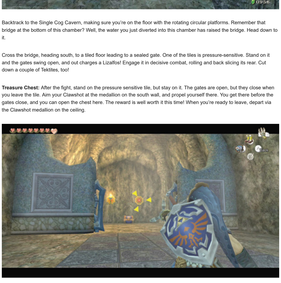
Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect one more for another full Heart Container.Piece of Heart #19 of 45.

Chamber 4: Eleventh Return To Connecting Bridges (1F); To Chamber 6: Sixth Return To Single Cog Cavern (1F)

Before you try to use the Big Key, there's the small matter of the chest you couldn't reach, at the Eastern Reservoir Tower's top. Run to the east exit of chamber 5, then dash around the north perimeter of chamber 6, past the Helmasaurs, and enter chamber 7.

Chamber 7: First Return To Eastern Reservoir Tower (1F To 3F To 4F)



Enter chamber 7, and run to the water chute. Climb over the chute wall, don your Iron Boots (or you'll be swept into the reservoir), and trudge up the chute. Quicken your pace by climbing on the chute's inside lip and running up, but watch your step! Jump down, after putting the boots on, each time you encounter a Tektite. You could also use your Clawshot, but this isn't as fast as heading up the inside lip.

You reach the chute's top and can bring out your Clawshot. Aim at either medallion, fly through the waterfall, and land by the chest you couldn't reach earlier. The prize you came all this way for? Why, no less than the Y Hylian Letter Stamp!

Treasure Chest #25:

Hylian Letter Stamp Y

Chamber 4: Twelfth Return To Connecting Bridges (2F); To Chamber 6: Seventh Return To Single Cog Cavern (2F); To Seventh Return To Lakebed Column Hub (2F To 1F)

Head through the dungeon to the Lakebed Column Hub, and drop to the first floor. You're looking for this gold handle, in the eastern area. Pull down hard on it, and divert the water flow from the dungeon's western part, into the east, for the first time.

Chamber 4: Thirteenth Return To Connecting Bridges (1F); To Chamber 6: Eighth Return To Single Cog Cavern (1F)

Backtrack to the Single Cog Cavern, making sure you're on the floor with the rotating circular platforms. Remember that bridge at the bottom of this chamber? Well, the water you just diverted into this chamber has raised the bridge. Head down to it.

Cross the bridge, heading south, to a tiled floor leading to a sealed gate. One of the tiles is pressure-sensitive. Stand on it and the gates swing open, and out charges a Lizalfos! Engage it in decisive combat, rolling and back slicing its rear. Cut down a couple of Tektites, too!

Treasure Chest: After the fight, stand on the pressure sensitive tile, but stay on it. The gates are open, but they close when you leave the tile. Aim your Clawshot at the medallion on the south wall, and propel yourself there. You get there before the gates close, and you can open the chest here. The reward is well worth it this time! When you're ready to leave, depart via the Clawshot medallion on the ceiling.

Treasure Chest #26:

Piece of Heart #20

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! You collected five Pieces and formed a new Heart Container. Piece of Heart #20 of 45.

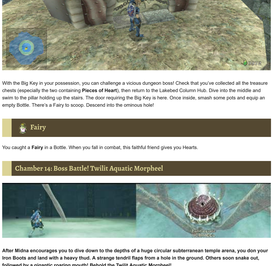
Task 8: Defeat Twilit Aquatic Morpheel

Chamber 4: Fourteenth Return To Connecting Bridges (1F); To Eighth Return To Lakebed Column Hub (1F)



With the Big Key in your possession, you can challenge a vicious dungeon boss! Check that you've collected all the treasure chests (especially the two containing Pieces of Heart), then return to the Lakebed Column Hub. Dive into the middle and swim to the pillar holding up the stairs. The door requiring the Big Key is here. Once inside, smash some pots and equip an empty Bottle. There's a Fairy to scoop. Descend into the ominous hole!

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle. When you fall in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

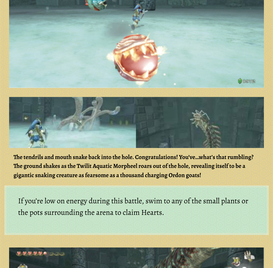
Chamber 14: Boss Battle! Twilit Aquatic Morpheel

After Midna encourages you to dive down to the depths of a huge circular subterranean temple arena, you don your Iron Boots and land with a heavy thud. A strange tendril flops from a hole in the ground. Others soon snake out, followed by a gigantic roaring mouth! Behold the Twilit Aquatic Morpheel!

Twilit Aquatic Morpheel

Step 1: You're wearing your Iron Boots, and this makes you a target for the beast's tendrils. Expect to be scooped up by one, then dropped into its giant maw! If this happens, take off your boots, and swim away from the creature.

Step 2: Ready your Clawshot, and ZL target onto the gruesome eyeball that's running up and down the inside of one of the tendrils. Shoot the Clawshot when you get a lock. The eyeball pops out, and lands at your feet!

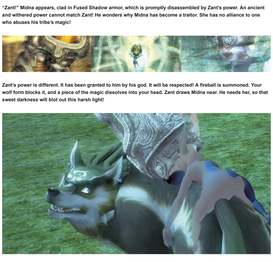


Step 3: The eyeball bounces erratically, trying to get away. As you reel it in with your Clawshot, bring out your sword, and slash the eyeball as many times as you can before it floats inside the Morpheel's tendril.

Step 4: Beware! As the eyeball is being struck, the Morpheel releases four or five Bombfish!, which swim directly toward you! They land at your feet. Spin attack so they flash red, then swim away from them. If you don't, you're caught in the explosion. Repeat all steps until you've struck the eyeball a good 10 or so times.

The tendrils and mouth snake back into the hole. Congratulations! You're...what's that rumbling! The ground shakes as the Twilit Aquatic Morpheel roars out of the hole, revealing itself to be a gigantic snaking creature as fearsome as a thousand charging Ordon goats!

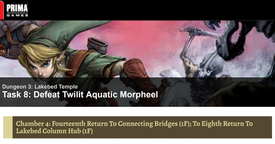
If you're low on energy during this battle, swim to any of the small plants or the pots surrounding the arena to claim Hearts.



Step 5: The Morpheel swims about this arena in a rage, knocking over the finest Zora columns. Watch for chunks falling near or on you. Swim away from the Morpheel until it finishes ramming the scenery. Talk to Midna and she recommends some tactics.

Step 6: Swim alongside the Morpheel, or veer the top of it, and attempt to secure a ZL target. With your Clawshot, aim at the eye, propel yourself onto the beast's back, then take out your sword, and stab it consecutive times into that eyeball!

Repeat Step 6 until the Morpheel gives up the fight, and the eyeball spills the last of its ink.



The Twilit Aquatic Morpheel swims erratically, slamming into columns, and thrashing through the water until it falls forward, and rams maw-first into the side of the arena wall. This springs a large leak, and the entire arena drains away in seconds. The eyeball explodes, and the beast disintegrates in a shower of shadows.

Midna appears, as the shadows form the last part of the Fused Shadow she's been after. She's now ready to face Zant, King of Shadows. She apologizes for ordering you around Hyrule, and creates a warp portal out of here. She's ready when you are. Walk over to the Heart Container and pick it up. Now you're ready to leave!

Heart Container

You got a Heart Container (#3 of 8). Your life energy has increased by one and been fully replenished!

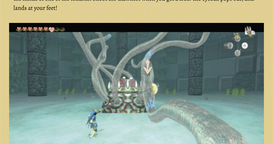
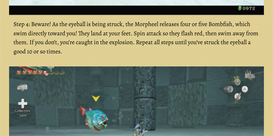
You're transported to the spirit cave near Lake Hylia. You turn around and are shocked to see a giant armored figure behind you! Clad in ceremonial shadow armor, Zant remains motionless as the Spirit Lanaryu rises from his lake.

Zant releases a shockwave of energy that knocks you off your feet and strikes the Spirit Lanaryu with the full force of a tyrant magician. Lanaryu loses power, and the light sinks into the lake. The cave is bathed in twilight!



"Zant!" Midna appears, clad in Fused Shadow armor, which is promptly disassembled by Zant's power. An ancient and withered power cannot match Zant! He wonders why Midna has become a traitor. She has no alliance to one who abuses his tribe's magic!

Zant's power is different. It has been granted to him by his god. It will be respected! A fireball is summoned. Your wolf form blocks it, and a piece of the magic dissolves into your head. Zant draws Midna near. He needs her, so that sweet darkness will blot out this harsh light!



Midna turns to help you. She will then, says Zant, learn the error of her ways. He summons Spirit Lanaryu, who blasts the full force of light at her! She collapses. You are transported to Hyrule Field. The shard of magic embedded in you.... Midna's weakened state.... Princess Zelda will know what to do!

Overworld: The Great Hylian Treasure Hunt

The Great Hylian Treasure Hunt: Overview

The time has come to explore the grassy plains, rolling hills, and pristine waters of Hyrule! First however, you must travel to Zelda, who is the only one with the knowledge to heal your badly battered companion, Midna. She, in turn, reveals the location of a fabled weapon, the Master Sword, that only a true hero of the goddesses can wield! After an altercation with a strange, horn-playing, skull-faced child, you gain the sword. You can bring it to bear on foes, as you can transform between wolf and human at will!

This allows you to explore the lands for hours at a time, and the optimal path to take is shown here. You'll need to commence a search for evil spirits called Imp Poes who have stolen a man's soul, and more outrageously, frozen his cat to his head! Continue your search while helping the Gorons build a bridge to Castle Town, allowing you to finally purchase the finest armor money can buy (and keep buying, as you'll find out!). Once the Magic Armor is yours, you can finally meet up with a group of like-minded heroes, and journey to the windswept Gerudo Desert, where your next fabled item—the Mirror of Twilight—and dungeon awaits….

Chapter 7: Journey to Princess Zaha

Time 7: Journey to Princess Zaha

The Route To Kairos Castle To Waterfall

The height you need to reach Princess Zahra is the final level of the castle, above the throne room and you need to find the entrance to the tower. Go to the top of the throne room and you'll see a wall you can run on.

Waterway 1 Area

1. Flipping for Victory

Run along the wall and flip off the pole, you can also perform a wall run to gain more height, but this is not necessary.

Use the pole here, as the wall is too short for a wall run.

Use a wall run to cross to the next pole. Notice also some statues. We have one in our sweets for archive-hard-along-from-the-statue-of-the-sun-and-the-statue-of-the-moon.

To reach the upper ledge, you perform and execute a wall run to the end of the castle in the other corner. Use this to jump off and through the window.

The Route To Kairos Castle Across The Arch

Reach an, although your mission will be to smash every pot and bowl on these stages, if the Prince is not following, he will wait at an entrance like this one.

Kairos can still walk on the arch, but it is much harder to control. Watch out for the pots on the ground, as they can be damaged there if you destroy them by mistake. Also, be careful not to fall off the arch, as it is a long way down

Puppet

Puppet

Puppet are strange, softly moving creatures that inhabit the Water Temple. Read their descriptions in the Bestiary. Puppet are not dangerous, but they can be annoying. Their bodies are made of a soft, gelatinous substance that can be easily damaged by sharp objects. They can also be frozen by ice magic, which can be useful for temporarily disabling them. Be careful not to accidentally damage or freeze them, as this will make your job more difficult.

Before you leave the room, be sure to collect the Small Key on the ledge above the entrance. This key will be useful later in the dungeon. Also, take a moment to look around and familiarize yourself with the layout of the room. You will be returning to this room frequently throughout your journey in the Water Temple.

Hookshot Target

Hookshot Target

Before you continue, use the Hookshot to hit the Hookshot Target above the door. If you don't have the Hookshot, you can't proceed through the door. Hookshot Targets are found throughout the Water Temple and are used to activate various mechanisms and open doors.

First, head back into the Bola Mart, and speak with Tim Shoni. He's decided to start another donation scheme to buy out Rupees. The cost to repair is just 3,000 Rupees! However, if you helped with the bridge, your donation goes down to 20.

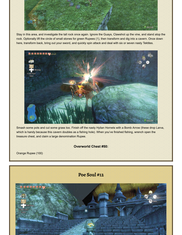
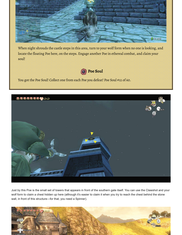
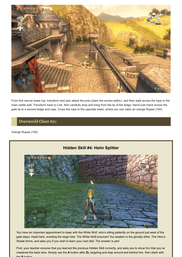
You begin in the south part of the Hyrule Field area. Stop by the stage, as you don't attempt any attention. Climb the field's underside, up up ahead Tower this map. The only need to worry about are a couple of Bubbles, but you can walk around them.





> Do not accidentally throw the barrel! Always stop, then place the barrel down, if you're attacked. If the barrel smashes, you'll have to retrace to Eric Loggs for another!

When you reach the key Goron, stand near her, make sure you like up correctly, and throw the barrel at her. The Goron is congested and can reopen the material and a Castle Town! He leaves you a barrel pdf!



Pieces Of Heart

Run along the path heading to the castle where another Goron stands. He could need his way through this landslide if he had the Hot Springwater. Produce the bottle, and give it to him. Don't accidentally use it yourself! The Goron begins to loosen the rubble with gusts! Return here after calling another once, and the path is open.

Dig Cavern #4

Stay in the area, and investigate the tall rock once again. Ignore the Goron. Dowsnerd up the one, and stand near the rock. Optionally hit the circle of small stones for green Rupees (1), then transition and dig into a cavern!. Once down here, transition back, bring out your sword, and quickly aim attack and deal with all or seven rocks. Nibbles.

Walkthrough: The Great Hyrule Adventure
Task 9: Obtain the Magic Armor

The Great Hyrule Idol Poet Hears Walking Sweatshoes And Magic Armor

Return to the Wetlands Stable with Epona. Ride her to the Lookout Landing and then ride her to the Lanayru Mining Facility. Ride her to the Gerudo Desert. Ride her to the Faron Woods. Ride her to the Ordon Province. Ride her to the Eldin Province. Ride her to the Hyrule Field. Ride her to the Castle Town. Ride her to the Outskirts Stable.

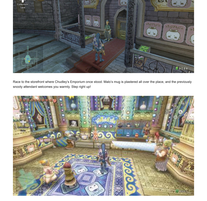
You've advanced to build the bridge linking Hyrule field to Castle Town (east) for the following reasons

- You can usually reach Castle Town, but, from Kakariko Village.
- You receive a reward for building the bridge.
- The Magic Armor and other discovered items are not available until you discuss to the Doorstep, and this works out cheaper to travel there.
- Your next destination is Kakariko Village, but you need to visit Epona, not a Link. Even before reporting the bridge, Link Epona used a short opening of the event. Use with reporting the bridge, Link Epona is Link for the bridge. Link for the event.

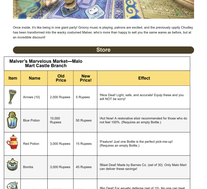
When you leave Kakariko Village and head into your next area (either after warping or riding), expect an appearance by The Bomber. He has a letter from Ilia, who's making you a special offer of Magic Armor in the grand opening special (limit one). That was quick work!

Letter #6

You get Letter #6, "Renew, come together!" by Malo Mart.



Race to the storefront where Chuckle's Emporium once stood. Malo's mug is plastered all over the place, and the previously sorely attendant welcomes you warmly. Step right up!



Once inside, it's like being in one giant party! Groovy music is playing, patrons are excited, and the previously uppity Chuckles has been transformed into the easily costumed Malo, who is more than happy to sell you the same wares as before, but at an incredible discount!

The Magic Armor

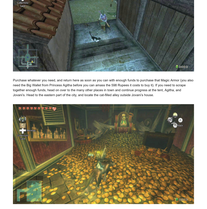
The Magic Armor is the finest armor you can wear. It magically sucks Rupees from your wallet.

- Put it on, and you're completely invincible!
- However, every second you wear the armor, it magically sucks Rupees from your wallet.
- This means you must have a plentiful supply of Rupees! Why?
- Because when you run out of money, your soul becomes absent immediately. Take it off at once.
- Don't worry about the cost once you've defeated Ganondorf and completed the walkthrough will recommend it often.
- You don't need to worry about maxing out your Wallet when raiding treasure chests any more! Simply keep the Magic Armor on, and the Rupees won't be large denomination Rupees you just found can fit, and take the amount of again.

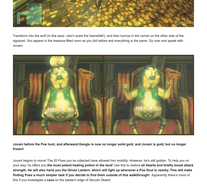
The Magic Armor offers invincibility, but at a price! Head back to Kakariko Village, and you can dance with the Gorons!

Magic Armor

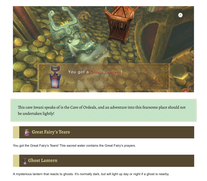
You get the Magic Armor!



Purchase whatever you need, and return here as soon as you can with enough funds to purchase that Magic Armor (you also need the big Wallet from Princess Agitha before you can amass the 598 Rupees it costs to buy it). If you need to scrape together some Rupees, head to the Outskirts Stable and defeat the Bokoblins that appear (you can hunt, fight, and search). Head to the eastern part of the city, and locate the old Malo alley; outside Joveck's house.



Transform into the wolf (in this area—don't waste the transform!), and then burrow in the corner on the other side of the signpost. You appear in the treasure Hole next to you and before and everything is the same. Go over and speak with Joveck.



Joveck before the Five hunt, and afterward Georgie is now no longer sold gold, and Joveck is gold, but no longer known!

Joveck begins to mock! The 20 Poes you've collected have allowed him visibility. However, he's still golden. To help you on your quest, he'll sell you the Great Eye for 1,000 Rupees. This is a powerful item that will help you find Poes. It also has a Shield strength, but will also hand you the Great Lantern, which will light up whenever a Poe Soul is nearby. This will make finding Poes a much simpler task if you decide to find them outside of this walkthrough! Apparently, there's more of that if you investigate a cave on the western edge of Gerudo Desert.

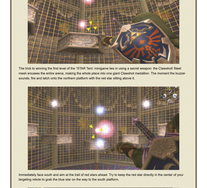
This cave inexact speaks of is the Cave of Ordeals, and as adventurer into this fearsome place should not be undertaken lightly!

Great Fairy's Tears

You get the Great Fairy's Tears! This sacred water contains the Great Fairy's prayers.

Ghost Lanterns

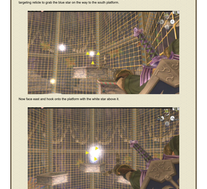
A mysterious lantern that hauls to ghosts. It's normally dark, but will light up dog or night if a ghost is nearby.



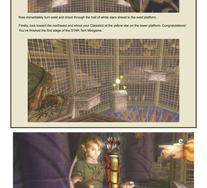
Now travel toward the tent on the same stretch of road as Agitha and Fanadi's palace. Step inside and speak to Purlo. Now that you have the Clawshot, you can effectively dominate the "STAR Tent" minigame!

STAR Tent Minigame

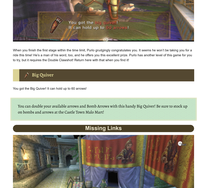
Level 1: Easy



The trick to winning the first level of the "STAR Tent" minigame lies in using a secret weapon: the Clawshot! Dead-match-ensnare the entire arena, making the whole place into your own giant Clawshot retaliation. The moment the buzzer sounds, the red team wins the number-collection with the red star sitting around it.



Immediately face south and aim at the trail of red stars ahead. Try to keep the red star directly in the center of your targeting reticle to grab the blue star on the way to the south platform.



Now face east and hook onto the platform with the white star above it.

Now immediately turn west and shoot through the trail of white stars ahead to the west platform.

Finally, look toward the northwest and shoot your Clawshot at the yellow star on the tower platform. Congratulations! You've finished the first stage of the STAR Tent Minigame.

When you finish the first stage within the time limit, Purlo grudgingly congratulates you. It seems he won't be taking you for a ride this time! He's a man of his word, too, and he offers you the wonderful prize: Purlo has another level of this game for you to try, but it requires the Double Clawshot! Return here with that when you find it!

Big Quiver

You get the Big Quiver! It can hold up to 60 arrows!

You can double your available arrows and Bomb Arrows with this handy Big Quiver! Be sure to snack up on bombs and arrows at the Castle Town Malo Mart!

Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

The Arbiter's Grounds: Overview

Adungeon half sunk into the Gerudo Desert holds the key to righting the wrongs of the twilight world, and Midna is determined to locate the Mirror of Twilight that's supposedly hidden inside. You should be more concerned with the sinking sands that suck you down. This dungeon is the home to four Poes. These priest-like ghoulish foes get added to your Jovani soul collection, but they also light the way to the second part of these catacombs. Then you must negotiate some fearsome new enemies, including the horrific Redead and Stalfos. Only after you defeat them, and a giant ethereal spirit carrying the biggest sword you've ever seen, can you obtain your next major item: the Spinner. Once you've figured out how to travel on this device, you'll use it to gain access to the final chamber: a gigantic pit, where the remains of a Stalord lies. Let's hope Zant doesn't arrive and hinder your progress…

Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

Task 2: Locate and Defeat the Second Poe

Chamber 5: Circular Rotation Chamber (BF To 1F)

Head down into the basement level of the Circular Rotation Chamber. In sense view, you can see that the Poe's Scent trail disappears up into a square hole in the ceiling. First, savage a Bubble. Then smash all pots and skulls for a few arrows and Rupees.

> Make sure you know which floor you're on, as this chamber looks the same on multiple floors!

Check the room thoroughly and you'll find a large stone lever on the central pillar. Shove this counter-clockwise,, and the entire room shifts, exposing a small antechamber in the north. Uh-oh! What's that?!

Redead

The Redead, a mummified foe brought back to life, is a terrifying entity to behold. He attacks with a paralyzing scream, which stops you in your tracks. Then he cuts you down with a nasty sword pound. Step back, ZL target, and then fire two Bomb Arrows into the monster. If you don't have any of Bomb Arrows, leap onto the corpse in wolf form, and bite it until it yields.

Treasure Chest: The Redead was guarding a tiny chest. Inside is a Small Key, which you need to continue. Now look up through the gap in the ceiling. This has revolved too, and there's a Clawshot medallion up here. That way, you don't have to shift the entire room to leave. Propel yourself up into the first floor of this chamber, slice some Rats, and switch your sense view on.

Treasure Chest #4:

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber 6: Lantern Chamber

Poe Soul #39

From this chamber, head north, and open an unlocked door while in wolf form. This leads to a Lantern Chamber with a few Bubbles to fight and some debris to smash for Hearts. Your larger concern, as the scent has led you straight here, is a Poe that's hiding. Look for the lamp in the west wall that's not attached and is bobbing slightly. Turn on your sense view, and bite!

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #39 of 60.

Task 3: Locate and Defeat the Third Poe

Chamber 6: First Return To Circular Rotation Chamber (1F To BF), To First Return To Grand Ceremonial Hallway

You must return to the Grand Ceremonial Hallway as the light can float into the ceremonial torch. Head south, back to the rotation chamber, and drop down to the basement level. Rotate the pillar and head up the stairs. Two torches of the four are now lit!

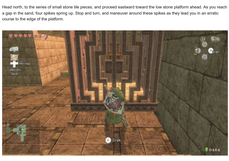
Chamber 5: Second Return To Circular Rotation Chamber (1F)

Look around the hallway, and you'll see scant from the last two torches. Follow the trail that leads eastward, back to the Circular Rotation Chamber. Dash around the pillar and then use the Small Key you found to open the locked door.

Chamber 7: Chandelier Chamber And Statue Room (1F To 2F)

Enter the large chamber and switch on your sense view. The Poe's Scent trails off to the south, through the entrance. Step forward and make a sweep of the area, smashing pots and skulls. Then use your Clawshot to extract the Moldorm from the sand so he won't bother you during the objective to come.

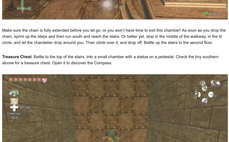
Head north, to the series of small stone tile pieces, and proceed eastward toward the low stone platform ahead. As you reach a gap in the sand, four spikes spring up. Stop and turn, and maneuver around these spikes as they lead you in an erratic course to the edge of the platform.



Head north, to the series of small stone tile pieces, and proceed eastward toward the low stone platform ahead. As you reach a gap in the sand, four spikes spring up. Stop and turn, and maneuver around these spikes as they lead you in an erratic course to the edge of the platform.

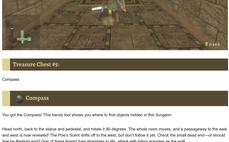
Once on the platform, head to the cube-shaped switchlock blocking your path. Pull it back, then slot it into the gap between the upper stone platforms to the side. This reveals a Clawshot medallion, which you can use if you decide to return here.

Now head up the steps, and your path is blocked by a giant chandelier. Turn left and climb up onto the upper stone platform. Ignore the nearby rocking spike log and locate the chain handle. Wrench the chain back until the chandelier has risen off the ground. You need to stand on the cube you just pushed to fully extend the chain.



Make sure the chain is fully extended before you let go, or you won't have time to exit this chamber! As soon as you drop the chain, sprint up the steps and then run south and reach the stairs. Or better yet, stop in the middle of the walkway, in the B circle, and let the chandelier drop around you. Then climb over it, and drop off. Battle up the stairs to the second floor.

Treasure Chest: Battle to the top of the stairs, into a small chamber with a statue on a pedestal. Check the tiny southern alcove for a treasure chest. Open it to discover the Compass.



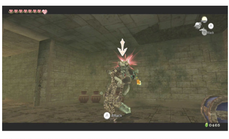
Treasure Chest #5:

Compass

Compass

You got the Compass! This handy tool shows you where to find objects hidden in this dungeon.

Head north, back to the statue and pedestal, and rotate it 90 degrees. The whole room moves, and a passageway to the east and west is now revealed! The Poe's Scent drifts off to the west, but don't follow it yet. Check the small dead end—or shrub that be Redead era? One of these feared foes shambles to life, attack with biting grapples as the wolf.



Treasure Chest: Inspect the room thoroughly. Redeads usually drop a red Rupee (20), so steal that, then the arrows, Rupees, and Hearts from nearby pots. Finally, pry open the chest for another Small Key!

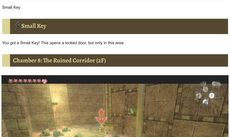
Treasure Chest #6:

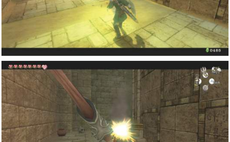
Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber 8: The Ruined Corridor (2F)

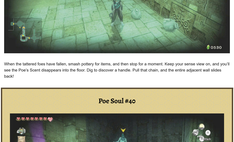




Head back to the pedestal statue, and go around to the locked door in the opposite wall. Use the key and step through into a corridor with ruined floors. The scent wafts through here. Follow the corridor around, using your sword to defeat the Stalkins wobbling toward you. Turn the corner to face north, and you see a Redead behind these Stalkins, so keep your distance, retreating a little until all the Stalkins have come to you. Then aim and fire two Bomb Arrows at the Redead, or attack in wolf form. Continue around the next corner, and repeat the plan on a second Redead!

When the tattered foes have fallen, smash pottery for items, and then stop for a moment. Keep your sense view on, and you'll see the Poe's Scent disappears into the floor. Dig to discover a handle. Pull that chain, and the entire adjacent wall slides back!

Poe Soul #40



This reveals the third Poe's hiding spot, which doesn't even appear on the map! Bare your fangs and attack! Once you defeat the Poe, he deflates, and the torch light returns to the Grand Ceremonial Hallway. Check this secret room for a pot with a Heart in it.

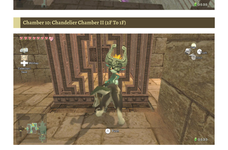
Ghoul Rat

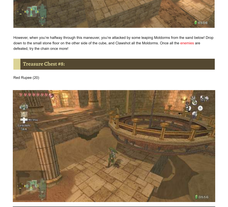
Step back into the center of the chamber, and you realize you're covered with gruesome Ghoul Eyes. They don't actually burn you. They just slow you down, leaving you open to other creatures! Transform in the void, turn Senses on, and spin attack to shake them all off. Then pounce or bite to finish the stragglers.



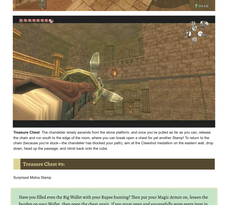
Chamber 4: Second Return To Grand Ceremonial Hallway (2F)

After the Ghoul Rats exit via the door in the opposite wall. The Small Key you just acquired lets you through. You return to the Grand Ceremonial Hallway, only this time you're looking out on the second floor. The third torch is lit! Now leap across to the chandelier, as you Rat's Scent shows that the Poe passed through the door opposite. Leap again, and leave via the western door.

Chamber 10: Chandelier Chamber II (2F To 1F)



You appear on a balcony overlooking another large chandelier and sand. The scent is wafting south, through an opening on the other side. You'll jump onto that chandelier in the steps, and then leap to another gated cube with a stone top. Drop down and push it westward until it sinks into place.

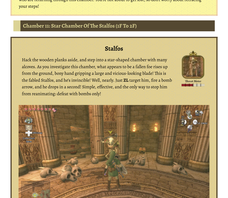


Treasure Chest. This allows you to scrabble up and onto the cube and yank a chain, but don't attempt this yet. Moving the cube allowed you to enter a small passageway with a chest just inside. The passageway leads back to a couple of Bubblers, and some scarabs to smash, and then to the Grand Ceremonial Hallway. You could have opened this chest earlier, but this is the most optimal path; so open it now. Now return to pulling the chain out from the wall to lift the chandelier.

However, when you're halfway through this maneuver, you're attacked by some leaping Mobloms from the sand below! Drop down to the small stone floor on the other side of the cube, and Clawshot at the Mobloms. Once all the enemies are defeated, try the chain once more!

Treasure Chest #8:

Red Rupee (20)



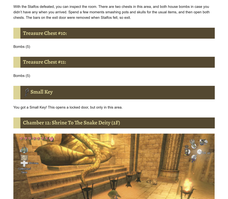
Treasure Chest: The chandelier slowly ascends from the stone platform, and once you're pulled as far as you can, release the chain and run south to the edge of the room, where you can break open a chest for yet another Stamp! To return to the chain (because you're stuck—the chandelier has blocked your path), aim at the Clawshot medallion on the eastern wall, drop down, head up the passage, and climb back onto the cube.

Treasure Chest #9:

Surprised Moline Stamp

Have you filled even the Big Wallet with your Rupee hunting? Then put your Magic Armor on, lessen the burden on your Wallet, then open the chest again, if you must open and successfully store every item in this dungeon!

When the chandelier is fully extended, run and stand in the middle of it (the lower stone square indicates where this is), and then Clawshot at the medallion. Ride the chain to the top, and move to the edge. Leap across the gap, and roll into the unlocked door where the Poe's Scent is drifting through.



If you look carefully, you see an additional Clawshot medallion on the north wall. This is for adventurers who are returning through this chamber. You're not about to get lost, so don't worry about retracing your steps!

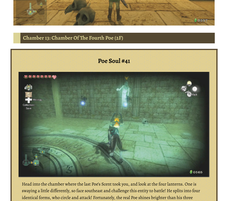
Chamber 11: Bzz Chamber Of The Stallos (1F To 2F)

Stallos

Hack the wooden planks aside, and step into a star-shaped chamber with many alcoves. As you investigate this chamber, what appears to be a Kikos for sizes up from the ground, bony-hand gripping a large and vicious-looking blade! This is the fabled Stallos, and he's invincible! Well, mostly. Just B, target him, flex a bomb arrow, and he drops in a second! Simple, effective, and the only way to stop him from incriminating defeat with bombs only!

This fearsome warrior keeps coming back for more! That is, until you explode him!

If you don't have bombs, search the alcoves for them, then shield attack, knock the Stallos down with a barrage of sword strikes, and lay a bomb on his remains. This is the key way to defeating him!



With the Stallos defeated, you can inspect the room. There are two chests in this area, and both house bombs in case you didn't have any when you arrived. Spend a few moments smashing pots and skulls for the usual items, and then open both chests. The bees on the wall door were removed when Stallos fell, so exit.

Treasure Chest #10:

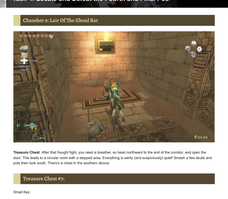
Chamber 12: Shrine To The Snake Deity (1F)



Head south up the stairs, following the scent trail, which floats left, and disappears into a well in the eastern part of this shrine. A giant statue sits with a snake wrapped around her. In front are five unlit torches in a line, and one in front of you. Light any of the back torches, except the one on the far left, and a dozen Skeletra rise from the sand, and advance!

There's some sort of order to this torch-lighting business, so switch to your sense view, and you'll see the Poe's Scent wafted against the front torch, and the back left one. Light these two torches only, and the wall rumbles open.

Chamber 13: Chamber Of The Fourth Poe (1F)

Poe Soul #41

Head into the chamber where the last Poe's Scent took you, and look at the four lanterns. One is swaying a little differently, so face southeast and challenge this entity to battle! Six spins into four identical forms, who circle and attack! Fortunately, the real Poe shines brighter than his three clones, so L target him, and launch into a bite. Do this again until the Poe deflates. Then smash some scenery and leave by the north door.

Poe Soul

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #41 of 60.

Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

Task 6: Obtain the Big Key

Chamber 18: First Return To Chamber Of Traps

Exit the domain of Death Sword, and inspect the previous chamber. Look carefully, and you'll see a groove in the right wall, so produce your Spinner and ride it around. As you reach the western sandy pad you haven't explored before, press Y to jump off the groove, and steer it to the opposite wall. Ride this up the slope, to the exit door.

Chamber 20: Spinner's Paradise (B1 To 1F)

Enter this giant chamber and you can uncover the Spinner's full potential Here's the quickest route out of here: begin by speeding west on your Spinner, using the low grooves to bounce between.

Stop here, on the lower ground, climb over the low groove wall, and open this chest.

Treasure Chest #14:

Bombs (10)

Spin across the sand to the next chest, on the second stone tile area. Open this too.

Treasure Chest #15:

Red Rupee (20)

Now get back on the Spinner, and head between these two low groove walls. Continue in an easterly direction.

Then follow the sloping wall with the groove in a semicircle until you're traveling east. Drop off the end and land in the second part of the floor below.

Continue to stand on the Spinner until you reach this upper area, and optionally knock into the Stalfos. Get off the Spinner, then engage the Stalfos in combat, ideally with Bomb Arrows. Then pry open this chest. This one's a keeper!

Treasure Chest #16:

Piece of Heart #28

Piece Of Heart

You get a Piece of Heart! Collect two more for another full Heart Container. Piece of Heart #28 of 45.

Turn and stand on the Spinner, then face west and ride along the right groove wall, timing the move so you aren't struck by the rotating spike trap. When you reach this point, as the wall runs out, press Y and hop across to the other wall, then back again. This leads to another leap across to a circular groove track.

Before you make this jump, drop off the right wall at this point. A chest is cunningly hidden below you.

Treasure Chest #17:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Stop the Spinner, and land on the small slightly domed island in the chamber's southwest corner. Stand on the Spinner again, and this time ride in the opposite direction, counter-clockwise around the chamber's outer perimeter. At the end of the groove, drop to the northern section of this area.

Land in this northern area, which is one long grooved chamber, and ride the Spinner to the east, locating this chest. Drop down, then engage two Stalfos in battle. Fire off two Bomb Arrows to defeat each one, then pry open this chest.

Travel to the far western end of this grooved section, to a ramp in the middle. Ride the Spinner eastward now, staying on each groove until you're about to be struck by a spiked Spinner, then leaping across with Y. Dodge the Spinners until you reach the exit door.

Treasure Chest #18:

Hylian Letter Stamp D

Chamber 21: Big Key Passage

The exit from Spinner's Paradise dumps you back in the midst of the dungeon, in the small first chamber where you saw the Big Key chest so you can claim this most important item. Then use the Spinner to head back to Chamber #14.

Treasure Chest #19:

Big Key

Dungeon 4: Arbiter's Grounds

Task 7: Ascend the Great Spiral Shaft

Chamber 14: First Return To Spinner Cog Room

It now becomes clear what the circular groove in the floor was for; insert the Spinner by standing on the groove, and then begin to tap the Y button quickly to activate a series of cogs under the stone floor. This eventually causes the entire room to shift. Head north, into the chamber that's been revealed.

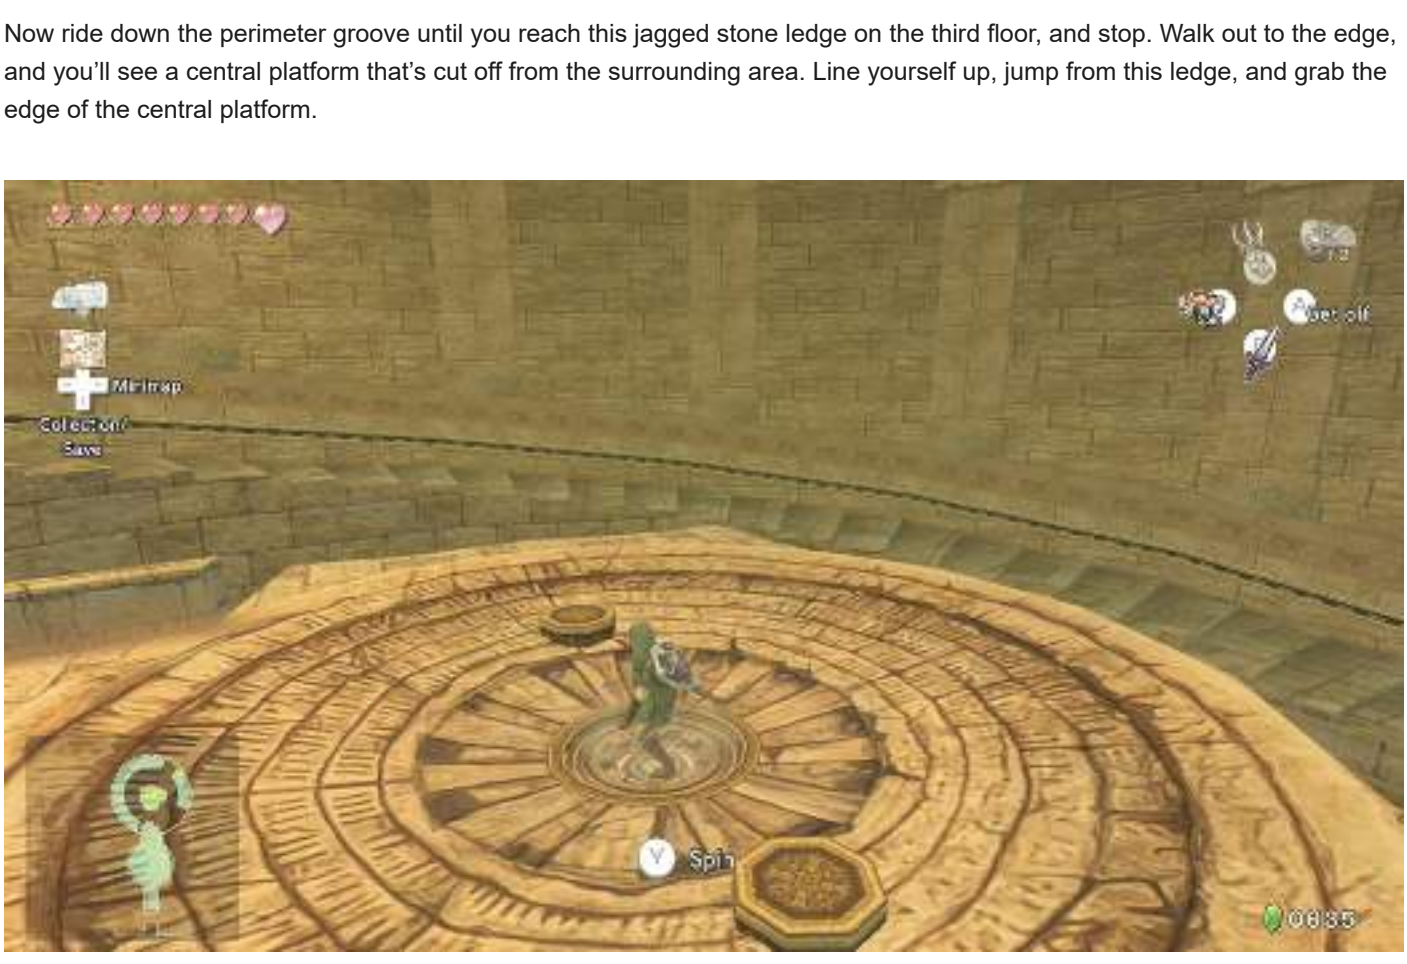
Chamber 22: The Great Spiral Shaft (1F To 2F To 3F To 4F)

Enter this chamber by Spinner, and locate the groove on the outer wall. Ride this to the very top, to a small crumbling ledge with iron bars protruding from it. Drop down, and smash the skulls. One has a Fairy in it. If you don't have one already, grab it and place it in a Bottle.

Fairy In A Bottle

You got a Fairy in a Bottle!

Now ride down the perimeter groove until you reach this jagged stone ledge on the third floor, and stop. Walk out to the edge, and you'll see a central platform that's cut off from the surrounding area. Line yourself up, jump from this ledge, and grab the edge of the central platform.



Pull yourself up onto the platform, and bring out the Spinner. Slot it into the circular groove, and begin to rapidly tap Y to spin the device. A massive grinding noise signifies a giant spiral groove appearing from the sand below!

Hop on the groove at any point, and ride it up to the fourth floor. The spiral groove leads you to a short ramp with a door at the end. Use the Big Key to open the door, head through, and face your final foe!

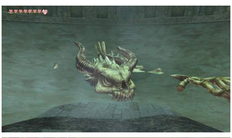
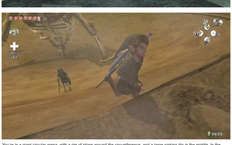
Dungeon 4: Arkhan's Grounds

Task 8: Defeat Twilit Fossil Stallord in Combat

Chamber 13: Boss Battle! Lair Of Twilit Fossil Stallord





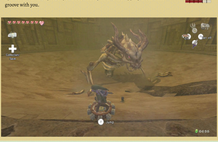
You're in a giant circular arena, with a rim of stone around the circumference, and a large sinking dip in the middle. In the sand is a gigantic skeletal beast.

Twilit Fossil Stallord

As you run down to inspect the bones, Zant appears! He is surprised that you are still living, but the reunion is bittersweet! He summons a shard of twilight and stabs it through the skull of the giant beast. The eye sockets flicker! It rises up and roars!

Form 1: Giant Stallord Half-Skeleton

Step 1: The Stallord is still emerging from the sand, and he seems to be sealed in the dirt. This means he can turn but is otherwise stationary. Take your Spinner, and race around the groove in the outer ledge. Jump with Y when a spiked Spinner closes in on you, or you'll be struck by it. Two are zipping around this groove with you.



There are plenty of Hearts; just move to the outer rim of this room and search the small pots.

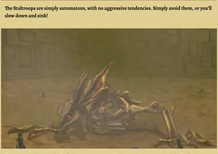
Step 2: The Stallord searches the room, turning around on the spot, and then rearing up to belch a disgusting concoction of purple spew. Run in either direction if this happens, or steer your Spinner away from the jet. It stops in a few seconds.

Step 3: The Stallord summons Stalkroops to block your path to him, but don't let that dissuade you from leaping on the Spinner. Use the rim of the arena as a groove to accelerate, and then jump off the groove and steer directly into the Stallord's spine. As you head into the middle of the arena, dodge the Stalkroops and then press Y just as you reach the spine. It cracks, and the beast roars!

Stalkroop

The Stalkroops are the Stallord's minions resurrected warriors with no intelligence. They are simply obstacles to your goal, which is striking the Stallord's weak spine. Avoid them, and if you're standing on the sand because your Spinner slowed down too much; roll back up to the groove, and avoid the Stalkroops.

The Stalkroops are simply automatons, with no aggressive tendencies. Simply avoid them, or you'll slow down and sink!



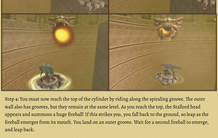
Keep steering down to the Stallord's spin, executing Step 3 two more times, until the Stallord collapses under his own weight! He sinks slowly into the sand that begins to fall into a large pit below. You drop down. Run around the perimeter of this pit, smashing pots and collecting Hearts.

Form 1: Giant Stallord Floating Fireball Skull

Once you've finished your energy collection, inspect the giant skull. It seems lifeless, so head to the very center of the chamber, and slide your Spinner into the circular groove. Begin to spin, and you raise a giant cylinder in the middle of the pit. What's that sound?

As the cylinder rises, the giant head's eye sockets flicker into life! The giant skull head floats up, opens its disgusting mouth, then swoops in and knocks you off the cylinder!

Step 4: You must now reach the top of the cylinder by riding along the spinning groove. The outer wall also has grooves, but they remain at the same level. As you reach the top, the Stallord head appears and summons a huge fireball! If this strikes you, you fall back to the ground, so leap as the fireball emerges from its mouth. You land on an outer groove. Wait for a second fireball to emerge, and leap back.



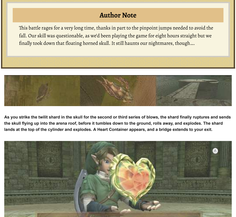
Step 5: The next step is to continue ascending the middle cylinder. As the skull turns to look at you and closes in, leap off with Y, and strike the skull right in the jaw! It tumbles to earth and lies motionless. Run over to it immediately, with your sword drawn!

Step 6: ZL target the shard embedded in the skull, and begin to slash it rapidly with your sword. Quick slicing techniques and (of course) the spin attack are mandatory. Keep on slashing! The skull floats up again. Repeat Steps 4, 5, and 6, but bounce away from a spiked Spinner when you encounter it.

Author Note

This battle rages for a very long time, thanks in part to the pinpoint jumps needed to avoid the fall. Our skill was questionable, as we'd been playing the game for eight hours straight but we finally took down that floating horned skull. It still haunts our nightmares, though...

As you strike the twilit shard in the skull for the second or third series of blows, the shard finally ruptures and sends the skull flying up into the arena roof. Before it tumbles down to the ground, rolls away and explodes. The shard lands at the top of the cylinder and explodes. A Heart Container appears, and a bridge extends to your exit.



Mishra is impatient for you to leave, but first head over to the Heart Container and claim it. Your energy is now at impressive levels! Now exit this place.

Heart Container

You got a Heart Container! Your life energy has increased by one and been fully replenished! Heart Container #4 (of 8).

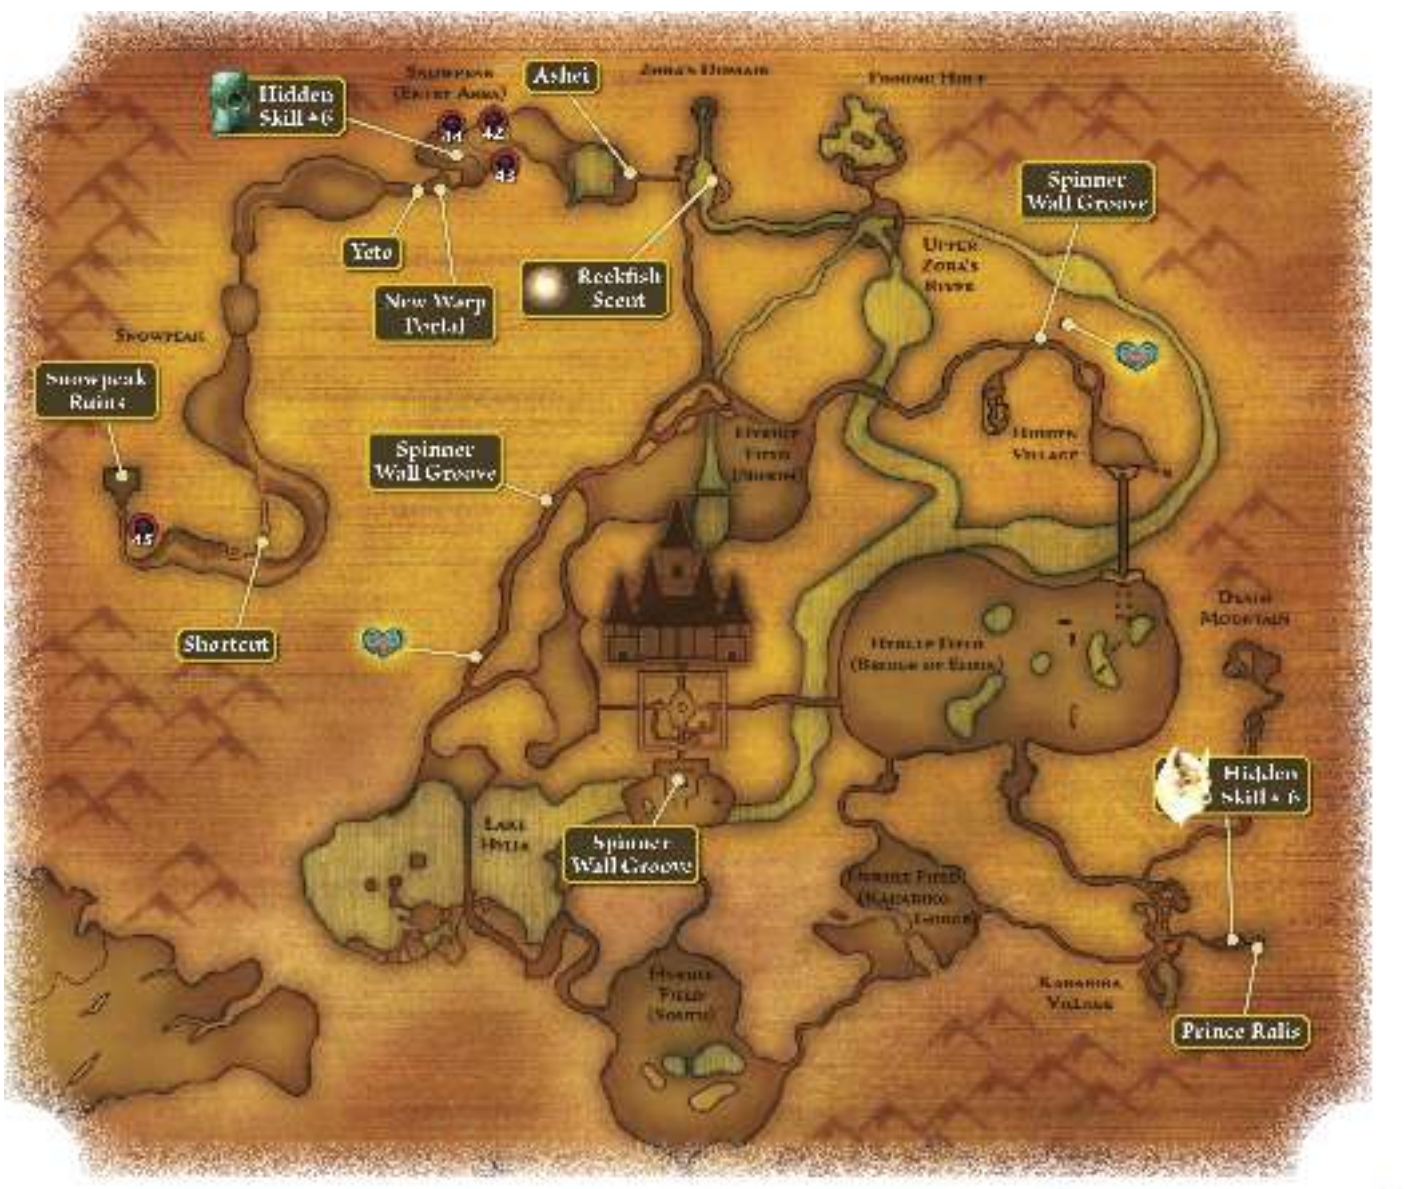
Overworld: Climbing Snowpeak Mountain

Climbing Snowpeak Mountain: Overview



After the trekking you've done so far, the preparations for your next dungeon are not as intense, but the knowledge you learn from the Sages at the Mirror Chamber is shocking! It seems that Ganondorf, the leader of a band of thieves and using powers only two others possess, has influenced the evil King of Shadows, Zant. While you ponder these ramifications, tour Hyrule searching for Spinner tracks; there are a couple of Pieces of Heart in it for you. Check in with the resistance. Telma informs you that you must climb Snowpeak, providing you can sniff out a path. On the way, howl with the White Wolf, and chase a Yeti down a treacherous mountain slide!

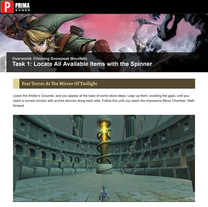
Fast Travel to The Mirror Of Twilight

Leave the Ashlet's Grounds, and you appear at the base of some stone steps. Leap up them, avoiding the gaps, until you reach a curved corridor with arched alcoves along each side. Follow this until you reach the impressive Mirror Chamber. Walk forward.



Warp Portal

Five Twilit Messengers drop out of the sky, and you can attack them in either form, although stuff is predictable, because the area attack has the widest range. Defeat the initial two Messengers, then turn right and bite the third, before finding the last two and dispatching both together.

Five Twilit Messengers descend as you. The wide combat area allows you to stun the last two together easily—so try!

Move to the central statue in the Mirror Chamber, and inspect it. It doesn't take long to figure out that you can ride up that statue's central chime using your Spinner. At the top, slay repetitive yourself in the nearest statue's center, and tap the button the Spinner is weighed to.

Your spinning in the circular groove creates a small seismic disturbance as a giant rock, harnessed by the chamber, rises from the ground. Grass appear too, and the Mirror of Twilight is at the top of them. Midna floats over to look and is shocked. The Mirror of Twilight is cracked!

Midna is startled as ghostly figures form at the top of the chamber's spires. These are Bagas, who have guarded the Mirror of Twilight since ancient times. The Mirror has been fragmented by mighty magic, dark magic that only one possesses—Ganondorf!

A leader (and demon thief) of a band of thieves who invaded Hyrule to hold dominion over the Sacred Grove, Ganondorf was a powerful magician who used his powers to thwart and terrify. But he was blind to danger, as he was outlawed and brought to justice.

By some divine prank, he has had been blessed with the chosen power of the gods, his hand glowing with a symbol of that power, the Triforce of Power had knowledge. Hoping they, he can stole the ceremonial sword and was quickly banished into the twilight realm.

Perhaps that malice and power has been passed to Zant! But Midna thinks it's too late. However, only the true leader of the Twili can destroy the Mirror. Zant has simply broken it into pieces. One is in the snowy mountain heights. One is in an unseen grove. And one is in the heavens.

Sage:

Approximately 10 years old, but with a strange ethereal power masking their true age, there are seven Sages of ancient times who succeeded in capturing the most wanted magician known as Ganondorf. Executing him with a ceremonial blade, Ganondorf's spirit survived. Reduced to a mere, they don't possess physical bodies, and they have powerful, yet limited, powers.

Warp from the Gerudo Desert area. Your task is clear: you must search for the Mirror of Twilight's second piece (the first is in the Faron). Warp to the Hyrule Field, nearby the Bridge of Eldin.

Preparation For Snowpeak: The Spinner Hunt

As soon as you warp to a place with a pathway, expect a farter delivery from the constantly breathless Postman. It's from Ilia's Sorrow, who is forcing you know he's got a rare type of bomb in stock. However, this is only the beginning, this article already inspected. This letter arrives to prompt you if you haven't checked the Bombling out yet.

Letter #9

You got Letter #9: "Rare item in stock!" by Borrem.

Head to the smelling rocky path that runs from the Bridge of Eldin to the north Hyrule Field. When you reach the small wooden bridge holding the Bublin Archers, halt and defeat all the foes you want to. Look for the Spinner track groove in the rock wall here.

Dig Cavern #15

Ride along the Spinner track until you land on a remote and rocky ledge. Don't jump from the Spinner or you'll plummet to the ground below and have to climb back up! Instead, look for the Dig Spot (it's a dark patch; it looks a dig cavern). Change to Link and pick up yourself with Bomb Arrows. Three Stalfoses are advancing on you! Defeat them with a Bomb Arrow (or a bomb if you have no arrows).

If you have no bombs, don't despair. There's a small chest partially obscured by grass in the western part of the chamber. Kick it open to find five bombs. Once the Stalfoses are defeated, you can smash pots, pick grass, and then open the chest that's appeared. The reward is worth the fraught combat! Once you claim it, exit and ride the Spinner back to the path.

The easiest way to beat the Stalfoses is simply to run up to the group of them before they split up, and launch a Bomb Arrow. You'll lose half an energy Heart, but combat is over in seconds!

This time though, you're not going to be walking the lightmaps or moving hand-over-hand to the other tower. You can use the Spinner to ride the track that's been revealed around the tower. Ride it, and you'll hit the button you assigned the Spinner to and a small crystal over the stone wall to the chest above the pool. Open the chest.

Overworld: Climbing Snowpeak Mountain

Task 2: Learn the Scent of the Reekfish

Preparation For Snowpeak: Heading To The Tundra

If you're unsure of your next actions, visit Telma's Bar in Castle Town and speak to her. She explains that Renado is a talented man, and Ilia's memory will return. She mentions that Ashei is checking out Hyrule's northern mountain. You can now visit the heroes in the back room. Shad isn't much help, but Auru tells you that the Sages served by royal appointment, and tutored Princess Zelda.

> You can mark Ashei's location on your map by looking at the parchment map on the table.

After you discover where you must go, you can warp to Zora's Domain, and tumble into the waterfall pool. Look for the western wall's cave entrance, and head through, into the icy wilds of Peak Province.

Once at the ice flow, you're startled by a frightening visage! Actually, it's just Ashei, wearing her Yeti mask. Apparently, the beast who lives somewhere on the mountain has been seen frequently in Zora's Domain. She gives you a sketch. The beast is holding a red fish.

Ashei's Sketch

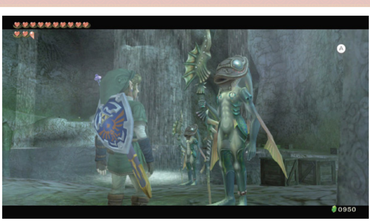
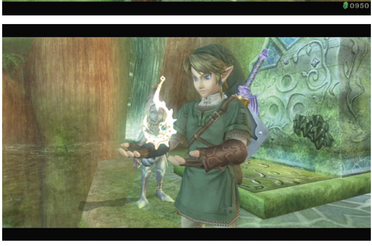
> Ashei warns you not to progress farther without a plan! Don't head into Snowpeak yet, or you won't be able to reach the mountaintop.



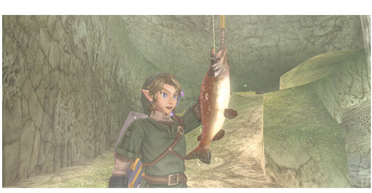
In Zora's Domain, talk to the first Zora you see, and show him Ashei's Sketch. He instantly recognizes the beast, and the fish is a Reekfish. It's called that because of the smell! Nobody besides Prince Ralis was able to catch this type of fish, the Zora tells you.



Warp to Kakariko Village, and journey across the graveyard to the Zora pool of remembrance. Prince Ralis is still standing by his father's tombstone. Show him Ashei's Sketch and he tells you the Reekfish only feeds on coral, and that's the only way to catch it. The prince has an earring made from the stuff, and he gladly gives it to you. He is now ready to return to his village, too. His final advice is where to fish: near the Mother-and-Child Rocks in the waterfall basin.

Coral Earring

You got the Coral Earring! It's made of precious coral from Zora's Domain. It's in the shape of a fishhook.



Warp to Zora's Domain, and take another plunge into the waterfall pool. Follow the prince's advice, and select the Fishing Rod. The coral lure is on it, but you must find the correct place to fish. It is directly across from the entrance to Snowpeak, near the large and small Mother-and-Child Rocks. Cast your rod, and in moments, reel in the Reekfish. Phew! That smells!

Change to your wolf form, and learn this new scent. Dive into the water, and swim to Snowpeak's entrance, and head through.

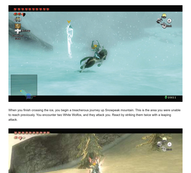
Task 3: Climb to the Summit of Snowpeak Mountain

Snowpeak Climb: Following The Rockfish Scent

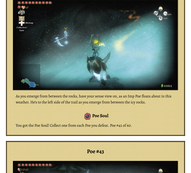
Round up at the edge, then off the side into the snowy ground ahead. Use your sense view if wolf form to check the Rockfish trail, and begin to carefully maneuver across the broken ice platforms at a half-frozen lake. Keep flicking back and forth to check where the scent is going, and look for easy jumps when that directly following the scent.



When you finish crossing the ice, you begin a treacherous journey up Snowpeak mountain. The ice slow you were unable to reach previously. You encounter two White Wolfos, and they attack you. React by striking them twice with a leaping attack.

Move west through the blizzard, while more White Wolfos leap at you. Stop and execute a spin attack if they're being aggressive, and do target and leap at them, or ignore them if they're not. You eventually reach a small gap between two icy rocks.

Poe #43

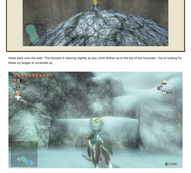


Break away from the trail and investigate this Hillcrest's southern ridge. You're looking for a lone poe near on a small hill half-buried in snow. There's an Iron Ore waiting here, delicious Iron!

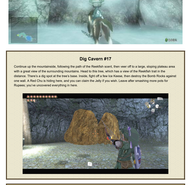
You get the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat. Poe #44 of 45.

Dig Cavern #16

The Imp Pike is also guarding a dig spot by the tree itself. Scrabble down to a small, cold cavern, where an Ice Keese and Ice Chuchu are waiting to attack you. Defeat them, and collect the Ice Keese Eye. Then head back up to the surface, and do warp to Hestu's destiny. Remember to come back here later, after you visit to Snowpeak is over!

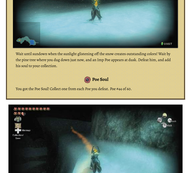


Head back onto the path. The blizzard is clearing slightly as you climb farther up to the top of the mountain. You're looking for three Ice Keese to slaughter for quests.

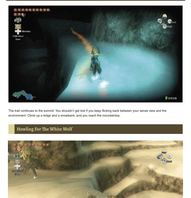


Dig Cavern #17

Continue up the mountainside, following the path of the Rockfish scent, then veer off to a large, sloping plateau area with a great view of the surrounding mountains. Head to the far side, which has a view of the Rockfish trail in the distance. There's a dig spot at the tree's base. Inside, light off a few Ice Keese, then destroy the Bomb Rocks against the cavern wall. Collect the Iron Ore and Ice Keese Eye, then return the side if you wish. Leave after smashing more pots for Rupees, you've uncovered everything to here.



Poe #44

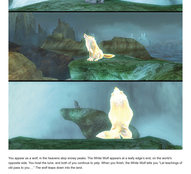


Wait until sundown when the sunlight glistening off the snow creates outstanding vistas! Wait by the glow tree where you dug down last week, and an icy Poe appears at dusk. Defeat him, and add his soul to your collection.

You get the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat. Poe #44 of 45.

The trail continues to the summit. You shouldn't get lost if you keep flicking back between your sense view and the environment. Climb up a ledge and a snowbank, and you reach the mountaintop.

Meeting For The White Wolf



Before you continue, it's important that you investigate that strange rumbling/ice arena on the snowy promontory you're nearby. Listen to the wind whistling a tune through the hole in the rock. You must look inside the lone. Watch the lone, then replicate it. The pitches are Normal, high, middle-Gold, Sole, middle-Gold, Very high, middle, low, Gold. Press up to hold high and down to hold low on your Left Analog Stick. Mid-range howling, don't move the stick.

You appear as a wolf in the heavens atop snowy peaks. The White Wolf appears at a leaky edge's end, on the world's highest mountain. The White Wolf is a powerful, mystical guide. When you thanks, the White Wolf asks you "Just learnings of old years to you . . . " The wolf leaps down into the land.

You have summoned the White Wolf! He is currently waiting for you in the graveyard area of Kakariko Village. Head here at Link and learn your next Hidden Skill! The walkthrough tells you the earliest point that this is possible.

Hidden Skill #6: Jump Strike

You can either continue on to the summit, or use this to the first opportunity to return to the White Wolf, who's sitting patiently at the far end of the Kakariko Village Graveyard, near the small tunnel entrance. The White Wolf waits for you to come, search it hand! He growls at you, and you draw your sword. He promises! You awaken in the ghostly ether. The Hero's Shade forms, and asks you if you want to learn your next skill. The answer is yes!

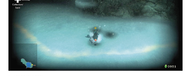
First, your teacher ensures that you learned the previous Hidden Skill correctly, and asks you to show him that you've mastered the skill's use. Put away your weapon, don't do target, wait for the Hero's Shade to advance, then quickly press the A button.

"Very well!" utters the Shade, "let the jump strike be learn into your mind!" The Shade notes that the jump attack is effective against multiple foes, but surrounding enemies that are not have less energy. Put the jump strike, focus power in your blade. The surge that you release can hit enemies all around your Hero you try it.

Jump strike: Lock on with ZL target and hold A until just the right time to release your strength! After the blade finishes shining

Hidden Skill

You learned the sixth Hidden Skill, the jump strike! Notice, Skill #6 of 7.



Return, and progress to the mountain peak. Follow the trail through tree-lined hills, following the Rockfish scent to a dig spot in the rock wall.

Missing Links

The Snowpeak has a few dig spots, where you can find Hearts and Rupees. Try digging to the side of the Rockfish scent trail, east of the icy lake.

Snowpeak Summit: Donner To A Yeti's House

Enter a cavern thick with cool air. The Reekfish trail continues to a ladder. If you're in self-font, dip for Hearts and Rupees at the multiple big spots, then transform. Watch the icy buckets at your sides; they can freeze you. Covered to the one spring.

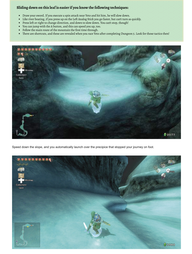
This takes you to a long, elegant tavern-looking cavern. Defeat an ice flame along the way, then smash the crates, barrels, and pottery for the usual prizes. There are dig spots up here, too. At the one wall atop the steps, watch for another ice frame, then use the Clawshot to reach the top passage, leading to a door. Exit.

Warp Portal

As you reach the entrance, you see a dozen Ice Bokoblin running about. Run to them, and then knock an ice block at them. Defeat them, then head to the left, and use the Clawshot to reach the ledge with the Bokoblin. Topside of the Bokoblin's together and then defeat them all with a single attack on Wolfen's arm strike. You can now leave back here whenever you please!

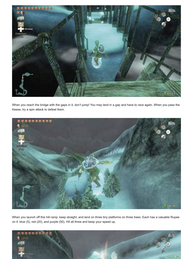
Once the Warp Portal forms, this is the optimal time to visit the White Wolf in the Overworld and learn Hidden Skill #4.

Hit the Twili Messengers dispatched night fade, and you can see a large hunched fellow standing next to a tree with some giant frozen bones attached to it. This is where the Reekfish trail leads you, so head up to this small platform.



You meet Yeto the Yeti and he tells you a hilarious joke. He mentions that he has seen a shard of the Mirror for which you're looking. He invites you in to his house, then bashes his nearby tree, leaps on a fallen leaf, and slides down the snowbank.

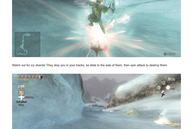
Missing Links



1. Rare Color of Wolf Tasty!

If you approach Yeto as a wolf and listen to him, he talks of you and waggles his fish. Although you're lately, he's having freakish budget!

Yeto:



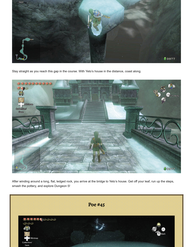
About 40 years old. Yeto is a male Yeti, with a massive frame. He's cheerful and happy, and Twili's husband. Yeto lives in an old mountain on a remote and snowy clifftop. You met him living one day and found a shard of Mirror. He didn't know it was important, but he gave it to you. Now he's living with Twili.

Yeto: Making To Yeto's House

Hey now fellow. Here to his home and the only way to reach it via an icy hail slide. Roll into the hole to dislodge a leaf, then stand on it. You're about to slide down a mountain on this leaf, so prepare yourself! Step on, draw your sword, and let's do!

Sliding down on this leaf is easier if you know the following techniques:

- Steer your sword. If you execute a spin attack once Yeto and his kids, he will slow down.
- Press A to jump. Jumping will slow you down, but it will help you avoid obstacles more easily.
- Press B to roll. It slows down, and then to the down. You can't stop, though.
- You can jump with the A button, and this can speed you up, too.
- Watch for Rupees, Hearts, and Arrows that appear in the air.
- When an obstacle, and there are several when you see this all are completing Dungeons 1, Look for them twice then!



Speed down the slopes, and you automatically launch over the pressure that stopped your journey on foot.

When you reach this point, you can keep onto either snowbank on the side and collect the Rupees. This isn't necessary, though.

When you reach the bridge with the gaps in it, don't jump! You may land in a gap and have to race again. When you pass the Arrows, try even attack to defend them.

When you bounce off the hill ramp, keep straight, and land on three tiny platforms or three trees. Each has a valuable Rupee on it: blue (5), red (20), and purple (50). All of these, and keep your speed up.

Watch out for icy shards! They stop you in your tracks, so stick to the side of them, then spin attack to destroy them.

Leap at this point, on the left side of the course, if you want to take a frightening shortcut!

It starts up a bridge-tubing Rupees, and off onto a series of thin ledges with a bottomless cliff on each side! Slow down and take each ledge straight on, or go the other route. Which is less dangerous.

If you stop at the slow route, go under the bridge, then smash this ice shard, and slowly glide around the course, stepping away from the drop on your right.

Stay straight as you reach this gap in the course. With Yeto's house in the distance, crawl along.

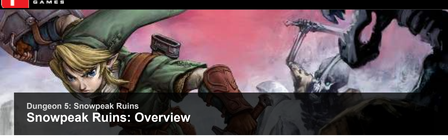
After winding around a long, flat, tangent rock, you arrive at the bridge to Yeto's house. Get off your leaf, run up the steps, smash the pottery, and explore Dungeon 5!

Poe #45

Before you enter Yeto's house, transform into the wolf, and run over the bridge to check out the glimmer orb. Climb up the bridge to the top, and engage an Imp Poe in combat. It appears how no matter the weather. Defeat it, then scrabble for Rupees and Hearts in the dig spots.

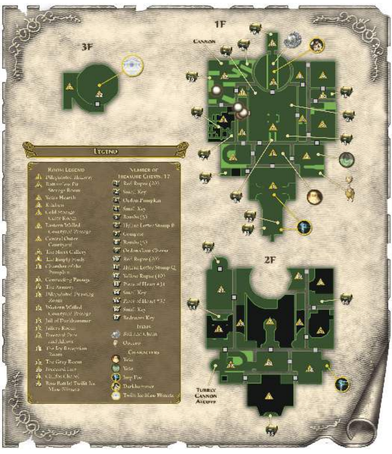
Poe Soul

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat. Poe #45 of 60.



Dungeon 5: Snowpeak Ruins

Snowpeak Ruins: Overview



With a crumbling mansion and a forgetful and strange Yeti wife, old Yeto has his problems, but he manages to concoct numerous broths to help heal his wife's malaise, which suspiciously started when she received a shard of the Twilight Mirror as a gift. She happily points out where her bedroom key is, so you can see the mirror for yourself. However, she is quite forgetful and sends you all over the mansion, where you face several new foes, most of which can freeze you in seconds! The real challenge comes during a battle with Darkhammer, a fully armored Lizalfos with a vicious ball and chain. Perhaps if you can beat this beast and claim the weapon for yourself, you can finally reach Yeta's bedroom, see the source of her illness, and take the mirror on behalf of Midna—but expect a little resistance.

Dungeon 5: Snowpeak Ruins

Task 1: Try Yeto's Simple Soup

Chamber 1: Dilapidated Hallway

Before you enter this dilapidated mansion, consider doing the following:

- Have a Bottle filled with Blue Potion, Fairy Tears, or a Fairy.
- Have the Hero's Bow within easy access.
- Carry the Clawshot as your main R button item.
- Purchase the Hylian Shield from Kakariko Village.
- For rare occasions, purchase the Magic Armor from Castle Town.

The initial hallway has fallen into disrepair. There's a massive hole in the roof, and ice is coating the floor. Check the alcoves near you; there's some armor that wobbles when you strike it. Perhaps it will shatter with stronger force…

Poe Soul #46

Transform into your wolf form, and trot to the chamber's middle. A waving lantern announces the arrival of an Imp Poe. Switch on your sense view and leap at it, or use Midna's area attack. Then claim its soul.

Poe Soul

You got the Poe's Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #46 of 60.

Chamber 2: Bottomless Pit Storage Room

After you deliver the final blow to the Imp Poe, explore the hallway. It's preferable to be Link at this point, as there's a Purple and Yellow Chu (one is under the stairs; the other is on the middle of the steps). You can't move any farther up a floor, so check the door to your left. It leads to a bottomless pit! On the other side is a chest, but you can't reach it yet.

Chamber 3: Yeta's Hearth

You enter a once-grand chamber with a female Yeti sitting by the fire. Go over and talk to her; this is Yeta, wife of Yeto. She knows you want to look at the mirror. After she obtained it, monsters have appeared, so they keep it locked on the third floor. She gives you a marked map to help you find it. She also unlocks the door to the kitchen.

Map Of The Mansion

You got the Map of the Mansion!

Yeta:

Yeta is about 30 years old in Yeti years and is Yeto's wife. They both live in an old house, surrounded by snow. She recently received a present from her husband—a piece of an ornate mirror—and ever since she's felt strange. Sometimes angry. Sometimes tired. She isn't her old self. She spends her time resting near the fire and eating comfort food prepared by Yeto.

Chamber 4: Kitchen

Exit through this door to enter the mansion's expansive kitchen. Yeto is busily preparing a giant cauldron full of fish and other ingredients. He tells you the soup's for Yeta, but you can have a taste. Head there and check out the room.

There is a pantry area to the south. Run around the shelving and locate the pottery at the far end. One of the pots is shaking, and you know what that means! Your friend from the skies has arrived. Pick up Ooccoo.

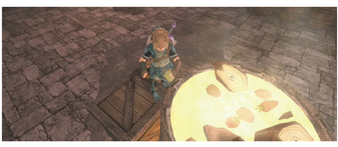
Ooccoo

You reunited with Ooccoo!

Missing Links

1. Pottery Pulverizing

Yeto doesn't allow sharp blades other than the ones he yields in his kitchen, so you must smash any pottery by picking it up. The few Rupees aren't worth your time.



With Ooccoo in your inventory, check out the chef's concoction. Climb the crates in front of the cauldron and dip an empty Bottle into the bubbling broth. The broth restores only two Hearts! Of course, Yeto is still working on the ingredients and consistency.

Simple Soup

You put Simple Soup in your Bottle! It smells like fish broth.

Although this soup is low on energizing properties, there's an infinite amount to drink. If you need energy, come back here, dip your Bottle, and swig. Repeat until you're full!

There's another reason for bottling some soup—there are no Hearts in this mansion to refill your energy. Those Yetis need to rekindle their love!

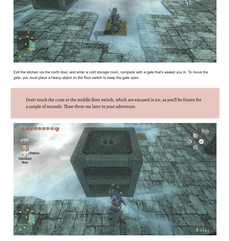
Dungeon 6: Snowpeak Ruins

Task 2: Locate the Bedroom Key (First Attempt)

Chamber 5: Cold Storage Crate Room



Exit the kitchen via the north door, and enter a cold storage room, complete with a gate that's sealed you in. To move the gate, you must place a heavy object on the floor switch to keep the gate open.

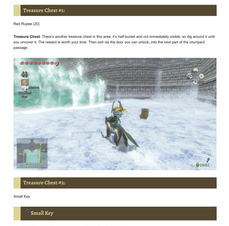
Don't touch the crate or the middle floor switch, which are encased in ice, as you'll be frozen for a couple of seconds. Thaw them out later in your adventure.

You must shove a crate over the floor switch to unlock the gate and door. Start by pushing this crate in the southwest corner, across to the southeast area.

Then push the crate in the northeast corner across so it touches the ice-encased crate. Stand behind the same crate and push it south. Then run and push the crate east one space so it hits the first crate. Now you can push the crate one more time south, onto the floor switch. Exit via the door in the southeast corner.

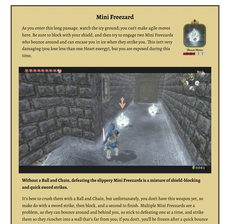
Chamber 6: Eastern Walled Courtyard Passage

Step out into a cornfood passage with an ice block in front of you. The only area of interest is a low arch to your side. Transform into the wolf so you can dig under this wall.



Chamber 7: Central Oozo Courtyard

On the other side of this dig spot is a three-level outer courtyard. For now, stay in wolf form and tackle two White Wolfoses. Then, another appears: target and defeat them, and don't touch the wall of ice blocks on the left side.



There's deep snow in this chamber's south and north. Avoid trudging through here and attacking from here if possible, as your movement is severely slowed.

Treasure Chest: With all the White Wolfoses defeated, check the southern area, near the wall, to find a small chest. Open it to claim your Rupee prize.

Treasure Chest #1:

Red Rupee (20)

Treasure Chest: There's another treasure chest in this area. It's half-buried and not immediately visible, so dig around it until you uncover it. The reward is worth your time. Then exit via the door you can unlock, into the next part of the courtyard passage.

Treasure Chest #2:

Small Key

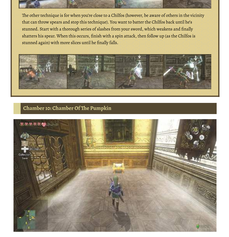
Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber 8: 1st Return To Eastern Walled Courtyard Passage

Mini Freezard

As you enter this long passage, watch the icy ground; you can't make agile moves here. Be sure to block with your shield, and then try to engage two Mini Freezards who become aroused and zoo escape you in ice when they strike you. This isn't very damaging (you lose less than one Heart energy), but you are exposed during this time.

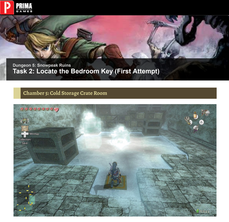


Without a Ball and Chain, defeating the slippery Mini Freezards is a mixture of shield-blocking and quick-sword strikes.

It's best to crush them with a Ball and Chain, but unfortunately, you don't have this weapon yet, so make do with a sword strike, then block, and a second to finish. Multiple Mini Freezards are a problem, as they can bounce around and behind you, so stick to defeating one at a time, and strike them so they crumble into a wall that's far from you; if you don't, you'll be frozen after a quick bounce back, as shown!

Chamber 9: The Short Gallery

Head through the passage's north door, into a frozen chamber containing three Mini Freezards. Block them and strike one at a time as you aren't overwhelmed. After you defeat them all, a gate sealing the door in the northeast corner slides open. Enter it.



Chamber 9: The Empty Study

You enter a square-shaped chamber with a window in the south wall. You can see the chest Nela was talking about! Race to it, and open it to find a Heart Container. Then exit via the door to the two Mini Freezards. These are the terrifying Chilfoses, whose spears have shattered many an adventurer's destiny!

Chilfos

Before you obtain the Ball and Chain, chill the Chilfos out by battering his spear into pieces; then finish with a spin.

The deadly Chilfoses are a real problem to overcome, as they throw an icy spear that knocks you off your feet (and allows you to be struck by other attacks). Even worse, the spear regenerates in their hands. You have several combat options. The first is to fire two Bomb Arrows, one after the other, as quickly as possible. The first arrow staggers a Chilfos, but he soon recovers and regenerates his energy, so you must strike again when he's just been hit. This works well—from range!

The other technique is for when you're close to a Chilfos (however, be aware of others in the vicinity that can throw spears and stop this technique). You want to batter the Chilfos back until he's stunned. Start with a thorough series of slashes from your sword, which weakens and finally shatters his spear. When this occurs, finish with a spin attack, then follow up (as the Chilfos is stunned again) with more slices until he finally falls.

Chamber 10: Chamber Of The Pumpkin

Treasure Chest: With all the Chilfos threats abated, the gate opens, and you can move south, to the room that contains the key to the Twilight Mirror. Open the chest there. The key is distinctly different than your usual opening decrees—it's orange and pumpkin-shaped!

Treasure Chest #3:

Ordon Pumpkin

Ordon Pumpkin

You got the Ordon Pumpkin! This pumpkin was grown in your hometown of Ordon.

Task 5: Defeat All Imp Poes

Chamber 1: 4th Return To Tetra's Hearth

Head back from the kitchen and into Tetra's Hearth. She suddenly remembers that the key must be in the northwestern chamber, on the second floor. She opens the door in the western wall to let you through.

Poes: 0

Chamber 2: (3F) Frenzied Poes And Above

Open the door to the west and enter the first floor of the Frenzied Poes. Ahead, you can see a Frenzied in a large circular pen, unable to escape. Ignore him for now and face north. There's a door with a cannonball holder. Open the door.

Chamber 3: 1st Return To Western Walled Courtyard Passage

Enter the walled courtyard area where you picked up a cannonball. Ahead is the crate you couldn't shift earlier. Push it up 3 steps into the sloping ground behind. Then run north, pick up the nearest cannonball, and bring it back to the door. Pull the lever, place the cannonball on the holder, and head back into the Frenzied Poes. Turn and press the lever again, and graft the cannonball. Place it on the floor.

Chamber 4: (1F To 3F) 1st Return To Frenzied Poes And Above

Ahead of you is a large cage, and inside is a Frenzied. Watch as the Frenzied breathes an icy blast right and left. When he is turning away from you, quickly run up, turn westward, aim through the gap in the cage, and smash him twice with your Ball and Chain.

Run to the chamber's second floor, and you'll encounter another Frenzied breathing his freezing phone. Wait until he turns completely to his left, then run onto the small ledge opposite his east corner of the cage. Back up so you aren't caught in the blast as he turns left to right, then run to the opening and smash him twice before he turns back toward you.

With only Mini-Poltergeists buzzing about in the cage now, you can smash them as Ten Rotates over the Chamber to grab the Keystone, in back-flood fist. Return down the stairs for the cannonball, and bring it up to the second floor. Deposit it next to a wall of ice, then smash the ice with your Ball and Chain, revealing a cannon in a turret alcove.

Quickly switch to your sword and slash the two Ice Keese that swoop in from the alcove. Pick up the cannonball, place it in the cannon, and turn the cannon to face west. Don't fire it yet; a couple of metal crates block the trajectory path.

Instead, move into the adjacent room, which has a red carpet and a locked door. Check the floor. The section in the southwest corner looks unstable. Place a bomb on the cracked floor and it splinters, creating a hole.

Chamber 1: (1F To 3F) 1st Return To Bottomless Pit: Storage Room

Treasure Chest: Drop through this hole. It leads back to the second chamber you encountered in this mansion. You're on the other side and can easily walk to the chest. Open it, take the Piece of Heart, and then use your Clawshot to return to the second floor.

Poes: 0

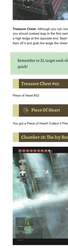
Treasure Chest #31:

Piece of Heart #21

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect 4 Pieces to form a new Heart Container. Piece of Heart #21 of 40.

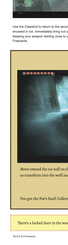
Chamber 2: (2F) 2nd Return To Frenzied Poes And Above



Return to the alcove area and the red carpet. There's still no way to open the locked door yet, so move north, past the cannon, and open the door in the north wall.

Chamber 3: (2F) 1st Return To Dilapidated Dowsing Room

Open the door and step into the upper floor overlooking the dilapidated dowsing room downstairs, where you found the Compass. Immediately run across the wooden floor and dive into a Chihiro. You can use your sword and spin attack, sending a flying all the exits into the bottomless pit below. Or you can smash it with your Ball and Chain.



Poes: 0

Missing Links

1. Ball and Chain Bashing

Now that you have the Ball and Chain, you can smash almost any piece of scenery, such as tables, chairs, sofas, and bookcases. Do so to find hidden items, such as Spirit Orbs (small yellow flames) and Rupee (10) in the bureau. Bash through every room in the mansion if you want destroy everything in sight!

Poes: 0

Look across the room to see a chest on the north ledge. In the middle of the ceiling is a metal chandelier, use this to reach the ledge. Run to the middle of the room, and jump up to the chandelier. Swing on it, and then jump to the ledge with the chest. Just before the chandelier, fly over as it begins to swing, quickly put your Ball and Chain away, and wait for it to swing near you. Then leap onto the chandelier, and hop off onto the ledge.

If you don't have enough momentum, the chandelier slows and you miss the jump. Make sure this is swinging vigorously before you leap on, and leap off as quickly as possible. If you're stuck, Chamber to the medallion you just conquered.

Treasure Chest #32:

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This will open a locked door, but only in this area.

Small Key

Chamber 3: (2F) 2nd Return To Frenzied Poes And Above, To Chamber 1 (2F) and Return To Dilapidated Hallway

Use the Clawshot medallion to reach the wooden ledge on the opposite side, and exit back to the Frenzied Poes and Above. Now run to the area with the locked door and the hole you can make in the floor. Open the locked door, and step back into the first chamber you visited. This time, jump in the second hole. Smash the ice block to your left to reveal a Clawshot medallion. Then fire a Bomb Arrow at the Chihiro across the way.

Poes: 0

Smash the ice block to reveal the medallion, as this allows you to head back up here easily if you fall down to the first floor.

Poes: 0

Treasure Chest: Although you can smash a Ball and Chain into the chandelier and cross to where the Chihiro was standing, you should instead leap to the light-swinging chandelier and then switch. There's a second and third chandelier, with a chest on a high ledge at the opposite end. Bash the first chandelier twice, leap on quickly, then bash the second twice, leap onto that, then half of it and grab the ledge the chest is on. The prize is worth effort!

Remember to ZL target each chandelier and make quick Ball and Chain throws after one rotation. Be quick!

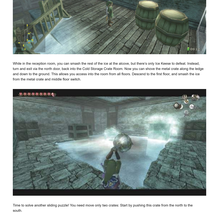
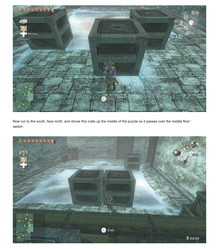
Dungeon 6: Ruinsteel Ridge

Task 6: Remove the Freezard from the Bedroom Lodge

Chamber 2: (2F To 1F) and Return To Cold Storage Crate Room

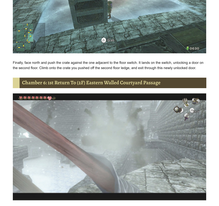


While in the reception room, you can smash the rest of the ice at the alcove, but there's only ice flowers to defeat. Instead turn and exit via the north door, back into the Cold Storage Crate Room. Now you can smash the metal crate along the ledge and down to the ground. This allows you access into the room from all floors. Descend to the first floor, and smash the ice from the metal crate and mobile floor switch.



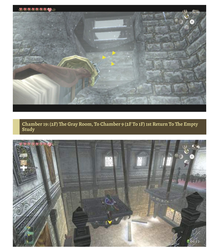
Time to solve another sliding puzzle! You need more only two crates. Start by pushing this crate from the north to the south.

Now run to the south, face north, and shove this crate up the middle of the puzzle so it passes over the middle floor switch.



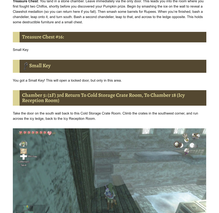
Now shove the first crate east and then north, so it's sitting adjacent to the middle floor switch.

Run to the crate that's the farthest north, in the middle, and push it counter-clockwise around the rim of the puzzle so it hits the crate you haven't moved yet.



Finally, face north and push the crate against the one adjacent to the floor switch. It lands on the switch, unlocking a door on the second floor. Climb onto the crate you pushed off the second floor ledge, and pull through this newly unlocked door.

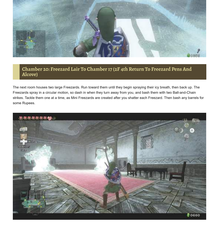
Chamber 6: 1st Return To (2F) Eastern Walled Courtyard Passage



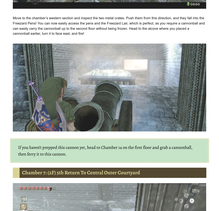
You emerge on the battlements outside and above the courtyard passage. Quickly aim your Hero's Bow at a Chilfos, striking it down with Bomb Arrows. Do the same with two more Chilfos in the chamber's northwestern corner.

You can drop down from this area's southeastern section and smash the ice block so you don't have to tunnel between Chambers 6 and 7.

If you don't have long-range capabilities, run along the top of the broken wall and smash both Chilfos with a whirling Bait and Chain.



There's a cannon overlooking the courtyard; above the cannon you used to reach Darkhammer's jail, but you can't reach it yet. Instead, walk to the lip of the broken wall to where the two Chilfos were standing. Your way onward is tricky to find; look through the ruined wall, into the room beyond: there's a Clawshot medallion you can aim at!



Chamber 10: (1F) The Gray Room, To Chamber 9 (1F To 1F) to: Return To The Empty Room

Treasure Chest: You land in a stone chamber. Leave immediately via the only door. This leads you into the room where you fought the Bokoblin Duo. Run to the northeastern corner, and smash the ice. Beyond is a Treasure Chest containing a Small Key. Clawshot medallion you can aim above here if you fail). The chamber also has several Rupees. When you're finished, back a chandelier, leap onto it, and turn south. Bash a second chandelier, leap to that, and access to the ledge opposite. This holds some destructible furniture and a small chest.

Treasure Chest #10:

Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This will open a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber 9: (1F) 3rd Return To Cold Storage Crate Room, To Chamber 10 (1st Reception Room)

Take the door on the south wall back to this Cold Storage Crate Room. Climb the snakes in the southwest corner, and run across the icy ledge, back to the Icy Recreation Room.

The goggle of Mini Freezards have returned. Break out the Ball and Chain again and defeat them all. When you're done, slide to the western wall and unlock the door.

Chamber 20: Freezard Lair To Chamber 17 (1F 4th Return To Freezard Pens And Alcoves)

The next room houses two large Freezards. Run toward them until they begin jumping from icy breath, then back up. The Freezards spray in a circular motion, so dash in when they turn away from you, and lower them with two Bait and Chain strikes. Tackle them one at a time, as Mini Freezards are created after you shatter each Freezard. Then bash any barrels for some Rupees.

Move to the chamber's western section and inspect the two metal crates. Push them from this direction, and they fall into the pen below. Run around to the pen's entrance, and push the crates into the center. Now you can use the space as a makeshift and can easily carry the cannonball up to the second floor without being frozen. Head to the alcove where you placed a cannonball earlier, turn it to face west, and fire!

If you haven't propped this cannon yet, head to Chamber 21 on the first floor and grab a cannonball, then ferry it to this cannon.

Chamber 7: (1F) 5th Return To Central Outer Courtyard

Pick up the cannonball from where it landed, and stick it into the holder next to the north door. Open the door, and head onto the ledge above the Central Outer Courtyard. You're now in the same place as the cannon. Turn and pull the lever so the cannonball rolls out. Also, smash the ice on the wall to expose a Clawshot medallion (useful if you wish to return here from the lower ground).

Run with the cannonball to the cannon on the circular ledge, and deposit the ball into it. Place a bomb into the cannon, and watch as the ball smashes the Freezard, allowing you to continue on your way. Now drop down, enter Hiddle the cannon to face the northwest, enter through the door to Chamber 14, and climb the ladder. At the top, block with your shield, then use the Ball and Chain to crush the remaining Mini Freezards. Open the door on the west wall.

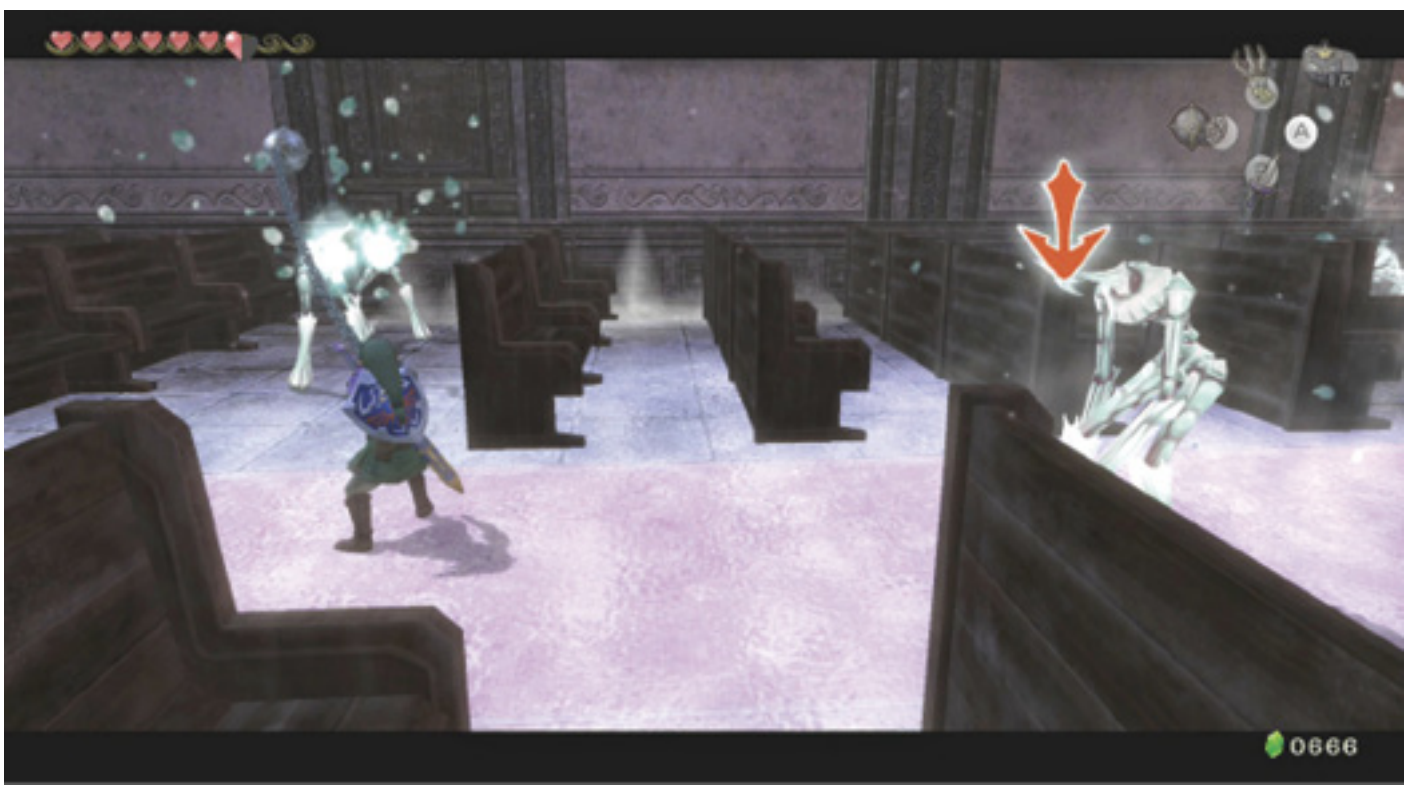
Dungeon 5: Snowpeak Ruins

Task 7: Locate the Bedroom Key (Final Attempt)

Chamber 21: (2F) Chilfos Chapel

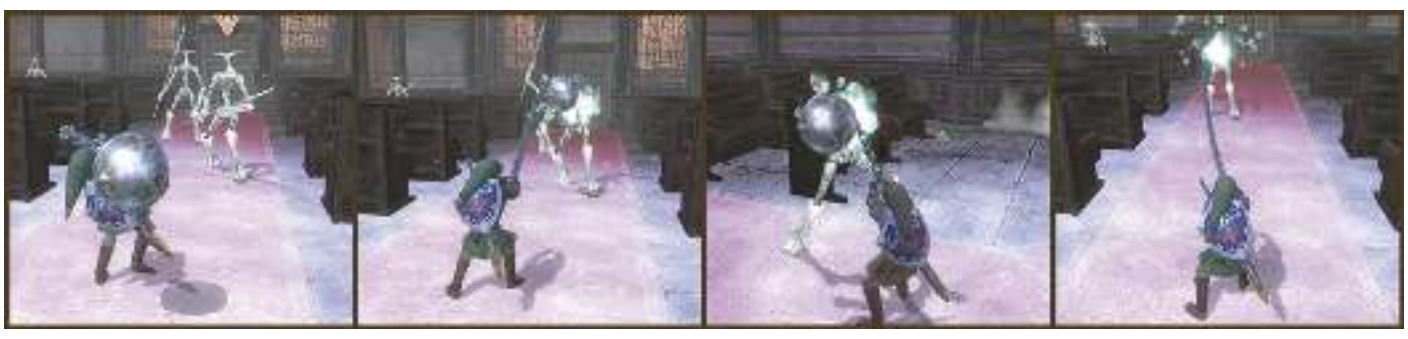


Now you know why this chamber is known as Chilfos Chapel. Just pray you can emerge victorious!

As you enter the chapel, the doors seal, and a total of six Chilfos welcome you. Draw your sword and begin to advance; there's some frantic combat in your future. You can also try staying at extremely long range and quickly blasting Bomb Arrows twice in a row.

If you're having trouble with this technique, switch to your shield, and block the incoming ice spears. Then try a leaping strike followed by a spin attack; the spin is excellent for damaging multiple foes. Concentrate on one Chilfos at a time, and eventually, with some rolling, shielding, and a little luck, you'll prevail.

Once you've smashed the final Chilfos into pieces, the doors unlock and you're free to move about the chapel. The pews can be hit, but nothing is in them. Enter the chapel's north section and open the chest. That's the key you've been trying to find!



Treasure Chest #17:

Bedroom Key

Bedroom Key

You got the Bedroom Key! This will let you access the bedroom that houses the Mirror Shard.

Chamber 7: (2F To 3F) 6th Return To Central Outer Courtyard

Finally! This metal key is designed to unlock Yeta's tower bedroom. In fact, she meets you on the curved stone balcony that leads to her room. Follow her here, and unlock the door.

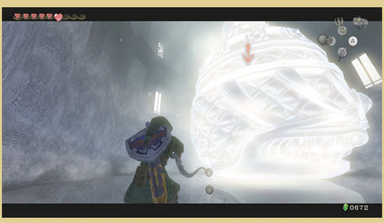
Chamber 22: (3F) Boss Battle! Twilit Ice Mass Blizzeta

Twilit Ice Mass Blizzeta

Yeta leads you into her bedroom and waddles over to the Mirror Shard. She looks at the mirror lovingly. The room darkens. "NOT TAKE MIRROR!" she growls, and transforms into a terrifying ice mass; behold Blizzeta!

Step 1: Blizzeta can control the element of ice. She encases herself in a giant ice-doll sculpture. She slides toward you; bash her back with the Ball and Chain.



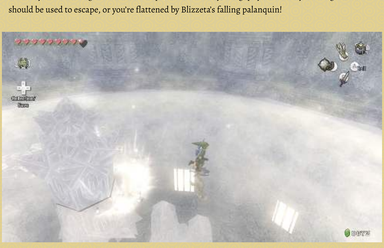
Step 2: As you strike her, her ice casing gets progressively smaller, and she sheds a load of Mini Freezards; whirl your Ball and Chain to deflect them. Continue this style of attack until all the ice layers fall away and you see Blizzeta.

Step 3: Blizzeta wiggles and floats upward, creating an ice palanquin to sit in and surrounding herself with ornate shards. They follow you around the room. Look at their reflections, and when they start to descend, roll out of the way multiple times.

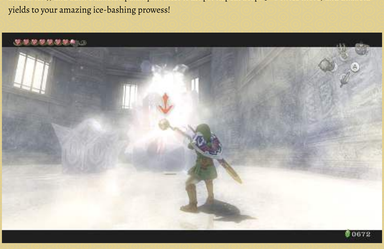
Step 4: As soon as the shards finish falling, quickly bring out your Ball and Chain and smash as many of them as possible. Try to split at least two apart.

A Heart is left behind after each Mini Freezard (Steps 1 and 2) and ice shard (Steps 3 - 4), so grab any hearts that are available without ignoring the raining ice above you!

Step 5: The remaining shards form a circle, as shown, and descend, pinning you in the middle. This is when your smashing skills used in Step 4 come in handy; the gaps you made by bashing shards should be used to escape, or you're flattened by Blizzeta's falling palanquin!

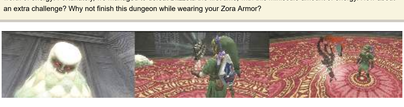


Step 6: The final step is to turn while you're out of the circle (ideally when there's only three or four shards left), and bash Blizzeta's palanquin after it drops. Repeat Steps 3–6 twice more, and Blizzeta yields to your amazing ice-bashing prowess!



Author Note

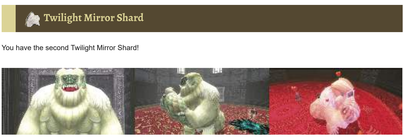
Due to some horrific Fairy mismanagement earlier in the Dungeon, we approached this boss battle with only one Heart's worth of energy! Fortunately, we managed to defeat Blizzeta the first time, with this miniscule amount of energy. How about an extra challenge? Why not finish this dungeon while wearing your Zora Armor?



After her palanquin is smashed, Blizzeta is thrown against the wall and slumps on her bedroom carpet. The Twilight Mirror Shard falls into your hands. Midna promptly takes it and creates a warp portal out of here.

Twilight Mirror Shard

You have the second Twilight Mirror Shard!



Yeto comes hurtling into the chamber and cradles Yeta. He's shocked at her demeanor: "Look in reflection of Yeto's eyes. There true beauty!" he yells. "Who need mirror?" he asks as they hug, and dozens of Hearts surround them. The Yetis are in love. Finally, a Heart Container pops out of their embrace! Take it, and warp from here.

Heart Container

You got a Heart Container! Your life energy has increased by one and has been fully replenished! Heart Container #5 of 8.

Overworld: Return to the Sacred Grove

Return to the Sacred Grove: Overview

With your fifth dungeon completed, and providing you're attempting to obtain everything at the earliest possible juncture, you can cross some major accomplishments off your "to do" list during this part of your Overworld adventuring. For a start, you can clear your final dig cavern and collect your last Golden Bug to claim the grand prize from Princess Agitha. But your main objective is to rendezvous with Rusl, who is convinced an old temple lies somewhere within the Sacred Grove. Journey there, find a novel way to enter the grove, and head back in time…with Ooccoo!

Overworld: Return to the Sacred Grove

Task 2: Find the Golden Cucco

Return To The Sacred Grove: Rusl's New Partner

Warp to the North Faron Woods, near Trill's Shop, and run northward, to the area where you first took Midna and bounded across to the Sacred Grove. Rusl is waiting to tell you there's an ancient temple deep in the woods that guards a sacred power. To reach the Sacred Grove, he offers you his flying companion: a golden Cucco!

Grab the Cucco, and launch yourself off the ledge you're standing on. Fly across to the tree root in the sky, and the next, before swooping in on the entrance to the Sacred Grove. Run to the edge, and use your Gale Boomerang to flip the bridge so it faces north-south.

Float down to this bridge, then drop the Cucco, and spin the bridge onto the next ledge. Grab the Cucco, then position yourself southward, facing the swinging logs. Soar past them to the tiny platform, and again onto the ledge leading to the main Sacred Grove entrance.

Missing Links

1. Golden Cucco Chat

Remember that you can transform into your wolf form and chat with the Cucco. What does he say? We're not telling!

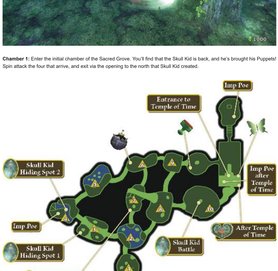
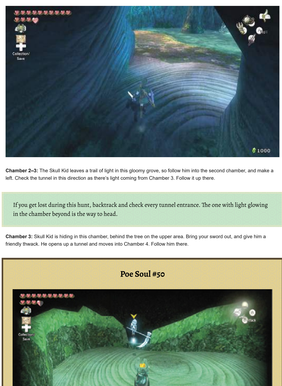
Task 3: Follow and Fight the Strange Skull Kid

Return To The Sacred Grove: Skull Kid's Lantern Game

As you enter the Sacred Grove once more, use the map provided in this tome so you don't get lost, as there's no in-game map!



Chamber 1: Enter the initial chamber of the Sacred Grove. You'll find that the Skull Kid is back, and he's brought his Puppets! Spin attack the four that arrive, and exit via the opening to the north that Skull Kid created.



Imp Poe
Entrance to Temple of Time
Skull Kid Hiding Spot 2
Imp Poe after Temple of Time

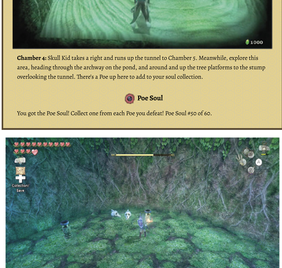
After Temple of Time
Skull Kid Hiding Spot 1
Skull Kid Battle
Skull Kid Hiding Spot 3

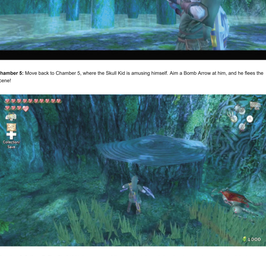


Chamber 2–3: The Skull Kid leaves a trail of light in this gloomy grove, so follow him into the second chamber, and make a left. Check the tunnel in this direction as there's light coming from Chamber 3. Follow it up there.

If you get lost during this hunt, backtrack and check every tunnel entrance. The one with light glowing in the chamber beyond is the way to head.

Chamber 3: Skull Kid is hiding in this chamber, behind the tree on the upper area. Bring your sword out, and give him a friendly thwack. He opens up a tunnel and moves into Chamber 4. Follow him there.

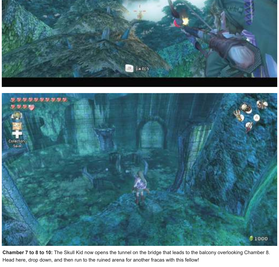
Poe Soul #50



Chamber 4: Skull Kid takes a right and runs up the tunnel to Chamber 5. Meanwhile, explore this area, heading through the archway on the pond, and around and up the tree platforms to the stump overlooking the tunnel. There's a Poe up here to add to your soul collection.

Poe Soul

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #50 of 60.



Chamber 5–6: Head to Chamber 5 now, with the posts coming out of the water, and ignore the Skull Kid for the moment. Head to the next chamber (Chamber 6), and light both the torches in here. A chest appears. Grab the bombs and continue your hunt back in Chamber 5.

Overworld Chest #86:

Bombs (30)

Chamber 5: Move back to Chamber 5, where the Skull Kid is amusing himself. Aim a Bomb Arrow at him, and he flees the scene!

Chamber 5–2, then 7: The Skull Kid takes a romp all the way back through the chambers you've previously visited, to Chamber 2, and then opens a tunnel northward, to Chamber 7, with the tree trunk platform and bridge.

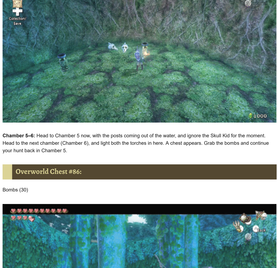
The Skull Kid now flees toward Chamber 7, via Chamber 6. Follow him and then climb the steps and go around to the tree bridge. That's where he's hiding! Climb onto the middle of the bridge and look right. Deal with any Puppets, then fire a Bomb Arrow at Skull Kid.

Chamber 7 to 8 to 10: The Skull Kid now opens the tunnel on the bridge that leads to the balcony overlooking Chamber 8. Head here, drop down, and then run to the ruined arena for another fracas with this fellow!

Return To The Sacred Grove: Skull Kid Battle!

Chamber 10: You can now face Skull Kid in a battle you may already be familiar with, except this time you're fighting in human form. Begin by defeating the Puppets that Skull Kid sends to waylay you. Look for Skull Kid's location (he's standing on one of the many ledges). When all of the Puppets are defeated, fire a Bomb Arrow at him.

If you're missing arrows, try smashing skulls on the ground. If you don't want to use Bomb Arrows, use the Clawshot or Slingshot, but they aren't nearly as effective.



Continue this attack strategy two more times. Wait for Skull Kid to land and summon more Puppets (his last attack summons around nine!) and defeat them all with spin attacks and slashes. Then quickly find and manually aim at the Skull Kid. When he's taken enough punishment, he falters and leaves, then reveals a secret exit to the east.

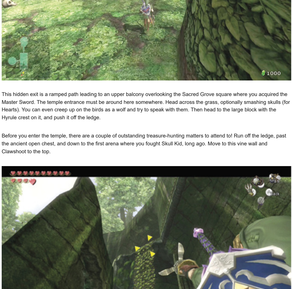
Overworld: Return to the Sacred Grove

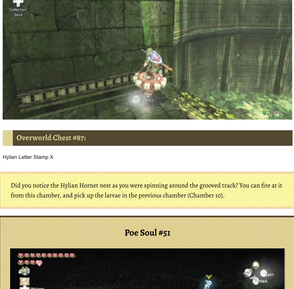
Task 4: Obtain the Giant Wallet

Return To The Sacred Grove: The Wayward Poe

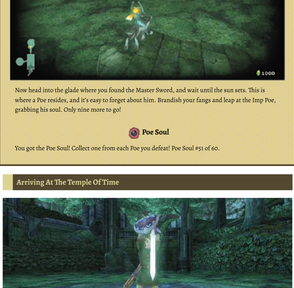


This hidden exit is a ramped path leading to an upper balcony overlooking the Sacred Grove square where you acquired the Master Sword. The temple entrance must be around here somewhere. Head across the grass, optionally smashing skulls (for Hearts). You can even creep up on the birds as a wolf and try to speak with them. Then head to the large block with the Hyrule crest on it, and push it off the ledge.

Before you enter the temple, there are a couple of outstanding treasure-hunting matters to attend to! Run off the ledge, past the ancient open chest, and down to the first arena where you fought Skull Kid, long ago. Move to this vine wall and Clawshot to the top.



At the top is a ledge, but of more interest is a Spinner track running the circumference of this glade. Step on your Spinner and ride it to a ledge. Get off and inspect the chest. There's a new Stamp in here for your trouble.

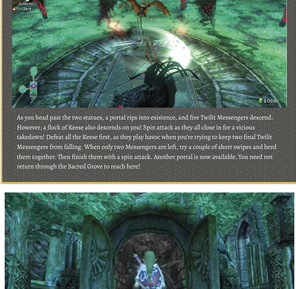


Overworld Chest #87:

Hylian Letter Stamp X

Did you notice the Hylian Hornet nest as you were spinning around the grooved track? You can fire at it from this chamber, and pick up the larvae in the previous chamber (Chamber 10).

Poe Soul #51



Now head into the glade where you found the Master Sword, and wait until the sun sets. This is where a Poe resides, and it's easy to forget about him. Brandish your fangs and leap at the Imp Poe, grabbing his soul. Only nine more to go!

Poe Soul

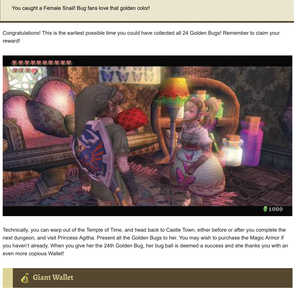
You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #51 of 60.

Arriving At The Temple Of Time

Now stride to the place where you drew the Master Sword, and insert it into the grooved holder. The statue that was standing at the entrance to the temple vanishes. Draw back your blade, and head toward the entrance.

The block you pushed down now allows you to enter and exit the Temple of Time easily.

Warp Portal



As you head past the two statues, a portal rips into existence, and five Twilit Messengers descend. However, a flock of Keese also descends on you! Spin attack as they all close in for a vicious takedown! Defeat all the Keese first, as they play havoc when you're trying to keep two final Twilit Messengers from falling. When only two Messengers are left, try a couple of short swipes and herd them together. Then finish them with a spin attack. Another portal is now available. You need not return through the Sacred Grove to reach here!

Now run around through the gap in the wall, past the broken chest, and up and over the block you pushed. You're now at the entrance to the Temple of Time itself. Open the doors! Ahead is a bleary view into the past, when this Sacred Grove was a mighty temple! Step inside.

You emerge in an entrance chamber, exactly as this grove looked many centuries ago. Head down the steps and you can see the two statues you moved earlier, still guarding this place. Head down the steps and make a right turn.

Golden Bug: Female Snail

Collection: 24 (of 24)

You can spend a few moments smashing some pottery, collecting the Hearts and arrows that you find, and looking at another owl statue (have you noticed that they're all around Hyrule?). Now look for your final Golden Bug: the Female Snail on the staircase. Grab it with your Gale Boomerang. You've done it! All 24 are yours!

Female Snail

You caught a Female Snail! Bug fans love that golden color!

Congratulations! This is the earliest possible time you could have collected all 24 Golden Bugs! Remember to claim your reward!

Technically, you can warp out of the Temple of Time, and head back to Castle Town, either before or after you complete the next dungeon, and visit Princess Agitha. Present all the Golden Bugs to her. You may wish to purchase the Magic Armor if you haven't already. When you give her the 24th Golden Bug, her bug ball is deemed a success and she thanks you with an even more copious Wallet!

Giant Wallet

You got the Giant Wallet! It's a symbol of a distinguished citizen in the insect kingdom. It can hold up to 2,000 Rupees!

Overworld: Return to the Sacred Grove

Task 5: Enter the Temple of Time

All that remains is for you to enter the Temple of Time now. Head north, into the next chamber, which is a past view of the Master Sword glade. Plunge your sword into the slit, and a magical staircase appears. Ooccoo trots up the steps. Follow her, into the Temple of Time!

Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Temple of Time: Overview

Back in time, the Sacred Grove was a far more splendid place. It was a multi-floor dungeon with machinery built by the people Ooccoo is from, complete with a variety of mechanical devices. It is somewhere in here that you can locate the third Mirror Shard, and you must travel methodically, up to an arena high atop the Temple of Time, to secure the necessary equipment to help you gain access to this shard. Along the way, you need to figure out how to deal with enemies that are getting tougher, and puzzles that require a steady hand and a thoughtful brain. Even the combat is more mentally taxing, when you encounter a knight clad in onyx armor—a fiend known as Darknut! Once you've obtained his gift, and used it to power some archaic statuary, you're finally granted entrance to the chamber of the biggest arachnid Hyrule has ever seen, in this time or any!

Task 1: Defeat Your First Armos, the Mechanical Guardian

Chamber 1 Blood Remnant of Sculptr

Before you go back into time, you might wish to bring along the following:

- Refuge Amulet (Red Amber) (Buy Amulet, Rose Flower, or Coin)
- Rose Flower (Buy Rose Flower, Refuge Amulet, or Coin) (Buy 10 count of quality)
- Coin (Loot Coin Purse, Refuge Amulet, or Rose Flower)
- Rose Flower (Buy Rose Flower, Refuge Amulet, or Coin)
- Big Glass Shield, purchased from Kobo Mart Village
- Fire Arrows (Buy Fire Arrows from Kobo Mart Village, Loot Chest from Cave) Some
- Immediately Start Buy Lots of Fire Arrows (Buy Fire Arrows from Kobo Mart Village)

Run down the stairs to the first chamber, all mechanical enemies will be cast of metal flaking. Lay and crush bones with a good heavy hit to it. You can't currently buy the fire bolt, be sure to use hand towers the north end of the chamber.

When you move up to the next to the north is the flying basket. On the right side of the boss key is a small alcove with a treasure chest containing a Rupee. Use the Hookshot to get to the chest and then use the Hookshot to fly to the opposite side. Use a number of arrows to defeat them. You could find the stakes and completely this puzzle.

You can't reach the stakes from your current area, but if you look closely, you'll see a section of flickering you could take into a later. Head to the opposite stairs and the other side of the chamber down, and you can find one but one a small metal-framed obstacle, and the other has a pressure switch. Take the frontal obstacle and place it on the switch. The floor section rises, allowing you to reach the treasure chest on the ledge.

Author Note

We played a little dexterity game by throwing the item character one to five switch instead of placing it. The response left and facing on the direction is tricky to figure out. Can you manage to aim the obstacle on the switch first time?

When you reach the top of the stairs, you won't throw control the strange floating head of a orb. If you catch him it a protective weapons it. See who you like this a few place more viewed by it.

Weeping Lintles

1. Pottery Pulverizing

The chamber has many pots to smash, the Hearts, Rupees, and arrows. Take care of the pottery between the torches where you find Deamus, and have the first enemy.

Treasure Chest: The easy northwest is sealed, and the way up the stairs by the south is locked. It looks like you're stuck until you find a way to open the door. Look around the room for a switch. Hit the top edge of the right staircase. Light from the torch and it raises platforms. Guess it for time that you require to head over.

Treasure Chest #1

Small Key

Small Key

You get a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber a Connecting Corridors of Sr'ah

Head up the stairs to the south. In the second floor and see the Small Key you just found to open the locked door. Step through into a small connection chamber with spikes, pottery, and a strange fairy creature scuttling about.

Young Gohma

Young Gohma is a startling creature to battle! She is difficult, but with a good, all-seeing eye. It likes to hound and strike a few with its three pincers. Fortunately, it is also rather vulnerable. Strike it boldly with the remaining sword strikes.

Young Gohma doesn't have a stunning method of disposing of its form; it just leaps at you. Simply avoid this unmoved well.

With the Gohma forced dispatched, look around. The gates by the east and south are firmly closed. A small flame switch seems the guess, but you require an item to set on it. So, for the first time ever, you must run smash the pottery! Make sure you're standing in front of the switch, and then run into the pots to break them. Once you've done so, the flame will light, and the door to the east will open. Head through the door to a chamber and take the Young Gohma's eyeball as a trophy. You could even try to feed it to the Deku Baba.

If you accidentally smash all the pottery, don't despair. Head back to Chamber 1 and then return here, and the pottery is back and intact.

Now watch the cinematic whether thoroughly illegal by claiming the secret to the west. A good half leaps from the top of the second floor, and you can clog it with your Roll and Chain. Or your other weapons have no effect. A Hit Please falls from the left Pots of.

Treasure Chest: Don't forget that the gate to the south opened too. The basin is a tiny alcove with a window at the end, and a treasure chest inside. Pull the chain to shoot down the middle of the window, which you'll need to complete.

Treasure Chest #2

Arrows (10)

Arrows

You got arrows 2020 now arrows to shoot out of the bow!

While holding screened this event, you may notice a Crenellum medallion above the east gate. Don't worry about this one now, this is used when you receive boss's bow.

Now head up the staircase to the west. Unfortunately, it's blocked by a giant Tuft wizards, and once you're behind the door, you're trapped in the room. Before you start fighting, a Chamber you advance on the medieval to evade. The gate closes when you run into the second you spend.

And work out of the steps. Gaining skill and positioning up. Sit upon stairs. Bring up your weapon and evade all shooting. Loathe it attack. Now the with your jump strike, or another preferred technique. Continue to the top of the steps.

Chamber 1 Recognized Guardian #1

At the top of the stairs, the number expands into the hexagonal stardust. Three Leaflines push the way, and there's a Treasure Chest in the middle of the room. Open it to get the Compass. Now you can see the layout of the room. Head to the east, and the upper door. This is the north room for a puzzle within (as always), look at the Leaflines and match them off! Otherwise, spin attacks work almost as well.

Armos

The Armos is a lofty mechanical beast that is hypersensitive to your strikes until you discover that one weak spot!

Approach the Armos with caution, as all large and difficult enemies, but fortunately it moves very slowly and rarely attacks unless you get close. Its only attack is a large slowly-moving arm. The trick here is to strike the Blue metal gem on its chest. Straight shelves cause it to jump more quickly, and it brings them to bounce back unpredictably there.

Simply roll around and spin attack, and—or try one of your Hidden Skill strikes, and settle one or two. Once the Armos has been defeated, it is highly vulnerable and ineffective. Strike it once to run to the next room. Now the Armos has been defeated!

Treasure Chest #3

Another great way to defeat an Armos is to run behind him without targeting or having your sword drawn, and execute Hidden Skill #1, the mortal draw. Now it's dead!

Treasure Chest: Once the Armos has been destroyed, a previously invisible treasure chest appears in the southeast alcove of the chamber. Open it and get the Dungeon Map, so you can see the rest of the layout! Now you're ready to head up!

Treasure Chest #4

Dungeon Map

Dungeon Map

You got the Dungeon Map!

Treasure Chest: Now from the chasm doesn't want that either. There's already a small chest in the chamber, flanked by two Armos statues near a window, with a nasty Keese guarding it. Despite the Keese swarm, this room has more to it!

Treasure Chest #5

Rupee (50)

Now you must find a way to open the gate to the north. Take the first stairwell downhill to the end of the treasure chest, and carry a Pot to the switch on the floor. Place the pot on the switch, and the gate will open. Head through the door to the next chamber, and immediately turn to the west to see the end of your climb. The gate swings open. Ignore the bird in the distance and run onward northwest.

Weeping Lintles

Weeping Flower at Bay

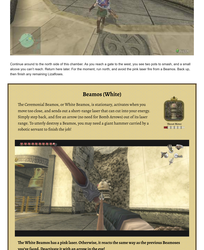
Every armors and small minister area near a window is likely to have an easily dispatched flower to her. Smash the pottery next to a flower, then continue.

Navigation: Temple of Time

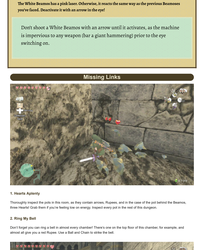
Task 2: Unlock the Door in the Central Mechanical Platform Chamber

Chamber a: Central Mechanical Platform (of Tic of Tic of!)

Head north up the steps to a corner with a Keese to dispatch, then turn left and run toward the door at the end. Open it and step forward into a giant, cylindrical chamber with a circular and ornate fence in the middle. Dozens of tiny Gohmas scuttle around here. Don't venture too close to the area, or you'll be slapped by an electrified fence.



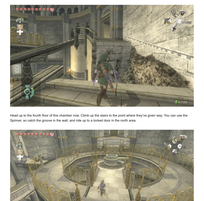
Turn left, and begin to secure the third floor (the floor you're currently on). Run around to locate three Leeliums, and engage them in combat. The most entertaining way to defeat them is by shield attacking so they're stunned, and then jump striking them to deliver a dispatching blow in a single attack!



Continue around to the north side of this chamber. As you reach a gate to the west, you see two pots to smash, and a small alcove you can't reach. Return here later. For the moment, run north, and avoid the pots near the fence. Beware. Back up then finish any remaining Leeliums.

Beamos (White)

The Ceremonial Beamos, or White Beamos, is stationary; activates when you come too close, and sends out a direct range laser that can cut (not prove energy). Simply step back, and fire an arrow (as noted for Bomb Arrows) out of its laser range. To dismantle a Beamos, you need a giant hammer-control by a robotic servant to break the job!



The White Beamos has a pink laser. Otherwise, it reacts the same way as the previous Beamoos you've faced. Deactivate it with an arrow to the eye!

Don't shoot a White Beamos with an arrow until it activates, as the machine is impervious to any weapon (bar a giant hammering) prior to the eye switching on.

Missing Links

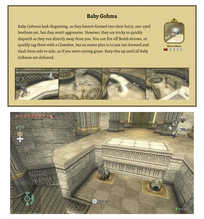
1. Hearts Aplenty

Thoroughly inspect the pots in this room, as they contain arrows. Rupees, and in the case of the pot behind the Beamos, three Hearts! Grab them if you're feeling low on energy. Inspect every pot in the next of this dungeon.

2. Ring My Bell

Don't forget you can ring a bell to attract every chamber! There's one on the top floor of this chamber, for example, and you can't give you a cool Bow. Use a Ball and Chain to strike the bell.

Head up to the fourth floor of this chamber now. Climb up the stairs to the point where they've grown way. You can use the Spinner, so catch the gnome in the well, and ride up to a locked door in the north area.

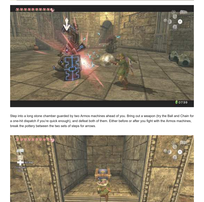


You need to get a key to open this door. Turn and face south, and run down to a large smoke circular platform. Two spiked Spinners are rotating around in different directions. Avoid them by dodging between them, and move to the eastern ledge, where a new horned statuette stands. Take this.

Run around to the platform's south side. Is a large leading to another similar-looking doorway in the south wall. This one requires a Small Key to unlock and open. Return to the Small Key door, and climb up to reach the door yet. Walk over and place the horned statuette on one of the plates. You now need to find the other.

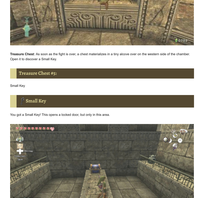
Previously, you may have been feeling around, throwing these statuettes at the floor-switches instead of placing them. Don't do it this time because the horned statuettes may land on the upper stone area, or fall off to the third floor below, and delay your exploration!

Now head to the middle of the elaborate platform, to a large handle and cog system. Push the handle counter-clockwise and the platform descends. Push it in the opposite direction and it ascends. Descend the platform back to the third floor, where you started. Head off and you see a horned statuette ahead. However, you're in the circular fenced area with the Gohmas.



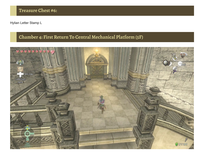
Baby Gohma

Baby Gohmas look disgusting, as they haven't formed into their hairy, one-eyed brothers yet, but they aren't aggressive. However, they are tricky to quickly dispatch as they run directly away from you. You can fire off bomb-arrows, or quickly tag them with a Clawshot, but no easier plan is to just run forward and slash from side to side, as if you were cutting grass. Keep this up until all Baby Gohmas are defeated.



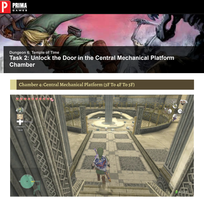
When you've dispatched all the Baby Gohmas, the electrical charge on the fence dissipates, and you can easily get from the outer ring to the inner platform on the third floor. This is useful if you dropped a horned statuette, but for now take the statuette at the top of the shallow ramp and place it on the platform. Turn the handle and rise to the fourth floor. Then place (don't throw!) the statuette on the other pressure switch.

- If you accidentally drop a horned statuette, or throw it over the ledge you want to climb over, find a couple more for the next gate you can't open. Go into Chamber a to collect the statuettes off the very ledge they're on to push them up.
- If you've lost a horned statuette and can't accidentally throw beyond the floor switch to re-bring on the ball and Chain, and load the statuette back down a cover level.



Chamber c: Arrows Anonchamber

Step into a long arena chamber guarded by two Armos machines ahead of you. Bring out a weapon (try the Ball and Chain for this) and run toward the Armos machines. Dodge in front of them. Either before or after you fight with the Armos machines, head the pottery between the two sets of steps for arrows.



Treasure Chest: As soon as the fight is over, a chest materializes in a tiny alcove over on the western side of the chamber. Open it to discover a Small Key.

Treasure Chest #2:

Small Key

Small Key

You get a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Treasure Chest: The hunt for treasure chests doesn't end here. Head south, to the area at the chamber you haven't yet investigated, and check the closed chamber between the two sets of stairs. At the far end is a small chest that's easily overlooked. Open that for Hylian Letter Stamp 1.

Treasure Chest #3:

Hylian Letter Stamp 1.

Chamber a: First Return To Central Mechanical Platform (2F)

Now that you have the Small Key, return to the Central Mechanical Platform chamber, and run across the platform itself. There's no need to activate it. Simply head north, across to the locked door, and open it.

Chamber 1: Task 3: Locate the Big Key

Obsidian is Beating Well! Enfeeble Lot!

Grab a walking staff or branch to your left and a demonic switch to your right. Wizard is Wardrow. Bring out your Hero's Bow, and double-C. Take the current image with the demonic switch of pottery (there's a head inside one). There are arrows in one of the two suits over the Skeleton. Hit.

Reach the diamond switch, as the activates a wall piece that shifts apart, allowing you to run around and into the chamber's central part. Inspect another giant bell, and crack a few pots (underneath for a heart and arrows. Produce your Sail and Wardrow, and head toward the Dynodite.

Run around and strike its enemy to some respects as arrows to activate them. The arrow circles are the optimum place for entering on the arrow bow.

Treasure Chest: Step forward and crack the next White Mysterious activates, shoot it in the eye. Turn the corner, and run to the three pots on the chamber's far end. Turn around and a Dead Hands. Then look down, to see a small stone structure with a chest inside. Open it to obtain the Compass.

Treasure Chest #1:

Inventory

Mr. Compass

You got the Compass! The handy tool shows you where to find objects hidden in the dungeon.

Next around is Next the diamond switch, what's it through two wooden openings with spikes protruding from them. Stand on the switch and you can see the wooden structure to the north. Run through the first wooden structure and then the second, and then run around to the north to the Dynodite. The rest of the fun is running around the Dynodite.

Head down the steps and down to the circle. Look around the wall of the chamber and take a diamond switch high on a wall. Shoot it, then run to the Dynodite. Run to grab the rest of the keys (a small chest with a heart inside). The fun ends at the switch, and watch as the wall recedes. Advance with your sword and shield at the ready.

Dynodite

Boss Battle: Use Bombs to bomb-arrow and a shield lock and spin attack! But watch out for the armored Dynodite, the monster armored beast in this dungeon! Defeat him with arrows and bombs.

As it rises as he is armored, the Dynodite is one of the more difficult ground-creeps to tackle, as some of the attacks are unavoidable and require you to use your shield. Use your sword and shield to block your shield, and then run up on one side of him when the ground! The trick here is to concentrate on the Dynodite. Wait for him to make a normal swing, then the instantly shield block, and immediately counterattack with your sword. Repeat this process. Block, counter, block, counter, and soon, and finally the Dynodite is dead. Do this three or four times before combat ends. But most of all, let the Dynodite hit the floor, and you win the fight!

Once the castles and Dynodite are destroyed, step to another stone circle, in the middle of the chamber, and hit the diamond switch again. Run to somewhere, descend into a small pit to get to the heart's second and pottery water, looking for another large square where you must fight a second Dynodite. After an excruciating battle, smash the pots for another and Dynodite.

Move to the stone circle in the east, and look around, and get a deadly aim on the diamond switch for one more arrow shot. This opens the door to the Boss Key. Run to the door, and open it. Run down the corridor, and then down the stairs to the Boss Key. Now for a quick exit. Push and pull the statue to a high wall and then Fast Travel to Outside.

Chamber 1 The Builds Of Time and Ye 2D

Treasure Chest: All the key of the stairs is a thin control leading to a door. Open the door, and enter to chamber of pillars. Destroy the pots to the left and right, and then run to the chest in the center. Open it to obtain the Purple Rupee (50). Time to head to the next chamber and take out a few guards, including the Young Gohma of the stairs. A Dark Keese appears. Slash it.

Run to the door to a point part of golden castle. There are an impressive as they are streets, and you need to be reputable the stakes in order to proceed. In fact, the scales weigh down when you stand on them. The first scale must be lighted for you to proceed.

Purple Rupee (50)

There are seven-horned octoenemy in this chamber. Two are on the scales, three are on an upper stone to the southwest, and two others are on a small platform.

To raise the left scale first, you must weigh the other one down with three horned armored octoenemy you've been seeing. Defeat the two on the platform to the northeast, and then run to the one on the left scale, and hit the target. Downstairs, and you will see a pot to the north. Destroy it. Toward it on the right scale first.

The other horned octoenemy is perhaps play this enemy in the main counterpart some. Riding into the column is easier than mounting the obstacle off with a ball and frozen.

Check those horned octoenemies on the right scale to counterbalance the weights and push the other big up, scale with you standing on it. The stairway up is to reach the Key Badge. Hop back to reaching the upper leagues in the Dynodite's exit to the middle of the room now.

Bring out your Glasses! Aim at the medallion on the statue's center, and then stop shoot. Aboard is a harrow platform. Run to the end of that, and then jump to your Spinner, and take the person in the wall all the way around to the right. Don't head the other way, and the ground is there.

Poe Soul #11

Throw off the Armored ones as spears bugs overlooking the Skeleton Hands. Notice on the ceramic floor of this dungeon. Quickly change to your wolf Gloves, as that is throwing about up there. Dispatch foes to the wood monsters. Kelly might the Beetle bugs of.

Poe Soul

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one more and the poe defeat! Bat Soul key of so.

Treasure Chest: You can now freely roam the upper platform, and to deal with, head south to the very end of the area and open the chest to obtain the Poe Soul (you'll need exactly six). Open the chest by Deku Nuts. Then step to the platform and run to the door in the eastern area.

Treasure Chest #2:

Hylian Letter, Stamp 7

Chamber 1: The Chest Behind Puzzle Room

If you're puzzle, you can aim at the Chandelier medallion on the ceiling before you're struck by the Wolfenstein, and then dislike Boom and the Armored Boss complete outline on the upper ledge!

Treasure Chest: The chest has a gold skull's situated in front of you, but there's a Chainsaw medallion above you. Use the medallion, and drop down into the open edge of the chamber. Face the skeleton and, inside, but don't fiddle with them yet. Move to the small alcove and open up the small chest.

Treasure Chest #1:

Red Rupee (20)

Now that you've up here, spinning the gold statue is pretty straightforward. Note the two mirrored statuettes that are up here, one where you can see the Hero's reflection and one where you can't. Put the one where you can't in the alcove and you will see a new platform appear. Use the Hookshot to reach it, and then jump to it and hit the switch on the pole behind.

Treasure Chest: Drop down and open the chest for the Big Key. You now have access to the rest of the dungeon's lower floor where it's the Golden of Time.

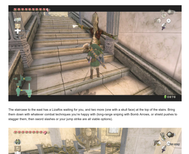
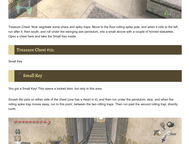
Task 4: Face the Deadly Darkmut in Combat

Chamber 1: First Return To The Scales Of Time (x2). To Chamber 2: Hyper Ballerina (Children 27 To 45)

Return to the chamber with the giant scales, and turn south. Run past the chest you opened, to the exit door in the south wall. Open the door, and enter the chamber. Two Medjay and a Nubian Archer are waiting for the moment. Open the door, bring out your Hero's Bow, and shoot the White Baseboy in the common practice ahead.



Run into the stricken junction chamber, and stay on the outer rim, as you won't be hit by any of the spiked Spinners rotating around the now-defunct Brasenia. Head to the south alcove, where there's another bell. Ring it with a Bull and Chain for another red Rupee. Ignore the horned statuettes for the moment, and head east.



The staircase to the east has a Leaflike waiting for you, and two more lurk with a skull-face at the top of the stairs. Bring them down with whatever combat technique you're happy with, bring a large enemy with Bomb Arrows, or shield-skyline to stagger them, then sword-skeleton or your jump-strike-axe all viable options.

Treasure Chest: Now negotiate some sharp and spiky traps. Move to the floor-ruling spike pole, and when it rolls to the left, run after it, then south, and roll under the swinging axe pendulum, into a small alcove with a couple of horned statuettes. Open a chest here and take the Small Key inside.

Treasure Chest #10

Small Key

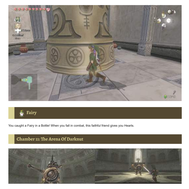
Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in the area.

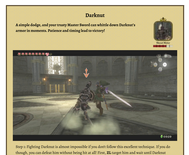
Smash the pots on either side of the shield (one has a Hand in it), and then run under the pendulum, stop, and when the swing starts top moves away, run to the point, between the two rolling traps. Then run past the second rolling trap, directly north.

Move to the small alcove where you can pick up a horned statuette, but only after you smash a couple more pots (one has a Hand in it). Then head to the southern exit, watch out for the rolling trap, and head to the locked door with the Small Key. Stephen should be on his heels by now. Drop the statuette on the floor switch. The deactivates an electrical fence.

Chamber 12: Arenas Guardian Room (x2).



You're now at the highest point in your dungeon exploration, a shallow, level chamber with two fences at the far end, and a mount on an Ibex. Some nasty light-ish and defend all of the scuttling spots, and optionally refill your Hearts and access afterward by smashing the 11 pots along the right wall.



Treasure Chest: Once all the Baby Salmons are gone, a chest appears in a flash of brilliant light. Ignore this for the moment, and head to the eastern fence. Smash the pots on the right, and then run to the fence on the left, and jump over it. Run to the arena, and once they both explode, a gate along the left wall opens. Claim the purple Rupee inside the chest, and restart any remaining pots you wish.

Treasure Chest #11

Purple Rupee (50)

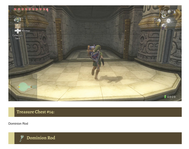
Once the room for more pots is smash, and clear your energy to full if it's low, you're going to need it! Then run about the area that was immediately behind the gate, smashing more pots. Head for the locked door, and step through. Prepare for battle!

Before you begin your battle, stop at the entrance door, and look up. Ring the bell twice with your Bull and Chain and a Fiery Rune out. Use your Cleansire to retrieve it from inside the bell, and accept it into a Bottle. You may need it!

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle! When you fail in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

Chamber 13: The Arena Of Darkmut



You open the door, and it closes behind you. You step into a large circular arena, with light streaming in from the windows. On a high shelf ends an armored mechanical contraption like the one guarding the first room. A large, black knight clad in onyx armor turns and faces you. This is the domain of Darkmut!

Darkmut

A simple dodge, and your trusty Master Sword can whittle down Darkmut's armor in moments. Patience and timing lead to victory!

Step 1: Fighting Darkmut is almost impossible if you don't follow this excellent technique. If you do though, you can defeat him without being hit at all! First, A swipe him and wait until Darkmut raises his massive sword like this.

Step 2: At this precise moment, or as quickly as you can when he stops back with his sword raised, execute a backflip (direct and A). You then flip out of the way as Darkmut's sword comes crashing down where you were standing!

Step 3: Immediately after performing the back-flip, press the A button without pressing a direction until you hear it with a massive sword clash that rocks Darkmut, and pieces of armor fly off everywhere. Combo this move two more times until he raises his shield.

Step 4: Now repeat this technique around five or six additional times. Each time you strike back, more of Darkmut's armor peels away and flies off around you. Continue until Darkmut looks like this. He's about to change weapons. Get ready for round two!

Step 5: Darkmut shields his sword and throws it at you. You automatically dodge it, but if you fight Darkmut again, roll out of the path of the sword. Now Darkmut is faster, and a different technique is called for. When Darkmut thrusts forward, roll around him using to the left or right after pressing A. Do this until you're at his back.

Step 6: Darkmut shields his sword and throws it at you. You automatically dodge it, but if you fight Darkmut again, roll out of the path of the sword. Now Darkmut is faster, and a different technique is called for. When Darkmut thrusts forward, roll around him using to the left or right after pressing A. Do this until you're at his back.

Step 7: Darkmut shields his sword and throws it at you. You automatically dodge it, but if you fight Darkmut again, roll out of the path of the sword. Now Darkmut is faster, and a different technique is called for. When Darkmut thrusts forward, roll around him using to the left or right after pressing A. Do this until you're at his back.

As always, smash and grab the pots around the arena for hearty sustenance.

Treasure Chest: Now move to the far end of the arena, to the chest that Darkmut was guarding, and pry it open. Inside is another exceptional weapon. This one is the Dominion Rod!

Dominion Rod

Dominion Rod

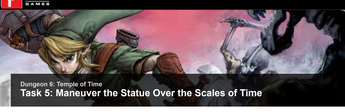
You got the Dominion Rod! This mystical artifact breathes life into ancient statues.

Dominion Rod

The Dominion Rod is an ancient device that isn't strictly a weapon, but it does allow you to control a few ancient statues and pieces of machinery. It imbues them with a green glow when you target the statue and swing with Y. Place this weapon on your D immediately, and aim at the mechanical statue on the ledge.

Press A to activate the statue, and it begins to move! It's a big, heavy statue, so it's small, it heals itself, and it has a wall, and four-range. If you hit a wall, it keeps going until it hits a wall (this is important when controlling the statue in tight areas). When you swing your Dominion Rod, it swings its weapon, which can crush stone and a few enemies—you're unable to battle! Watch out though, because it can strike you, too!

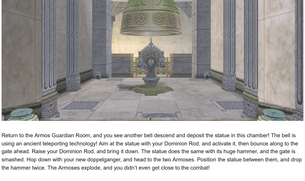
Cross the controlled statue to the arena entrance, and all the way to the bell. When the statue bounces onto the platform under the bell, everything grows green. Go bell descends, and the statue is sucked up into the bell area. Remember to back the bell with a Bull and Chain before the battle to secure your Fiery Cry you can give it back.



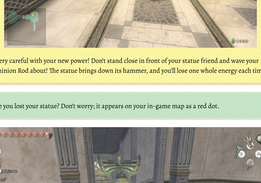
Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Task 5: Maneuver the Statue Over the Scales of Time

Back To Chamber 10: First Return To Armos Guardian Room (8F)

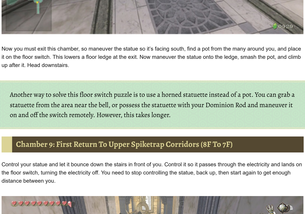


Return to the Armos Guardian Room, and you see another bell descend and deposit the statue in this chamber! The bell is using an ancient teleporting technology! Aim at the statue with your Dominion Rod, and activate it, then bounce along to the gate ahead. Raise your Dominion Rod, and bring it down. The statue does the same with its huge hammer, and the gate is smashed. Hop down with your new doppelganger, and head to the two Armoses. Position the statue between them, and drop the hammer twice. The Armoses explode, and you didn't even get close to the combat!



Be very careful with your new power! Don't stand close in front of your statue friend and wave your Dominion Rod about! The statue brings down its hammer, and you'll lose one whole energy each time!

Have you lost your statue? Don't worry; it appears on your in-game map as a red dot.

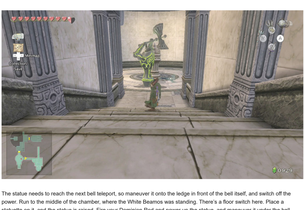


Now you must exit this chamber, so maneuver the statue so it's facing south, find a pot from the many around you, and place it on the floor switch. This lowers a floor ledge at the exit. Now maneuver the statue onto the ledge, smash the pot, and climb up after it. Head downstairs.

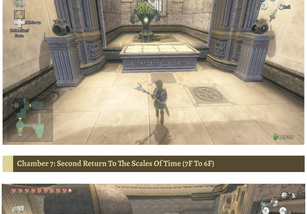
Another way to solve this floor switch puzzle is to use a horned statuette instead of a pot. You can grab a statuette from the area near the bell, or possess the statuette with your Dominion Rod and maneuver it on and off the switch remotely. However, this takes longer.

Chamber 9: First Return To Upper Spiketrap Corridors (8F To 7F)

Control your statue and let it bounce down the stairs in front of you. Control it so it passes through the electricity and lands on the floor switch, turning the electricity off. You need to stop controlling the statue, back up, then start again to get enough distance between you.

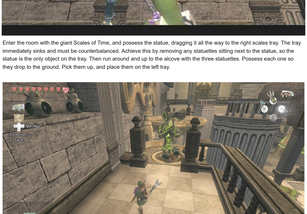


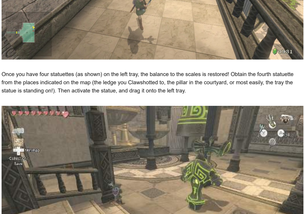
Now follow the statue and maneuver around the ground rolling spike traps. Bring the statue's hammer down and destroy them, and your exit is easy! You can't destroy the pendulum, but you can crack spiked Spinners and the White Beamos at the base of the next stairs. Do so.



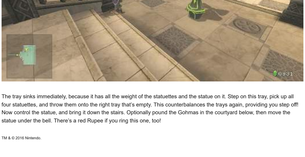
The statue needs to reach the next bell teleport, so maneuver it onto the ledge in front of the bell itself, and switch off the power. Run to the middle of the chamber, where the White Beamos was standing. There's a floor switch here. Place a statuette on it, and the statue is raised. Fire your Dominion Rod and power up the statue, and maneuver it under the bell.

Chamber 7: Second Return To The Scales Of Time (7F To 6F)





Enter the room with the giant Scales of Time, and possess the statue, dragging it all the way to the right scales tray. The tray immediately sinks and must be counterbalanced. Achieve this by removing any statuettes sitting next to the statue, so the statue is the only object on the tray. Then run around and up to the alcove with the three statuettes. Possess each one so they drop to the ground. Pick them up, and place them on the left tray.



Once you have four statuettes (as shown) on the left tray, the balance to the scales is restored! Obtain the fourth statuette from the places indicated on the map (the ledge you Clawshotted to, the pillar in the courtyard, or most easily, the tray the statue is standing on!). Then activate the statue, and drag it onto the left tray.

The tray sinks immediately, because it has all the weight of the statuettes and the statue on it. Step on this tray, pick up all four statuettes, and throw them onto the right tray that's empty. This counterbalances the trays again, providing you step off! Now control the statue, and bring it down the stairs. Optionally pound the Gohmas in the courtyard below, then move the statue under the bell. There's a red Rupee if you ring this one, too!

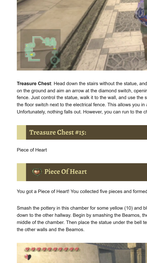
Chamber 4: First Return To Moving Wall Hallways (1F)



Treasure Chest. Head down the stairs without the statue, and you appear in the moving wall hallway. Quickly run to the circle on the ground and aim an arrow at the diamond switch, opening the wall up, but blocking in the statue on the other side of the fence. Just control the statue, walk it to the wall, and use the statue's hammer to smash it! Then maneuver the statue onto the floor switch next to the electrical fence. This allows you in and around to ring the bell with the Ball and Chain. Unfortunately, nothing falls out. However, you can run to the chest and claim a piece of Heart.

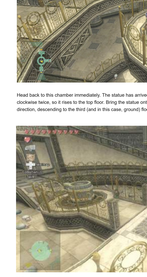
Treasure Chest #15:

Piece of Heart

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! You collected five pieces and formed a new Heart Container! Piece of Heart #35 of 45.

Smash the pottery in this chamber for some yellow (10) and blue (5) Rupees, as well as arrows, then bring your statue friend down to the other hallway. Begin by smashing the Beamos, then turn around and smash the wall blocking your path to the middle of the chamber. Then place the statue under the bell teleport. Optionally activate the diamond switch and smash all the other walls and the Beamos.



Remember! You don't have to waste arrows activating the diamond switch in this room. The statue breaks all the moving walls for you!

Chamber 4: First Return To Central Mechanical Platform (5F To 4F To 3F)

Head back to this chamber immediately. The statue has arrived on the fifth floor ledge. Run to the central platform and push it clockwise twice, so it rises to the top floor. Bring the statue onto the platform, and then push the handle in the opposite direction, descending to the third (and in this case, ground) floor.

Drop the platform all the way to the third floor, bring the statue out onto the shallow ramp, and begin to pound the ground near and on the scurrying Baby Gohmas that have returned. Continue this until all are defeated and the electrical fence stops buzzing. Bring the statue around to the north, where the Beamos remained after you defeated it. Bash it with the statue's hammer, and the Beamos collapses, but a dozen gooey Baby Gohmas appear from the rubble! Squash them with another hammer strike, now!

Poe Soul #53

Bring the statue around to the west side of this chamber, passing the gate with the bell behind it. Smash the gate here, and immediately change into wolf form. The gate holds an Imp Poe that must be defeated! Only seven more to go!

Poe Soul

You got the Poe Soul! Collect one from each Poe you defeat! Poe Soul #53 of 60.

Now smash any pots you need to. Move the statue to the north gate, and crack open the gate here. Maneuver your statue under the bell, and once it has been teleported, ring the bell with your Ball and Chain. A Fairy drops out! Clawshot, and then scoop it into an empty Bottle.

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle! When you fall in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

Chamber 5: First Return To Armos Antechamber (5F)

Before you return to the initial chamber, go back to the fifth floor, using two statuettes and placing them on the ledge just as you did before. Remember to stand on the ledge before you raise it! Head to the south door and enter the Armos Antechamber.

The Armoses have been replaced by a dozen Baby Gohmas and a couple of Young Gohmas. Run around stashing until they're all defeated, as this makes the next tactic easier. Run to the far end of this chamber, near the open chest, and produce your Dominion Rod. Look for the statuette on the other side of the fence, and maneuver it down the channel to a floor switch. Now grab another statuette (there are two lying about), and throw it over the black fence on the opposite side.

Treasure Chest. Once the statuette is behind the fence, coax it down a similar channel to a second switch opposite the first. When both statuettes land on the switch, a chest appears in the eastern alcove. There's a Piece of Heart inside. Only nine more Pieces of Heart are left to find!

Treasure Chest #16:

Piece of Heart

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect five pieces to form a new Heart Container! Piece of Heart #36 of 45.

Chamber 4: Second Return To Central Mechanical Platform (5F To 4F To 3F), To Chamber 3: First Return To Hexagonal Junction (3F)

Now it's time to return to the initial chamber, so head back to the entrance to the Hexagonal Junction stairs, and descend. At the closed gate, Clawshot over, and then defeat an Armos at the junction itself. Try the mortal draw! Then coax the statue from under the bell and down the stairs.

Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Task 7: Reach the End of the Crumbling Corridor

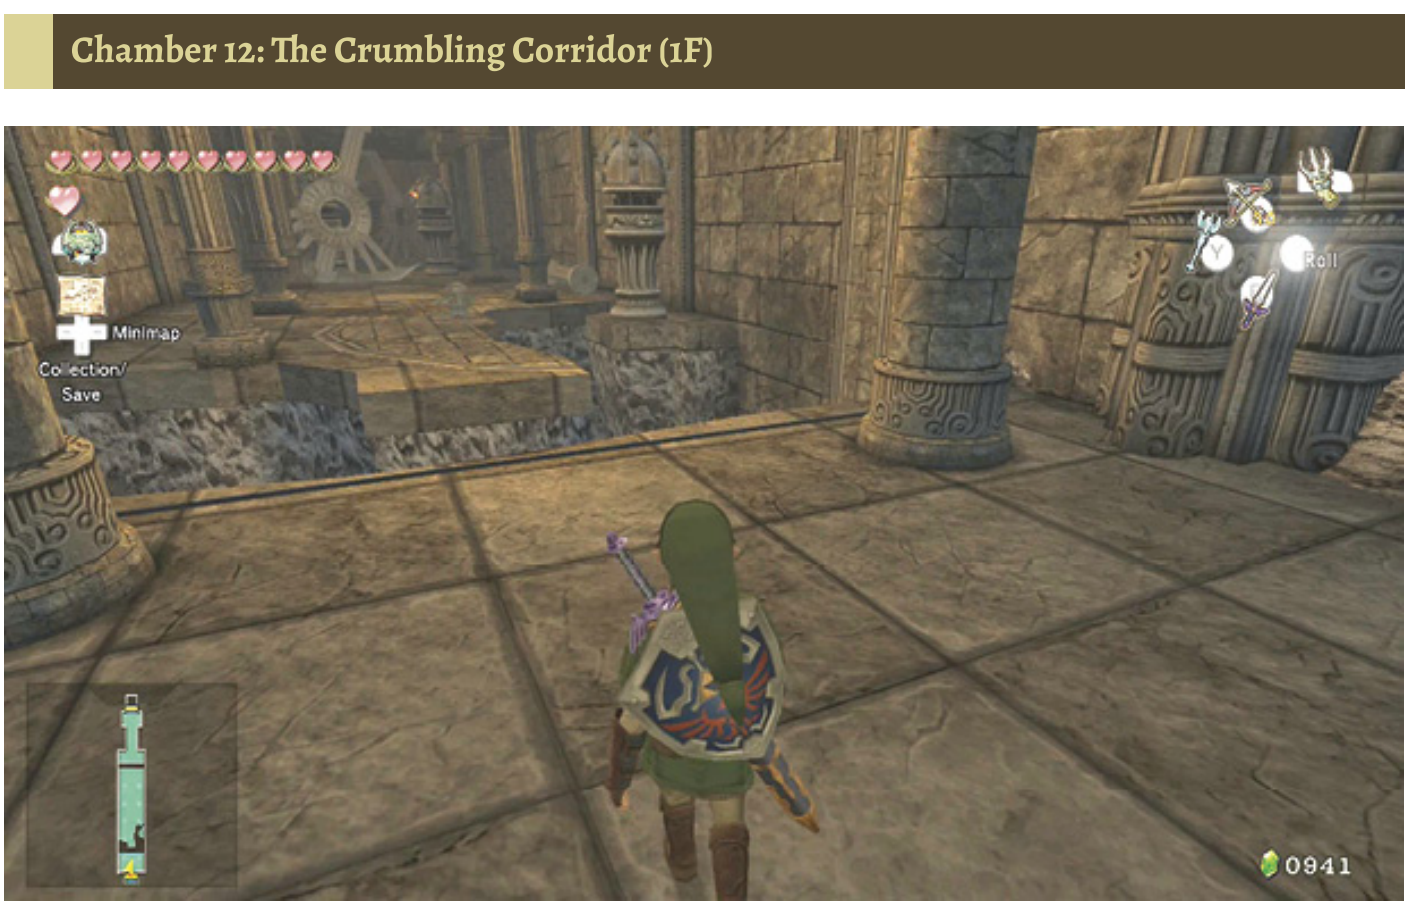
Chamber 2: First Return To Connecting Corridors (3F To 2F)

Continue maneuvering downstairs to the Connecting Corridors area, where you first opened the gate via a floor switch. You can afford to be a little less subtle this time; bash the gate with your statue's hammer, and then move the statue into the bell at the end.

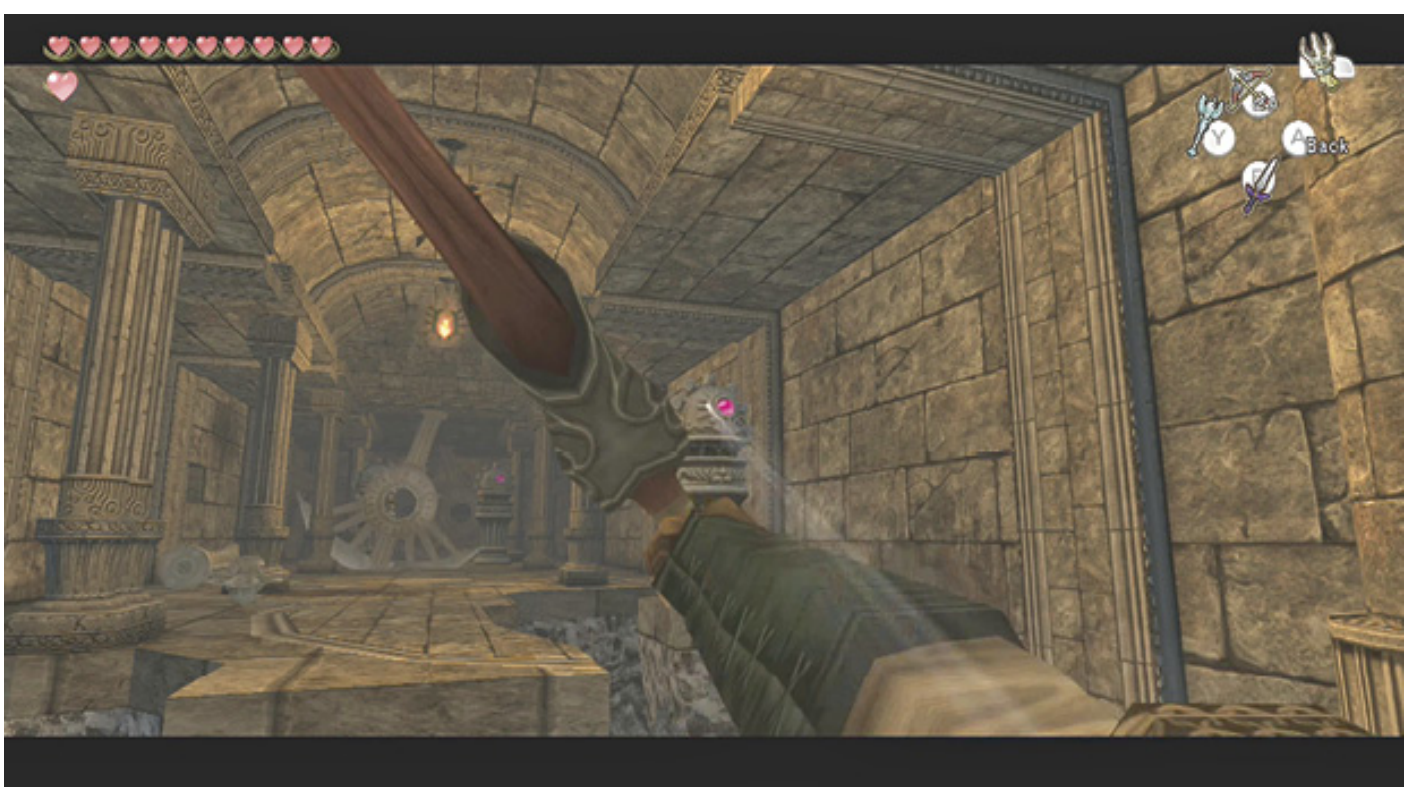
Chamber 1: First Return To Grand Entrance (2F To 1F)

Move all the way back to the entrance chamber and run down the stairs. Control the statue out from the last teleport bell, and up the shallow steps to the side of the door, opposite the original statue. The door glows green and slides open!

Chamber 12: The Crumbling Corridor (1F)



The door slides back, and you can enter a narrow and dangerous corridor. Run forward and optionally pause to smash some skulls for arrows, Hearts, and Rupees. Then aim at a White Beamos, destroy it, then leap across the gap after avoiding the spiked Spinner, cling to the edge of the ledge in front, and pull yourself up.



Walk forward, and carry your Hero's Bow, avoiding the ground spikes as they roll back and forth. When you reach this point, and you're half hidden by a pillar, bring the bow out to shoot another two White Beamoses, then avoid the swinging axe pendulum.

Now for some careful maneuvering! Pick up the statuette near the swinging pendulums, and carefully carry it to the floor switch near the chasm at the corridor's north end. Place it on there, and the gate ahead swings open. Line yourself up and leap the gap, and move past the open gate, down some steps, and slay a Young Gohma. Spin around, and from within the staircase, use your Dominion Rod, zap the statuette, and move it off the switch. The gate closes to the south, but the one to the north—and the final chamber—opens!

Step to the door leading to a large arena (according to your map), and stop for a moment. Take down the Young Gohma, and then smash all the pots. The large one on the left wall houses a Fairy! Grab it if you need it!

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle! When you fall in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

Dungeon 6: Temple of Time

Task 8: Defeat Twilit Arachnid Armagohma!

Chamber 13: Boss Battle! Twilit Arachnid Armagohma

You enter a large and imposing arena. In each of the corners stand a giant statue, with a huge hammer, dormant and waiting. Something is scuttling on the ceiling. Look up to see the gigantic Armogahma. Her huge eye has spotted you! Engage!

Twilit Arachnid Armagohma

Before you begin combat, be sure you have a good fill of energy, your Hero's Bow equipped, and your Dominion Rod within easy reach.

Step 1: Armagohma is a fearsome furry arachnid with additional abilities her young don't have, and she starts with a nasty bolt of fire that streams forth onto the stone arena below. It can really sting (picture 1)! As you can see where the stream is going, roll away from it quickly, so she traces a tight circle in the ground; you definitely won't be struck like this.

Step 2: After two jets of fire, Armagohma scuttles about the ceiling, and comes to rest randomly in one of four corners. As soon as she stops her fire, stand in the middle of the chamber, and bring out your Hero's Bow. As soon as she stops, fire an arrow directly into the eye in the middle of her back. This can be done as shown; even when she begins to fire her next jet of fire!

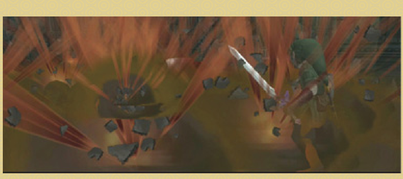
Step 3: As soon as she begins her fall, run directly to the corner, and around the twitching arachnid, bringing out your Dominion Rod as you go.

Target the giant statue and possess it, and then attack so the statue brings its heavy fist down into the middle of Armagohma. Repeat Steps 1–3.

Step 4: When you've inflicted a nasty knock on her a couple of times, she lays a couple of dozen Baby Gohmas to waylay you during the next battle. Quickly run around, slashing at them, and make sure all of them are dispatched. Then dodge the jet again, and repeat Steps 1–4.

After the third fist pummeling by giant statue, Armagohma rolls onto her back, turns an inky black, and explodes! After the explosion has dissipated, you can see that only the eye is left, and it's actually a Gohma, surrounded by Baby Gohmas! The mass tries to escape, scuttling away from you.

Step 5: There's nowhere to run for this feeble arachnid! Bring out your Hero's Bow and launch a couple of manually aimed shots at the eyeball from a distance, and they all explode!



Out of the mass of twilight descends the third Mirror Shard! Midna takes it, and tells you that you need to reach the sky, as that's where the last shard is supposed to be. She creates a warp portal for you. Collect your Heart Container, and depart.

Climb the scent and walk around the alley past Lucien's door and down the tunnel ahead, before arriving at a set of stairs. A Tarina's. Look in seeing and see the one and the statue. Also, we was attracted by some skeletal dog statues who took it from you. Defeat them, and activate the scentless gate, and they only come out of sight. Nearby, cases Lucien, and head directly out the south gate.

Round down the southern gate's steps and into the Hyrule Field area where the Doors were lowered the path away is standing. Walk the right to that, and a pack of Bellbrute bombs one of the ground. Fortunately, they aren't just bombs they're artifact. Use your gale attack on them, and defeat them in other form. A second pack emerges, to dispatch them too. Task 3: Restore Power to the Dominion Rod

Powering The Dominion Rod: Success!

Now that you have Ilia's Charm, you can show it to Ilia inside the Sanctuary. The scent of hay…she remembers you! Ilia's Charm was meant for you for your journey. She thinks back to the Ordon Spring.

The gift isn't a charm at all; it's actually a Horse Call! It allows you to summon Epona from wherever you are in Hyrule (except for Snowpeak and the Desert). Ilia says she'll be waiting for you when you return. Her memory is coming back!

Horse Call

You got the Horse Call! Ilia made this just for Epona.

Ilia now informs you that the rod of the heavens story was actually about a messenger. In the Hidden Village lies a gift for this heavenly messenger. They await his return, when he comes bearing a rod….

Head into the cellar and speak with Shad, who's staring at an owl statue. He asks if you remember the legend of the Oocca. He's seen statues like this, which appear to be related to the Oocca, all over Hyrule. This one is different, though; there's something written on it. It is sky writing, and says, "Awaken us with the word that breaks the seal."

Shad hasn't figured out what to do, but you have! Journey back to Hidden Village once more, and enter Impaz's hut. Produce the Dominion Rod, and she is startled. This is the sign that the messenger has arrived! A book, guarded by her ancestors, is to be given to the messenger.

Ancient Sky Book

You got the Ancient Sky Book! A book written in the ancient Sky language. A word in it seems to be missing letters….

Shad is shocked when you return to the Sanctuary cellar and present him with the Ancient Sky Book! He takes the book and heads off to try and activate the rest of the owl statues that are scattered about Hyrule. He's marked their locations on your map.

When he departs, you can examine your Dominion Rod. Its power has been restored! Now check your in-game map, where all the locations of the owl statues are shown. Perhaps these statues have the hidden missing word…

Dominion Rod

Power has returned to the Dominion Rod! This mystical rod breathes life into ancient statues.

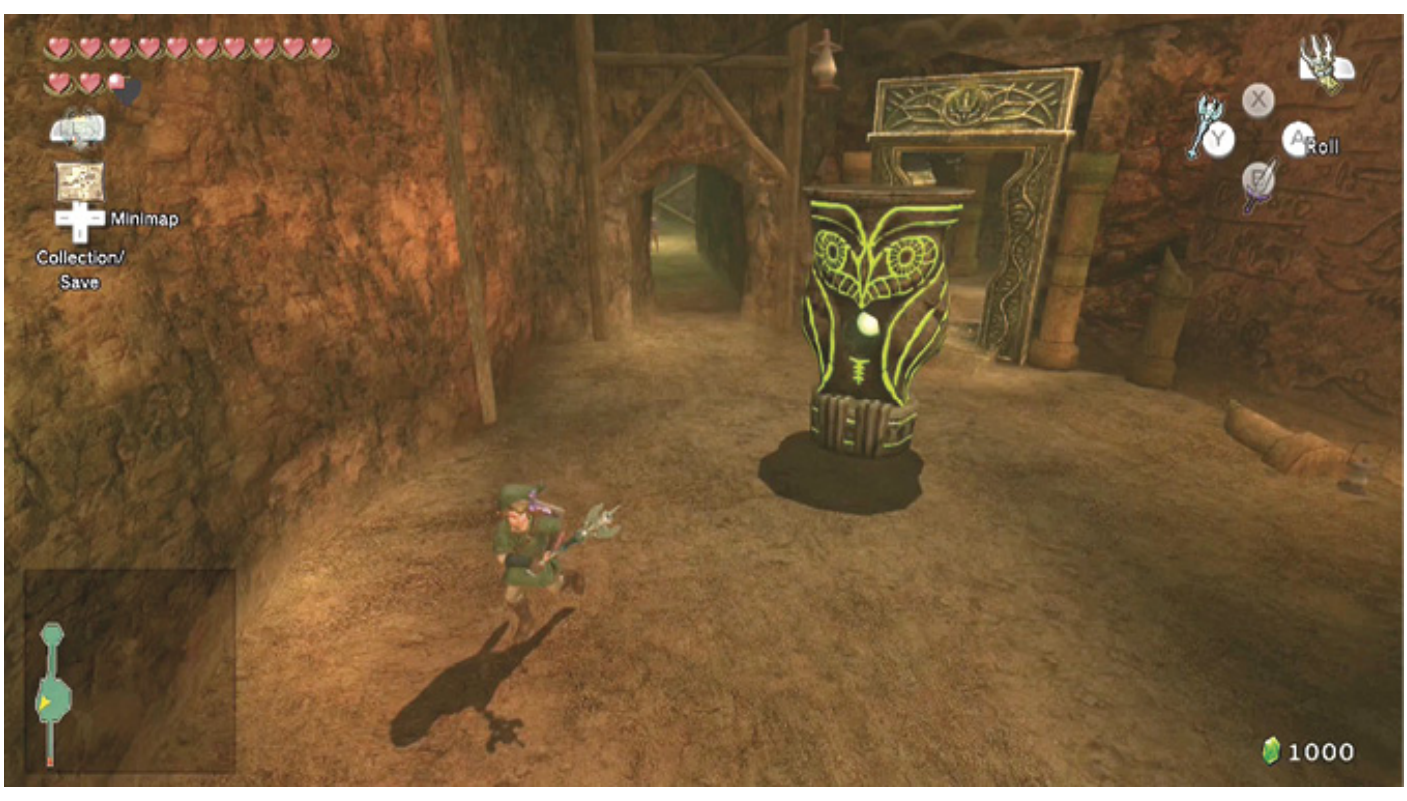
Owl Statue Hunt #7: Kakariko Village Sanctuary Cellar



With all six Sky Characters assembled, head back to Renado's Sanctuary and drop into the cellar, where you meet Shad. He reads the completed incantation, and the seal on the owl disappears. When Shad leaves whip out the Dominion Rod and move that final owl statue. Enter the owl statue–shaped hole behind the figure and run down the dirt ramp.

You enter a hidden chamber and look at a rusting and crumbling cannon in the cavernous gloom. Shad runs down. This must be the Sky cannon he's read about in his father's notes!

Missing Links

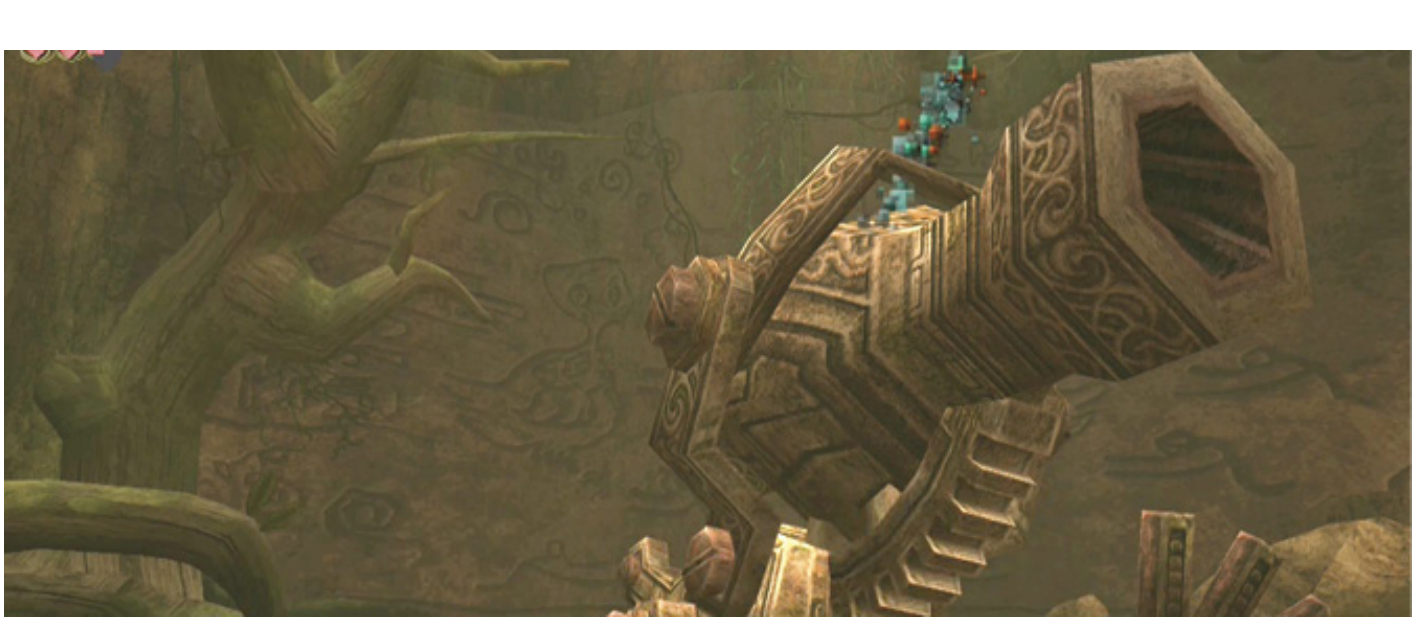
Check the dirt ramp and the cannon chamber for dig spots; there are many, and they grant you Rupees of different denominations, as well as Hearts.



Speak to Shad again, and he realizes he's in your way and leaves. This allows you to talk to Midna, who asks what you plan to do with this cannon. It must be transported, but where? Remembering what Auru said, choose Lake Hylia on the map, and the cannon is dropped on the round grassy island near Fyer's hut.

Head over to visit Fyer, who asks if he can get a tour. As he looks over the broken cannon, he offers to mend it for you for the princely sum of 300 Rupees. Do this as soon as possible. Fyer fixes the cannon, and although it may look like junk, this is a powerful propulsion device designed to send you sky-high!

When you're ready to fly to the City in the Sky, step to the cannon's rear and search for the Clawshot medallion. Target and propel yourself into the cannon, and it struts about on its claw legs, adjusting trajectory. It waits for a running Ooccoo to catch you, and then fires you both into the heavens….

Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

City in the Sky: Overview

You're witnessing what Shad could only dream about and research in musty tomes: a hidden city in the heavens, where the Oocca—the ancestors of the Hylian people—live! However, their world is under threat from the twilight too; a massive dragon called Argorok is soaring about the place, destroying the sky bridges and ruining the Oocca's architecture. You must venture into this place, learning to control any fear of heights you may have, and navigate an air maze of towers, fans, rotating platforms, and vents, until you reach a battle with an airborne Aeralfos. He's guarding another Clawshot, and with two of these trusty items, you can scale previously unimaginable heights, activating a series of fans and turbines that allow you to reach the top of the city, and a battle with the dragon himself!

Task 2: Obtain the Small Key

Chamber 4: Peahat Wind Gorge (West) (1F)

Exit the door and head to a short flight of steps leading…nowhere! There's a gap with fierce gusts of wind blowing, stopping, and blowing again. Above are stationary Peahats, but don't Clawshot to them, as there's nowhere to go except down!

Clawshot from the doorway, or drop from the grated window's open corner, and land in this small ledge. There are two pots (open them for a Heart), and a Spinner circular groove in the ground. Produce your Spinner, and spin on the spot while connected to this groove. A bridge gradually spans from the gorge's east and west sides.

Clawshot to a vine wall, climb up, and maneuver toward the newly formed bridge. Be careful as you cross. Gusts of wind can sweep you off into the clouds, so stop next to each wall section to prevent this. Move quickly, then turn and engage a Kargorok on the steps. Don't fight it on the bridge.

Chamber 5: Western Sky Tower (B1 To 3F)

You're on the first floor of a large and multilevel Sky Tower, but your progress is limited. Enter the door and strike out the pots on the side for a Heart and blue Rupees (5). Pass the wall's grating, and run to the far end. Stand at this point. You can look down or across.

> If you drop to the B1 floor, you can crack a couple of pots for a green Rupee (1) and a Heart, but the way onward is blocked. Don't Clawshot to the stone tube, it'll fall! For now, Clawshot to the vines on the ledge above you.

Treasure Chest: Remain on the first floor, and move to the left side, gazing at the chamber's corner. Launch onto the Clawshot medallion, then lower yourself to a small ledge holding a chest. This houses a Small Key. Clawshot onto the grated wall across from you, then head back to the Peahat Wind Gorge.

Dungeon 7: City of the Sky
Task 3: Defeat the Dynafols Duo

Chamber a: First Return To Pedue Wind Gorge (West) (if)

Cross the Wind Gorge bridge, riding by quicken your pace as you don't fall off. As you reach the opposite side, the great dragon you can see the various boxes, and collides with the bridge, sending pieces of stone flying!

Chamber j: First Return To Central Fan Chamber (if)

Enter the Central Fan Chamber, push your Clawshot up at one of the iron pillars, and let it move to be pulled up there. Shimmy to the wide ground, drop, then pull your hook back down.

Chamber a: Second Return To Central Fan Chamber (if)

The only other possible way forward is to run east. Head down the steps, turn, and dash over the falling floor to the door in the centre of the Central Fan Chamber, and open it.

Chamber f: Central Sky Bridge (if)

Step into a windy zone, with a large gap stretching ahead of you. Turn right, enter your second Twist of Wake Shooting using a Spinner, and ride the propeller platform to the next platform on the right. Run forward to grab at the ground window, then use your Spinner again to ride the propeller platform to the next platform on the left. Finally, run forward to the western zone.

Run along the ledge, and cross this newly formed bridge, rolling quickly after a pit of wind has subsided. Be always, if the wind suddenly stops, to roll forward. Run to the end of the bridge, and enter the Chamber of Sky. Run to the far end, and head east so they're stunned, then finish them! Smash the two pots (there are three!) and retrieve 5 items, and open the door.

Chamber k: Wind Room (if)

Enter a large, long corridor, and sidestep a couple of Helmasaurs that hit it toward you. Dispatch them with the usual sign! Then head around to the room's south side, and dispatch several pottery.

Move to the edge of the floor and south. Two huge fans are blowing a gale, but it's the diamond switch that's of real interest. Bring out your Clawshot and tag it. The fan turn on the south wall, blowing wind north, shuts down.

Now run to the north side and face east. You must negotiate the two remaining wind fans. Start by running along the north path. When you hit the first fan, switch to your Iron Boots, and push through the gust.

> Running into the gust fan from the dangerous floor edge, then pushing boots on as you're caught, is the fastest way to negotiate this. Otherwise, you'll be cautiously treading forward until you're struck.

Once you've past the first fan's gusting breezes, take off your Iron Boots. This time bring out your Clawshot, aim at the cross on the other wall, and fire. Immediately run forward to the left, and drop. Defeat the Helmasaur, then open the door to the west.

Chamber h: The Great Wind Tower (East) (if)

Enter the door into an enclosed ledge. Smack the pots to your left, collecting them (5) and photos (10) Rupees. Also turn and open the chest in the opposite area. It contains your Dungeon Map.

Treasure Chest #a:

Dungeon Map

Dungeon Map

You got the Dungeon Map!

Chamber g: First Return To Wind Room (if)

Now return to the Wind Room, and run south, across the falling floor pieces, and turn right to reach the wall door. If the fan isn't stopped, retrace your steps and activate the diamond switch. Smash the pots and leave via the south door.

Chamber m: The Floor Maze (if)

You enter a long chamber with numerous small floor sections interspersed with frightening drops into the clouds! Turn right and smash the pots with your Clawshot, then run and grab the hand and arrows, as you don't stop through the floor. Then run to the southwest corner, and turn to face east. Run to the edge of the jutting area of floor. Use your Hero's Bow or Clawshot to take a couple of Keese as they don't bother you during the next maneuver. Wait for an updraft to suddenly rise! Leap the gap.

Ignore the chest on the chamber's north side for the moment, and instead continue to face east and trek across all this area of floor. Wait for the updraft to stop, and leap across to the grey, not the blue, floor!

Head toward a dangerous The Worm at the end of the narrow floor.Now after you smash the pot on the south wall. This creature is extremely dangerous, and you must defeat it quickly. Run to the edge of the floor to the south and thrust it, and the The Worm is wounded and runs for the ocean. Wait for the updraft to stop, then run and leap across.

Smash the pots under the Clawshot-installed crystal when you approach the room from the opposite direction1. Now head to the small, thin floor area running north to south. Turn and then yourself up exactly. You must land on the tiles opposite, and there's little room for error!

Treasure Chest! Run to the north wall, and turn west. Dash along the floor, and jump to the small chest. Then turn and face east. Despite appearances, you can leap to the narrow ledge. Now move to where you last fought a The Worm.

Leap westward to the last dangerous part of this chamber, and target another The Worm on the ledge across from an updraft. Defeat it, then leap when the air is clear before turning right at the east wall, and jumping south, to the exit door.

Treasure Chest #a:

Yellow Rupee (10)

Chamber o: Domain Of The Dynafols

Be very wary as you enter this square chamber. It contains two well-armored Dynafloses, like the ones you encountered during your excursion through the Temple of Time. You want to defeat them one at a time, so coax the first forward by orbiting it on the hideout floor long range with your Clawshot. Then either crumble it to ash with a sword strike and spin, or even easier, take these down long range with Bomb Arrows!

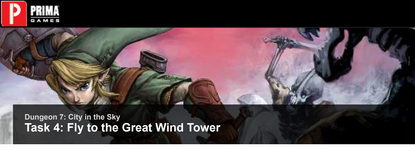
Now that the chamber is free from armored Dynafloses, a door opens to the south wall, where you. Optionally smash the pots on the corners for Hearts, then move to the southern floor section, look up, and launch a Clawshot to the vine. Clamber up.

Author Note

A pop to watch your subscreen closely. After this battle, we don't realize that the above was opened, and spent the next few hours hopelessly lost. Don't let this happen to you!

Climb up to the ornate ledge, and smash some more Ossca pottery, then look up. There's a bulb-like ornate beetle, and you must shoot your Clawshot at it. Your weight activates an updraft in the room.

Take an Ossca, and walk to the edge of the ledge. The updraft turns on and off. Just as it turns on, run off and float directly to the north. It passes you by in a trice, and land on a ledge that you couldn't reach before. Grit this chamber, now on the second floor!



Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

Task 4: Fly to the Great Wind Tower

Chamber 12: Oocca Flying Room (2F)

Treasure Chest: Head north into a chamber directly above Chamber 10, but with no access to it. Put down the Oocca, and look up. There's a handle to Clawshot to and activate. This unlocks a gate in the south wall, with a chest behind it. Grab another Oocca, run into the gap above the lower middle floor section, and aim for the updraft. Turn around, fly into the ledge, and open the chest.

Treasure Chest #6:

Red Rupee (20)

Treasure Chest: Drop down to the middle area, and ride the updraft to the upper floor area opposite. There's a broken wall to the north, and a Clawshot medallion on the south. Ignore them both, stand on the updraft vent, and ride the Oocca to the far end of the chamber where another chest resides.

Treasure Chest #7:

Purple Rupee (50)

The Clawshot medallion is necessary only if you fall down into the lower floor area near Treasure Chest #7. Fight the Helmasaur down here, then propel yourself back up.

Time to fly again! Pick up an Oocca, stand on the vent near the broken wall, and fly northward, turning east in an arch, and landing on another vent with three pots on it. Each pot holds a blue Rupee (5).

The updraft vent isn't working, so turn and face west with Oocca in hand, and fly to the central vent. Ride it up, then aim for the floor under the ornate handle. Clawshot up to it, which releases the air in the vent. Head back there, and use this new blast of air to ascend through the hole in the east wall. The last part of this chamber holds nothing of interest (the pots are empty). Head through the door to the north.

Chamber 9: The Great Wind Tower (East) (2F To 1F To B1 To B2 To B3)

You emerge in the Great Wind Tower. This is actually the second time you've been here—the first time was when you obtained the Dungeon Map. Now you're on the other side and must methodically descend. Start by smashing the pots to your left for a yellow Rupee (10) and Hearts. Then optionally fly to these pots on the central pillar. Drop and grab the ledge. The usual prizes are inside: a blue (5) and yellow (10) Rupee.

Look to the west side of the room to find another Clawshot switch. Shoot it with your Clawshot to be pulled over to the west side of the room and to open the gate below. Grab an Oocca, and run off the ledge.

Drop to the ledge opposite, on the tower's first floor. There's a Deku Baba growing here. Stun it with a Clawshot.

From your current vantage point, turn and point yourself and an Oocca friend west, and fly to the small ledge with the two pots. You're now on the B1 level of this structure. Fall and land on the ledge, crack both pots for a yellow (10) and blue (5) Rupee, and turn to look east.

You may have noticed a large bulb-like handle in the center of this chamber. Don't journey to this yet, as you can't do anything except fall into the clouds after you hang onto it!

Face east and use the Oocca to float down to lower level ledge with the Deku Baba on it.Land and deal with a Deku Baba, and smash the two pots for a Heart and blue Rupee (5).

Your final descent leaves you at the very bottom of the tower, on floor B3. Look over the ledge's right edge and Clawshot to the small ledge underneath. Then turn and run south, to the door in the tower's eastern part. You're out!

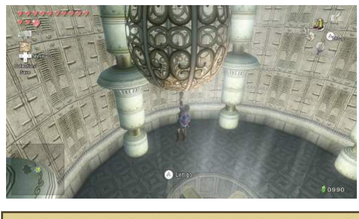
Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

Task 5: Battle the Aeralfos

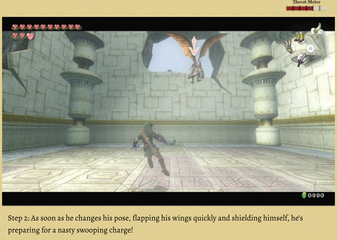
Chamber 13: Basement Fan And Battle Chamber (B3)

Chamber 13 is a small circular room. The pottery around the perimeter provides the regular items: Hearts, arrows, and a blue Rupee (5). Of more interest is the bulb handle above a roaring fan. Clawshot to the handle, and equip your Iron Boots to shut the fan off. Then lower yourself down through the now-still fan blades.



Aeralfos

Step 1: The Aeralfos is an airborne creature with great speed and nasty attack patterns. However, he is incredibly susceptible to the following strategy. First, ZL target the creature. When he's flying like this, wait.



Step 2: As soon as he changes his pose, flapping his wings quickly and shielding himself, he's preparing for a nasty swooping charge!

Watch out! Some of the perimeter floor is unsafe, so stay in the middle and constantly ZL target for best results.

Step 3: As soon as you see him change pose, launch a Clawshot straight at the shield. You pull the Aeralfos down and expose his belly. Quickly unsheathe your sword and really hash and slash the foe, getting at least four good strikes on him. He flies up to the ceiling, and Step 1 begins again.

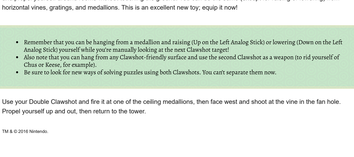
After four or five collections of slashing, the Aeralfos flies off! He soon comes back and tries a huge airborne charge. Circle your camera around the room to constantly check each of the openings on the upper walls of the room. When you see him re-enter the room immediately ZL target him and use your Clawshot to pull him down to the ground. If you get the Aeralfos on the ground and he's blocking, either use your Back Slice or Shield Bash (followed by the Helm Splitter) techniques to break his guard. If you don't have either of those, just keep swinging away; you have a chance of getting a few hits in even when he has his shield up. Keep this up until he falls.

Missing Links

1. Pot Luck

After (or during) the combat, there's a load of pottery to smash around the arena sides. However, there's some on the holes in the walls too, and the best way to bring these items—usually yellow (10) or blue (5) Rupees or Hearts—is to aim with the Gale Boomerang.

Treasure Chest: Once you've destroyed all pottery look west, as a gate has opened. Clawshot up to the medallion, and run to the chest. Inside is what you've been waiting for: a second Clawshot, which doubles your shooting prowess!



The Double Clawshot is possibly the finest pair of items ever seen in the land of Hyrule!

Treasure Chest #8:

Double Clawshot

Double Clawshot

You got another Clawshot! Now you're holding a pair! They're Double Clawshots!

The Double Clawshot allows you to hang from a medallion or other vertical grating or vine and raise or lower yourself with up and down. However, in addition, you can aim (either manually or with ZL targeting) to a second medallion, grating, or vine, and propel yourself around rooms without touching the ground. You can do the same (except for raising or lowering) from horizontal vines, gratings, and medallions. This is an excellent new toy; equip it now!

- Remember that you can be hanging from a medallion and raising (Up on the Left Analog Stick) or lowering (Down on the Left Analog Stick) yourself while you're manually looking at the next Clawshot target!
- Also note that you can hang from any Clawshot-friendly surface and use the second Clawshot as a weapon (to rid yourself of Chus or Keese, for example).
- Be sure to look for new ways of solving puzzles using both Clawshots. You can't separate them now.

Use your Double Clawshot and fire it at one of the ceiling medallions, then face west and shoot at the vine in the fan hole. Propel yourself up and out, then return to the tower.

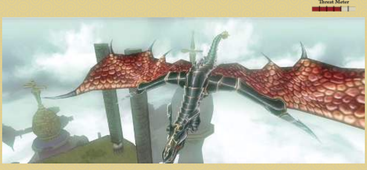
Dungeon 7: City in the Sky

Task 8: Defeat Twilit Dragon Argorok

Boss Battle! Twilit Dragon Argorok

Twilit Dragon Argorok

You walk onto the windy tower. From the skies a massive dragon glides in, with huge, powerful wings and a set of fangs with teeth bigger than a Goron! This is the Twilit Dragon Argorok, and you must defeat it!

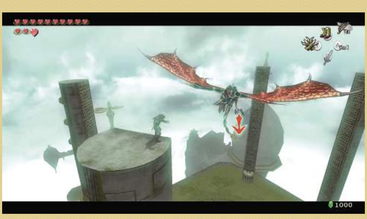


Step 1: Ascend the spires to the very top to gain a height advantage over Argorok. Do this by Clawshotting to the spire, then alternating between spires until you reach the top. The choice of spires is important. Propel yourself to the spires that are close together, as you'll ascend quickly.

Step 2: Argorok then swoops in and scrapes the ground with its talons. The wind caused by its wings can push you off the tower. Quickly put on your Iron Boots to prevent yourself from express shipping yourself back to Hyrule.

Step 3: Argorok now stops and sits on a spire for a moment. Then it tries to take you down with a talon scrape and wind blow once again. If you're on the flight path, roll so you aren't struck, and immediately put those boots on!

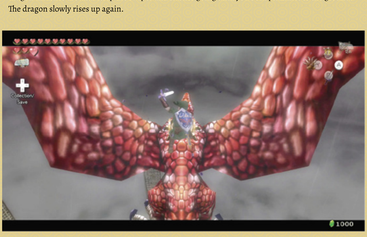
Step 4: Now Argorok circles at a higher elevation, forcing you to climb the spires again. Continue up to the middle of the spire, and continuously try to ZL target Argorok's tail. Clawshot to it, and pull the beast down again. The creature flails and the last of its armor falls off, exposing a weak spot. It rises, draws thunder claps, and the final combat begins!



Step 5: Peahats have risen from the ground, and are floating in a large circle above the top of the spires. Clawshot all the way to the top, and ZL target your closest Peahat. Then automatically Clawshot from Peahat to Peahat using ZL, as Argorok flaps in the middle.

Step 6: Continue to circle around Argorok as it breathes fire; you must quickly reach a Peahat that gives you a view of Argorok's back. Stop here and ZL target the weak spot on the back. Be quick!

Step 7: Propel yourself onto Argorok's back, and plunge your sword into that weak spot, as the dragon thrashes around. Keep the swipes and slashes going until you both plummet to the ground. The dragon slowly rises up again.



Step 8: Repeat Steps 5–7 twice more. On the third occasion, as the lightning storm intensifies, stop and wait for Argorok to start breathing fire. Maneuver from Peahat to Peahat, and when the dragon changes direction, you must too. Change direction again (you may need to do this a couple of times), then navigate around so you're facing the dragon's back. Then dish the final damage!

Midna appears. She says that only the true ruler of the Twilit can destroy the Mirror. Zant must be a false king! She opens a portal and asks you to head immediately to the Mirror Chamber. All in good time! First, pick up the Heart Container. Then, head back to Lake Hylia via a Clawshot into the back of the Sky Cannon.

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect two more for another full Heart Container. Piece of Heart #43 of 45.

Double Clawshot Hunt: Hyrule Field (South)

The last medallions to leap to and from are in the hole in the southern part of Hyrule Field just outside the southern Castle Town gate. Stand on the southern edge of the hole on the west side of the field. Now look down and you'll find a medallion.

Hook it with your Clawshot and Link will be pulled forward with all the grace and beauty of a championship diver. Face south and you'll find another medallion. Turn north once more and you'll find our third and final medallion. This one is positioned over the chest we've been looking for! Drop down onto the tiny ledge, pry the chest open, grab the V Hylian Letter Stamp, then either make your way back up, or drop into the cool, refreshing waters of Lake Hylia below.

Overworld Chest #99:

Hylian Letter Stamp V

Catching The Final Post

The Postman arrives when you next enter a bridge or junction somewhere in Hyrule. Note that you may have received these letters before or after this point, if you took a more indirect path through your adventure. There are three letters to open:

- Letter #14 is from Purlo, and it's sent once you have the Double Clawshot, telling you of the new challenge awaiting you!

Letter #14

You got Letter #14: "Challenge for you!" by Purlo.

- Letter #15 is from Cococo Jr., and it's a fantastic response! You get this after receiving Letter #11.

Letter #15

You got Letter #15: "Hey, kiddd!!!" by Jr.

- Letter #16 is from Shad, giving you an update on his search for the heavens.

Letter #16

You got Letter #16: "Update" by Shad.

Postman:

The Postman is around 20 years old, and he delivers letters all over the kingdom. Whenever he has a letter for you, he pulls at you and delivers it by hand, and he's usually out of breath! When he runs, he hums to himself, and speaks with a strange foreign accent. He has a weird and unpleasant laugh. Although always breathless and smelly with sweat, he's a happy-go-lucky fellow!

Task 2: Obtain the Giant Quiver

Purloining From Purlo: The Final STAR Game

Your next stop should be inside Castle Town, at Purlo's "STAR" minigame! Now that you have the Double Clawshot, he's introduced a final, ultra-difficult level that will tax you. Or will it? Below are the tactics for the quickest route through this game, plus tips on obtaining a near-infinite number of orange Rupees (100)!

Level 2: Hard

Determined never to hand out a prize again, Purlo jacks up the difficulty level for his second STAR challenge. He jacks up the price a bit as well. It costs 15 Rupees this time around. Now that you're armed with the Double Clawshot and know the best route to take, completing this second level is a breeze!

From the buzzer, aim the Double Clawshot at the lowest white star ahead and zip across to nab it. Don't drop from the cage or you'll land in the spikes below!

Turn and aim the Double Clawshot at the row of white stars to the right. Fire to zip across, nabbing some stars.

Next, aim at the row of pink stars just to your right and then fire to sail across, collecting them all at once.

You're doing great! Now target the line of yellow stars, which again are just to your right. Fly out to grab them all in one pass.

Next, look for a row of white stars above and to the right. Catch 'em all in one swift pass!

Aim just to your right again, lining up the row of pink stars ahead. Sail across the arena and grab the whole row.

Upon reaching the other side, look for a line of yellow stars below you to the right. Unleash the Double Clawshot to zip through and grab each one.

You're getting there! Now find a string of blue stars just below you. Line up so you catch them all in one go.

Working your way back up now, find a row of white stars above and to the right. Fire away and nab the whole string.

Only two moves remain! Look high above and notice a string of pink stars leading toward the ceiling. Aim at the circle in the center of the roof and release to grab all of the pink stars on your way up.

Excellent work! The final column of stars now lies directly beneath you. Simply drop from the ceiling to grab them all and complete the second level of the "STAR" minigame in record time.

> Before letting go and completing the minigame, hang around and let the timer tick away. Drop and win the game just before time runs out so you don't set an unbeatable record time. This comes in handy later!

Flabbergasted, Purlo simply can't believe you've managed to win his STAR challenge again. But he has no choice but to present you with a valuable prize: the Giant Quiver! Combine it with bombs for a considerable arsenal!

> From this point onward, you can replay the second level of the STAR minigame whenever you wish. If you beat your previous record time, you win an orange Rupee (100)! For this reason, it's best not to finish the game until the very last second. This lets you beat your record over and over for a nearly endless supply of Rupees!

Giant Quiver

You got the Giant Quiver! It can hold up to 100 arrows!

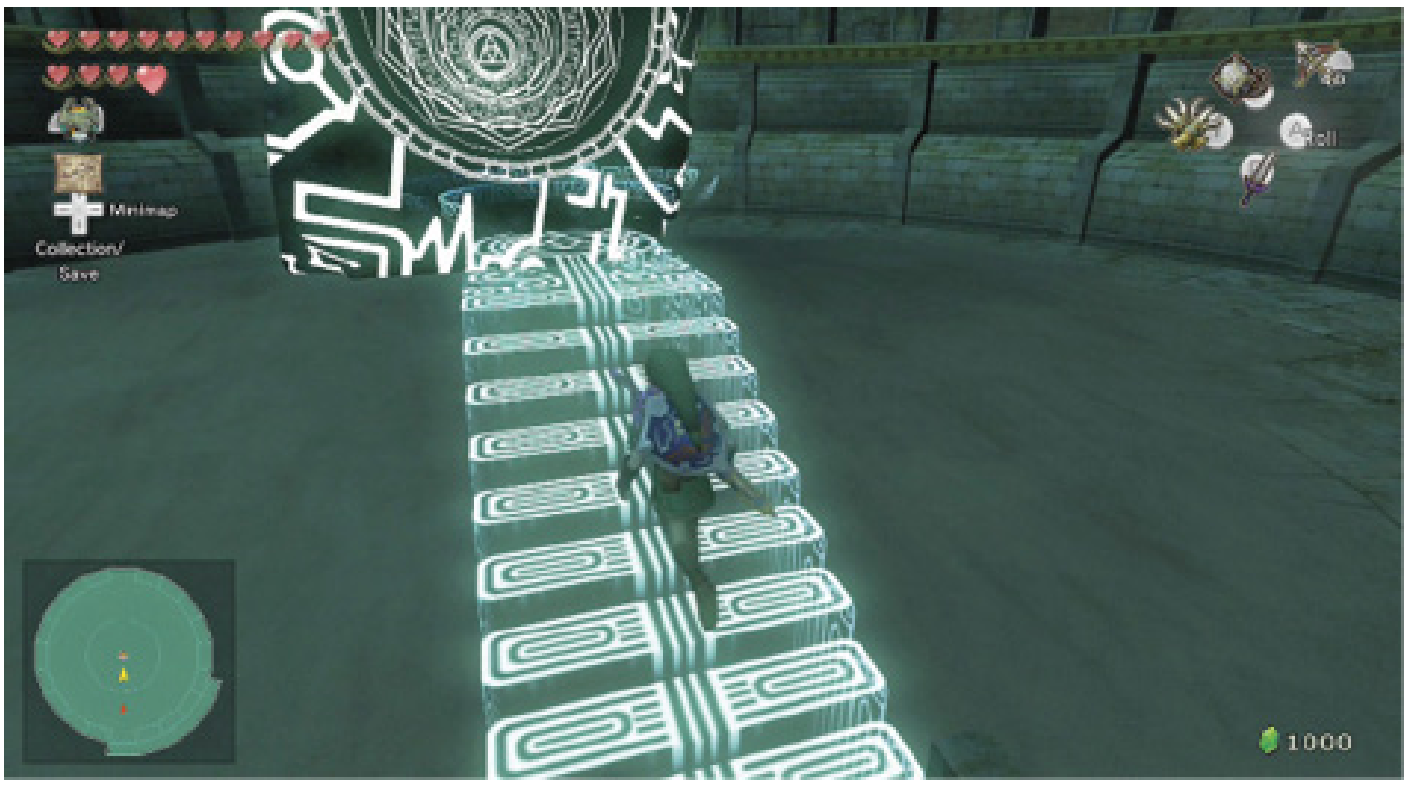
Overworld: Assembling the Mirror of Twilight

Task 4: Assemble the Mirror Shards

Heading To Dungeon 8: Entering The Mirror Chamber

When you've finished adventuring in Hyrule, and found everything the Overworld has to offer (or not; you can come back at any time to complete these optional tasks), warp straight to the Mirror Chamber in Gerudo Desert.

The shards of the Mirror of Twilight combine, and an astral beam projects through the chained monolith. Zant strikes down a tall, slender female, down in the Palace of Twilight. Midna only cared about turning her world to normal and ridding it of Zant. That's why she used you. But now that she's seen all your sacrifices, she wants to save your world, too.



A staircase projects toward the portal leading to the Twilight Realm. Step onto these stairs, and at the top, you're transported into Midna's world, where the King of Shadows must finally be stopped. Ganondorf's underling must pay!

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Palace of Twilight: Overview

The world of Midna's people is strange but eerily beautiful, but the same cannot be said of her people; transformed into shadow beasts by the hateful King Zant, who rules from this formidable fortress palace. You must bring light back to this land of darkness by moving through each wing of the palace to a ceremonial pedestal and taking a sacred globe known as a Sol Sphere, which shines light and restores balance. Along the way, Twilit forces are out to stop you, but the light's brightness is your savior, and combining two Spheres allows the Master Sword to be imbued with this powerful magic. Only then can you cut through the shadow clouds, scale the palace tower, and face the Usurper King to stop his evil machinations once and for all!

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 1: Obtain the First Sol Sphere

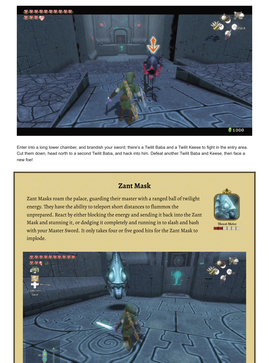
Chamber 1: Ethereal Plateau (1F)

Consider doing the following when you visit the twilight world:

- Bring multiple bottles filled with a Blue Potion, Fairy Tears, or a Fairy.
- Equip the Ether Medallion, so you can heal Vasmo or you can quickly activate it on and off.
- Have the Hawks here within easy access.
- Have the Magic Armor for the rare occasions you may need it; purchase it from Castle Town, if you haven't already.
- Completely fill your Giant Quiver and all Bomb Bags you don't want to run out!

Investigate the ramp to the west; this descends to a door, with a twili twili standing alone. He flinches if you attack. Smash the pot to the door's right for arrows. Now open the door.

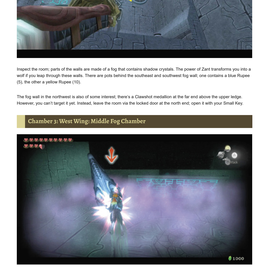
Chamber 2: West Wing: Lower Chamber



Enter into a long tower chamber, and brandish your sword; there's a Twili Baba and a Twili Keese to fight in the entry area. Cut them down, head north to a second Twili Baba, and hack into him. Defeat another Twili Baba and Keese, then face a new foe!

Zant Mask

Zant Masks roam the palace, guarding their master with a ranged ball of twilight energy. They have the ability to teleport short distances to flummox the unprepared. Aim for their clothes blocking the energy and sending it back into the Zant Mask and stunning it, or dodging it completely and running in to slash and bash with your Master Sword. It only takes four or five good hits for the Zant Mask to implode.



A fearsome helm, floating in the twilight and firing energy balls at you. Fortunately, it can be countered and defeated easily.

Treasure Chest: Stride down the ramp and engage the Zant Mask in combat. Don't stop until the Mask explodes, giving you a Rupee. If the Zant Mask disappears, it likely reappears and ambushes you. When you defeat the Mask, a chest appears in the alcove ahead. Open it to find a Small Key.

Treasure Chest #1:

Small Key

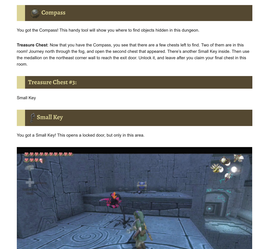
Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Missing Links

1. Pulverizing Pottery

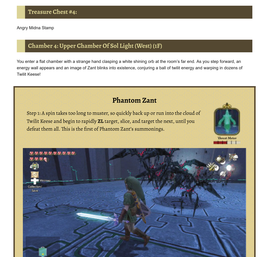
There are some pots to destroy in this chamber's upper northern section; one contains a blue Rupee (5). Use the Clawshot medallions and land up here, then begin the shattering!



Inspect the room; parts of the walls are made of a fog that contains shadow crystals. The power of Zant transforms you into a wolf if you leap through these walls. There are pots behind the southeast and southwest fog wall; one contains a blue Rupee (5), the other a yellow Rupee (10).

The fog wall in the northwest is also of some interest; there's a Clawshot medallion at the far end above the upper ledge. However, you can't target it yet. Instead, leave the room via the locked door at the north end; open it with your Small Key.

Chamber 3: West Wing: Middle Fog Chamber



Enter the next chamber and run directly into the fog. Turn on your sense view so you can see through the mist, and begin to attack the Zant Mask. Be ready to strike it a couple of times, and watch for it teleporting and reappearing. Also check the west side of the foggy area for pots; there's a yellow Rupee (10) in one.

Treasure Chest: As soon as you defeat the Zant Mask, two chests appear in this room. Smash another pot in the southeast foggy area for arrows, and then move to the chest in the chamber's southeast corner. Execute a spin attack and stop the Twili Vermin that fall from the ceiling. Open the chest and take the Compass.

Treasure Chest #2:

Compass

Compass

You got the Compass! This handy tool will show you where to find objects hidden in this dungeon.

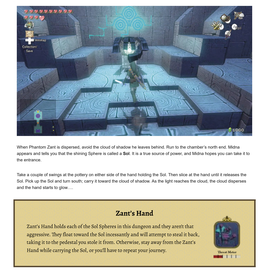
Treasure Chest: Note that you have the Compass; you see that there are a few chests left to find. Two of them are in this room! Journey north through the fog, and open the second chest that appeared. There's another Small Key inside. Then use the medallion on the northwest corner wall to reach the exit door. Unlock it, and leave after you claim your final chest in this room.

Treasure Chest #3:

Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.



Treasure Chest: The final chest requires some cunning Clawshot maneuvers. First, shoot to the northeast medallion, and turn to look south. There's another medallion on the outer wall. Shoot to it, then to the ceiling, and drop down on the eastern ledge. Open the chest to find the Angry Moba Stamp. There is a yellow Rupee (10) plus Hearts in the pots on either side. Now exit this chamber.

Treasure Chest #4:

Angry Moba Stamp

Chamber 4: Upper Chamber Of Sol Light (West) (1F)

You enter a flat chamber with a strange hand clasping a white shining orb at the room's far end. As you step forward, an energy wall appears and an image of Zant blinks into existence, conjuring a ball of twilit energy and warping in dozens of Twili Keese!

Phantom Zant

Step 1: A spin takes too long to master, so quickly back up or run into the cloud of Twilit Keese and begin to rapidly Z1 target, slice, and target the next, until you defeat them all. This is the first of Phantom Zant's summonings.

Step 2: As soon as you defeat the last Twilit Keese, quickly check the arena's edges, as Phantom Zant appears randomly. Stop in the middle, and as soon as he teleports a couple of times, try to Z1 target zooming using this lock-on-works well), run in, and slice him. It takes three great spins to completely defeat him.

There are several pots on the sides of the arena, and they each contain a Heart if you need it.

Step 3: Phantom Zant will probably conjure the next swarm; this time they're Twilit Vermin. A spin attack rids you of most of them; then tackle the remaining ones quickly.

Step 4: Finally, Phantom Zant teleports around the chamber but always lands in the center at some point. Target with Z1, and tap the button constantly while rolling to cover the ground quickly, then roll in and attack Phantom Zant with a barrage of slices until he finally yields.

When Phantom Zant is dispersed, avoid the cloud of shadow he leaves behind. Run to the chamber's north end. Midna appears and tells you that the shining Sphere is called a Sol. It is a true source of power, and Midna hopes you can take it to the entrance.

Take a couple of swings at the pottery on either side of the hand holding the Sol. Then slice at the hand until it releases the Sol. Pick up the Sol and turn south; carry it toward the cloud of shadow. As the light reaches the cloud, the cloud disperses and the hand starts to grow ...

Zant's Hand

Zant's Hand holds each of the Sol Spheres in this dungeon and they aren't that aggressive. They float toward the Sol incessantly and will attempt to steal it back, talking it to the pedestal you stole it from. Otherwise, stay away from the Zant's Hand while carrying the Sol, or you'll have to repeat your journey.

Run to the circular groove in the floor and place the Sol Sphere into it. The power of light raises a set of steps; immediately run up them and execute a quick spin attack to defeat a small group of Twili Vermin that appear to intercept you. Turn at the top of the steps, making sure you're on the solid ground, and Clawshot the Sphere out of the groove, before Zant's Hand can reach it. Exit back to Chamber 3.

If you're too slow, Zant's Hand grabs the Sol Sphere and deactivates the steps, floating back to the pedestal with the Sphere in its clutches. Bring out your Clawshot and grab it back! You must keep the Sphere in a groove or on your person at all times.

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 2: Return the First Sol Sphere to the Plateau

Chamber 3: First Return To West Wing: Middle Fog Chamber

Carrying the Sol Sphere, run into the middle of the next chamber. Zant's Hand is still chasing you and has warped into the room behind you. Ignore the Twilit Vermin on the ground and slot the Sphere into the floor. Then spend a couple of seconds slicing any Vermin that are attacking you.

> If you want to know where the Sol Sphere is, check your in-game map. The ball appears as a red dot.

Run quickly up the L-shaped stairs the Sol has created until you're standing on the firm ground to the east. Even if Zant's Hand floats down and takes the Sphere, you can still grab it (as shown), but don't let it float too far north!

Face south and run up the large stepped area. Throw the Sphere past the step that's too high to run up. At the high ledge, stop and drop the Sphere, and slice at the Vermin that have appeared. There's a red Rupee (20) in the corner pot. Then drop off the ledge, at the exit door, and head through to Chamber 2.

> For now, ignore the treasure chest in this chamber and return here later.

Chamber 2: First Return To West Wing: Lower Chamber

Treasure Chest: Zant's Hand is still coming! Run around the Twilit Babas and Keese, ignore the Vermin, and head up the ramped area until you reach the northwest corner where the shadow fog plumes. The Sol Sphere parts the cloud. Once you're through the cloud, drop the Sphere and quickly Clawshot to the ledge containing the chest. Open the chest. The prize is worth the detour!

Treasure Chest #5:

Piece of Heart #44

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! Collect one more for another full Heart Container. Piece of Heart #44 of 45.

Now, head south, up the sloping ramp to the exit door. Although there are enemies to tackle, avoiding them is easier; if they waylay you while fighting them, Zant's Hand can take the Sol Sphere. Exit back to Chamber 1.

Chamber 1: First Return To Ethereal Plateau

Pass the Long Twili on the way back to the central plateau, and an amazing transformation occurs! The Twili loses height and reverts back to his normal state. Move to the circular groove in the plateau's middle and place the Sol Sphere. A light platform is conjured to the east.

Twili:

One of the Twilit Realm's inhabitants is this long fellow. Once you return with the first Sol Sphere, he shrinks to a third of his shadow size and becomes a normal inhabitant of the palace.

Move to the light platform, and ride it across the gap to the eastern area you couldn't reach earlier. Once the platform lands, run past the long Twili and open the door.

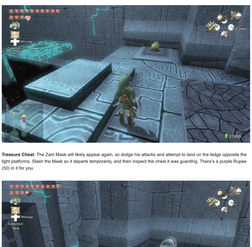
Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

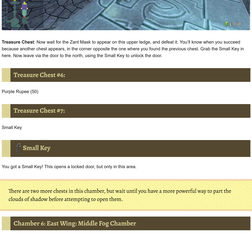
Task 3: Obtain the Second Sol Sphere

Chamber 2: East Wing: Lower Chamber

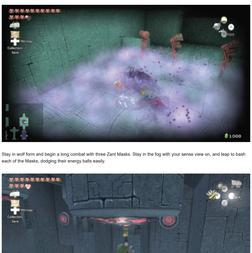
Enter another long lower chamber, this time on the palace's opposite side. Deal with the Twilit Keese and then drop to the lower ground. Look up to the soles of the chamber, and aim a Clawshot at the medallion and another at the medallion on the ceiling. Lower yourself down to a light platform you can ride.



Be sure you land on the platform, as it begins to move before you're standing on it. Ride the platform to this platform with two dark Spheres and another chest. They don't light up when you strike them, so concentrate on bouncing an energy ball back at a Zant Mask up ahead. He disappears. Now quickly leap across the light platforms.



Treasure Chest: The Zant Mask will likely appear again, so dodge his attacks and attempt to land on the ledge opposite the light platforms. Slash the Mask so it departs temporarily, and then inspect the chest it was guarding. There's a purple Rupee (50) in it for you.



Treasure Chest: Now wait for the Zant Mask to appear on this upper ledge, and defeat it. You'll know when you succeed because another chest appears, in the corner opposite the one where you found the previous chest. Grab the Small Key in here. Now leave via the door to the north, using the Small Key to unlock the door.

Treasure Chest #6:

Purple Rupee (50)

Treasure Chest #7:

Small Key

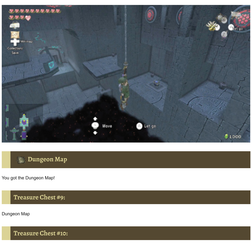
Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

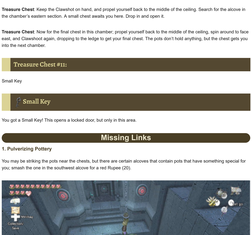
There are two more chests in this chamber, but wait until you have a more powerful way to part the clouds of shadow before attempting to open them.

Chamber 6: East Wing: Middle Fog Chamber

Enter this fog-filled chamber, and you're immediately attacked by two Twilit Messengers. If you defeat them, they rise again, indicating there's a third to destroy. Run into the shadow cloud so you turn into wolf form, then defeat one of the three Messengers. Finally, use Midna's area attack to catch the second and third Messengers (and a Twilit Keese if he gets in your way).



Stay in wolf form and begin a long combat with three Zant Masks. Stay in the fog with your sense view on, and leap to bash each of the Masks, dodging their energy balls easily.

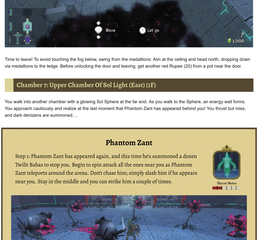


Treasure Chest: After you defeat all the Zant Masks, a chest appears, but don't head for it just yet. Instead, transform into Link, and aim at the medallion in the chamber's northeast corner. Then shoot another Clawshot to the medallion on the ceiling. Finally, look west to this alcove, and Clawshot to this small chest. The Zant Stamp awaits. You can optionally Clawshot to the alcove directly opposite, but there's only an empty pot here.

Treasure Chest #8:

Zant Stamp

Treasure Chest: Continue your high-flying plans by Clawshooting to the middle of the ceiling and looking west. The large ledge contains a chest. Propel yourself above it, drop down, smash the pot for arrows, slay the Twilit Keese, and then take the Dungeon Map from the chest.



Dungeon Map

You got the Dungeon Map!

Treasure Chest #9:

Dungeon Map

Treasure Chest #10:

Purple Rupee (50)

Treasure Chest: Keep the Clawshot on hand, and propel yourself back to the middle of the ceiling. Search for the alcove in the chamber's eastern section. A small chest awaits you here. Drop in and open it.

Treasure Chest: Now for the final chest in this chamber; propel yourself back to the middle of the ceiling, spin around to face east, and Clawshot again, dropping to the ledge to get your final chest. The pots don't hold anything, but the chest gets you into the next chamber.

Treasure Chest #11:

Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Missing Links

1. Pulverizing Pottery

You may be striking the pots near the chests, but there are certain alcoves that contain pots that have something special for you; smash the one in the southwest alcove for a red Rupee (20).

Time to leave! To avoid touching the fog below, swing from the medallions: Aim at the ceiling and head north, dropping down via medallions to the ledge. Before unlocking the door and leaving, get another red Rupee (20) from a pot near the door.

Chamber 7: Upper Chamber Of Sol Light (East) (1F)

You walk into another chamber with a glowing Sol Sphere at the far end. As you walk to the Sphere, an energy wall forms. You approach cautiously and realize at the last moment that Phantom Zant has appeared behind you! You thrust but miss, and dark denizens are summoned....

Phantom Zant

Step 1: Phantom Zant has appeared again, and this time he's summoned a dozen Twilit Bubas to mop you. Begin to spin attack all the ones near you as Phantom Zant teleports around the arena. Don't chase him; simply slash him if he appears near you. Stay in the middle and you can strike him a couple of times.

Step 2: Phantom Zant removes the Twilit Bubas you don't defeat, so don't bother defeating them all; instead, run to the perimeter and collect Hearts from the pots, and then return to the arena's middle. Wait for a dozen Twilit Vermin to descend, and immediately execute a spin attack before mopping up the rest.

Step 3: Repeat Step 1 again, dealing with another load of Twilit Bubas. After these have disappeared, Phantom Zant begins his own attack pattern. Keep looking for him and stay in the middle. When he stops for longer than a second and summons a large energy ball that begins to split into a group of energy balls, roll or run under the attack. Then hit him with a spin or a constant barrage of swipes. He may vanish and attempt the energy-ball attack again; repeat the takedown tactic, and Phantom Zant is vanquished again!

Avoid the remaining shadow cloud and smash the pots on either side of the Sol Sphere at the chamber's north end. There are Hearts and a blue Rupee (5) to bag. Slap the hand with your sword, and take the Sphere to the room's middle. Drop it into the groove as you're attacked by Twili Vermin and a Messenger. Then run up the stairs, grab the Sphere with your Clawshot, and flee to the southern door.

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 4: Return the Second Sol Sphere to the Plateau

Chamber 6: First Return To East Wing: Middle Fog Chamber

Head back into this foggy chamber and run to the middle of the room with the Sphere. Place it on the ground, and deliver some slashes to the Twilit Keese and Messenger. Don't bother finishing them off; that Hand is on its way! Drop the Sphere in the groove again, then run and stand on the steps before they ascend too high for you to reach, and climb to the top. As soon as you're on the high southern ledge, Clawshot the Sphere and leave via the southern door.

Chamber 5: First Return To East Wing: Lower Chamber

You appear at the lower chamber's northern ledge, but there's no way to reach the floating light platforms ahead. Instead, you must jump into the shadow cloud, ignoring the pots for the moment, and then turn around. Look for the dark globe at the base of the north wall, and stand by it. The light from the Sphere brightens the globe into a white beacon, and two more light platforms appear on either side of it. Ride them up, face south, and carefully leap to the light platforms to escape.

At the south end of the light platform route, don't drop by the two globes, as you'll have to retrace your steps. Instead, wait until the globes shine, creating a new light platform, and ride this to the exit.

Chamber 1: Second Return To Ethereal Plateau

Stand on the light platform. Ride it to the circular plateau, and run around the circumference. You can now change the remaining Twili to their normal forms, as both the Spheres give off considerable light. Then place the second Sphere into the circular groove. Light floods into the blade of the Master Sword. Now inspect the Twili you saved from the shadows!

Master Sword

Light filled the Master Sword!

Master Sword of Light

The goddesses have smiled upon you, young Link! The power of the Sol is now imbued into your weapon. This means you can strike any of the globes so they shine brightly, and any shadow clouds will disperse with your slashes.

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 5: Gain Access to the Battlements

Chamber 5: Second Return To East Wing: Lower Chamber, To Chamber 6

Treasure Chest: Now that the Master Sword is filled with light, you can return to the palace's east wing and claim the last two chests on this floor. When you've finished slashing the shadow clouds and picking up Rupees and Hearts from the pottery, stand on the light platform in middle of the room near its east wall after clearing the fog.

As the platform reaches a small alcove containing a clearly visible chest, run and leap onto the ledge before the platform moves south. Open the chest immediately, as you've reached the climax to your Heart Piece collection!

Treasure Chest #12:

Piece of Heart #45

Piece Of Heart

You got a Piece of Heart! You collected five pieces and formed a new Heart Container! Piece of Heart #45 of 45

> You've now collected every Piece of Heart in Hyrule and beyond! The only remaining Heart-related item is the Container you'll receive at the end of this dungeon. Congratulations!

Treasure Chest: Now stand on the platform on the opposite side of the foggy lower ground, and rise to another alcove on the west side. Leap to the chest, and acquire a purple Rupee (50). When you're ready to return, use a Clawshot and summon a platform using the two dark globes.

Treasure Chest #13:

Purple Rupee (50)

Chamber 1: Third Return To Ethereal Plateau (1F To 2F)

You're now ready to ascend the palace tower, so head north up the central ramp. Ignore the two pots and the Twili, and concentrate on slicing at three waiting Twilit Kargaroks before they take flight. After you defeat them, part the vertical cloud with your sword and leap across to the door. There's another Kargarok sitting to your left; smash him and the pots near the door (there are arrows inside one of them).

> Spin attacks with your sword temporarily push back the clouds of shadow, allowing you to pass them without transforming into a wolf. Be warned, though: they reappear, so keep swinging!

Chamber 8: South Palace Tower (2F To 3F)

Enter the large chamber and immediately use your sword to sweep the shadow cloud back. Take down the Twilit Keese and Vermin that head out to meet you. Clear the room of pots and reach the steps at the north side. There are two Sol Spheres here, so slay the Twilit Baba, take the first one to the cloud's edge, part the cloud with your sword, pick up the Sphere, and place it in the circular groove. Fend off the Vermin attack, then repeat this on the other side with the second Sphere. Climb the steps that form.

At the top of the steps, smash some pots, then whack the dark globe until a light platform appears just behind it. Ride this to the ledge on the chamber's east side, tackling the Twilit Keese on the way; then drop down and slash the Twilit Baba. You now have a difficult battle with four Zant Masks! Stay on this ledge, block the energy balls they spit, run back and forth to summon them, and spin attack; the light from your sword helps defeat them.

Treasure Chest: Make sure all four Zant Masks fall, as only then will a chest appear. Open it for a Small Key, then strike the three dark globes with a spin attack, and ride the appearing light platform to the exit door. As you travel, optionally target incoming Twilit Keese with arrows, then spin as six ambush you from above when you step off. You're showered with Hearts!

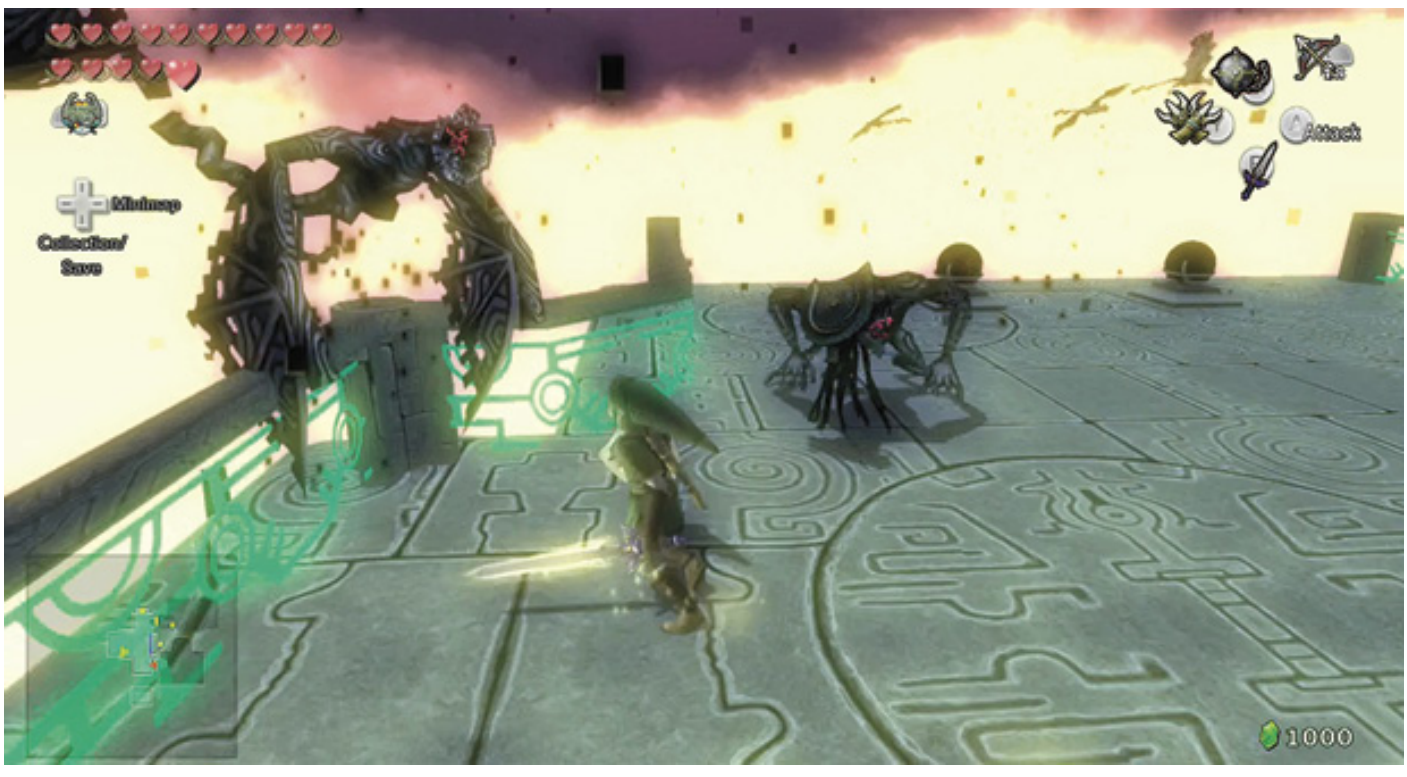
Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 6: Obtain the Big Key

Chamber 9: Palace Battlements (3F)



Step onto the palace battlements, where you meet a flock of Twilit Kargaroks. Run west to the balcony, and slash with your sword; bring down a Messenger (you don't need to defeat more than one), and then work on the Twilit Kargaroks. The pottery contains only arrows, no Hearts. Run the battlements, looking for them resting on the parapets; then ZL target and slash them. Be patient, and you'll eventually slice all six of them.

Treasure Chest: Now to find the treasure chest that's hidden at the top of a series of medallion hooks. Turn east, and run directly at the wall of shadow cloud, parting it with your sword and leaping into the narrow ledge behind. Defeat the sitting Twilit Kargaroks, then look up for a medallion. Use your Clawshot and work your way from north to south, bounding up the wall until you reach this ledge.

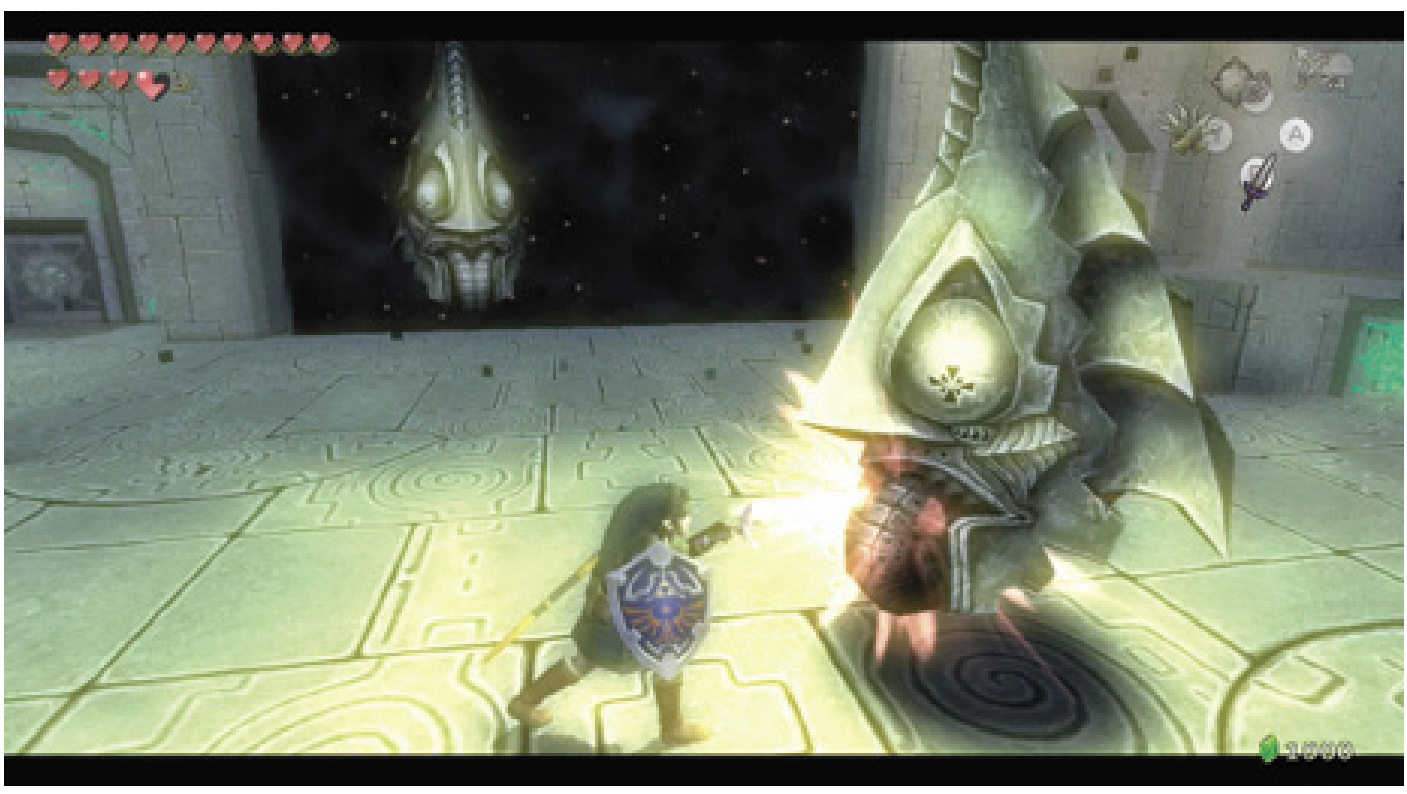
Treasure Chest #15:

Big Key

Big Key

You got the Big Key! Use it to gain access to the lair of this dungeon's boss.

You must now attempt to leave the battlements, but a locked door that requires a Small Key blocks your way. Run west, to the battlement platform's edge, and whack the dark globes. Ride the light platform to this southern ledge, leaping off to defeat the Zant Mask. This summons more Masks back on the battlements.



Treasure Chest: Use the globes on the ledge to summon the light platform back to the main battlements, where three other Zant Masks have arrived. Engage them all. When the last one tastes the light, a treasure chest appears to the north. Open it up and take the Small Key. Use it to open the door in the room's northeast corner.

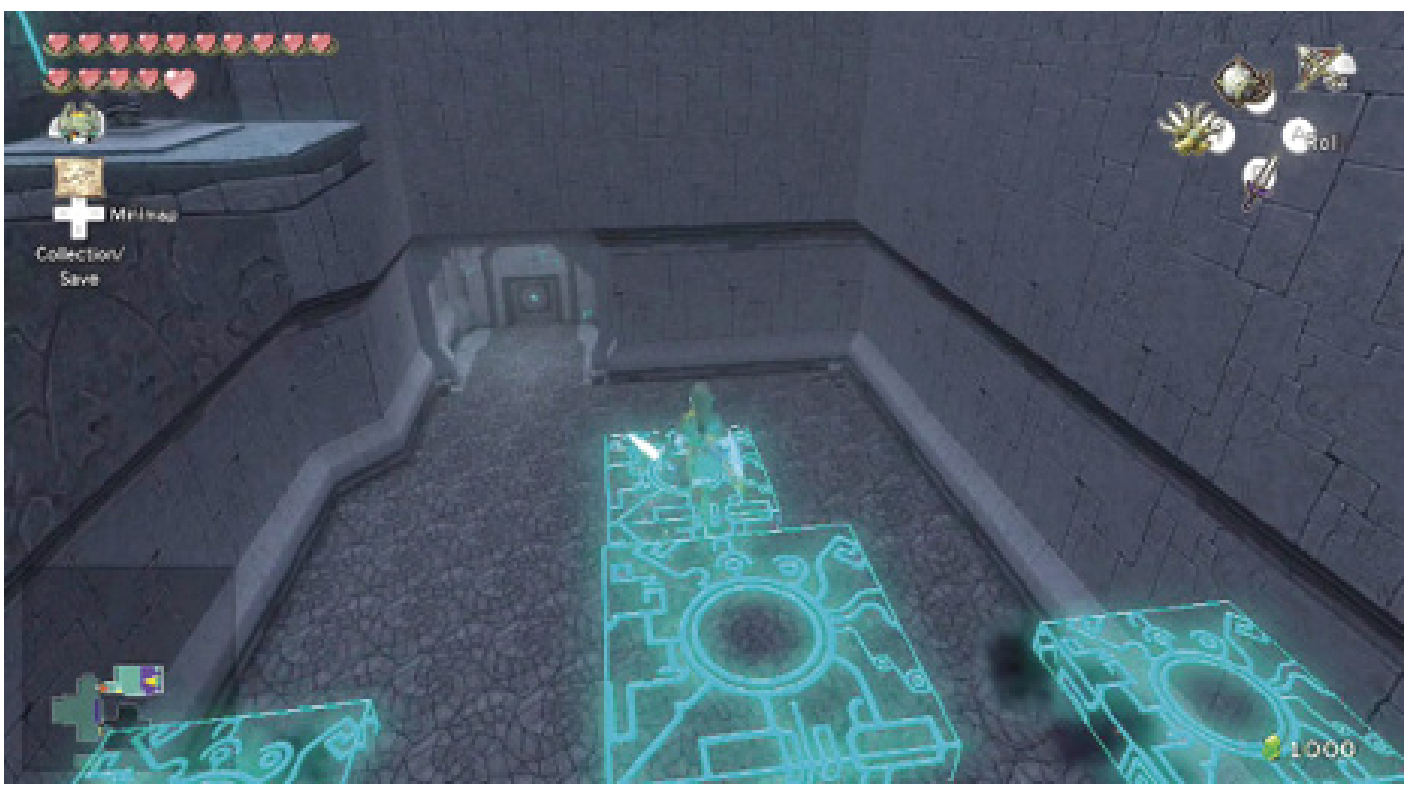
Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 7: Gain Access to Zant's Throne Entrance

Chamber 10: North Palace Tower (3F To 4F)

Enter the North Palace Tower, into a large and flat-floored chamber. Some pottery here rewards green Rupees (1) and Hearts. Walk toward the shadow cloud, and an energy wall forms, trapping you with four Twilit Messengers. Let them surround you, then bring out the sword in a large spin attack. You can defeat them in seconds. Slash back the cloud, summon the light platform from the four globes, and ride it up. Now comes a puzzle…



Ride this platform up, facing west as you do. When you pass above this next platform, leap onto it. Ride it west, then leap to the left platform waiting for you. This travels to a small ledge where a single pot houses a Fairy. Grab this if you need it. Take the right platform if you don't.

> This fairy should be caught in a Bottle and only appears if you don't already have a Fairy or other major energy-increasing items. Don't be surprised if this pot is empty!

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle! When you fall in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

Take the right platform, and it rises up to a small ledge containing a Twilit Baba. Jump off and defeat it, then leap to the adjacent light platform and ride it up, then east toward three solid platforms and an appearing Zant Mask. As you pass from left to right, Clawshot to the medallion on the wall behind the Mask, drop down and swipe it, then leap to the corner pot for a load of Hearts.

Treasure Chest: You're almost at the top, so look for a medallion on the south wall and shoot it; then shoot the medallion on the ceiling and hang from it, avoiding a Zant Mask's energy ball. Move down with the Left Analog Stick and dodge, then drop onto the moving light platform. Ride it to the opposite side, and Clawshot to the medallion in the middle of the wall.

A simple slice deals with the Mask, after which a chest appears. Secure the Small Key from it, then move back to the previous stone ledge. A new light platform has appeared; it takes you to the fourth floor and to the locked door you now have a key for.

Treasure Chest #17:

Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

Chamber 11: Throne Entrance (4F)

Enter the long entrance to the throne room, and use your sword on three Twilit Messengers. The pottery to this side yields green Rupees (1). Enter the cloudy section and an energy wall descends. Two waves of four Twilit Messengers appear; spin attack to defeat each wave, until the wall recedes. Smash the pottery on each side of the door (one has a green Rupee [1], the other a red Rupee [20]), then unlock it with the Big Key; you're about to face the King of Shadows!

Dungeon 8: Palace of Twilight

Task 8: Battle Usurper King Zant

Chamber 12: Boss Battle! Usurper King Zant (4F)

Zant:

Once in the Twili king's entourage, Zant was furious that Midna's father (the king) didn't appoint him to succeed. This resentment against the royal clan of the Twilit Kingdom grew until a malevolent spirit bestowed a magical power to Zant. He transformed Midna into an impish figure and began to force the kingdom to bend to his—and Ganondorf's—will.

Zant

Step 1: Zant begins combat immediately, transporting you back to the Forest Temple and beginning to rain energy bolts down on you. There are Hearts in the pottery behind you. The takedown is similar to Twilit Diababa's: sidestep or block the bolts, bring out your Gale Boomerang, and ZL target Zant, then throw it. Zant bounces across to the grass. Run to him, and slice him with your sword. Repeat this.

Step 2: Zant transports you both to the Goron Mines and places you on the metallic platform where you fought Dangoro. Block or sidestep the energy bolts, and place the Iron Boots on when Zant pounds the floor. Just after he finishes, take off the boots, and charge him; ZL target and stay in the middle. He may disappear several times; wait until he slumps with exhaustion, then run and strike.

Step 3: Quickly don the Zora Armor as you appear deep in Lakebed Temple. Place your Iron Boots on so you can attack, block the energy bolts, then Clawshot Zant out of his giant stone head and into a barrage of your sword strikes. He disappears, and four giant Zant Masks rumble out of the ground. Zant randomly appears in one, so stay between two Masks and wait until the mouth opens from either of them. Then Clawshot him into close combat and slice!

Step 4: Your next encounter is in the Forest Temple, where you fought Ook the Baboon. Zant fires off yet more energy bolts. Change to your Hero's Clothes. This is a good time to stock up on Hearts from pots around the sides of this cavern. Wait until Zant stands on a totem pole for a moment, then roll into it twice, knocking him off. Slice him.

Step 5: Your fifth confrontation takes place in Yeta's bedroom, which is encased in ice. Zant is in a gigantic form, so watch his reflection in the ice, roll as he descends, and quickly bring out the Ball and Chain and ZL target either foot as he attempts to stamp on it. A hit causes him to hop around clutching his stubbed toe, and he shrinks to the size of a Bomskit! Target with the ZL button and slice him with your sword. Repeat this.

Step 6: Zant now transports you to a final fight outside the Castle Town south entrance. He begins by transforming his arms into large blades and waddles forward, slicing at you. Block this with your shield, and try to push him back; then roll away while ZL targeting, and slash and spin attack as he teleports around you.

Step 7: Once you've dished enough punishment, Zant begins a really nasty spin attack that saps energy and knocks you off your feet. Retaliate by placing your Iron Boots on so he can't push you back, and block the entire spin. As Zant slows, or stops completely, he'll either teleport or stop for a second. This is the time to execute a vicious spin attack of your own! Keep this technique going until you deliver Zant a final blow!

Midna thinks she can harness this power to aid you and restore Princess Zelda after what she gave to help Midna. Midna opens a warp portal out of the throne room. Take your final Heart Container, and then leave this place. Hyrule Castle must be breached!

Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Hyrule Castle: Overview

The time has come to halt the evil thief, puppet master, and tyrant known as Ganondorf once and for all! He holds the sway of power from an upper chamber—Zelda's throne room in fact—and you must journey to this tightly guarded area. Once Midna reveals the true power of her ancestors, you can finally enter Hyrule Castle of your own free will, and wander the massive grounds locating chests, puzzles, keys, and an old fiend for one more Bulbin battle! Once you've gathered all the Small Keys outside, head into the castle, where the toughest foes you've faced in your journeys have been summoned by Ganondorf to do battle in arenas. In between your swordplay, raid the castle's many chests before heading up the central tower, optionally opening a treasure trove, and finally facing your final foe for the ultimate confrontation!

Dungeon & Stone Castle

Task 1: Solve the Riddle of the Graveyard

Before you visit Hyrule Castle, make sure you have:

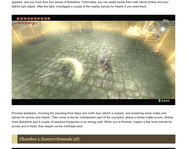
- Bongo-bongo's Ikoma Shirt and a Wise Rotos, Ivory Tears, or a Spry
- Bongo-bongo's Ikoma Pants and a Wise Rotos, Ivory Tears, or a Spry (quickly)
- The Zora Sword (Wind-waking only)
- Completed the Graveyard Riddle and received a Lantern (Lantern Chase/Crypt Tasks)
- Completed Mini-save Crypt Quiz(es) and all Beedi Sage-you don't want to re-do!
- Completed Kakariko Gate and Graveyard Gatekeeper Errands (Kakariko Errands/Gate Errands)

You arrive at the castle gates. The Ivory Keet is present. Wolos floats away, and reappears as a gigantic force of Wolos-energy that shoots straight into the Keet! You see a brilliant flash of white light, and Wolos falls into your arms. The castle is accessible!

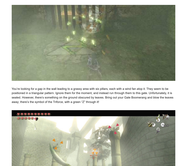
Chamber 1: Southern Grounds (1F)



Enter the huge southern courtyard of the castle grounds, and quickly investigate the area. Of particular interest are some Bokoblins standing at the far northwestern end of the courtyard or low, and head to the Bokoblins. An energy field repulses, and you notice that four pieces of Bokoblins. Unfortunately, you can easily reach them with sword strikes and your Hookshot—just shoot the Hookshot's target at the nearby barrels or Hooks it up—see below.

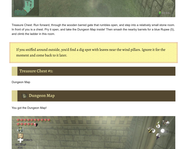
Proceed westward, shooting the charging Iron-keys and each door you're it locked, and smashing some crates and barrels for arrows and Hearts. Then move to the far northwestern part of the courtyard, where a similar battle occurs. Defeat the Bokoblins, and then Hook the Hookshot's target at the orange sail. When you're finished, inspect a few more barrels for arrows and a Heart, then depart via the northeast door.

Chamber 2: Eastern Grounds (1F)

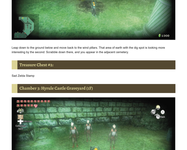


This leads to a second, just-as-imposing courtyard. Stand at the door, wait for a Bokoblin to saunter in to attack you, and drop it with your sword. Remain where you are, and soon toward the cluster of barricades and three lobby towers ahead. Bring out the Hero's Bow and shoot each of the three Bubble Archers standing atop them. Then draw your sword, walk forward, and defeat the second Bokoblin near the first tower. Blast some explosive barrels at the foot of the tower to clear the area.

Close the Bubble and Bokoblin welcoming committee is defeated, search the area thoroughly. Shoot the explosive barrels with arrows, and then Hookshot the Hookshot's target at the orange sail. Inspect the barrels and crates for arrows and grenade-arrow couple of Bubbles, dashing near the most odd, and one of them is perfect for a bit of demolition.



Begin a rampage through this area, smashing as many wooden structures as you wish, but be sure you turn east, and run through to the tower and the archers. Head back to the rickety tower, and crash through it. Stand and the more Bubble Archers warning-arrow towers. Either take them, or shoot them from afar. Then gallop forward until you reach the northern door enclosed in three grates.



You're looking for a gap in the wall leading to a grassy area with six pillars; work with a short-fall about it. This seems to be positioned in a triangular pattern. Ignore them for the moment, and instead run through them to the gate. Unfortunately, it is locked, and requires a Small Key. Fortunately, you have one! Bring out your Gale Boomerang and take the bracers away. Head to the central of the Tridrus, with a green "Z" through it!

Back up, face the gate, and target the front, middle right, middle left, and back middle pillars in that order, with your Gale Boomerang. Launch it, fire the spin, and the gate opens!

Treasure Chest: Run forward, through the wooden barrier gate that tumbles open, and step into a relatively small arena room in front of you in a chest. Fly it open, and take the Dungeon Map inside! Then smash the nearby barrels for a few Rupee (5), and climb the ladder in this room.

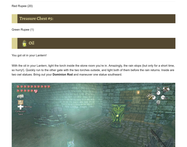
> If you sniffed around outside, you'll find a dig spot with leaves near the wind pillars. Ignore it for the moments and come back to it later.

Treasure Chest #1:

Dungeon Map

1x Dungeon Map

You got the Dungeon Map!



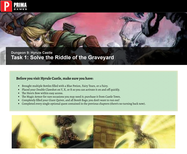
Treasure Chest: At the top of the ladder, you find yourself on the top of the inner wall. You can look out at the grounds where you rampaged with the Bullets, then run south, following the wall to the end, where another chest awaits your offering!

Treasure Chest #2:

Red Kidin Seed

Chamber 3: Hyrule Castle Grounds (1F)

The spirits are restless in this place! Once you've emerged from your big quick, you can begin to run around the eerie place. Visit any and each level as soon as you enter the area. You're startled as you run across three ghostly soldier spirits storming on the hallowed ground. Watch them closely; they're pointing to the south wall!



Progress a little further north, and you're accosted by a small group of Bokkins who emerge from the earth to thwart you. Spin attacks trample them in seconds. Your progression north is stopped as a Bubble rises from the ground, and you cannot proceed. Run to the left, and then to the right. Bring the Boots forward, and shield-bash it! It slammed into the guarding small shadow with an odd torch on either side.

If you bring out your Lantern and attempt to light the torches, the rain that's falling in the area snuffs the fire out. Current Hookshot the Hookshot's target at the orange sail. Run to the other side of the ground floor, and

Task 2: Defeat King Bulbin in Final Combat

Chamber 2: First Return To Eastern Grounds (1F)

Return to the wind fan pillars, and head east, through the gap in the wall. The Bulbin towers have been rebuilt, so turn north and secure a new Bullbo mount near the two barrels you can smash for a blue Rupee (5) and a Heart, and careen through all the barricades, all the way back to the Southern Grounds.

Chamber 1: First Return To Southern Grounds (1F), To Chamber 4: Western Grounds (1F)

Once in the Southern Grounds, you may be tempted to enter the main castle door. Don't! You can attempt some optional exploration if you head across the grounds to the northwest door. Open it, and enter the Western Grounds. Run past the wooden barricades, and into a grassy field. An energy wall closes around you, and out trot eight Bokoblins. Draw your sword and spin! Once the wall recedes, inspect this area; some grass to the west gives you a Heart.

Continue your progress by heading west through the gap in the wall the Bokoblin horde came through. This leads to a pleasant and small formal garden, with some grass to slash for a Heart and to uncover a chain! Grab and pull this chain and a portcullis grinds open, allowing you to enter the north section of this chamber. Turn left after you pass under the portcullis; there's a blue Rupee (5) in the grass near the wall. Stride into the open, and an energy wall forms. Who's there? An old friend…

King Bulblin

Step 1: If you recall the battle you had with King Bulblin in his tent outside Arbiter's Grounds, you know how to defeat this hulking brute. First, dodge his giant axe by backing up when he raises the weapon. Fortunately, he swings it so slowly that it's difficult to actually get hit by it! Then roll around to his rear, and strike with three quick slicing moves, or spin attacks, or finish with a back slice. Continue this technique five or six times, and the brute finally yields!

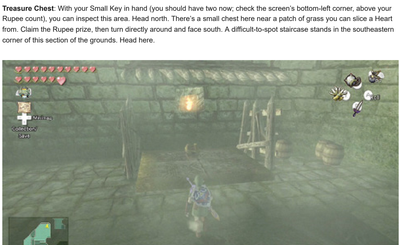
"I have come to play!" says King Bulblin. End the game quickly by attacking his exposed back, and hack!

Watch out for King Bulblin's four-heart damaging spin attack in this fight.

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

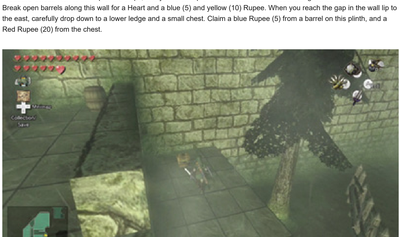
Treasure Chest: With your Small Key in hand (you should have two now; check the screen's bottom-left corner, above your Rupee count), you can inspect this area. Head north. There's a small chest here near a patch of grass you can slice a Heart from. Claim the Rupee prize, then turn directly around and face south. A difficult-to-spot staircase stands in the southeastern corner of this section of the grounds. Head here.



Treasure Chest #7:

Red Rupee (20)

Treasure Chest: Run to the top of the steps, and you're on top of a wall between the sections of grounds in this chamber. Break open barrels along this wall for a Heart and a blue (5) and yellow (10) Rupee. When you reach the gap in the wall lip to the east, carefully drop down to a lower ledge and a small chest. Claim a blue Rupee (5) from a barrel on this plinth, and a Red Rupee (20) from the chest.



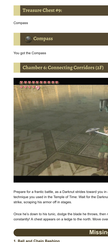
Treasure Chest #8:

Red Rupee (20)

TM & © 2016 Nintendo.

Chamber I: Second Return To Southern Grounds (1F), To Chamber I: Grand Chandelier Hallway (2F To 1F)

Return to the Southern Grounds, and use the hot of your Small Keys to open the main castle door and enter a grand and massive chamber. There's very little time to marvel at the chandeliers and ceiling structures as you're set upon by a gang of Bokoblins! Bring the Master Sword out, and start a variety of your favored techniques. Spin attack the three Lizalfos who join in after you dispatch the first wave of Bokoblins.



Treasure Chest: A treasure chest appears on a balcony to the northeast, so run north, smashing the pots here for a heart, then turn and do the same under the northwestern balcony; there's a Rupee and Heart in the pots here. A pot along the west wall holds a blue Rupee (5). When you're done breaking pottery, climb up the small three-step staircase to the east. This leads to a balcony with a treasure chest. Open it for a Small Key, then head back down the stairs and to the north. When you're collected it, Chamber across the chandeliers to the one above the north balcony, and land on it. Open the door.

Treasure Chest #16:

Compass

Compass

You got the Compass

Chamber II: Connecting Corridors (2F)

Prepare for a frantic battle, as a Darknut strides toward you in an enclosed combat arena! Don't panic. Remember the technique you used in the Temple of Time: Wait for the Darknut to raise his weapon, leap back, then charge forward and slice, ranging his arrow off it target.

Once he's down to his lunis, dodge the blade he throws, then roll around him and execute a back slice, (L targeting constantly! A chest appears on a ledge to the north. Move over and scoop more of from a boat into your Lantern.

Missing Links

1. Bell and Chain Backtrog.

This chamber is surrounded by walls of armor, and they can be loathed if you bring out your Bait and Chain. Expect to find Hearts, a blue Rupee (5), and a Rat in them! Remember to bash all the armor in the Connecting Corridors, too!

Oil

You got Oil in your Lantern!

Treasure Chest: Now light the torches to raise three steps leading to the treasure chest. Unfortunately, once all three are lit, the staircase doesn't ascend all the way to the ledge! Turn and target the torch on the western wall adjacent to the Lantern oil bowl. You must be standing on the upper stair (which is at ground level), and lining out your Gale Boomerang. Target the torch, and fire the boomerang at the stair riser. The chest contains a purple Rupee (50).

Head left from Treasure Chest #19 first, and investigate the corridor rooms to the west. Smash a pot for some arrows, then move through the door, run across the blue carpet and engage two Lizalfos with slash mastery, making sure you pick them off one at a time and dodge their attacks. Use Bomb Arrows immediately if you don't want to use your sword. Smash more pots in the chamber for Rupees.

Treasure Chest #19:

Purple Rupee (50)

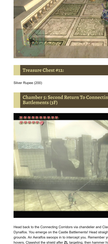
For a lot of free arrows, try this trick: Smash the pot before you enter the blue carpeted chamber, and collect the arrows. Enter the chamber, then exit back into the initial corridor. The pot has respawned! Smash it again for more arrows, and keep this up for as long as you want!

The door to the south is still barred, and there seems no way through. Before you begin a fruitless search for keys or enemies, look at the painting of the castle, and turn into the wolf.

Switch on your sense now to see spirits pointing at the wall! Produce your Bomb Arrows, and fire at the painting. The door opens!

Enter the next chamber and strengthen your resolve. Two Darknuts guard this area! You must fight them both, but not at the same time! Start with the Darknut to the left, and target him. Run around the outside of the room, and target the Darknut on the back & battle at the north end of the room first. The second Darknut remains stationary unless you head too far south, so don't! Then attack the other Darknut, and once both are defeated, scour the pots for Hearts and Rupees. There's a blue Rupee (5) in the pot at the center suits, too!

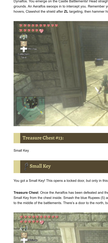
Chamber I: First Return To Grand Chandelier Hallway (1F), Back To Chamber I: First Return To Connecting Corridors (2F)



Treasure Chest: After you defeat the Darknut duo, the doors unseal, allowing you out onto the northwest interior balcony, where you can open a chest containing a purple Rupee (50). Turn and check the opposite side of the balcony to find a floor switch. Stand on it, and another chest appears, in the northwest balcony that's too high to reach. Return to where you ransacked Treasure Chest #19 and check the other corridors.

Treasure Chest #22:

Purple Rupee (50)



Head right from Treasure Chest #19, and you reach a corridor with four unlit torches at the south end. As you reach there and bring out your Lantern, you're set upon by a large flock of Keese, so bring out the sword and wave it rapidly! Then inspect the torches. Through trial and error, you'll realize they each take a different amount of time to go out. If you get all four lit at once, the locked door to the south opens. Here's the order to light them:

First torch: Southwest. Second torch: Northeast. Third torch: Northwest. Fourth torch: Southeast.

Head through the northern door. Prepare for a bruising battle against two armored Gyrafos! Remember your tactics of dodging around and striking them in the tail, then counterattacking after they swing their axes. The roll and back slice is an excellent technique, but Great spins work for Hearts in this room, so you may need them!

Chamber I: Second Return To Grand Chandelier Hallway (1F)

Now head through the northwestern door and stand on the floor switch. This lowers a chandelier and allows you to reach the chandelier in the northwest corner where you recently summoned a chest.

Treasure Chest: Now it's time to claim what's inside: you fought hard enough for it! Drop to the first floor and use your Clawshot at the chandelier you just lowered. Propel yourself up and to a second chandelier until you're above the northwest balcony. Drop down and claim the huge Rupee prize!

Treasure Chest #24:

Silver Rupee (200)

Chamber I: Second Return To Connecting Corridors (2F), To Chamber I: Castle Battlements (3F)

Head back to the Connecting Corridors via chandelier and Clawshot, and exit via the southwest corridor where you fought the Gyrafos. You emerge on the Castle Battlements! Head straight forward, toward a large tower at the outer edge of the grounds. An Aeralfos emerges to do intercept you. Remember your takedown technique from the City in the Sky: Wait until it screws, Clawshot the shield after ZL targeting, then hammer him with your sword!

Treasure Chest: Once the Aeralfos has been defeated and the energy field lifts, run to the base of the tower, and claim the Small Key from the chest inside. Smash the blue Rupees (5) and Heart out of the barrel, then retrace your steps: Head west, then north, outside the battlements. There's a door to the north, but head down the ramp to the other tower.

Treasure Chest #25:

Small Key

Small Key

You got a Small Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.

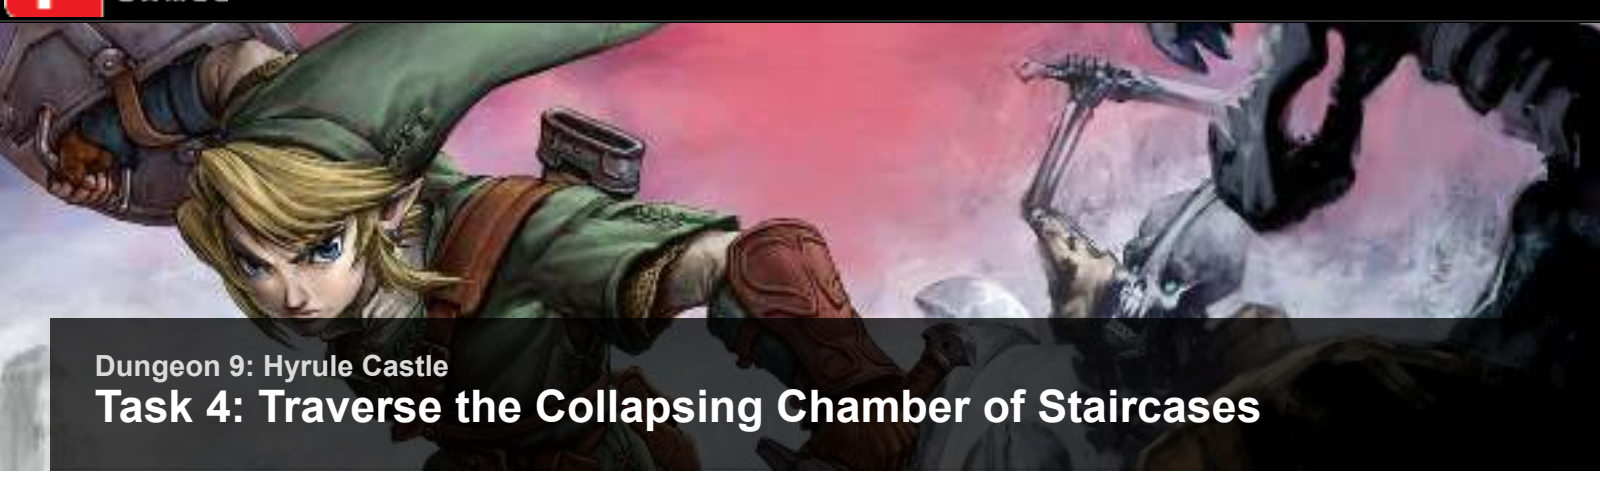
Treasure Chest: You weave at your companions, and they wave back. Rust is carrying his heads, and they're all here to help. While they secure the grounds, you must fight to the top of the castle, and the chest ahead of you will get you there. Pry it open for the Big Key! Head back and up the exterior ramp to the locked door.

Treasure Chest #26:

Big Key

Big Key

You got the Big Key! This opens a locked door, but only in this area.



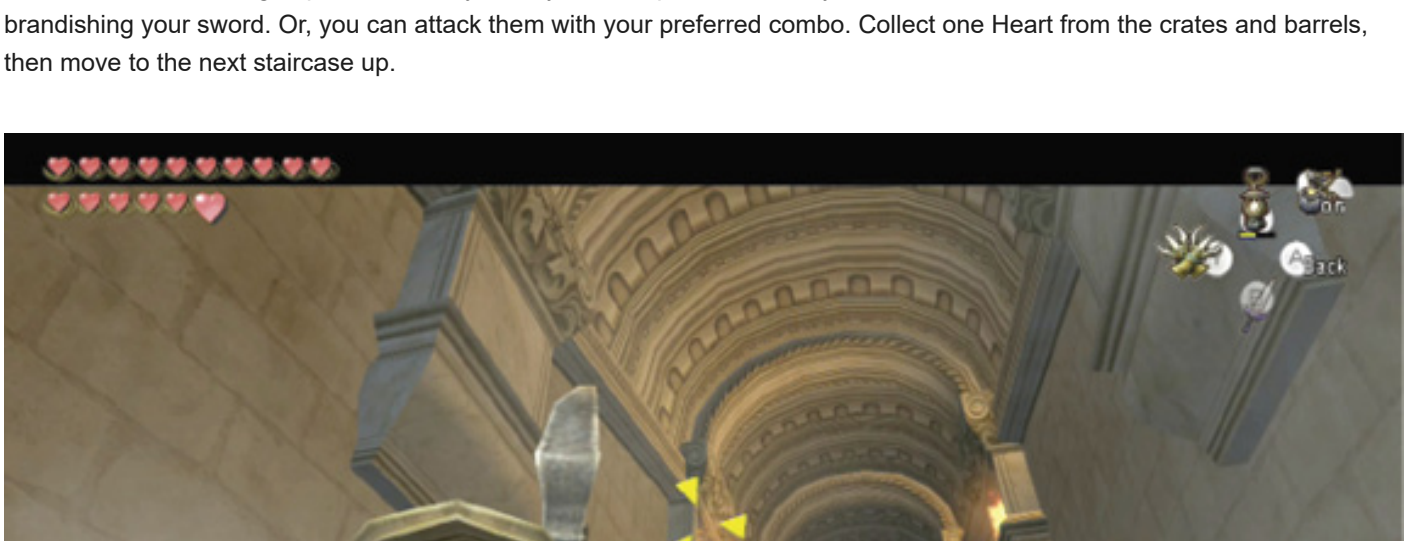
Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Task 4: Traverse the Collapsing Chamber of Staircases

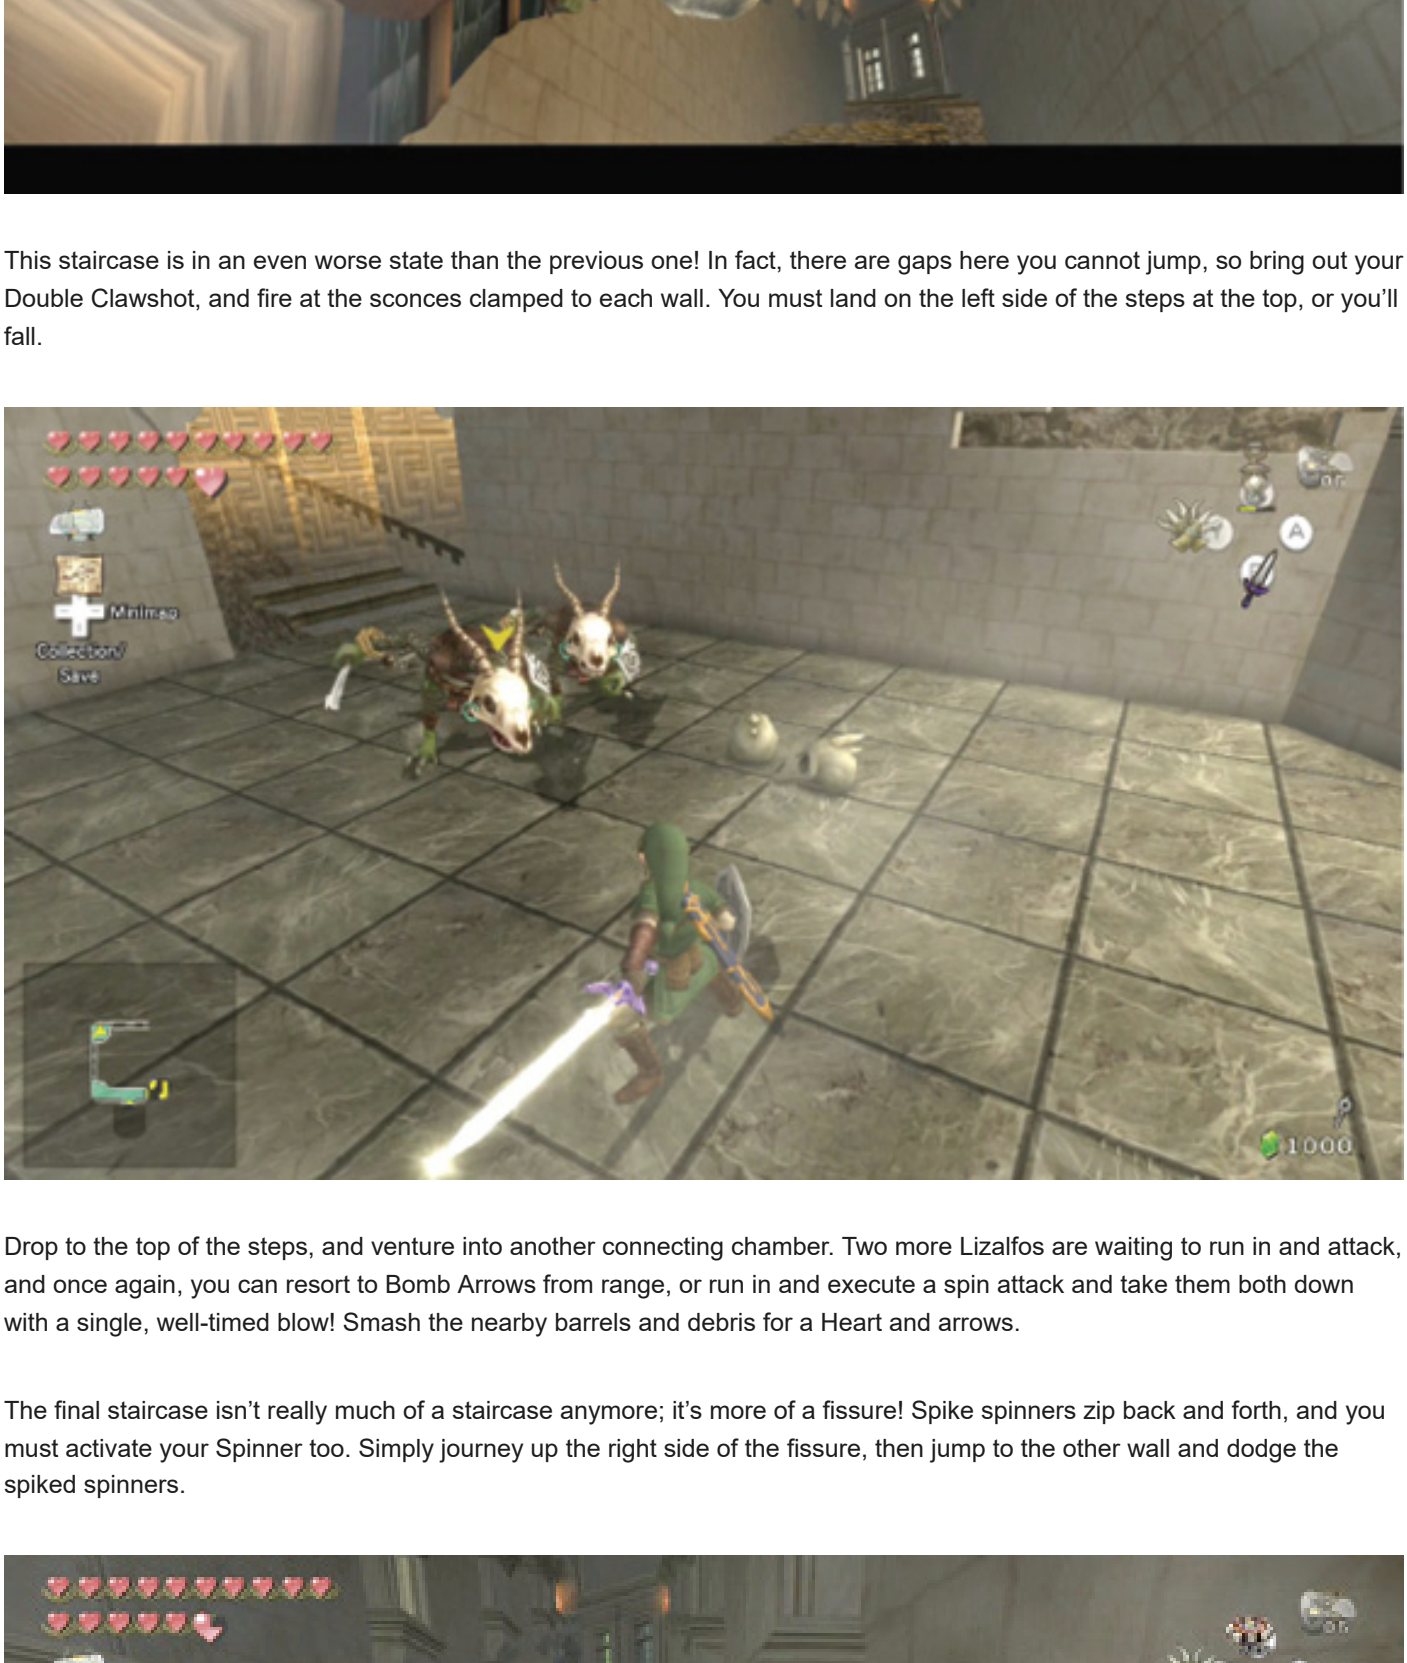
Chamber 8: Collapsing Chamber And Staircases (3F To 4F)

Enter the door, and you find yourself in a reasonably large and boxy room with a variety of gaps in the floor. Upon further investigation you realize that most of these floor blocks are unsafe and cause you to fall into the bottomless pit beyond! You must call on the spirits to guide you. Change to wolf form and switch on your sense view, and you see a number of spirits. Step only on the blocks they point to, and carefully walk to the subsequent spirit. Keep this up until you reach a half-collapsed staircase.

Change to Link when you reach the steps, then carefully leap across the gaps, all the way to the small connecting chamber. Two Lizalfos are waiting to pounce, but if you stay at the top of the stairs, you can fire a Bomb Arrow and defeat them without brandishing your sword. Or, you can attack them with your preferred combo. Collect one Heart from the crates and barrels, then move to the next staircase up.

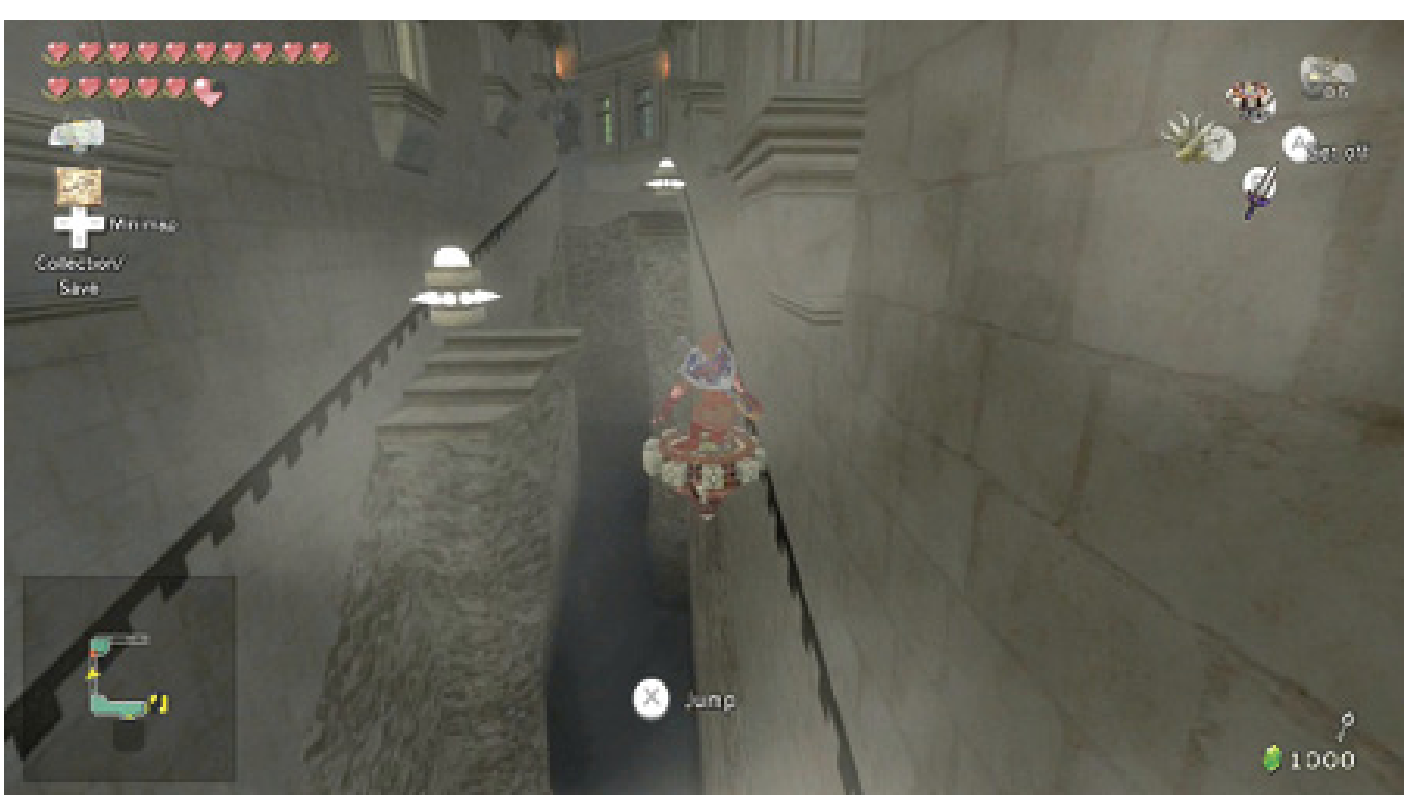


This staircase is in an even worse state than the previous one! In fact, there are gaps here you cannot jump, so bring out your Double Clawshot, and fire at the sconces clamped to each wall. You must land on the left side of the steps at the top, or you'll fall.



Drop to the top of the steps, and venture into another connecting chamber. Two more Lizalfos are waiting to run in and attack, and once again, you can resort to Bomb Arrows from range, or run in and execute a spin attack and take them both down with a single, well-timed blow! Smash the nearby barrels and debris for a Heart and arrows.

The final staircase isn't really much of a staircase anymore; it's more of a fissure! Spike spinners zip back and forth, and you must activate your Spinner too. Simply journey up the right side of the fissure, then jump to the other wall and dodge the spiked spinners.



The final chamber awaits! Before you reach it however, you must face another Darknut who guards the door that the Big Key fits. Bring your quickest reactions to this combat, defeating the fearsome foe using the techniques you attempted earlier. Remember that there are casks around the perimeter to smash for Hearts.

Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Task 5: Ransack the Castle's Treasure Trove

Chamber 9: Castle Hyrule Treasure Room

With the Darknut defeated, you can unlock the door with the two Lanterns either side of it. But wait! First check the door to the east, which requires a Small Key. This is also why you should have thoroughly explored the castle (and followed the earlier tactics), because you can make it all the way here without a second key! Check back through the treasure chests and King Bulblin battle to see which one you missed. Or, if you have the key, head on through to fabulous riches!

Treasure Chests: There are Hearts and green (1) and blue (5) Rupees in the pots and crates. In the northeast corner of the room is a pot with a Fairy in it (next to the suit of armor). The following items are available from the large chests in this chamber:

Dungeon 9: Hyrule Castle

Task 6: Prepare for Final Combat!

Collapsing Chamber And Staircases (4F), To Chamber 10: Ganon's Inner Sanctum (4F To 5F)

The time has now come! You must venture forward and enter the upper tower of Castle Hyrule. Unlock the heavy chained lock, and step through to face your destiny. The fate of Hyrule rests on your shoulders. Good luck!

Stop! Save your game right at this point, before you unlock the door. This is the very last opportunity you have to complete any remaining tasks or objectives, or grab items. If you quit, then return to this game, you'll begin at Chamber 1, but all enemies are defeated, chests opened, and doors unlocked. Don't enter this door until you're sure you wish to face the evil puppet master of Zant, and the true power behind the twilight throne!

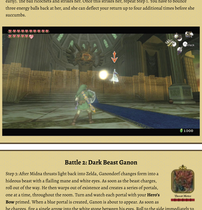
TM & © 2016 Nintendo.

Ganondorf:

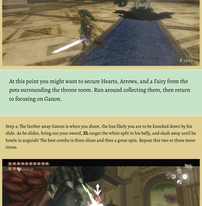
He's somewhere between 40 and 50 years old. Like Link and Zelda, Ganondorf possesses a true power that only those chosen by the goddesses can obtain. He was once the leader of a tribe of thieves accompanying Ganon over the Kingdom, but he was captured by the Sages. At the very moment of his execution, his power woke, and he survived. The Sages reconsidered Ganondorf's body and power in the Twilight Realm, but he didn't stay hidden for long, and he soon began to control a member of the Twilit Kings entourage: Ezon. Ganondorf is evil and considerably powerful.

Battle 1: Ganon's Puppet: Zelda

Step 1: The possessed Zelda is your first adversary, and she wields the same power as Ganondorf. She floats about the chamber, creating a triangular field of energy. Fly back out of it as it forms so you aren't stuck in the middle of it. These fields gradually get larger as the combat progresses. Puppet Zelda raises her sword when she's about to conjure, so fly away immediately!

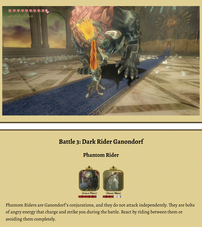


Step 2: After about two of these energy fields (Zelda's attacks are random), Puppet Zelda summons a large white energy ball from her sword, and casts it down at you. Instead of attempting to bounce this back with your shield, ZL target and time a single slash just as the ball reaches you (attempt this early). The ball ricochets and strikes her. Once this strikes her, repeat Step 1. You have to bounce three energy balls back at her, and she can deflect your return up to four additional times before she succumbs.



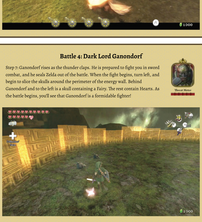
Battle 2: Dark Beast Ganon

Step 3: After Midna shrouds light back into Zelda, Ganondorf changes form into a hideous beast with a flailing mane and white eyes. As soon as the beast charges, roll out of the way. He then warps out of existence and creates a series of portals, one at a time, throughout the room. Turn and watch each portal with your Hero's Bow primed. When a blue portal is created, Ganon is about to appear. As soon as he charges, fire a single arrow into the white ozone between his eyes. Roll to the side immediately to avoid his slide.



At this point you might want to secure Hearts, Arrows, and a Fairy from the pots surrounding the throne room. Run around collecting them, then return to focusing on Ganon.

Step 4: As soon as the arrows stop working, change to wolf form and face down Ganon as he charges out of a blue portal. A second before he strikes you, you're given the option to push with the A button. Do this and Midna's arm extends and grabs Ganon about the head. Press left or right to throw him, as you would a giant—a giant, demonic goat! Once Ganon slides onto his side, transform into Link and ZL target and follow him, and attack his belly as before.

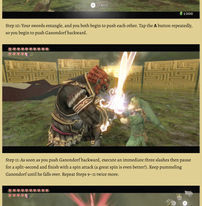


Battle 3: Dark Rider Ganondorf

Phantom Rider

Phantom Riders are Ganondorf's conjurations, and they do not attack independently. They are bolts of angry energy that charge and strike you during the battle. Beats by riding between them or avoiding them completely.

Step 1: After Ganondorf passes you, turn around and ZL target him, then kick Epona with the spurs twice to match his speed. Be sure you have a reasonably straight line between yourself and Ganondorf as Zelda prepares a light arrow. She fires, and it strikes, unless you're making a sharp turn, or are struck by his attack—the Phantom Riders.



Step 2: If Ganondorf launches an airborne attack, judge where the riders will form, and ride between or around them. If you fall off your horse, get back on, spur a couple of times to speed up, and repeat Step 1. Once Zelda strikes with her arrow, speed up to the side of Ganondorf, and slice at him. A spun stab works well. Now repeat this about three more times until Ganondorf falls from his mount.

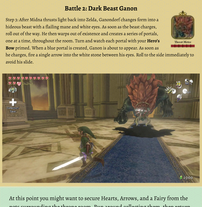
Battle 4: Dark Lord Ganondorf

Step 1: Ganondorf rises as the thunder claps. He is prepared to fight you in sword combat, and he sends Zelda out of the battle. When the fight begins, turn left, and begin to slice the shields around the perimeter of the energy wall. Behind Ganondorf and to the left is a shell containing a Fairy. The rest contain Hearts. As the battle begins, you'll see that Ganondorf is a formidable fighter!

Fairy

You caught a Fairy in a Bottle! When you fall in combat, this faithful friend gives you Hearts.

Step 2: The key to defeating Ganondorf is to maintain a distance of about 12 feet away from him. If you're too close, you'll be struck by his sword-infused block kit. If you're too far, Ganondorf charges you, then strikes at you with his sword hilt. If you attack with simple slashes, he blocks, then leaps into the air and slams down at you. Run or roll from him if you can't see him. You can occasionally strike him by rolling around and using a back strike, then land and slash.



If ever there was a time to don your Magic Armor with a Giant Wallet holding 1,000 Rupees, now is it! Also remember to continuously ZL target during battle.

Step 3: But your prime opportunity to defeat Ganondorf is when he raises his sword like this. When a "chunnn" message appears, press the A button immediately!

Step 4: Your swords entangle, and you both begin to push each other. Tap the A button repeatedly, as you begin to push Ganondorf backward.

Step 5: As soon as you push Ganondorf backward, execute an immediate three slashes then pause for a split-second and finish with a spin attack (a great spin is even better!). Keep pummeling Ganondorf until he falls over. Repeat Steps 3–5 twice more.

Step 6: On the third attempt (or earlier if you connect with a great spin), when Ganondorf falls to the ground, you're given a split-second to "finish" with the A button. ZL target at once and leap into the air, skewering the hated Ganondorf once and for all!
